Alstead Food Shelf celebrates 35 years of “Thanksgiving love boxes”

BY AMANDA WEDEGIS
The Shopper

ALSTEAD, N.H. – At approximately 1:30 p.m. on Saturday, Nov. 18, the Alstead Fire Station was a bustling center as families waited in a long winding line that extended down Main Street. Some young volunteers pushed carts of boxes full of donated turkeys and other Thanksgiving food items toward cars, while others worked inside, handing out those very same boxes.

According to Director Mary Lou Huffling, the Food Shelf has been distributing “Thanksgiving love boxes” for the last 35 years to families in-need from the surrounding community. Wal-Mart in Claremont, N.H. provided the canned goods such as pie filling, cranberry sauce, and stuffing, while the N.H. Food Bank provides the turkeys and fresh produce. In addition to those donations, a few local businesses also made contributions, including Pete’s Stand and Alysons Orchard in Walpole who donated two truckloads of butternut squash and one truckload of mackintosh apples, respectively. The Contoocook United Methodist Church donated 5,000 pounds of Maine potatoes, Bimbo Bakeries donated fresh loaves of bread, and an anonymous donor provided enough packages of cupcakes for every single Thanksgiving donation box. Diamond Pizza donated lunch for the Saturday volunteers.

The Food Shelf made up 700 boxes for distribution.

In addition to all the donated food, many community members, including Fall Mountain High School students and “local Scouts” donated their time, from putting boxes together Friday evening to arriving at 8 a.m. on Saturday for the distribution.

“It’s a real community effort,” Huffling said. “Thanksgiving is a family day, and it means so much for people to come out one day a year and help so many people out.” There were “over 100 volunteers” and even after filling a community service requirement for school, many volunteers will return after they’ve graduated to lend a hand again.

Greetings and hugs were exchanged between the volunteers and the families, and though the overcast day was on the chilly side, there was an abundance of warmth. According to Huffling, many people “left in tears” because they were so grateful.

Throughout the day, families who lined up to receive a box would also pick up boxes for their neighbors who were unable to be there themselves. An additional 175 Thanksgiving boxes were distributed in Charlestown while another 100 boxes were delivered to shut-ins, people with handicaps or illness. Leftover boxes will go to the Food Shelf to be distributed during the week.

“Those Thanksgiving boxes were filled and distributed with love,” said Huffling, expressing her abundance of gratitude for the donors, young volunteers, and the town for coming together.

ROCKINGHAM, Vt. – On Monday, Nov. 13, 2017, Gary Fox officially started his position as the new Rockingham Development Director. Municipal Manager Shane O’Keefe explained, “I am very excited to have Gary leading the development. He has years of experience and local contacts that make him a particularly strong candidate for the position, and the obvious choice to head up our development office. He has made an immediate impact already by the ground running.”

Fox graduated from Leslie University, formally known as Leslie Graduate School, with his bachelor degree in management studies. During this time, he was employed at Northeast Cooperative Warehouse. At the end of his 18 years he was the operations manager.

In 2003, Fox worked as the transportation manager for Connecticut River Transit. Fox says, “The company believes in constant education and I was certified Community Transportation Manager, CRT Certification.” He explained, “Working at CRT could be considered my training for the position as development director. Both jobs are quasi-governmental with the mission to create jobs, identify grant funding, and establish transportation where necessary.”

In addition to his position as development director, Fox works through HCERS with pre-release corrections clients who suffer from developmental disabilities by supporting them through their transition. He is the development associate through NEC-CA, a circus-performing group based in Brattleboro.

As development director, Fox anticipates making connections with Bellows Falls Area Development Corporation in moving forward with the plans for the Robertson Paper Mill. The goal is to establish end use for the property. Fox intends to identify all of the projects that are in progress and represent area economic development of Rockingham. Future projects include Robertson Paper Mill, Hotel Windham, the train station, and Island Street Industrial Business.

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. – The industrial angles and lines of Springfield’s Great Hall art venue softened into an enchanted holiday forest as members of the Springfield Garden Club transformed the space for their annual Festival of Trees held on Nov. 17.

“We have more than 25 trees to decorate today,” said Jean Swanson, Garden Club member, “and local businesses and organizations will be setting up six or seven more trees later this week. The theme this year is Silver Bells because it’s the 25th anniversary of this event and we wanted a silver theme.”

Central to the theme is a small white chapel adorned with silver bells, built by Swanson’s husband, Allan Swanson. Leading to the chapel is a wide lane bordered by groups of Christmas trees decked in silver and red ornaments and tiny white lights. Busy Garden Club members worked in groups of two or three to decorate the trees, deck windows with wreaths, and wrap the “presents” placed under the trees.

“This is my 21st year decorating for the festival,” said Marjorie Collins as she worked to untangle a string of lights. “It’s always a great event!”

In addition to their work at the event site, Garden Club members gathered behind the scenes during the week of the festival to create fresh floral arrangements and centerpieces, which were sold as part of their fundraiser. Members also crafted fresh wreaths.

“There are both Thanksgiving centerpieces and also Christmas arrangements, boxwood trees, and things in all price ranges,” said Swanson. “Smaller arrangements that are a perfect hostess gift, or a gift for someone in the hospital...candlesticks, and more.”

The Festival of Trees is the Garden Club’s major fundraiser each November in anticipation of Christmas. The night also includes hors d’oeuvres, wine, cider, music, a raffle, and a silent auction. All proceeds went directly back to support town beautification efforts, scholarships, and other community programs. Entertainment was provided by Gerry Grimo’s band, the renowned East Bay Jazz Ensemble.

HCRS hosts an Art Exhibit to celebrate 50 years

BY TRINA MENARD

The Shopper

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. - Health Care and Rehabilitation Services (HCRS) celebrates 50 years in service to its community expressed through the art of that community. Tristan Bridges, residential coordinator for Meadowview Recovery Residence & HCRS, explained, "It started as an idea to celebrate the community that we have. We really were surprised at the high-quality work that showed up from professionals and amateurs alike. Work from over 60 artists all from within our business and community."

The show was a two-dimensional assembly of a variety of different artistic disciplines. Bridges himself had two pieces displayed in the exhibition.

"Response to the show has been incredible, many of the artists are volunteers here at the River Garden," says Orly Munzing, executive director of Strolling of the Heifers. The exhibition has been open since Nov. 3 and will continue through Nov. 29, 2017.

HCRS has been dutifully attending to the needs of the Springfield community since 1967. HCRS is a non-profit community mental health agency that serves approximately 4,500 residents on any given year. They offer programs in mental health, substance abuse, and developmental disabilities. HCRS also provides additional supports in such forms as supporting employment, transportation, housing, and social service supports. The focus is on building and maintaining personal growth.

The art exhibition follows the Oct. 21 concert of Me2/ Orchestra at the Latches Theatre in Brattleboro. Members of Me2/ Orchestra are dedicated to furthering supports for people living with mental illness. Some members of the group also suffer from such conditions as depression, bipolar disorder, schizophrenia, addiction, borderline personality disorder, or post-traumatic stress disorder.

It is estimated that some 115,000 Vermont residents suffered from mental illness within the last year. Many people fail to reach out for support based on fear and stigma. The community of HCRS encourages you to reach out for help or to be a help to others in need. Visit www.hcrs.org for more information.

Union Street School dedicates pollinator garden

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. - The Union Street School pollinator garden was dedicated to the late Lynn Morin on Thursday, Oct. 19. It was a beautiful, sunny fall day when friends and family gathered to witness the unveiling of two stones, one naming the garden after Morin, the other commemorating the ashes of a U.S. flag now buried there that had been retired in her honor.

Morin was a loyal and hard-working employee of the Springfield School District for over 30 years. We will always remember Morin working side by side the students to bring their dream of this pollinator garden to fruition. It was just one example of how she went consistently above and beyond to support the teachers and students in our community. Morin was an avid supporter of nature and animals, making the dedication of this garden even more meaningful.

The garden has continued to flourish over the past four years, making our playground more beautiful and educational. We also thank the Springfield School District maintenance staff for their preparation of the garden site, Bibens Ace Hardware Store for their donation of the bricks that border the garden, and the Wellborn Ecology Fund of the N.H. Charitable Foundation for their generous financial and technical support. Last but certainly not least, we are grateful to the Springfield Garden Club for their extreme generosity of funds and countless hours of labor to ensure a garden we could all be proud of. The Lynn Morin Memorial Pollinator Garden is a symbol of the great things that can happen when community comes together to achieve a shared goal.

Kurn Hattin students soar the sky

WESTMINSTER, Vt. - Can you imagine flying a plane over your school as an introduction to a science lesson? It would be the experience of a lifetime. It certainly was for the 17 children from the Kurn Hattin Homes' seventh and eighth grade classes. At the Springfield-Hartness Airport, flight leader Jennifer Jacob and three other pilots instructed the students on preflight requirements and the instruments that make planes fly. Then up into the air they flew with the option to fly the plane themselves! As eighth grader Korbin McDougall-Jones said after the flight, "That was officially the best field trip ever."

This special opportunity was sponsored by the Young Eagles Program of the Experimental Aircraft Association (EAA). Pilots John Bal-dasaro, Alasdair Crawford, Jennifer Jacob, and Jim Shires traveled from all over the northeast to give the children an unforgettable introduction to aircrafts. "These pilots made dreams come true for these kids," said science teacher Tom Fontaine, "This hands-on approach to education really sparks an interest in the students to learn more about the science behind flight and air."

The seventh and eighth grade classes will be starting their middle school science studies on flight after the November break. They will be exploring airfoils, the properties of air, and the properties of flight. Afterward, they will build their own mini hot-air balloons and launch them on campus. By flying a plane over their school and then sending up their own aircrafts into the sky, the Kurn Hattin children surely will learn a great deal on the mechanics of flight!

A place of hope since 1894, Kurn Hattin Homes for Children provides a safe home and quality education for boys and girls, ages 5-15, whose families are experiencing a time of personal or financial need. Kurn Hattin transforms the lives of children and their families forever. For more information, go to www.kurn-hattin.org.

AD HOC Art Gallery's celebrates grand opening

BY KRISTINE M. BURPEE
The Shopper

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt. – On Friday, Nov. 17, 2017 the public welcomed AD HOC Art Gallery into their location at 23 Canal Street. Doreen Stoodley, executive director of the Great Falls Regional Chamber of Commerce conducted the ribbon cutting ceremony. Stoodley said, "This is very exciting, on behalf of the GFRCC, we welcome Michael, Emmett, and Garrison to the community and congratulate them on their new endeavor."

Artist Garrison Buxton is the owner/co-founder of AD HOC Art Gallery, a non-profit organization committed to highlighting the areas of street art, pop surrealism, low-brow, illustration, comic book, tattoo, and printmaking. The larger and extensive history of underground art, activism, and graffiti is all part of the mission of AD HOC Art.

Buxton graduated with a Bachelor's degree in Fine Arts from the University of Oklahoma and obtained his Master's degree at the Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, N.Y. Buxton taught printmaking at Pratt until 2004 when he ramped up Peripheral Media Projects, Inc. Buxton refers to himself as "a creative problem solver," and said, "I went to school for visual arts and it has been a hustle." Buxton enjoys silk screening, collage work, and promoting public art.

Michael Noyes is a visual artist living and working in Rockingham, Vt. Noyes graduated with a Bachelor's degree in Fine Arts from the School of the Art Institute of Chicago, and has studied at the School of the Museum of Fine Arts, and Parsons School of Design. Noyes began formal training in painting at the age of six when his first grade art teacher recognized his talent. Noyes has lived and worked in Boston and New York City, where he had his studio at the famous 5 Pointz Aerosol Art Center in Long Island City, Queens. He has shown his work both nationally and internationally and is represented in many notable private and public collections. Noyes added, "My favorite medium, by far, is oil painting." Emmett Dunbar, photo poet, farmer, and project manager, finds his inspiration from nature along with his passion for farming, which is expressed through images from different life adventures.

Lini Mazumdar, nutrition counselor and caterer of Indian Cuisine, also Dunbar's wife, provided refreshments in support of the artists in their grand opening. Local business owners popped into the gallery for a visit and to welcome the new artists to downtown.

Local Artist, Jeanette Stiley from the Flying Canvas said, "I'm glad to have more artists in the community. Garrison and I have exhibited together and it's nice to have artists to play with."

Mary Lynch, a mixed media artist, attended, grateful to have more artists in the area. Another local artist Audrey Boerum accompanied by her friend Lillian Rounds mentioned, "Great exhibit! We are looking forward to seeing more." Rounds added that the whole this was "Very beautiful."

Puerto Rico after Hurricane Maria

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. - The Springfield Town Library presents Puerto Rico after Maria with Ellen Taetzsch on Thursday, Nov. 30 at 5:30 p.m. Taetzsch will share her experiences as a Red Cross volunteer in Puerto Rico. In October, she answered a plea from the Red Cross for help from former Peace Corp volunteers. Having worked with rural communities in Zambia and Uganda, Taetzsch was an ideal candidate for working under challenging conditions.

You've seen the headlines, come to the library to hear what it is like for those on the ground. The program is free and open to the public. Springfield Town Library is located at 43 Main Street, Springfield, Vt. For more information, call the library at 802-885-3108 or check the website at www.springfieldtownlibrary.org.

Library Strategic Planning: supporting the cultural community

BY KAREN ENGDAHL
The Shopper

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. - "Let's start with this fact: the library is going to change over the next five years, even if we don't have a map. Think of the power we have if we make a plan!" said Springfield Town Library Director Amy Howlett as she reflected on the strategic planning process her staff, board members, and community constituents have been working on over the past few months.

Howlett, who was hired in part because of her strategic planning experience, says she has spent much of the past 18 months learning about the library and its place in the community. "Now it's time to gather ideas and move forward," she said. Working with organizational consultant Lawrence Webster, Howlett and staff have conducted community focus groups, board interviews, and staff retreats to look closely at supporting the role of the library in the coming years.

"One thing we can all agree on is that we want the library to stay a safe, comfortable place where people can get together. We want to keep providing traditional materials such as books and CDs in addition to online resources," she said. "But there are many other projects to consider as well."

"An issue that comes up often is the matter of the number of Springfield residents with library cards," Howlett said. "We're considering a project in partnership with a local school where the first graders will visit the library and get their library cards. That way, we hope the involve the whole family - somebody will have to bring that first grader to the library to take out a book!" Making the library family-friendly and building on services such as the weekly story hour for children are continuing priorities in the planning process, she explained.

"Some local leaders have proposed that the library should be a showplace for town planning exhibits and presentations," she went on. "We could provide the venue for models and displays from local groups such as the Select Board or the Historical Society."

"We're also looking at ideas for attracting millennials and GenX-ers - what do those groups want and need? We're considering weekly emails, changing hours to be available when they're able to come here, and serving as a point of connection with other organizations," Howlett said. Other groups Howlett plans to involve in the planning process are teenagers and "young careerists."

The biggest surprises she's had during the months of planning? "I was so excited to hear from the people who want to develop projects connecting us with all the other Springfields in the country," she laughed. "And those who want us to share our passions with others in libraries around the world. It can be done! We just have to make the plan and do it!"

Howlett hopes the final version of the strategic plan will be presented to the Select Board sometime within the next few months. Proud and excited about the final product, she said, "Involving the right people drives you forward - and we've been lucky to work with so many dedicated, committed community members."

Party for turkeys at VINE Sanctuary

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. - VINE Sanctuary invites the public to meet rather than eat turkeys on Saturday, Nov. 25, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at 201 Massey Road in Springfield, Vt. This Thanksgiving Party for Turkeys will focus on celebrating and helping the turkeys and other animals at the sanctuary. Visit with turkeys and sanctuary residents as you volunteer to get buildings and grounds ready for winter. Your labors will be rewarded with a sanctuary tour followed by vegan snacks with sanctuary staff.

Five turkeys share coops and foraging yards with other birds at VINE Sanctuary. Many wild turkeys also make use of the sanctuary, raising their young in the woods that we maintain as a wildlife refuge, where they are safe from hunters.

This event is free and open to the public, but please RSVP by responding at www.facebook.com/VINESanctuary or emailing ayeshah@bravebirds.org at least one day in advance, so that enough snacks are available for all to enjoy!

What should I wear? Wear sturdy boots or shoes that you won't mind getting dirty. Bring muck boots or rain boots if it rained or snowed the day before or seems likely to rain or snow that day. Wear clothes suitable for messy outdoor chores.

What should I bring? Bring a refillable water bottle, so that you can stay hydrated. If you have (non-leather) work gloves or gardening gloves, bring those. If you happen to have a shovel or a rake, bring that too.

Can I help with the snacks? Yes! Sanctuary staff volunteer their time to make or buy snacks for these events. If you can pitch in by bringing something vegan to share, that's always deeply appreciated!

Can I bring something for the turkeys? Sure! Turkeys love fruits and vegetables of all kinds.

What will we be doing, exactly? That will depend on the weather and on what we have been able to get done in preceding weeks. Certainly, we will be making sure that all coops and yards used by turkeys and their friends are all set for winter. That may involve raking, painting, cleaning, or helping to shift used bedding into new composting piles. We may also need to remove sticks, stones, and other obstacles from driveways, paths, and pastures.

Is this event child-friendly? It can be! Tell us in advance if you want to bring child younger than 13, and we will be sure to plan something appropriate for a child of that age to do.

Run or walk in the Thanksgiving Day 5k

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. - The Edgar May Health and Recreation Center will host its 5th annual Thanksgiving Day 5k Road Race and Walk on Nov. 23. Runners and walkers of all ages are welcome and children under the age of 12 are free. Registration begins at 8 a.m., with the race starting at 9 a.m. Please call 802-885-2568 to register or visit www.myrecenter.org

Thanksgiving morning is a great time to get out with friends and family for a walk or run. This year, there will be prizes for the family with the greatest number of participants, for the most experienced participant, and youngest walker or runner. The event is timed by Springfield High School's Cross Country program, which will benefit from the races proceeds.

The 5K will begin and end at Springfield Hospital. The route begins at the bottom of Ridgewood Road and turns onto Park Street, following Park Street to Union Street and Union Street to South Street. Participants turn around at Springfield High School and head back to the starting point of the race. The course is a flat, fast course, perfect for a 5k.

EdgarMay, Executive Director

Christian Craig stated, "This event is a great way to start what is typically known as the largest calorie consumption day of the year. Come out and burn off some calories and you won't feel as guilty about that second piece of pie." Last year's race had a record turnout with 139 participants coming out to walk, run, and trot.

The race is sponsored by Springfield Medical Care Systems, Vermont Packing House, the Springfield Rotary Club, Black River Produce, and HCRS. Sponsorship opportunities can be found at www.myrecenter.org. Participants are also encouraged to bring food donations for the Springfield Family Center.

The race is also seeking volunteers. If you are interested in supporting a great event, contact Christian Craig. For more information regarding the Thanksgiving Day 5k, or any Edgar May Health and Recreation Center Program, please call 802-885-2568 or visit www.myrecenter.org.

Stray shots & short casts

In the 1960s the Rutland Herald had a weekly column titled "Stray shots & short casts." I choose that title for this article as I have several subjects to write about this week.

Last week Peter Farrar, Danny Clemons and I went up the Reservoir Road researching a bit of local history. Peter knew the history and Danny knew the area.

While we didn't locate exactly what we were looking for we did find a number of old cellar holes. One site had several cellar holes. On the 1869 Beers Atlas we found the Sabin family living there in 1869. All that remains today are the cellar holes.

Some of the foundation stones were huge. While some of the walls had partially fallen in most were well preserved. Today, these old cellar holes are being bulldozed by landowners without concern for their historical importance. Peter suggested before any more are destroyed a high school student using GPS could locate and map all of the cellar holes in the town of Chester. It doesn't have to be a student, perhaps you'd like to give it a try. It would be a worthy project. Today, we map trees in town. Why not cellar holes? Trees are renewable; cellar holes are not.

The Chester Historical Society is publishing a new book to be released next spring. This book will include real photo postcards of Chester and surrounding towns. Included will be Chester village, the Depot, Gassetts, Smokeshire, West Chester and Popple Dungeon.

Also included will be Andover, Simonsville, Londonderry and Weston. We invite you to submit any old photos or postcards you have of these areas. I imagine there are a few families in these towns who have unpublished photos. This is your chance to step forward and share your photos with a wide audience. You will be given credit for any photos you submit or you can remain anonymous.

Another item: recorded history shows Captain Melvin left Fort Dummer May 13, 1748 to Lake Champlain. It was May 31, 1748 on the return trip to Fort Dummer when Melvin's men were attacked by Indians. Here a massacre took place with four or more of Captain Melvin's killed and scalped.

There is a monument to Captain Melvin and his men at the Salmon Hole in Jamaica but is this accurate? Sam Ogden of Landgrove, Vermont made an interesting discovery many years ago and makes a strong case for it having occurred in Londonderry.

Ogden located Captain Melvin's 1748 journal at the New Hampshire Historical Society and copied it word for word. This journal documents Melvin's daily route with compass bearings and miles marched each day. In those early days few mountains, streams or rivers had been given names.

However Melvin's journal is fairly well detailed where he describes mountains, waterfalls or streams crossed. Sam concluded the massacre occurred in Londonderry not Jamaica.

Here is part of Sam Ogden's conclusions.

"...At any rate, it seems quite plain that the captain and his group followed this stream to the east where, as he says, 'travelled over a Large Mountain, leaving another large mountain on the N/W,' the first undoubtedly being Bromley and the other Stiles Peak, at which point they would come upon the headwaters of our Flood Brook. I cannot pinpoint the actual location of the ambush, but as I have indicated, it would seem to have taken place in Londonderry somewhere just below the juncture of Flood Brook with the West River..."

We have assembled a small group of individuals with different skills. One individual who is a retired engineer will take Melvin's journal with aid of a compass and a 1756 map of the region and attempt to retrace Melvin's steps. Others have equally important skills. Our goal is not to rewrite history but to accurately record history. Whatever our findings are it is our intent to present them in a Power-Point presentation in the future.

The 2018 Chester Historical Society calendars are for sale at: Stone House Antiques Center, Chester Hardware, Phoenix Misty Valley Books, Lisa's Market, Erskine's Feed Store, Chester Town Hall, Vintage Vermont, Salon 2000 and the Framery of Vermont. The photo with this article is the cover of our 2018 calendar.

Instead of an old saying I offer an epitaph I recently read in an old book for Maggie, an Army mule. "In memory of Maggie, who in her lifetime kicked 1 General, 4 Colonels, 2 Majors, 24 Lieutenants, 42 Sergeants, 454 Privates and one bomb."

WINDSOR, Vt. - The Southeast State Correctional Facility in Windsor recently closed its doors. As someone who worked closely with the facility, I share my fondest memories of the SESCO.

I started working for the Vermont Department of Corrections at the Maximum Security Prison on State Street in Windsor, Vt. It was a brutal and dangerous environment. The prison closed in 1975 and is now providing valuable housing for senior citizens.

In 1984, I started work at what was then known as WCF or "the prison farm." I started there as a correctional services specialist I and eventually was promoted to correctional services specialist II. I later served as a correctional officer for three years and then finished my career as the facility's recreation coordinator.

I have many fond memories of the facility having done an excellent job implementing a variety of missions. For much of the time that I worked for the Corrections, Vermont Department of Corrections was nationally admired. The department received a lot of federal funds because Vermont is a small state and made a good laboratory for testing correctional initiatives. I was particularly impressed with treatment programs such as cognitive self-change with Steve Woodsum and the Vanguard program, which I eventually administered at Windsor.

Windsor housed women for about five years and did an excellent job making sure the relationships between the incarcerated women and their children were maintained. While the women were at Windsor, the Girl Scouts would bring the young scouts to the facility to camp out overnight with their mothers and sometimes grandmothers. The scouts would cook marshmallows over an open fire, sing songs, and then pitch tents and sleep overnight. When the decision to move the women from Windsor was discussed at the legislature, I testified in front of the House Committee and they voted 10 to 0 not to move the women. Then the Vermont Senate became involved, and the rest is history.

My personal feeling is that the 2005 Truth in Sentencing legislation has had a devastating effect upon corrections in Vermont and severely downgraded the quality of Vermont Corrections. My hope at this point in time is that the facilities of the Southeast State Correctional Facility will be put to good use.

Op-Ed: Vote 'yes' on Nov. 28.

Will the voters of Mount Holly and Ludlow vote to retain control of their own schools and the education of our students?

1. If the proposed school merger between Mount Holly and Ludlow is approved, then Mount Holly and Ludlow will each keep their own elementary school for grades Pre-kindergarten through 6 governed by a new joint school board. Students in grades 7-12 will have a choice of what middle and high school to attend. Black River High School will close within two years.

If the merger fails, the two elementary schools and U39, after filing Section 9 reports, become a side-by-side district with the Green Mountain district in Chester. Then the State Board has the authority and will, in all likelihood, put the Mount Holly, Ludlow, U39 school district into the Chester centered Green Mountain district, which, as members of the Green Mountain district indicated, will close BRHS anyway. That Board has said it will not run two high schools since Green Mountain Union High School could easily absorb the Black River students. Since Mount Holly and Ludlow would only have minority representation on this enlarged board, there is no way that move could be blocked. Mount Holly and Ludlow School Board discussion with the consultant hired by the two boards indicated that this is the most likely result if the merger fails.

2. The new Mount Holly-Ludlow merger proposal provides protection for our elementary schools since the Articles of Agreement state that neither elementary school can be closed without a unanimous vote of the new Board and a positive vote of the town involved.

3. The new Board will be made up of eight members, four from each town though they will be elected by the entire membership of both towns. Mount Holly and Ludlow schools will be governed by Mount Holly and Ludlow people. If our schools are put in the Green Mountain district, under the larger Chester based Board, we will have little say in the governing of our two elementary schools. They wouldn't have the protection they would have under this new merger proposal.

4. There should be significant cost per pupil tax reduction when the merger becomes final July 1, 2018 and when BRHS is closed in 2020. Further, if the merger fails, the district will lose approximately $131,000 in small school grants and will also lose the 3.5 percent Hold Harmless Provision, costing further money should school populations drop.

All of this raises our taxes. The estimate is an annual savings, if the merger is approved, of about $600,000. If the merger fails, all of these savings disappear along with the tax incentives which would reduce taxes by .08, .06, .04, .02 each year over 4 years. Apart from those incentives, it is estimated that the Mount Holly tax rate will drop by about .12 and the Ludlow rate by about .20 if the merger is approved.

5. The issue of student transportation has been discussed and the district consultant has estimated that providing transportation to Mill

River High School and Green Mountain High School would cost about $30,000, adding perhaps one cent to the tax rate.

This is the last chance we get to control our own destiny as far as education in our two towns is concerned. We can control our own destiny by voting "yes" for this new merger plan or let the State Board of Education do it for us by voting "no," which will still close BRHS while leaving the people of Mount Holly and Ludlow with no say, no choice in where our students can go after leaving elementary school.

Furthermore, not only will the control of our two elementary schools be turned over to a larger Board centered in Chester, it likely will leave some Mount Holly students with a 60-mile round trip bus ride to and from school each day.

This new merger proposal involving the two elementary schools and 7-12 choice may not be a perfect solution and not what many may have desired; but it leaves educational decisions in the hands of the people of Mount Holly and Ludlow rather than turning those decisions over to the state - and eventually a bigger Board in the Chester based Green Mountain district. We control our own destiny, and, as an added benefit, it saves us money. A winning combination.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

Those who say they want to create an independent high school in Ludlow have no solid plan and have not indicated that the state would even endorse their idea.

Have any of these people been involved in the current high school? It appears the real goal is to close Black River High School. And if we vote for the new district, it's not likely BRHS will remain open beyond another year at best. Teachers have families to feed and would need to accept positions elsewhere.

If students choose even the nearest other high schools, they will be spending at least an extra hour on a school bus each day. Is this what we want for them?

Recently a teacher from another school wrote a commentary in the Rutland Herald about quitting because of student disrespect. It's too bad he never experienced teaching at BRHS where both students and teachers are part of a tight-knit family. Students know their teachers care about them.

Closing a school guarantees an economic decline in the community. Ludlow businesses will lose local traffic. The students they depend upon for part-time jobs won't be just down the road. The town may also lose its sense of being a community. There won't be a science fair, no play to attend, and the lights won't come on at the ball fields.

If, on Nov. 28, we vote "no" in order to keep Black River High School open, students win and the community wins as well.

Sincerely,
Carol Ballou

Dear Friends,

Two years ago, when I was hired as the new executive director for the Springfield Regional Chamber of Commerce, I had no idea what to expect. I only knew that it was going to be an adventure, and a lot of hard work.

Now, membership is up. Event attendance has been steadily increasing. Financially, we're operating in the black. We're working closely with the town and local orgs to tackle the issues facing our community and taking steps to promote a thriving region. The response from chamber members and townspeople has been overwhelmingly positive, and humbling to experience.

Even so, I was completely surprised when, amidst looking back on two years of toil and effort, I was notified that I had been nominated as one of Vermont Business Magazine's "Rising Stars" of 2017. When I received word that I had indeed officially been chosen as one of those Top 40 Under 40, it was an entirely surreal moment for me.

The urge to work myself into the ground is not so much a reflection of my particular job, but rather an indicator of the effects that a workaholic society has on an already prone individual. And I know I'm not alone in this struggle. There is enormous pressure in today's business world to do it all. So I had to ask myself, "Is this really how I want to live? Is this even sustainable?"

My answer to these questions, it turns out, is, "Umm, not exactly."

My first year as director was undeniably "the year of keeping my head above water." And my second year was arguably "the year of proving myself and doing all of the things." I've decided that my third year as director will be my "year of health and wellbeing." I'll be making an effort to live a little more in the present moment, and operate at a more manageable pace that leaves some space for worksite wellness.

All this personal reflection has brought to my attention so many things to be grateful for. I am appreciative of my Board, for seeing something in me and for giving me the opportunity to run the chamber and to promote positive impact in our neighborhoods. Their continued assistance and enthusiasm keeps my engine running.

I'm thankful for Lori Evans, an unexpected volunteer who serendipitously showed up on the chamber doorstep and gave me her time, energy, and friendship during the busy weeks leading up to Apple Fest.

Back in September, I had the pleasure of speaking on a panel for the Vermont Young Professionals Summit at the Paramount Theater. The panel was called "Building an Entrepreneurial Ecosystem." We talked about the importance of human connections, the value of authenticity, the critical need to communicate openly and listen. I was so proud to be able to use the Springfield Regional Chamber as a fantastic example of a collection of people getting it right.

I even got a nice letter from our U.S. Congressman Peter Welch, offering congratulations; he wrote, "You will renew Springfield!"

It was lovely to hear from him, and I thought to myself, "Well, I certainly can't do it alone!" But I'm not alone. I am one of many who are working hard every day, each in their own way, to make our beautiful community an even better place to live, grow, work, and play.

Thank you all for your commitment to Springfield. Together we are making it happen. I wish for all of you this holiday season that you find ample time to spend with family and friends. Rest, relax, and renew.

Sincerely,
Caitlin Christiana

Dear Editor,

Energy eats up a large portion of Vermonters' monthly expenses.

That's one thing we heard from Vermonters we met during Efficiency Vermont's statewide tour this fall. In addition to these in-person conversations and live polling, Efficiency Vermont gathered input online to help identify the most pressing energy issues facing Vermonters.

Of the people who attended our forums, 32 percent of live-poll respondents reported spending over $500 per month on heating, driving, and electricity; and an additional 45 percent spend between $250 and $500. For those living at or below the poverty line, these costs can consume 10 percent or more of their income.

Efficiency Vermont held these forums in Bennington, Brattleboro, Newport, Randolph, and Milton to inform our next three-year performance period. For Vermonters not able to take part in person, an online survey was available. From these exchanges we learned that Vermonters are focused on a few key areas.

First, the people we heard from value Efficiency Vermont's role in making efficiency services and efficient products more affordable and accessible in all regions of the state. This has been a staple of our work for 17 years: training contractors, bringing the best technology to Vermont, and buying down the cost for consumers. It's enabled Vermont to meet 15 percent of its power supply through efficiency - and is something Efficiency Vermont will continue to do.

Second, people are interested in innovations in the energy sector. Smart appliances, electric vehicles, and zero energy homes (among other solutions) were discussed frequently. The energy system of tomorrow may look very different than the system of today. We want to make sure we continue to provide customers with objective advice to make sense of the options and find the solutions that are right for them.

Finally, we heard that Efficiency Vermont's partnership with Vermont tradespeople is important and should remain a priority. Echoing much of the broader public dialogue around contractor availability, the Vermonters we talked to also see a need for more energy efficiency contractors in a number of regions across the state.

In the coming weeks and months, expect to hear more about our plans for the future, which will incorporate this essential customer feedback.

We're proud of our work serving Vermont and Vermonters and invite you to share your thoughts on how we can help you save energy and save money.

Sincerely,
Karen Glitman

Celebrate the holiday season with Christmas in Weston

WESTON, Vt. - Christmas in Weston is a daylong celebration of family fun that ushers in the holiday season for the mountain communities, residents, and visitors alike. Christmas in Weston attracts those looking for a traditional Vermont winter experience as well as great holiday sale opportunities. But this event is also an opportunity for us to showcase a local charity who works tirelessly for those in our community needed help. Funds raised through donations, raffle, and food sales at designated vendors from this event will go to Just Neighbors.

Just Neighbors is an all-volunteer organization dedicated to providing short-term assistance to local people who are experiencing a sudden and overwhelming challenge in their living situations. Just Neighbors provides assistance for the basic life necessities to address safety, security, and other essential components to support family and housing needs. They are a valuable asset to our community, and we are proud to support them. This organization provides services to residents of Andover, Bondville, Landgrove, Londonderry, South Londonderry, Peru, Weston, Winhall, and Windham in Vermont. Come and visit them on the Village Green to learn more about this essential organization to the community.

Now in its 33rd year, Christmas in Weston is a day full of free events throughout the town on Saturday, Dec. 2, 2017 from 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. There are fun events and activities for all ages at galleries, shops, museums, and inns throughout the scenic village and delicious food at local restaurants. Have fun while finding unique gifts for everyone on your Christmas list - all in the town of Weston.

"This event offers a variety of events and activities for children and adults alike," says Deane Cooper, the event chairperson. Start the morning off with a good breakfast at the Colonial House Inn. Tour the village by foot or two horse-drawn wagons. Children will enjoy visiting with Santa and Mrs. Claus and the petting zoo at the Vermont Country Store. For some hands-on activities, the little ones can make a craft at the historic Little School then go and enjoy a reading of "The Night Before Christmas" with Mimi Neff at the Wilder Memorial Library. The Village Green Gallery will be offering signed copies of "A New Day" by author and illustrator Don Bolognese, a timeless story of the nativity, to the first 25 children who stop by. Adults can enjoy a hearty lunch at the Bryant House Restaurant, a cappuccino and cannoli at the Village Green Gallery, followed up with an afternoon libation at the Landgrove Inn or sample craft beers and Vermont cheeses at the Inn at Weston.

If you linger into the latter part of the day, the Inn at Weston is offering a special Christmas dinner and night of holiday music. One-of-a-kind gifts can be purchased at the Vermont Country Store and Weston Village Store, the Weston Village Christmas Shop, and the Village Green Gallery. With so much going on you might enjoy food on the go. At the Weston Playhouse we are offering the ever popular Weston Women's Club Holiday Cookie Sale, as well as chili and soup to warm you up while you view the quilt display of local needlework.

This year we have a new event location at the Weston Playhouse's new Walker Farm which will host a few old favorites and some new additions to the day's events. A dramatic reading of "A Christmas Carol" by Munson Hicks and our local finest, a variety of music events, and Magician Doug Eash who is "just plain cool" will amaze the kid in all of us. Walker Farm is also calling all you bakers out there for a ginger bread contest. We will be having categories for children, adults, and professionals. Prizes will be awarded for the best in show for each category. "This is an exciting new event for Christmas in Weston. We have really creative and talented bakers out in the community and we look forward to seeing their beautiful creations." Kathy Schoemer, contest coordinator says.

Music is alive in the Village of Weston this year. The Church on the Hill will have live Christmas caroling featuring Patricia Connelly. The Little School students will be warming our hearts with their caroling before Santa whisks them off to the Village Green, and the lighting of the Weston Christmas Tree.

Works from local artists will be raffled as part of the day's activities along with gift certificates from local businesses including area restaurants and inns as well as theatre tickets to exciting summer Weston Playhouse performances. The raffle will also benefit Just Neighbors and tickets can be purchased at the Weston Playhouse and businesses in the town. Winners need not be present to win.

Weston, a jewel to be found, is a town for all ages, interests and seasons. Start the winter with a nostalgic, traditional Vermont Christmas experience. For more detailed information and the schedule of events for Christmas in Weston visit the Village of Weston website at: www.westonvt.com.

Santa to light the town tree

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. - When Santa lights Springfield's town tree, a sense of awe comes over the crowd of families who anxiously awaited his arrival, quickly followed by cheers!

Once again, Springfield on the Move and the Springfield Regional Chamber of Commerce are collaborating to bring the holiday program to downtown Springfield.

The chamber has invited Santa and Mrs. Claus to come to town and have arranged for the tree, Santa's house, and caroling.

The annual family holiday program will begin at 4 p.m. on Friday, Dec. 1, at the SOM office at 6 Valley Street. Children will pick up their sticker maps and visit downtown businesses and organizations to get special treats and stickers to put on their maps. When maps are full, children will return to the SOM office for their goodie bags filled with surprises.

Caroling with the Springfield Community Band and the Springfield Holiday Community Chorus will begin in the People's United Bank parking lot on Main Street near Santa's House at 5:30 p.m. Santa will arrive at 6 p.m. to light the town's Christmas tree. He will then greet excited children in his special house.

Wreath Workshop

JAMAICA, Vt. - Get in the holiday spirit with the first annual Holiday Fest and Wreath Workshop. The event takes place at the beautiful historic Jamaica Town Hall on Saturday, Dec. 2 from 4 - 6 p.m. The festival will include a myriad of activities and photo opportunities. Be crafty and create a holiday wreath at the workshop table, or purchase a decorated locally made artisan wreath. Sing carols and enjoy live music with the wonderful Merry Pranksters bluegrass band.

The music heads outside across to the town green to light the town tree at 5:30 p.m. Great raffle prizes have been donated by local businesses. Sign up at the D&K store for the cookie swap with talented local bakers. Enjoy homemade refreshments, bring a new unwrapped toy to donate, make a fun project at the kid's craft area and much, much more.

Jamaica Town Hall is located at 3735 VT Route 30 in the village of Jamaica. The event is free and hosted by The Jamaica Community Arts Council.

Festival of Lights

MOUNT HOLLY, Vt. - You are invited to the Festival of Lights Silent Auction, presented by the Mount Holly Community Historical Museum. This annual event will be on Saturday, Dec. 2 from 6 - 8 p.m.

Beautifully decorated one of a kind wreaths, creative gift baskets and an array of donated items will be auctioned. This is the museum's primary fundraising event. The monies raised will support the development of new exhibits, the educational program and contribute to the upkeep of museum facilities.

This year's event will be at Perkins House on the Green in Belmont. An array of hors d'oeuvres with wine and other refreshments will be offered beginning at 6 p.m. In addition to the silent auction, there will a penny sale style raffle for some items, wine and cheese baskets raffle, plus door prizes!

This adults-only event is free. Come join the festivities and support the museum! For more info, visit www.mounthollyvtmuseum.org or our Facebook Page.

All aboard the Santa Express!

BY KRISTINE M. BURPEE
The Vermont Journal & The Shopper

BELLOWS FALLS / CHESTER, Vt. – Beginning at 10 a.m. on Sunday, Nov. 19, excited children and their parents boarded the Santa Express from 54 Depot Street in Bellows Falls for an adventure to the North Pole in Chester Depot Street.

On the train ride to the North Pole illusionist Troy Wunderle from Big Top Adventures put on a short skit while elves distributed coloring packets for children to color for Santa. While some children were certainly excited for the early chance to meet Santa, they were on their best behavior, anxious not to end up on the naughty list. They sang along to their favorite songs with the carolers and participated in the illusionist show.

Upon arriving to the North Pole, passengers were greeted by characters such as snowmen, reindeer, a polar bear, and more.

While families waiting in line to meet good ol' Saint Nicholas himself, Smokin' Bowls had their concession stand with warm food for sale, BFMS sold t-shirts and stuffed snowmen, and pictures were taken on Santa's sleigh.

Inside the station, Cindy Lou Who passed out candy canes, and Santa met with all the children to wish them all a Merry Christmas and advise "no snitching and go to bed early" as the holiday approaches.

the Night Before Christmas," while elves passed out her homemade cookies and hot chocolate.

The proceeds of the Santa Express event benefit the Bellows Falls Middle School Band for their end of the year field trip to the Lincoln Memorial in Washington D.C.

Coordinator Sierra Patterson said, "I love to see the magic on the children's faces. Also, this is a great way to begin the holiday season."

She went on to say that the whole community gets involved. Students and parents of the Bellows Falls Middle School band, as well as high school students, and Destination Bellows Falls all came together to bring the North Pole to this corner of Vermont.

Vermont Vines on the River wine tasting at Christmas Trees of Vermont

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. – Vermont Vines on the River vineyard and winery will be back at Christmas Trees of Vermont again this year after a great year at local festivals. They will be sampling wine made from grapes grown in Vermont river valleys including along the Connecticut River in Springfield where the Christmas tree farm is. This is a great opportunity to buy from local farmers for the holidays, both a Vermont Christmas tree and a bottle of wine to share on Christmas day, for a very Merry Christmas!

Starting Thanksgiving weekend until season end, every weekend from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Vermont Vines on the River will be at Christmas Trees of Vermont, which is a choose-and-cut and pre-cut Fraser Fir tree farm on a historic plantation on Route 5.

Customers can ride wagons out to find their trees, and once cut, travel back with the trees to be bailed. The tasting table is set up in the Christmas cottage next to the hot chocolate and across from the fireplace, an ideal place for the whole family to warm up before or after finding their Fraser Fir Christmas tree and wreath. The wine is made from grapes grown in the valley right next to the Christmas trees which adds to the Yuletide cheer. It is a beautiful setting for a holiday adventure that the whole family will enjoy.

Vermont Vines on the River is a small family winery, owned and operated by the Harriman family who are local to Springfield and also have vines growing along the Williams River in Rockingham. Family and friends helped plant the original vines and still help every year in the harvesting of grapes. Tastings will be offered by Stacy and her mother this year. There will be both red and white wines to taste and purchase by the glass or bottle. The wines are from cold hardy grapes developed by the University of Minnesota and Cornell University. There are six red and six white grape varieties some of which are Marquette & St. Croix for reds, and Prairie Star and St. Pepin for whites.

Come sample some locally grown and produced wine, get a Christmas tree, have a holiday adventure and make memories to last a life time. Christmas Trees of Vermont is located three miles off exit 71-01 on Rte. 5, 978 Connecticut River Rd. in Springfield, Vt. And will be open for the season on Nov. 24. For more in-

THIS AND THAT

BY BILL MURPHY

The Vermont Journal & The Shopper

Try this one on for size. You are a college soccer coach and your team is enjoying one fantastic season. The word fantastic was not chosen lightly.

Your team is 18-0-2. They average 3.2 goals a game. Said team has given up one goal all season. That's no typo. They actually allowed only one goal all season. You have advanced to the second round of the NCAA Division III Soccer Tournament and you shutout your opponent. But...you are eliminated from the tournament.

Meet Adrian Dubois. He graduated from Fall Mountain Regional High School in 2005. He was New Hampshire's Gatorade Player of the Year that school year, meaning he was saluted as the best darn high school soccer player in the state. He went on to the University of New Hampshire, where he started four years as a midfielder, received the Glenn Abern Award as the team's most improved player, made the America East all-tournament team, and was part of another Wildcat team at a higher level that broke the Top 30 rankings nationally.

The native of Acworth, N.H. didn't stop playing the sport when he graduated from college with a Bachelor's of Science degree in Biology. He has competed against some of the best players in the world. He played in both the National Premier Soccer League and the United Soccer League. He also believes "from the time I started, I was a natural as a coach."

Tim St. Pierre, who has coached the Fall Mountain Wildcats for 20 years, was Dubois high school coach. The headman in Langdon said, "He is wildly successful at everything he's ever done. He has great character and integrity and finds a way to get things done. We still talk a number of times a year. I'm glad he still calls me to get my opinion."

Once upon a time, Dubois did not want St. Pierre's opinion.

The truth is, Dubois wasn't always that way. The hot commodity of a coach at St. Joseph's College in Maine remembers the first time he laid eyes on St. Pierre. Dubois recalled, "He was lurking in the background up on the hill when I was playing summer soccer up in North Charlestown. We have become very close over time, but it wasn't always that way."

Dubois reached next into his bag of great stories, which he has accumulated along the journey. This one deals directly with St. Pierre. Dubois admitted, "I was kind of a hot shot back then. It caused us to butt heads a little bit. We were playing down at Hollis-Brookline and I was the starting midfielder and acting like a hot shot. We either tied or won the game, but coach was not happy. He called our huddle at the end of the game and started sternly addressing us. He started talking about prima donnas and then seemed to get more personal and he was staring right at me. He said you always put yourself first, you don't work hard enough, you should go and play at a prep school, because if you are not going to work hard, you are not going to play anymore here. We were both angry at the time and then after the huddle, we went our own ways."

In the next few hours, the message sunk in. Dubois said this week, "That day was the turning point of my work ethic. I was a different player after that day. My parents raised me the right way and things went very well during my Fall Mountain days. We had three semifinal appearances and lost in the finals once to Hollis-Brookline. We had an extraordinary team."

"Tim introduced me to coaching," Dubois told me. "He brought in middle school groups and the players gave them clinics. I enjoyed doing it. This was a chance for me to give back to the community. I felt right away I was a natural at it, and I have coached ever since then, in one way or another."

Dubois gives St. Pierre the ultimate compliment. "He was an over all great coach and life teacher," he articulated, adding, "He has helped loads of us figure things out."

This is Dubois fourth year at St. Joseph. He was basically a last minute replacement, when a coach departed just prior to a season beginning. He recalled, "I have been told I wasn't the first choice, but I was able to get the job. My coaching style is a combination of the coaches I have worked with and played for. We play an intricate, entertaining style that takes time to learn. Things may have started slow my first year because of that [5-15]. I thought it was important to implement my style. It took time. I wanted to make it work. I learned to recruit when I was at UMass Boston and that has helped me a lot too."

His style was well received and the next two seasons the Monks were 11-7-1 and 15-2-6 respectively. When one adds this year's record, Dubois stands 50-24-9 since taking over the program. Yes, initially, using the time to implement his system may have been a step back—"I felt I had to take that chance" - but it appears it is certainly paying off.

Dubois hopes he is able to see St. Pierre when he returns home for Thanksgiving. The Fall Mountain coach knows exactly where he can find Dubois at 8 a.m. Thanksgiving morning.

"He'll be playing with the alumni [on the green] in Walpole. That game has been going on since before the year 2000 and many a proud alumni show up and play every year," St. Pierre predicted.

Dubois confirmed he would be there. "I spend up to two weeks a year in the area," Dubois told us, adding, "and the Thanksgiving game is one thing I always look forward to."

The St. Joseph's coach is a family man. He loves visiting his parents in Acworth, his sister in Claremont, and speaks highly of "my wonderful girlfriend of six years, who came to join me from California."

I have digressed enough, but now it's time to mention how Dubois' team was eliminated from this year's NCAA Tournament when they tied Tufts 0-0 after two overtimes. True soccer fans know what comes next. Penalty kicks.

So, St. Joseph's gets to the second round of the NCAA Tournament with a 14-0-2 regular season. They sweep their conference tournament's three games by a 8-0 count, defeat Mitchell in their opening NCAA match 2-1, giving up their first goal of the season in the process, and then in the Tufts game lose 4-2 on penalty kicks. Again, they give up only one goal all season.

"It's heartbreaking," Dubois told me. "You don't lose a game all season and give up only one goal, and you are done for the season. I never, never could of dreamt up anything like that. We went toe to toe with Tufts for however many rounds it was and had to lose like that. We had a good year last year and went to the NCAA Tournament and now we had another spectacular year, broke NCAA records, and still had this ending. We weren't trying to simulate last year, but in the end we passed it."

St. Pierre felt as bad as his pupil. He said, "I guess there are no moral victories at that level. Adrian has always been special in the sport. He grew up playing club ball, where he had to play a role among many talented players. Then he played for us, where his expectations were personally higher. The two scenarios made for a dual role, which made him better. His parents were tremendously dedicated to his growth. When I first went to watch him in middle school, he was good, but nobody could have predicted the level he went to play at."

I asked Dubois if he had taken the opportunity as yet to allow himself to think about how far the program had come under his leadership and how special the recently completed season actually was? His answer was about what I expected.

"I'm a big picture guy. Maybe it is one of my downfalls, but I don't give myself a lot of time to reflect. Maybe some time I should stop and allow myself to smell the roses. I am always looking at the big picture and am ready to move on to what's next," he offered.

When I told St. Pierre what Dubois said, the long time coach replied, "He doesn't need to stop and smell the roses. That is his special sauce. When it comes time to give it up, then he can stop, and by then those roses will smell really good."

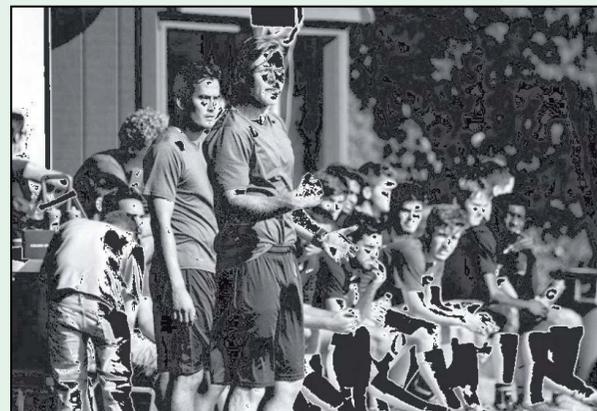

Adrian Dubois is a thinker.

Meet the author of “The Grafton Cavaliers”

GRAFTON, Vt. - Thomas Fontaine will discuss his new children's historical novel, “The Grafton Cavaliers,” at a special Meet the Author program Dec. 2 at 2 p.m. in the Grafton Public Library, Main St., Grafton, Vt.

The new Civil War book, written for the sixth grade level reader, was created to help bring children in contact with history in their local area. It is based on two real Grafton college students. Samuel Pettengill (Middlebury College) and Wilder Burnap (Dartmouth College) who took a leave of absence from their colleges to answer President Lincoln's call for men to join the Union Army and help protect Washington from the advancing Confederates.

The book is written about real Vermont people, and uses factual, historical information, and photographs from the Grafton Historical Society museum archives. The appendix includes descriptive lists of Civil War soldiers, battles, and terms used in the war.

At the December event, Fontaine will discuss these people and history of Grafton in the Civil War period, and how he tries to relate this history to students. The author has been a Vermont teacher for 30 years. He wanted to write a history novel that would be a useful tool for teaching Civil War history in the classroom in an interesting narrative to which children could relate. He wanted it to be exciting to read, grade level appropriate, and capture the drama of history. His first book, published last year, was “The Messenger Boy of Grafton.” It portrays the experience of one of Grafton's teens, Henry Spring, as a messenger boy in the Civil War.

His second book, “The Cavaliers,” follows the adventures of two other young Grafton residents, Pettengill and Burnap, who joined the only cavalry unit in the Union Army composed of college students from Dartmouth, Middlebury, Norwich, Bowdoin, Union, Williams, and Amherst. These 81 cadets took part in what was one of the most

The Meet the Author event is open to the public and children are welcome to attend. For further information about the program, contact the Grafton Historical Society at 802-843-2584 or grafhist@vermontel.net.

Apple Blossom Cotillion Queens and children participants

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. - High school senior girls in the communities served by Springfield Hospital and Springfield Medical Care Systems (SMCS) are invited to participate in the 62nd annual Apple Blossom Cotillion. One of them will join the select group of Apple Blossom Queens. This special community event continues to be both a unique tradition and a rite of passage for area young people. Girls present themselves with and without their escorts and are interviewed by a panel of judges. This year's cotillion is on Friday and Saturday, May 4 and 5.

The director of the 2018 cotillion is Madison Moreau. While relatively new to the local area, she has been studying and teaching dance for more than 15 years. Her choreographic pieces were featured at Hampshire College, where she was a student, and she worked for the Basketball Hall of Fame as a choreographer. She also volunteered with the Good Company Theater, a non-profit community organization in Granby, Conn., before moving to Springfield, Vt.

The master of ceremonies for the 18th consecutive year is Larry Kraft, director of Development for SMCS.

Elementary school children in grades kindergarten through 4th are invited to participate in the 62nd annual Apple Blossom Cotillion, presented by Springfield Hospital and Springfield Medical Care Systems. These young performers, always a popular feature of the show, are introduced in couples, just like the high school participants and escorts, and they perform singing and dancing numbers. Children should apply in couples

— a girl and her male escort — just like the high school participants. Elementary school couples who submit a completed application by the due date of Dec. 4 are eligible to participate unless the number of applicants exceeds the capacity of the production. In that case, a random drawing will be held on Dec. 7 to determine the participants.

An orientation for all parents and participants, including elementary school, is on Sunday, Jan. 7 at 1 p.m. at Dressel Gymnasium at Riverside Middle School. Weekly rehearsals for high school couples start immediately after that orientation. Rehearsals for elementary school participants start on Sunday, Feb. 25 from 3 - 4 p.m.

Applications are available at www.springfieldmed.org and at area schools. Applications must be received by Dec. 4. Parents who would like their children to participate may obtain an application form from the Springfield Hospital Development office, 802-885-7644, or lkraft@springfieldmed.org.

Proceeds from the event are used for the Dr. E Sherburne Lovell Health Career Award to benefit Springfield Hospital and the ten community health centers of SMCS.

For information, call Larry Kraft, 885-7644, or lkraft@springfieldmed.org.

RAMParts presents Stephen Sondheim's "Follies"

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt. - RAMParts Presents, in partnership with the National Theatre of London, brings the legendary Sondheim musical, "Follies," to the comfort of the Bellows Falls Opera House on Sunday, Dec. 10 at 1 p.m.

It's New York, 1971. There's a party on the stage of the Weismann Theatre. Tomorrow the iconic building will be demolished. Thirty years after their final performance, the Follies girls gather to have a few drinks, sing a few songs, and lie about themselves. This is a Vaudeville Broadway reunion marked with sadness and regret, lost youth and second chances.

Sondheim's homage to Old Broadway takes place on a lavish set designed by Vicki Mortimer, who created "a crumbling Broadway theater — its brick walls half-bulldozed, its stalls swallowed by rubble — it lets old ghosts mingle with lost souls and becomes much, much more than a mere memory play. Instead, it grows into something far more profound — a philosophical meditation on the passage of time and the agonies of aging," according to Variety.

Tracie Bennett, Janie Dee, and Imelda Staunton play the magnificent Follies in this dazzling new production. Featuring a cast of 37 and an orchestra of 21, it's directed by Dominic Cooke (The Comedy of Errors). Musical standards from the show include such classics as "Broadway Baby," "The Road You Didn't Take," "Could I Leave You?," "I'm Still Here" and "Live, Laugh, Love."

The original Broadway production opened in 1971 and was directed by Harold Prince and Michael Bennett, who also served as choreographer. The show was nominated for Grammy, Olivier, and eleven Tony Awards, going on to win seven.

Robert McBride, director of the Rockingham Arts & Museum Project, is expanding arts programming locally by making it accessible in cost and availability. "Not everyone is able to afford travel to a city to see art exhibitions or Broadway shows. A trip can easily cost over $100 per person in travel and ticket expense and becomes a barrier to the art experience. By creating the RAMParts ticketing platform and partnering with the Opera House, we are removing this barrier to create unique, spectacular offerings right here in Bellows Falls."

Tickets for Follies are on sale now through the RAMParts ticketing platform, www.rampartstickets.com. Doors open at 12:30 p.m., show at 1 p.m. Seating is general admission. The show is 2 hours, 15 minutes without intermission. Contact Susan MacNeil at 603-313-0052 or email susan@svidol.com for more information.

Fall foods abundant for wildlife and the 2018 calendar

REGION – Vermont Fish & Wildlife is reporting that several important fall foods for wildlife were abundant this year.

“Fish & Wildlife staff surveyed 27 mast stands around the state in late September and early October and found that beechnut counts were excellent, with the highest numbers recorded since 1998,” said State Wildlife Biologist Forrest Hammond. “They also found abundant deer and bear sign in the beech stands.”

Hammond said acorn production was found to be good in oak stands, and mountain ash berries were very abundant at high elevations. He added that apples were available at high numbers early, but that most had fallen by late October.

The Vermont Fish & Wildlife Department and Vermont Life Magazine have also announced the release of the colorful 2018 Fish & Wildlife Calendar. Filled with stunning photos of Vermont’s wildlife, including moose, chestnut-sided warbler, Atlantic salmon, hooded merganser, and whitetail deer, the calendar includes photos by many well-known Vermont photographers including Roger Irwin, Jim Block, and Kurt Budliger.

“This year’s calendar highlights the diverse habitats that ensure that Vermont’s wildlife continue to thrive,” said Susan Warner, Vermont Fish & Wildlife’s director of outreach and education. “The fish and wildlife calendar is a yearlong celebration of Vermont’s commitment to conservation.”

The calendar includes hunting, fishing, and trapping season dates for each month, along with beautiful photography. It makes the perfect gift for any outdoor recreationist.

Vermont Fish & Wildlife calendars can be ordered online from Vermont Life’s website at www.VermontLifeCatalog.com or by phone 1-800-455-3399.

Christmas trees available in the Green Mountain National Forest

REGION – U.S. Forest Service officials in Vermont are encouraging the public to purchase Christmas tree removal permits should they be interested in a tree for the holidays. This year, all fourth graders can take advantage of the Every Kid in a Park Initiative and get a free

Christmas tree voucher found here www.everykidinapark.gov. Fourth graders that present a printed copy of the voucher may redeem it for an EKIP pass and a Christmas tree removal permit at one of the U.S. Forest offices listed below. This is a one-time opportunity to cut down a Christmas tree on national forest land during the 2017 holiday season. Christmas trees for personal use may be cut on the Green Mountain National Forest, subject to the following conditions:

A “Christmas Tree Removal” permit must be purchased at one of the Forest Service offices located in Rutland, Manchester Center, or Rochester, Vt. The permit must be attached to the tree before transporting it from the site where it was cut.

The permit holder is responsible for knowing that the tree comes from Forest Service land. Maps are available when you purchase your permit. Trees over 20 feet tall are not designated for cutting by the Christmas tree permit. The height of the tree stump left after a tree has been cut should be six inches or less above the soil.

Christmas trees shall not be cut in active timber sales, wilderness areas, campgrounds, picnic areas, or within 25 feet of any Forest Service, town, or state maintained road. Only one Christmas tree permit will be issued per household per year. Permits are not refundable.

The U.S. Forest Service manages 193 million acres of public land, provides assistance to state and private landowners, and maintains the largest forestry research organization in the world. Public lands the Forest Service manages contribute more than $13 billion to the economy each year through visitor spending alone. Those same lands provide 20 percent of the nation’s clean water supply, a value estimated at $7.2 billion per year. Crows Bakery & Opera House Cafe
73 Depot Street, Proctorsville, Vt.
802-226-7007
www.crowsbakeryandcafe.com
www.facebook.com/crowsbakerycafe

Owners George and Robin Timko have lived in Cavendish for almost 40 years and are proud that their café serves as a popular gathering spot. Crows Corner Bakery opened in 1998 and moved from their corner location to the old opera house building in 2003 and was renamed Crows Bakery and Opera House Café. "After 19 years, we still really love what we've created with the help of all the employees who have worked for us. Every employee has brought something new to the bakery," owner Robin Timko explained.

From the beginning, Robin Timko had a dream of having a children's corner full of books and toys in the bakery, which quickly became a focal point for young visitors. Over the last 19 years, newer toys and books have been added, not just by employees but by customers as well.

The family-friendly café serves breakfast and lunch made from whole, fresh ingredients, many of which are organically and locally produced. Ingredients include King Arthur Flour, Grafton Village Cheese, and Mountain Grove coffee. Community products such as honey and maple syrup are also sold at the café.

The bakery features breads, pastries, and pies along with daily specials. There are also gluten-free muffins and other tasty baked goods. With the holidays approaching, Timko is preparing the holiday special Yule Logs, which is a chiffon cake, made with chocolate butter cream and ganache. It's decorated with festive meringue mushrooms, chocolate bark, frosted lichen, and holly.

Timko also takes orders for made-from-scratch "budget-friendly" wedding cakes and cakes for all special occasions.

The Crows Bakery & Opera House Cafe is open Tuesday through Thursday from 6:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Friday and Saturday from 6:30 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Sunday from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Your holiday planning might have to take a back seat for a bit so that you can handle a problem with a friend or family member. Your schedule resumes by the 9th.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Relationships in general benefit during the early part of the week, including in the workplace. Also expect some overdue changes in a personal situation.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) "Prudence" should be your watchword this week. Best not to be too open about some of the things that are currently happening in your life.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Money is on your mind, so you'd best mind how you're spending it. Take another look at that holiday budget and see where you can make adjustments.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Resolving to revive an old friendship could open some old wounds. Are you sure you want to risk that? Think this through before making a commitment.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Your need to know more about a new friend could lead to some startling revelations. Best advice: Keep an open mind about what you learn until all the facts are in.

BORN THIS WEEK: Your loyalty to friends makes you a very special person to those whose lives you've touched.

© 2017 King Features Synd., Inc.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You've let yourself be distracted from what's really important. But love finally gets your attention this week. However, it comes with a challenge that could create a problem.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Be careful not to bully others into following your lead. Best advice: Persuade, don't push, and you'll get the cooperation you need to move forward with your plans.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Resist the urge to gloat now that you've proved your detractors wrong. Instead, charm them back into your circle. Remember: A former foe can become your best ally.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) You might want to claim all the credit for making this holiday season special. But is it worth producing a lot of hurt feelings by rejecting offers of help? Think about it.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Ignore a co-worker's questionable behavior. Instead, put your energy into making your own project special. Then sit back and purr over your well-deserved applause.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) You might not want to accept those suggested changes in your workplace. But don't chuck them out before you check them out. You could be happily surprised.

essay contest

Bernie Sanders announces essay contest for high school students on pressing issues in the U.S.

REGION - As President Trump prepares to give his State of the Union speech to a joint session of Congress early next year, Sanders is inviting Vermont high school students to describe what they think are the most pressing issues facing the United States and what they would do to solve them.

"Our students are the future of our country and they must be involved in the discussion about where our nation needs to go," said Sanders, who serves on the Senate education committee. "It doesn't matter what issues students write about, or what positions they take. What matters is that young Vermonters are engaged, and thinking about the future of our country. That's what democracy is all about."

A panel of Vermont teachers will judge the 250-500 word essays based on the students' ability to describe the issue and proposed solution. The finalists will have their essays entered into the Congressional Record - the official archive of the U.S. Senate and House of Representatives. Sanders will also hold a roundtable discussion with the finalists.

The deadline to submit an essay is Wednesday, Jan. 10, 2018. For more information, go to www.sanders.senate.gov/stateoftheunion/.

How does a 401(k) plan work?

REGION - With a 401(k) plan, you elect either to receive cash payments from your employer immediately, or defer receipt of a portion of that income to the plan. The amount you defer isn't currently included in your income; it's made with pretax dollars. Consequently, your federal taxable income that year is reduced. And the deferred portion isn't taxed to you until you receive payments from the plan.

You may also be able to make Roth contributions to your 401(k) plan. Roth 401(k) contributions are made on an after-tax basis, just like Roth IRA contributions. Unlike pretax contributions to a 401(k) plan, there's no up-front tax benefit, but qualified distributions from a Roth 401(k) account are entirely free from federal income tax.

When can I contribute? In general, a 401(k) plan can make you wait up to a year before you're eligible to contribute. But many plans don't have a waiting period at all, allowing you to contribute beginning with your first paycheck.

Some 401(k) plans provide for automatic enrollment once you've satisfied the plan's eligibility requirements. If you've been automatically enrolled in your 401(k) plan, make sure to check that your assigned contribution rate and investments are appropriate for your circumstances.

You can contribute up to $18,000 of your pay ($24,000 if you're age 50 or older) to a 401(k) plan in 2017. You can split your contribution between pretax and Roth contributions any way you wish.

Your participation in a 401(k) plan has no impact on your ability to contribute to an IRA. You can contribute up to $5,500 to an IRA in 2017, $6,500 if you're age 50 or older.

What are the tax consequences? When you make pretax 401(k) contributions, you don't pay current income taxes on those dollars. But your contributions and investment earnings are fully taxable when you receive a distribution from the plan.

In contrast, Roth 401(k) contributions are subject to income taxes up front, but qualified distributions of your contributions and earnings are entirely free from federal income tax. In general, a distribution from your Roth 401(k) account is qualified only if it satisfies both of the following requirements: it's made after the end of a five-year waiting period and the payment is made after you turn 59.5, become disabled, or die.

The five-year waiting period for qualified distributions starts with the year you make your first Roth contribution to the 401(k) plan. Each nonqualified distribution is deemed to consist of a pro-rata portion of your tax-free contributions and taxable earnings.

What about employer contributions? Your employer can match your Roth contributions, your pretax contributions, or both. But your employer's contributions are always made on a pretax basis, even if they match your Roth contributions.

Should I make pretax or Roth contributions? If you think you'll be in a similar or higher tax bracket when you retire, Roth 401(k) contributions may be more appealing, since you'll effectively lock in today's lower tax rates. However, if you think you'll be in a lower tax bracket when you retire, pretax 401(k) contributions may be more appropriate. Your investment horizon and projected investment results are also important factors. A financial professional can help you determine which course is appropriate for you.

What happens when I terminate employment? Generally, you forfeit all contributions that haven't vested. Vesting means that you own the contributions.

Your contributions, pretax and Roth, are always 100 percent vested. But your 401(k) plan may generally require up to six years of service before you fully vest in employer matching contributions.

When you terminate employment, you can generally take a distribution, leave your money in your 401(k) plan until the plan's normal retirement age, or you can roll your dollars over tax free to an IRA or to another employer's retirement plan that accepts rollovers.

- Each individual's tax situation is unique; therefore, please consult your tax professional to confirm vehicle depreciation deduction and tax benefits. For more details, visit www.irs.gov.
- For vehicles that qualify as passenger automobiles under the Internal Revenue Code, there is a $11,560 per-vehicle depreciation deduction cap for certain SUVs, trucks, and vans placed in service during 2017.
- For vehicles that qualify as sport utility vehicles, including certain trucks and vans, under the Internal Revenue Code, the maximum amount that may be expensed is $25,000 of the total purchase price. The $25,000 expense cap contributes to the $510,000 dollar limit and $2,030,000 investment limit under Section 179.
- The tax incentives are available for depreciable tangible property that is acquired by purchase for use in the active conduct of a trade or business. Additional limitation based on purchases. For the 2017 tax year, the aggregate deduction of $510,000 under Internal Revenue Code Section 179 is most beneficial to small businesses that place in service no more than $2,030,000 of Section 179 property during the year. For every dollar spent on Section 179 property in excess of the overall limit of $2,030,000, the $510,000 expense-tax deduction decreases by a dollar. Certain vehicles, models, and restrictions apply. Consult your tax professional for details.
