Town of Ludlow select board meeting

BY LARRY WILFONG

The Vermont Journal

LUDLOW, Vt. – There was extensive dialogue recently between longtime resident Dennis Pearson and the Ludlow Town Selectboard over traffic issues on Buttermilk Falls Road.

There seems to be a boost in the number of cars visiting the area during the summer, Pearson told the board

He said this may be because of a growing knowledge of how beautiful the falls are.

Whatever the reason, with higher traffic numbers comes an increase in the number of vehicles which are speeding, according to Pearson.

The primary concern for Pearson is just that case.

"Folks who are traveling down down who don't seem to notice the fact that they are in a residential area."

Pearson thanked the town for the work that it has done so far toward solving the issue. A traffic survey had recently taken place, and there seemed to be a conscious effort on drivers to slow down as they came to the painted lines running across the road.

Work being done on a culvert also had the effect of reducing speed rates.

The question remained, however, about what to do for the future, in order to try and maintain safer speeds. One idea was reducing the speed limit on Buttermilk Falls Road and it seemed like an avenue which the Selectboard was willing to take,

Additionally, there was agreement that looking into purchasing a mobile speed sign, like the one on Route 100 south, would be a good idea. This radar-enabled device tells motorists how fast they are traveling and blinks when they are in excess of the speed limit.

It is likely to be next spring before any changes will come into place, board members said.

In other business, several bids for supplies and projects were awarded by the Selectboard: Fuller Sand and Gravel received the summer paving bid. Eastman Sand and Gravel won the screened winter sand bid. Holden Engineering received the bid for engineering services on the Commonwealth Avenue drainage project. Mike Eno Painting LLC won the bid for painting at the Transfer Station barn, while Nick Baitz Painting won the bid for painting the Senior Center. A roof replacement at the fire station was awarded to Tyrrell Enterprises.

Municipal Manager Frank Heald said there was discussion between himself and the Ludlow Cemetery Commission, on whether the town might take over some of the maintenance needs of the cemetery. No action was taken by the board.

Heald went on to praise the efforts of the Ludlow Fire Department for yet another successful auction day. He said this " well-coordinated event has greatly reduced the taxpayer burden, with help from many area business and residents contributing to the event."

The date for the next meeting was set for Oct. 3.

Amateur radio enthusiasts "Ham It Up"

BY LARRY WILFONG

REGION - Everywhere on earth there are radio waves.

There is an emergence of a new direction happening under the surface of communications as we know them.

In our age of 'lightspeed' Internet and hand-held devices, which have more ability than the giant mega-computers of only a few decades ago, there is a call: back to simpler times.

As we look through history we find that communications have evolved to a point where it is almost unrecognizable from the early beginnings of telegraphy.

While countless numbers of folks have become experts in the field of apps and software, there is a realm still left for those of us who just want to know what makes things tick.

A "makers" playground, as it were. A place where hardware rules the day.

Introducing the Amateur Radio Relay League, one of the 2,200 amateur radio clubs on the planet. Among their many roles, ham operators work tirelessly during emergencies, relaying and broadcasting information and directions. When the public grid is down, you can leave it to radio operators to have their own power supply and the ability to send out vital information.

You might never notice them, behind the scenes of social and sporting events, diligently keeping the airwaves full of updates and real-time info, but rest assured that they are there.

The National Park Service, in celebrating its centennial have collaborated with the Ham radio community to "activate," a term used for transmitting via radio waves, within all 413 of national parks.

Just recently, the Amateur Radio Relay League activated in the Billings National Park. Several operators gathered to send out and receive signals from other stations. It was a great demonstration. There was even a mobile hand-held unit that was being used to link up to a satellite, one of the 15 specifically orbiting the Earth for amateur radio enthusiasts.

While no one is quite sure why it is called ham radio, they do know one interesting fact: that radio was the very first in wireless technology.

That has to be said with a smile, as you soon realize that the wireless aspect is only about receiving and transmitting. On the ground, walls and in the air, above a ham radio

Weston's Colonial Craft Day 2016 to be best and biggest yet

WESTON, Vt. - On Saturday, Sept. 17, between the hours of 11 a.m. and 4 p.m., the Weston Historical Society will present the Fourth Colonial Craft Day on their museum campus, just north of the Weston Green on Rte. 100.

Thirteen skills of the 18th and 19th centuries will be demonstrated, as will be tools and machinery of the period. Previous Days have attracted and entertained audiences numbering in the hundreds.

Favorites from prior years will be on hand, beginning with Master Tinsmith David Claggett. His colonial reproductions are on display in America's finest museums. Cooper Glenn Lael will demonstrate the skills used in making barrels and the 1890 Lane shingle-maker will show how it revolutionized its industry.

Apples were staples of the Vermont fall and winter menu and their importance will be recognized by Sheridan Lloyd demonstrating a nineteenth century apple peeler (that should probably still be in our

BF defeats Springfield in football opener

BY BILL MURPHY

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt. - The Bellows Falls Terriers tallied four touchdowns in the game's first fourteen minutes and controlled play throughout the first half, on their way to a 42-6 victory over arch-rival Springfield, in what is being advertised for about the third time, as the 100th game between these two avid competitors.

Most everyone expected a one sided game and that was what transpired and it was clear with 6:03 run off the clock and the scoreboard reading 14-0 already, that Springfield had little chance of competing on this day. For the hosts, it was the seventh straight victory in the series that originated around the turn of the century.

Bob Lockerby's Purple and White took the opening kick-off and had the games first touchdown in just over a minute of action. A penalty on the first play following the kick-off, pushed the BELLOWS FALLS, Vt. - The defending champion Bellows Falls Field Hockey team dominated play in their Friday season opener from the start. The Division III Vermont state titleholders took the ball to Division I Brattleboro and took shot after shot. The Colonels defense was outstanding. Either the Bratt goalie or one of their defenders kept turning the ball away. Finally Terrier Molly Kelly found a way to push one past them and BF led 1-0 at halftime, on their way to a 4-0 victory.

"Their goalie did a very good job," BF Coach Bethany Coursen said at games end. She also told the media gathering, "I could tell my girls were frustrated. They were playing frantic field hockey," concerning all the turned away shots, and Coursen

The Ludlow Garden Club turns 75

LUDLOW, Vt. - The Ludlow Garden Club will celebrate its 75th birthday on Thursday, Sept. 8. The club was founded in 1941 with the purpose of promoting gardening, nature, conservation, and the improvement and beautification of Ludlow. The original members had a vision for the future of Ludlow, which remains the guide for the Club to this day.

Present members can be seen, sporting green aprons, planting and watering the many attractive floral displays throughout town. Members also: improve and maintain the plantings at Kesman Park as well as provide and decorate the Christmas tree there; assist in sprucing up the property at the Black River Academy Museum; provided a new perennial garden at the Fletcher Memorial Library this spring, with funding from the Okemo Community Challenge.

Please, join the Clun on Thursday, Sept. 8, at 1 p.m. at Kesman Park (next to the Town Hall) for a celebratory piece of birthday cake.

For further information call 802-228-2983.

BRGNS needs furniture & housewares for rummage sale

Please bring small items, such as housewares, to the thrift store at 37B Main St. For larger items, such as furniture, please call 802-228-3663 to arrange a drop off time at Fletcher Farm. Proceeds from this sale benefit BRGNS' food and financial assistance programs. "We put our earnings right back into the community," said Audrey Bridge, Executive Director of BRGNS. "The current statistic in this state says that one in four Vermonters needs food assistance. Our experience in the Ludlow area bears this out. Although the economy is improving, demand for our services continues. We can provide three meals for each dollar we raise, so we keep running the rummage sales," said Bridge. The monies raised help cover the cost of utilities, heating fuel, food and rent for qualified individuals and families in Ludlow, Mt. Holly, Belmont, Proctorsville, Cavendish and Plymouth.

So, please mark your calendar and come explore the many unique bargains.

For further details please contact Audrey Bridge at the Black River Good Neighbor Services Thrift Store at 802-228-3663, or BRGNS@tds.net.

Daryle Thomas, a volunteer with the Master Gardener Program and veteran of the Rutland County Master Gardener Hot Line, will discuss the makeup of soil and how to determine the type of soil in your garden. He will also address the importance of testing your garden soil and will go into detail about how to read the soil test results and put the recommendations into practice. Thomas will have UVM soil test kits at the presentation; they are available for purchase.

This program is offered at no charge, but reservations are necessary, call 802-824-4343 to register. Neighborhood Connections is located in Londonderry's Mountain Marketplace, next to the Londonderry Post Office.

The series continues on Sept. 21 and 28 at The House of Sabbath located at 1010 Rte. 100 in Weston. This transitional housing unit owned by Neighborhood Connections has recently been designated a Master Gardener Community Project. On Sept. 21 at 1 p.m. Cheryl Wilfong will discuss Garden Renovation Basics, using the gardens at Sabbath as the example. On Sept. 28, volunteers will begin the actual renovation at the Weston location.

Neighborhood Connections is a community-based non-profit social services agency serving individuals and families in the area mountain towns of south-central Vermont. With particular emphasis on those most vulnerable, we respond to community-identified needs with a range of social services and health-related programs, working closely with public and private resources at federal, state and local levels. operator's base, you will likely see more wires in one area than you might see along miles of highway.

The technical aspect of amateur radio is one of the factors helping to give amateur radio a big boost in its membership roles. You can literally start from scratch to design and build your own radio station. Modifications and improvisations are a fascinating area in the radio world. You have the ability to see science at work and develop some new skill sets.

Wavelengths, receivers, interference, soldering activation, these are just a few of the cool phrases that will be added to your regular vocabulary when you tap into the world of amateur radio.

For the more community minded, you should know that amateur radio is one of the most helpful tools during disasters and public events.

In my mind though, it is an electronic wonderland with near unlimited potential. There are badges and even the ability to become a collector. Think electric geocaching. Much like with anything, you can set goals and achieve them.

One big goal has been to activate within each of our national parks. You may be one who wants to collect each one of those signals.

You may desire to climb to the top of a mountain and send out a broadcast. There are awards badges and other memorabilia associated with the active playing in the radio waves.

Just as an example of modifications and MacGyver-like rigging that you might encounter, one member told of how he used folding lawn chairs to help boost his antenna signal. There are cases where folks have had to utilize their rain gutters as an antennae due to space issues.

While I could go on for some time, describing all the little, yet cool aspects of amateur radio, it would be best for me to direct you to some quality resources. If you would like to know more about ham radio and how you can get started, visit www.arrl.org/what-is-ham-radio or call (860) 594-0200.

15 years of community television

LUDLOW, Vt. - From its humble beginnings as a start-up, non-profit cable access television station in 2001, LPCTV in Ludlow has grown into a vibrant community resource, offering TV channels, video-on-demand, equipment and a new facility, media education, training, and more. Later this month, the organization will be celebrating 15 years of community TV - and 15 years of "great taste" - in the Okemo Valley.

On Thursday, Sept. from 5 – 7 p.m., LPCTV will host an open house at its facility in the Ludlow Community Center complex (37C Main St., next to Black River Good Neighbors Services in the William and Phyllis Agan Memorial Building).

In support of LPCTV, several restaurants will be offering samples of their signature dishes, helping to celebrate 15 years of "great taste" in the region.

"We are thrilled to have the support of the local restaurateurs, many of whom have supported LPCTV in different ways over the years", says Patrick Cody, LPCTV's Executive Director. "Whether as underwriters of local programming, even sponsors, or as participants in the Chamber of Commerce's TV show, we are grateful for the strong partnership we have with them. There's a lot of great taste in the Okemo Valley, and we enjoy the role we can play in helping show some of that off."

For more info or to RSVP to the event, please call LPCTV at 802-228-8808 or email manager@LPCTV.org.

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. - Springfield Area Parent Child Center is pleased to announce a new program, "Cooking Matters." The six-week hands-on cooking course and interactive grocery store tours will be offered free of charge at SAPCC with classes beginning in November.

This is a community partnership led by Executive Chef Michael Ehlenfeldt of The Inn at Weathersfield; Lara Peck and Sooyoung Uhm, both registered dieticians with Springfield Medical Systems. Black River Produce is also on board to donate fresh ingredients for the cooking curriculum supplies.

Chef Michael was one of the first instructors to bring this program to the Boston area. "Cooking Matters" serves families across the country through hands-on, and mobile, online educational tools. Participants will learn to shop smarter, use nutrition information to make healthier choices, and cook delicious affordable meals.

The program was developed with five major guiding principles as follows: The negative health and economic effects of hunger and poor diet can be avoided if families know how to shop for and prepare healthy, low-cost meals; Chefs are valued instructors because of their expertise in food preparation and budgeting as well as their creativity and energy; Food is to be enjoyed. Those living on a low income deserve to enjoy their food as well – and need to know how to create food that is delicious, satisfying and healthy; Cooking and eating meals as a family is an important social activity; and volunteering, or sharing our strengths is a way to create community wealth.

The Inn at Weathersfield's owners Marilee and Richard Spanjian continued their community support by hosting the Inn's Annual Farm Dinner on Aug. 20 and showcasing three local farms: Heminway, Ephraim Mountain, and Chickering farms. The Silent Auction began during cocktail hour in the Inn's vegetable garden where guests enjoyed music by Springfield Stringers. Later, the party moved to the back lawn where Chef Michael Ehlenfeldt prepared a five course dinner set at long farm tables. A second band, "Exit 9"out of Hartland, kept the party going with their smoky classic blues tunes and the bids climbed to raise over $3,600 in donations for SAPCC.

"We couldn't have done this without the support of the community and our loyal guests who both donated and attended the dinner. We're honored to give back and support the community," Marilee said.

"Community Collaboration is critical to SAPCC, as we continue to provide wrap around services to young children and families as we've done for nearly 25 years in North Windham and South Windsor counties," says executive director Jill Rapanotti.

"As Federal and State funding slowly shrinks due to budget cuts, we look more and more to find ways to raise the funds needed to continue to meet the goals of our mission statement: Strong Communities, One Family at a Time. In 2015 we served over 3500 children and families in our service area through Parent Education, Early Childhood Development, Early Intervention, Home Visits, Child Care Referral and Subsidy assistance, Play Groups and Parent Support Groups."

If interested in supporting SAPCC or attending the "Cooking Matters" classes, contact Jill Rapanotti, Executive Director or Jan Zona, Administrative/PR Manager at 802-996-5242, online at www.sappc-vt.org or on Facebook.

Gordon's road trip

Here's another Gordon Gates story. It is part of a very long story he wrote about travelling cross-country with his high school teacher. The trip took place in the summer of 1939 and cost $55.

With Gordon and his teacher, Lloyd Earle, were Vinnie Crocker, George Holden, and Jake and Paul Howe. Lloyd bought a brand new Studebaker Champion for the trip. I wish I had room to write the entire story, as it is full of incidents like the one below.

"All the people we met were very good, friendly and very helpful. Every where we stoped people seemed to be interested in what we were doing + what a nice thing it was for us to make a trip like we were. But I think the people we met in Kansas beat them all.

I dont remember of us having only one rainy day all the time we were gone. And we only set the tent up once. That was in Yellow Stone.

When we came into Kansas it was raining hard. Loyd said I dont know where weel sleep tonight its to wet to set up the tent + if you step off the road you sink in the red mud about 1".

We finely saw a small white school house right near the road. Loyd stoped + looked it over. We could sleep on that porch if we could find out if it was O.K. There was a farm house across the road, the only house in sight. So we drove over there. Loyd went to the door + a ladey came out + they talked for a while. Then a man came and they talked some more. When he came back to the car he was all smiles. We'v got to waite a while but we can use the hole school for the night.

After a while another car drove up and a felow got out + went + unlocked the door. Soon two wimming apeared + talked to Loyd quite a while. They were trying to pursusade him something and he was trying to back out. We boys were talking to the 2 men and they were asking us all kind of questions abot or trip and VT.

Finelly Loyd told us to go in + use the two rest rooms and slick up a bit + we were going to eat later. Then every one took off in a hurry. Loyd told us after you get cleaned up a bit just set down + we'll play school, but please be on your good behavior we are going to be treated to supper.

In about a hour some cars started coming 4 or 5 of them + woming brought in baskets of food. There was a little of everything and a lot of sandwiches and a lot of fruits. And one of the men brought in a big monster pot of coffee. Everyone had coffee. After we ate like hogs all we could hold they all stayed and talked for a while.

We spread out the tent and all our blankets and laid down to sleep but that floor was some hard. A lot harder than the ground we'd slept on a couple of nights. I think the next morning everyone had moved up into one of the seats to sleep during the night.

Breakfast was served next morning. Bacon, eggs and a big pan of fried potato + coffee. They all stayed untill we were ready to leave. They wished us well on our trip. We thanked them and left.

Loyd was a pretty smart fellow. He took the name off the mail box at the farm when we left + we sent them cards from a lot of places we visited on our trip. After we got home he wrout them a big thank you letter + we all signed it."

The Alzheimer's Association and Edward Jones partner to change the course of Alzheimer's patients

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. - The Alzheimer's Association and financial services-firm Edward Jones recently entered into an historic partnership, whereby Edward Jones has committed $4.7 million over two years to support the mission of the Alzheimer's Association, according to Gerry, a financial advisor in Springfield, Vt.

Funding through the partnership will enhance the Association's care and support programs, including the 24/7 Helpline (800.272.3900). It will also provide educational materials on brain health, as well as funds for critical Alzheimer's disease research and grassroots awareness activities.

In addition, the Alzheimer's Association will provide services, support, and education on brain health and Alzheimer's disease to Edward Jones' associates and clients.

"With more than 12,000 branch office locations in the United States, this commitment from Edward Jones will move the Alzheimer's cause forward," said Donna McCullough, chief development officer, Alzheimer's Association. "Together we will reach more families who need information, resources and guidance as they face an Alzheimer's diagnosis and caregiving challenges. In addition, funding will support critical research exploring the causes of, and treatments for Alzheimer's disease."

The partnership has several facets. The Alzheimer's Association will work with Edward Jones to create the Edward Jones Alzheimer's Research Fund, a targeted effort to advance research toward methods of treatment, prevention, and ultimately a cure at a quicker pace. Edward Jones will also serve as the nationwide presenting sponsor of the Alzheimer's Association Walk to End Alzheimer's, an event that raised more than $77 million in 2015 to support Alzheimer's Association care and education programs, fuel research, and advance public policy.

The Alzheimer's Association will provide education programs to associates at Edward Jones, and will work to ensure their associates are equipped to share the resources of the Alzheimer's Association with clients.

"We're thrilled to be teaming up with the Alzheimer's Association to help find a cure for one of the greatest threats to the health and wealth of families, including the millions families that we serve in North America," said John Beuerlein, Edward Jones partner with responsibility for the firm's newly-created Senior Investor Council. "We are proud to make this commitment to the mission of the Alzheimer's Association and its critical fight to end Alzheimer's disease."

The Edward Jones Alzheimer's Research Fund will make grants to research projects chosen by the Edward Jones Senior Investor Council from peer reviewed and best-in-class research projects presented by the Association. The Senior Investor Council will be looking to fund the most impactful research possible to move the cause forward.

In addition, Edward Jones has made a generous commitment to the Alzheimer's Association's sister organization, the Alzheimer's Impact Movement (AIM). For details about AIM, visit www.alzimpact.org.

The Alzheimer's Association is the leading voluntary health organization in Alzheimer's care, support and research. It is the largest nonprofit funder of Alzheimer's research. The Association's mission is to eliminate Alzheimer's disease through the advancement of research; to provide and enhance care and support for all affected; and to reduce the risk of dementia through the promotion of brain health. Its vision is a world without Alzheimer's. Visit www.alz.org or call 800-272-3900.

Executive order gives preference to businesses adopting climate-friendly business policies

Vermont Governor Peter Shumlin recently signed an executive order giving preference in awarding state contracts to businesses in the state that adopt climate-friendly business policies.

Many states already do this, so the governor was bringing the Green Mountain State in line with the prevailing thought on fighting climate change.

Some of those good practices are: use of thermal and electric efficiency; use of renewable energy sources for operations; reducing and tracking carbon emissions; use of and encouragement of employee utilization of electric and zero-emissions vehicles, including providing workplace charging stations; and offering employees an option for a fossil fuel divested retirement account.

The state awards hundreds of millions of dollars in contracts, every year, so making sure the companies that get those contracts are climate-friendly seems like a good use of the state's influence.

Under the order, if all considerations are similar for a contract, a business that has strong climate change and renewable energy policies will be given favorable treatment over one that does not.

The order does not supersede other contracting considerations already in place, such as lowest cost or rewarding businesses based in Vermont or that manufacture products in Vermont.

Schumlin said he hopes the next governor will continue his order on climate-responsible businesses getting contracts.

Vermont has also made progress on renewable energy, increasing the amount of solar installed or permitted by 10 times and wind energy generation by 20 times since Shumlin took office.

Vermont has joined 21 other states and regional governments in signing the Pan-American action statement on climate change.Also, last year Vermont signed an agreement with five other Northeast and mid-Atlantic states, Connecticut, Delaware, the District of Columbia, New York, and Rhode Island, to work together to develop market-based policies for significant transportation sector reductions in greenhouse gas emissions and other pollution.

The state is trying to promote clean energy and take action to address climate change, and we think that's a good thing.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor,

"We believe the second-homeowners need to be heard. Just like permanent residents, they call Grafton home. They contribute 60 percent of the taxes and support the town in numerous ways. They chose to live in Grafton and, as some say, maybe Grafton chose them. How can we let a foreign conglomerate dictate to us about who is allowed to vote and how we should vote on a project that would represent the most far-reaching, permanent change for the region in modern times? Grafton residents and second home owners are together dedicated to preserving Grafton's valuable natural environment."

Here's a quote from Joanne Boswell, who with her husband Rick, owns a home in Grafton. "We found Grafton forty-one years ago, or should I say Grafton found us, when I picked up a Bed and Breakfast magazine while living in Waltham, Massachusetts. Rick was finishing business school, always studying, so we took a much-needed break one Sunday and drove to Grafton. This was our first introduction to Vermont; can you imagine crossing over the bridge and seeing the magazine pictures and description of Grafton coming to life, right before your eyes? The Tavern was serving brunch, but said they were booked and were accepting reservations two years out; we vowed to come back to Grafton, and did for forty-one years, no matter where we lived at the time. Thirty-plus years later, the house we imagined owning one day came up for sale, and we bought it. There has never been a time when we have not realized how fortunate we are to be in this special town."

Statement from Grafton Woodlands Group in support of Windham's non-residents to express their opinion by ballot on the industrial wind project slated for Grafton/Windham in the Stiles Brook Forest.

Dear Editor,

September is National Hunger Action Month and the Vermont Foodbank is joining hundreds of other food banks around the country to raise awareness about the issue of hunger in our community. I, too, am joining the effort, on behalf of Black River Good Neighbor Services Food Shelf, and the increasing number of folks who daily come in for food assistance.

According to "Hunger in America 2014" a nationwide survey of the charitable food system, in Vermont 153,000 of our neighbors will visit a food shelf or meal site this year—34,000 of whom are children under the age of 18 years old. And while the Vermont Foodbank and its 225 food shelves, meal sites, shelters, senior centers and youth program are providing 10 million pounds of food to our neighbors struggling with hunger, there is still so much more to be done.

Since 1964 Black River Good Neighbor Services has been providing food, clothing and financial assistance for persons in need throughout the Black River Valley. We rely on the generosity of many donors and volunteers to deliver the services we provide. We receive no funding from federal or state government and less than 2 percent of our budget comes from local government.

I hope you will join me and take action against hunger today. No action is too small—donate, volunteer or advocate. If we all do a little, we can have a big impact on hunger in our state. You can join me and learn more at vtfoodbank.org and brgns.org.

Sincerely,
Krey Kellington
Food Program Administrator

Dear Editor,

Dangerous Donald Trump

Dangerous Donald Trump (DDT) might be a threat to our viability. He could try to assume dictatorial powers and abolish the Constitution, Congress, and the Supreme Court. Some of his supporters are far right extremists. His candidacy is reminiscent of the Fascists in Germany, Italy, and Japan during the 1930s and 1940s.

DDT has unwittingly proposed to pull our troops out of South Korea and Japan if they do not pay for our aid. This will open up the Far East to Chinese and North Korean expansion. He might try to abandon NATO, thereby enabling Russian expansion in Europe. Trump doesn't have a problem with countries acquiring nuclear weapons. He even encouraged Russia to spy on Clinton. DDT's blunders could lead to miscalculations by totalitarian regimes and increase the possibility of war. Amazingly, he says he knows more about ISIS than our generals.

DDT appears to be unstable, shallow and disorganized, and he does not have the requisite knowledge or understanding of U.S. and world affairs, nor the intellectual capacity, to be President and Commander-In-Chief.

Vote for the socially liberal and fiscally conservative Libertarian ticket of Johnson/Weld.

Dear Editor,

Stuart Lindberg State Legislature District Windsor-2

It has been our pleasure and good fortune to become acquainted with Stu Lindberg a number of years ago when his daughter began taking piano lessons at Candace's home studio.

We have enjoyed having him and his wife Michelle in our home for piano recitals and sitting on our front porch having conversations on local issues that affect our daily lives. We find Stu to be knowledgeable on local and state issues with well-defined opinions that in large part are compatible with our own.

We believe Stu would be a welcome addition to the Vermont State house and provide us with a strong voice for district Windsor 2 and our views.

Dear Editor,

The Gun Owners of Vermont is proud and honored to be a member of the Vermont Gun Shop Project, the one and only project of its kind in Vermont.

Together, with the Vermont Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs and the Center for Health and Learning, we have distributed hundreds of posters and information about this worthy project.

This program is a successful, proactive way to help people in our community who are in need of assistance during times of stress and depression.

I want to allude to an analogy of what the Vermont Gun Shop Project is all about; what I call the "Vermont Way."

The Vermont Way has a 225-year history of neighbors helping neighbors.

When Hurricane Katrina devastated New Orleans little old Vermont with one of the smallest populations in the nation sent more food and clothing to the people of New Orleans than any other state in the union.

Just five years ago Hurricane Irene devastated Vermont. During that time Vermonters of all kinds came together and literally dug out of the mud and devastation of that terrible day.

Throughout the centuries there are literally thousands of examples of things like this in our wonderful state.

It's about friends helping friends, and neighbors helping neighbors.

In this program:

No one will judge you.

No one will seek to take away your rights under Article 16th of the Vermont Constitution.

We, the Gun Owners of Vermont, will be there for you and help in any way that we can.

As an example of this we will be hosting 2 workshops for the firearms community so we can learn how to help the people who are in need.

The first one will be on Sunday, Sept. 18 at the Rutland Country Club.

The second will be on Sunday, Sept. 25 at the Fairbanks Museum in St. Johnsbury.

We are asking the firearms community to volunteer for these workshops.

We, the Gun Owners of Vermont, are here for you in your time of need.

THIS AND THAT

BY BILL MURPHY

Fall is arriving as we speak. Those cool August nights we wrote about last week, have shown up early in September and their arrival combined with darkness setting in before 7:30 p.m., makes us realize that most of our summer is gone.

Watched both Springfield and Fall Mountain play football on back to back nights last weekend and you can label me crazy, BUT, I am hoping to see both of them climb out of the days of the one sided setback and find success again. The combined score of their losses was 90-12, BUT, I do see the trees from the forest.

Both teams have their own set of problems to overcome to find their way back to gridiron success, BUT, Springfield is definitely ahead of the game, because they have bigger numbers and their progress is further along. As we told readers last week, it is both good news and bad news that Fall Mountain has a good number of freshmen. One can look at a program so many ways. Fall Mountain will return 77 percent of their roster next year, BUT, the loss of seniors Koal Simonds, Thomas Moses , Tyler Charuhas, Hunter Marion and Kobey Chase is a mammoth loss. The best news is that the Cats have so many sophomores and freshmen making an impact, so IF, they they can attract good numbers the next two years, the tide could turn. HOWEVER, if they don't attract players who are able to contribute, the program could be in serious trouble.

The bad news is that Springfield is facing two more very challenging weeks back to back on the gridiron with Woodstock and Windsor heading into Brown Field on back to back Friday nights. Neither team is as deep as Bellows Falls was in talent, BUT, both compete at a much higher level than the Cosmos. IF I were Rich Saypack, of course I would be looking to pull off the miracle, BUT, the truth is,IF these Cosmos continue to grow even without a win, by week four, they may have progressed more playing against the tough teams, than they would have versus teams they were more competitive against. They played extremely hard right up until the end against Bellows Falls, IF, they keep that up, growth should definitely set in, win or lose.

In my dream world, I would like to set up a five team high school football league with teams like Springfield, Fall Mountain, Mississquoi and MSJ/Poultney and let them play home and home games against each other to keep their programs going and competitive. Springfield would most definitely graduate from that league in a years time, BUT, it would be a good way for a team to find their way or, at least keep playing competitive football.

I think I found my way to knowing that a catch is a catch is so many different ways. The NFL went through their days last year with trying to define what a catch was and Friday night, I thought I knew what a catch was UNTIL IT HAPPENED. Bellows Falls was leading Springfield 14-0 late in the first quarter. On a third and seven play, Terrier Caleb Lisai threw a pass to the Cosmo 3 from the 45 yard line. As I saw it, receiver Jacob Streeter jumped in the air to catch the ball and was met by Cosmo defensive back Mason Olney. Streeter appeared to have the bulk of the ball at the outset, BUT, by the time the two hit the ground, Olney had most of the possession with Streeter holding on for dear life. My common sense told me it was Springfield's ball. The rulebook, I am told, says it is joint possession (because Streeter was holding on for dear life and never lost his grip) and since the offense started the play with the ball, it stays in their possession.

Tom Brady will be appearing at his alma mater Michigan during his forced absence from the Patriots. I would not be surprised IF he ends up sharing some type of practice session with the Wolverines.

Give both the BF and Fall Mountain athletic administration credit for not giving up on their athletes. While soccer was the original accepted sport at Fall Mountain and football has had its up and down days, the opposite has been true in Bellows Falls. In fact soccer the past two years, has had more trouble getting off the ground in BF, than football has in Fall Mountain. BF boys soccer didn't complete last season and looked like they would not exist this year, BUT, as of now, there is a plan for a shortened schedule.

Tim Ryan, whose picture appeared in this publication recently, was one of the greatest coaches in Bellows Falls High School history. Ryan passed away after a long battle with pancreatic cancer over the Labor Day weekend. Ryan spent ten years coaching both basketball and baseball for the Terriers, bringing each sport to Division I title games. He lived the last years of his life in Brattleboro after his coaching days ended in Connecticut. Although dates and times were not officially announced at press time, it appeared calling hours would be Friday night in Brattleboro with a Saturday morning funeral. Check for an official announcement before attending.

Interlakes slams Wildcats in opener

BY BILL MURPHY

LANGDON, N.H. - Interlakes was a New Hampshire Division III play-off team one year ago. Expectations are they will return to the post season again. The visitors from Meredith were quite impressive in Langdon Saturday night running through the Fall Mountain Wildcats 48-6.

Andrew Brothers was enemy number one doing damage versus the Wildcats in the one sided opener. Brothers took the opening kick-off at his own 18 and ran the ball out to midfield before the final Cat defender drove him out of bounds. Brothers carried for nine yards on the next play, before two straight strong defensive plays gave hope to the Wildcats.

First, Eli Swanson caught a Ryan Kelly four-yard pass for a first down, BUT, a jarring hit by FM's Chris Bashaw made everyone realize the hosts were playing hard. On the next play, Brothers was stopped cold in his tracks behind the line of scrimmage by Thomas Moses and a faint hope rose in the stands, that the Wildcats could compete. BUT.

Three plays later Brothers scored on a ten-yard scamper breaking two tackles on the way and the scoreboard read 7-0 after the Kelly conversion kick with 7:12 remaining in the opening stanza.

Fall Mountain had picked up a first down on their initial possession, BUT, found things not as easy the second time around and sophomore quarterback Jacob Shoemaker fumbled when trying to elude pressure on a third down play and Interlakes recovered at the Cats 21. Coach John Callahan likes a lot of things he sees in Shoemaker and says, He is showing good signs of leadership for a young player," but obviously the quality did not help on this play.

Fall Mountain's Chris Bashaw is shown running the football in the second period on Saturday evening in a 48-6 loss to Interlakes. Bashaw had the majority of the Wildcats rushing yards in their second half touchdown drive. The Cats expect to be much more competitive this Saturday night when they face Raymond at 7 p.m.

Interlakes quickly took advantage of the turnover with a Brothers 12-yard run and then a Kelly nine-yard scoring pass to Collin Sheehan leading the way to doubling the count to 14-0 with 5:15 left in the opening quarter. Fall Mountain was forced into another three and out and this time it was Brothers doing the damage by way of a punt return of 60 yards for the score upping the scoreboard numbers to 21-0 with 2:55 still on the clock in the first. AND THERE WAS MORE TO COME BEFORE THE CLOCK REACHED 0:00.

Yes Interlakes had one more tally in the opening stanza. Once again, Fall Mountain went three and out and then Kelly and Sheehan would team up on the third play of a drive from 39 yards out with 8.9 seconds to go for another tally and a 28-0 advantage.

The second period would still find Interlakes controlling things, BUT, the Cats would pick up two more first downs and hold the visitors to only three scores in this period, prior to halftime, before Interlakes would do some substituting. It was 48-0 by intermission, as the visiting team continued to move the ball regularly.

The final scores show that Fall Mountain would win the battle of the second half. Callahan's team would run 29 plays to just nine for the winners. Ball control was the name of the FM offensive game in the second half with both Koal Simonds and Bashaw getting the bulk of the carries.

Simonds, who pounded both offensively from his fullback spot and linebacker position most of the evening, hurt his shoulder in the second half and was forced to leave the contest. IF Fall Mountain is to grow this season and enter the win column, which at full health they could, it is important that Simonds heals quickly. It was Bashaw and later in the drive Shoemaker and Layton Stevens, who lugged the ball, over a 13-play 50-yard drive to finally put the Langdonites on the board with 1:44 to play, when Shoemaker made a nifty fourth down connection with Brad Andrzejczyk on a seven-yard scoring play.

"We kept trying banging in there," Callahan said of Bashaw's effort when he carried the ball the first five plays of the drive for half of the yards before running completely out of gas, so Callahan and Shoemaker started dialing up different numbers. Fall Mountain's perseverance paid off in the end.

Callahan had told "The Shopper/Vermont Journal" a couple of weeks ago that the defense really concerned him and the play on that side of the ball, showed the overall squad lack of depth on opening night. Callahan went on further to say after the loss that "It's a kind of mentality we have to develop. We have to become more physical and we are not there yet."

The Cats return to action in Langdon on Saturday night as they host Raymond in a 7 p.m. contest that should be much closer than the opener.

Two-Point Conversion

The Bellows Falls Terriers have added a lineman to their backfield mix. Twice during the Falls Friday night season opening win over Springfield, DJ Snide (57) ran in a two-point conversion. The game also happened to be Snide's birthday. I wonder how many linemen get to carry the ball on their birthday?

FOOTBALL

Terriers back to the five yard line, where it took just three plays for Jahyde Bullard to break through the Cosmos on a 79-yard romp to pay dirt and a 6-0 lead after a bad snap created a botched extra point attempt. The clock read 10:55 remaining in the opening stanza.

Springfield did pick up a first down in their second possession on a Ryan McSally swing pass to Bryson Jester, but, eventually punted the ball to the Purple 12 where Jacob Streeter returned it to the 23 from where a seven-play 77-yard drive took place, culminating in a four-yard Jacob Lober TD run. DJ Snide added the two extra points on a shotgun run and the 14-0 advantage.

Springfield gave it their all on every possession offensively and utilized a two quarterback attack with Kyle Monier sharing time with McSally, but, the first team BF defense was just too strong for most everything the Cosmos ran. The truth is, it does appear this offense should improve with repetition and even though they will continue to face strong defenses the next two weeks at home (Woodstock this Friday and against Windsor the next Friday at Brown Field) has hope down the line. In the Cosmos third possession, they picked up seven yards and then punted the ball away. This time it was a Terrier five-play 72-yard drive with a ruled Streeter catch of a 41-yard aerial from Caleb Lisai at the 3, which set up the score. A penalty on the next play, moved the pigskin backwards, but, Logan Cota would race 11 yards for the score at the 2:29 mark to up the tally to 22-0 thanks to another Snide extra point run.

Bellows Falls would not punt in the first half, but the Cosmos would stop them once on downs, but not until the score reached 38-0. A Falls possession which began on the last play of the first quarter went four-plays and 52-yards with Cota's second TD, a 35-yard run jumping the count to 28-0 with 10:47 to play until the half. Two more second period Terrier drives would find the end zone, first a three play 38-yard drive, which ended with a Lisai to Lober 24-yard swing pass and a Lisai to Cota conversion, while the final six pointer was courtesy of a one-yard carry by Lober with 35.8 seconds remaining until halftime.

Lockerby played the second half with his second teamers and the two teams added plenty of up and down football as a result. After intermission, it was a very competitive game with the Cosmsos putting the only points on the board with the last play of the third stanza and the opening play of the fourth turning the trick. A nine-play 86-yard Springfield excursion found the Green and White with the football on the BF 10 as time expired in the third period after a Monier to Olney pass covered forty yards, directly after a blocking penalty had wiped out a previous Cosmos big play. On the first play of the fourth period, LaCapelle ran 10 yards for the games final score with 11:53 to play.

Cosmos Coach Rich Saypeck knew the competition would be tough for his squad the first three weeks and told us after the contest: "We said before we came down, we were going to play 48 minutes of football and we did. BF has a good football team. They shoot off the line very well. They may well be the best in Division II."

After the win, Lockerby told us, "I'm excited about this football team. We have a stable of running backs, a great tight end, another solid split end, a quarterback who can see over the line; and we have an offensive line (Reno Tuttle, Nick Tuttle, Brady Illingworth, DJ Snide, Brian Green and Jared Zobkiw), who is further ahead of where we were a year ago, but, there is a long way to go." The BF offense Lockerby is talking about is an offense that amassed 453-yards in the opener and certainly has not approached their possible potential, will be one which will be fun for Terrier fans to follow.

BF travels to Mount Abraham in Bristol for a Friday night 7 p.m. contest this week.

went on to say, "We spoke about it at halftime and I think they settled down a bit. They were excited and nervous. I wish the game had been a little cleaner."

Kelly had two goals in the game, while she was joined in the second half goal scoring by both Abbe Cravino and Reagan Baldasaro finding the net. Emma Lober and Brigid Hodsden split the duties in goal and Coursen said the time splitting in the nets is likely to become the norm this year. "We want to have two goalies ready for play-offs just in case. Can't really evaluate their shutout performance because they didn't touch the ball," Coursen noted.

Coursen applauded the overall defensive effort of her team and then added "Madison Streeter played a great game, she was all over the field and Paxton (Santorelli) and Murphy (Hicks) made sure, when it was necessary, that the ball stayed in their end, meaning the end with the Brattleboro goal."

Mount Anthony was the next opponent for the BF team looking to go deep into the post season. The Patriots were playing in BF Tuesday as this paper was being printed.

Annual Phineas Gage walk and talk

CAVENDISH, Vt. - There are probably few readers that aren't aware of Phineas Gage, the railroad foreman, who on Sept. 13, 1848, had a tamping rod pass through his head as a result of a blasting accident, and lived for 12 more years.

What people may know less about is Dr. John Martyn Harlow, the Cavendish physician who treated him and followed his recovery, thereby documenting the first case of traumatic brain injury in the medical literature. Also of interest is Dr. Edwards Williams, whose practice was on Depot St. in Proctorsville, but was first on the scene. It was to him that Gage made his famous remark, "Doctor, here is business enough for you."

Harlow's training in antiphlogistic therapy (preventing or relieving inflammation) was important to Gage's survival. But what happened to him when he left Cavendish in 1857? Was he really the "obscure country doctor," as he referred to himself?

Dr. Williams left medicine, became a member of the Royal Swedish Academy of Science, and was decorated as a Knight of the Order of the Polar Star and went into the railroad business.

Learn more about Dr. Harlow and Dr. Williams at the Cavendish Historical Society's annual Phineas Gage Walk and Talk, which takes place on Sept. 11 at the CHS Museum, Rte. 131.

The program begins at 2 p.m. at the Museum. The walk includes the location of the accident, Dr. Harlow's home/surgery, and the boarding house where Gage was taken after his injury.

This program is free and open to the public. For more information, please call 802-226-7807 or email margocaulfield@icloud.com.

Lockwood at Village Square Booksellers —

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt. - Join Village Square Booksellers in welcoming New Hampshire author Bill Lockwood on Friday, Sept. 15 at 7 p.m. as part of BF3F, where Bill will discuss his first novel, "Buried Gold."

Bill Lockwood is currently living in North Walpole, New Hampshire, but he is known locally for being part of the Our Town group that restored the Bellows Falls Opera House and put on theatrical performances as The Front Porch Theatre Group.

Call 802-463-9404 or email vsbooks@sover.net for event and book reservations; signed copies can be pre-ordered by visiting http://www.villagesquarebooks.com/product/buried-gold.

About the book: Evie, a single thirty-something, steals a map from her father's New York City home after he dies. The map is the principal clue to where a box of ten-dollar gold coins was buried during Prohibition, just before Revenuers raided her great grandfather's illegal rum running business out on Long Island.

Evie and Cindy, her daughter, collect other clues staying just a step ahead of Evie's two evil brothers, who are after the treasure. Her search is complicated by the murder of one of the old-timers in the little town on Peconic Bay as Evie desperately tries to track down someone who will give her the clue that will make the map work. She also elicits the help of a bartender and an old boyfriend… Getting rich is not easy.

Bill Lockwood was a social services worker for both the states of Maryland and Vermont by day until his retirement in 2015. At night he has been an avid amateur theater participant and writer.

Bill Lockwood was born and grew up in Baltimore City where he was among a group that founded the community off Broadway size house Fells Point Theatre in 1973. In the '80s he wrote articles and theater reviews in Stage Right, a local Theater newsletter in Baltimore. In 1992 he moved to southeastern Vermont.

He had four short stories published in obscure literary magazines in the mid '90s and wrote articles covering the arts, personalities, and rural downtown development in the Bellows Falls Town Crier from 1998 through 2006. He also wrote articles for other local publications as well as Vermont tourist magazines.

He was very active in the Bellows Falls community, being on a number of civic committees including the annual Old Home Days event for which he wrote press releases and other publicity pieces for a number of years.

In 2006 he received the Greater Falls Regional Chamber of Commerce Person of the Year Award for his work as Chairman of the Bellows Falls Opera House Restoration Committee upon the successful completion of their ten-year project. The Wild Rose Press will release his first novel, "Buried Gold," in August of 2016. He has a second novel "Megan of the Mists" under contract with the same publisher.
