Jan. 3 – CAES principal Katherine Fogg grateful for her students to be back home

CHESTER, Vt. – The year 2019 is off to a great start, at least according to Chester-Andover Elementary School Principal Katherine Fogg. Fogg, along with her team of teachers and other staffers and some 240 elementary school-aged children are finally back in their rightful school building as of Jan. 3, 2019, after a trying start to the school year.

Jan. 14 – Plans progress to ensure healthcare services for the Springfield region

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. – Members of the Springfield Medical Care Systems and Springfield Hospital boards of directors met with Gov. Phil Scott and several members of his team early Monday, Jan. 14, to address SMCS’ financial challenges. The meeting was constructive and it was clear that significant work lies ahead for the health system, which must be accomplished in a very short period of time.

Jan. 20 – Viral Angelo’s bachelor party lives up to the hype

LUDLOW, Vt. – Angelo Onello and his bachelor party were thrust into the national spotlight after Will Novak from Arizona, having erroneously received an email invitation to Angelo’s bachelor party from Angelo’s brother Devin, responded that, although he didn’t know Angelo or much about skiing, he was coming. The group countered with a real invitation. The plan? Skiing at Okemo Mountain Resort in Ludlow, Vt.

Jan. 27 – Postal Service hikes price of Forever stamps

REGION – If you happen to buy Forever stamps after Sunday, Jan. 27, you may have noticed the price rose from 50 to 55 cents. The rise in stamp prices come as a result of a $3.9 billion loss in revenue reported in the U.S. Postal Service’s fiscal year 2018. The Associated Press reports that the 10 percent increase in the Forever stamp price is the biggest increase in total cents in the history of the Postal Service.

Feb. 12 – Springfield Hospital CEO looks for community support as cuts move forward

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. – As Springfield Hospital and Springfield Medical Care Systems continue to look for ways to cut $6.5 million in annualized expenses, the way back to viability will largely depend on the support from the community. Halstead has had to make some tough decisions in recent weeks, cutting 27 staff positions and instituting across the board salary reductions of 10% for salaried workers and 4% for hourly workers, which goes into effect Feb. 24. Cuts in staffing focused primarily on non-patient care areas in administration, managers, and supervisors in order to ensure that excellent patient care remained a top priority.

Feb. 26 – BRISC launches capital campaign, next hurdle to finalize location

LUDLOW, Vt. – The Black River Independent School Committee has seen a positive early response to their newly launched capital campaign. Of the 350 letters sent out, BRISC has received 25-30 percent response rate in the first week, with donations totaling over $6,000. Although the letters asked specifically for a $15-dollar contribution, donations have ranged from $15 to $100 dollars with a few hitting the $1,000 mark. This is good news for BRISC, whom worked with a consultant to help them organize how to approach their fundraising as they look to secure at least $300,000 in start-up costs.

Tierney quarry garners various community opinions

BY SHARON HUNTLEY
The Vermont Journal

CAVENDISH, Vt. – The ongoing battle between neighbors on Tierney Road concerning a proposed quarry spans nearly three years, dozens of meetings, numerous court proceedings, and over $100,000 in legal fees.

In the spring of 2016, Justin and Maureen Savage purchased approximately 177 acres at the end of Tierney Road, the same site where, 10 years earlier, a quarry proposed by McLean Enterprises had been defeated by Cavendish citizens after a three-year battle. Later that year, discussion began with Jason Snow of Snowstone LLC to purchase a .64 parcel of land along with a .29 right-of-way for the express purpose of quarrying stone.

At that point, word began to circulate about a possible proposed quarry. In early March of 2017, Jason Snow and the Savages met with a group of Tierney Road residents to discuss their plan for a quarry at the top of the road. According to several of the meeting attendees, Snow and the Savages agreed to submit a written disclosure about the proposed quarry to the group of residents but failed to do so.

According to the Savages, their intention was to sell this single parcel of land for quarrying by a small stone quarry operation, Snowstone, using minimal hand tools and a small landscaping truck. That stone would be removed over several years but that no further quarrying would be done.

In June of 2017, the Cavendish Selectboard met and discussed the proposed stone quarry. They scheduled an informational meeting on the subject later in the month. However, at that meeting approximately two weeks later, the Savages did not speak or provide any information and Jason Snow did not attend. The Selectboard agreed to ask the state to take a regulatory position on whether the quarry proposed by Snowstone was subject to Act 250.

It was around this time in late June 2017 that a group of 22 neighbors hired legal representation to fight the quarry. According to several members of the Tierney neighbors group, in September 2017, there was a site visit with residents, their attorneys, and William Burke of the Natural Resources Board.

In October of 2017, Burke issued a jurisdictional opinion that based on the arrangement between the Savages and Snow, the quarry project falls under the original proposal was “to evade Act. 250.” Snowstone then filed an appeal in November of 2017.

The primary contention of the neighbors group has been that the quarry proposal was designed with a parcel under an acre in order to intentionally evade oversight by Act 250, and the Savages would continue to quarry subsequent small parcels, “postage stamping” their way through their land. This contention was supported by an evidentiary hearing May 17 in front of Vermont Superior Court Environmental Division.

During the deposition, Jason Snow was asked, “So you were aware of the potential applicability of Act 250 from the very beginning of your discussions with Mr. Savage, correct?”

His answer was “Yes.” “So you structured a deal you though would get around those requirements?”

He again replied, “Yes.” Testimony by Justin Savage during the same deposition suggested further development. When asked, “Is there a chance in the future that you’re going to sit down and negotiate with somebody else for development of other stone quarrying parcels on your land,” his response was, “Have to see what the offer is.”

According to Kem Phillips, one of the neighbors opposing the quarry, “When this first came up, we were given to believe that this was just going to be one acre, a couple years, and it would be over – this was his word. Now [Savage] says under oath that he might take other offers.”

Kem’s wife, Svetlana Phillips, said that she initially opposed the quarry because they didn’t have enough information, but now she opposes the quarry because she found out through litigation and the testimony of Snow and Savage that this is going to be a bigger operation. “I want the residents of Cavendish to know that this might happen and be the same situation as the McLeans,” she said.

Maureen Savage maintains that they have no intention of developing a quarry beyond their initial parcel, and that misinformation has been spread about her family to support the neighbors cause to stop their efforts. Savage feels strongly about supporting small Vermont business and maintains that they are proposing nothing illegal, and they are doing nothing wrong. “The fear and the facts are two very different things,” she said.

In a recent development, Bruce and Linda Watson, also part of the opposing neighborhood group, grieved their 2018 taxes, citing the proposed quarry as a reason for the devaluation of their property. They won their grievance and were refunded $982 from the town of Cavendish.

After conferring with legal counsel in November of this year, the Cavendish Selectboard and Town Manager Brendan McNamara made the decision not to appeal the decision, which could open the town up to additional tax grievances on and around Tierney Road for the same reason. Several of their neighbors have said that they intend to grieve their taxes as well for 2020, largely to force the town to acknowledge and take a stand on the issue.

Maureen Savage responded to the Selectboard’s decision with a letter to the editor in surrounding papers, saying she was truly disappointed in the actions of the Cavendish Selectboard not to pursue the tax appeal with the state. She also reiterated the intention of the scope of their quarry proposal, split-stone using only hand tools and then moving it offsite for further processing if needed.

“Regarding Watson’s tax appeal decision, there are many incorrect statements and assumptions. It’s clear the state assessor was lied to by Mr. Watson and took his word as fact without confirming it,” she said.

Kem Phillips then attended the December 2019 Cavendish Selectboard meeting to read a prepared response to Savage’s published letter, disputing her claims on the scale and scope of the project.

Savage was also in attendance and responded they had offered to “deed restrict” their property.

Since that meeting, the CCCA, the nonprofit group that was established when the town was fighting the initial McLean quarry, provided a statement to McNamara to read at the next Selectboard meeting. In it, they recommend that if there is a willingness to legally restrict the property from further quarry development, that all concerned parties meet to do so.

According to their letter, they state: “As you know, we are an organization that was founded on principles of conservation and the importance of quality of life, clean air, water, healthy woodland and related issues. The current quarry proposal, because it does not require an Act 250 permit, has in fact no enforceable restrictions regarding blasting, water use, number of truck loads per day, noise etc. While Justin, Maureen, and Jason did not need to ask for a jurisdictional opinion, they did, which shows a choice for responsible action. It would seem, based on this choice, that they would be willing to meet with parties involved, Tierney Road people, the town, CCCA, and others to form a legally and binding agreement about the parameters of the operation, which would then be enforceable. This is what the CCCA would recommend.”

Savage said she and her husband were “willing to sit down,” but admitted it would be challenging since “there’s been so much that’s happened.” According to her, there has been additional legal issues that have arisen with neighbors, personal attacks, and lies spread about her family. “There would have to be serious negotiations,” she said.

According to McNamara, the town’s hands are tied unless Act 250 is called into play on the project, since the town has no zoning laws. He said that the issue of changing zoning has been brought up a few times in the past and defeated twice. “The issue is status quo at this point,” he said.

In the meantime, the issue is still in the courts. A stormwater discharge permit was issued to Snowstone LLC in June 2019. An appeal is pending.

Condos announces 2020 presidential candidates

MONTPELIER, Vt. – Vermont Secretary of State Jim Condos announced the list of candidates who have qualified to appear on the ballot for the 2020 Presidential Primary Elections. In order to appear on the ballot, candidates must file a petition signed by 1,000 registered Vermont voters with the Vermont Secretary of State.

“With the March 3 Presidential Primary elections and Town Meeting Day right around the corner, I want to encourage every Vermont voter to make sure that they are registered and ready to vote on or before Election Day,” said Secretary Condos.

The list of qualifying candidates who have filed to appear on the ballot for the March 3 Presidential Primary Elections can be found on the Secretary of State’s website. Candidates had until 5 p.m. Monday, Dec. 16 to file. The listing has been finalized, with the exception of one candidate who has been granted supplementary time as per state statute.

Eligible Vermont voters can register any day, including on Election Day, and may register www.olvr.sec.state.vt.us, by mail, or in person at their municipal clerk’s office during regular business hours. Vermont residents who are 17 years old who will turn 18 on or before the Nov. 3, 2020 General Election, who meet the other voter eligibility requirements, are eligible to register and to vote in the March 3 Presidential Primary elections.

Vermont voters can check their registration status, update their voter registration information, view their polling place, and request an early or absentee ballot at www.mvp.sec.state.vt.us. Early voting in Vermont starts no later than 45 days before Election Day.

Secretary Condos also issued the following words of caution for the upcoming elections: “In the age of increasing disinformation and misinformation on social media, I want to remind Vermont voters to look to official sources for election information. As our foreign adversaries seek to divide us using social media disinformation campaigns designed to spread chaos and create tension, remember that our elections are the very core of our democracy and that your vote is your voice!”

Applications open for Vermont businesses to vend at Big E

MONTPELIER, Vt. – The Vermont Agency of Agriculture, Food and Markets welcomes applications from Vermont businesses seeking to vend at the Vermont Building at the Eastern States Exposition, located in West Springfield, Mass., from Sept. 18 through Oct. 4, 2020. Help grow your Vermont business and the state economy with this special opportunity at the Vermont Building to reach a larger market.

The Vermont Building is one of six New England buildings on the Avenue of the States at the Big E, a 17-day fair and exposition that takes place each September. During this event, which brings in approximately 1.5 million people each year, the Vermont Building is home to a variety of Vermont food and retail businesses, which showcase the best of what Vermont has to offer.

VAAFM Secretary Anson Tebbetts said, “The Vermont Building at the Big E truly shows the best of Vermont’s traditional and innovative products, highlighting the high quality of Vermont’s food, beverage, and retail goods that are part of our working landscape.”

The Vermont Building at the Big E hosts approximately 28 vendors each year. Booth spaces are offered for both retail and food and beverage products. There are spaces for the entirety of the 17-day fair and for 8-9 day rotating spots. While most booths are inside, there are additional spaces on the grounds for products deemed an appropriate fit.

VAAFM has identified the following priorities for products at the Vermont Building for 2020:

- Vermont-sourced ingredients or materials,
- prepared foods not requiring a hood for ventilation,
- savory food products, and
- products that align with current regional and national trends.

Any business or organization will be considered eligible that is registered with the Vermont Secretary of State, has been in business for over one year, and is in good standing with the state of Vermont. Applications are due Feb. 17, 2020 at 11:59 p.m.

Please find the Request for Application and more information at www.agriculture.vermont.gov/bigevendor.

Mentors celebrate National Mentoring Month

WINDSOR, Vt. – Windsor County Mentors joins in the state and national celebration of youth mentoring during January’s National Mentoring Month.

Windsor County Mentors creates and supports mentoring partnerships between caring adults and Windsor County youth to help children thrive. Mentoring partners share activities, create friendships, and build community connections, guiding children as they develop their sense of self, their interests, and their resilience in the face of the challenges youth face today.

The impacts of mentoring are powerful. Young people who have had mentors achieve higher academic and career goals, are less likely to engage in risky behaviors, develop a stronger sense of community and self-esteem, and are more likely to volunteer to help others than their peers who have not had mentors. These mentoring impacts are the results of having adults in their lives who care, who listen and guide, who share experiences with them, and who give them a sense of belonging.

As part of our National Mentoring Month initiative, Windsor County Mentors has partnered with public libraries throughout Windsor County to provide written information about mentoring and opportunities to learn more about our programs. Library patrons may find this information at their local library branches. Special mentoring information events will be scheduled regionally.

Windsor County Mentors

will join in MENTOR Vermont’s celebration at the State House Jan. 22, 2020, where they will be part of the gathering of parents, mentors, mentees, legislators, and program representatives from across the state of Vermont. Gov. Phil Scott will be a special guest at this celebration. More details about the event and the statewide activities that mark National Mentoring Month will be available in January at www.mentorvt.org.

Nathaniel Fullerton

Last week I wrote some on the subject of antique photography. That article was about ambrotypes. In that article, I mentioned the ambrotype was replaced with the tintype in the 1860s.

The Tintype
Tintypes were a very inexpensive process. They tend to be dark and not as clear as the albumen. With these two Nathaniel Fullerton photos side by side, you can see the differences. Tintypes enjoyed the longest run of all the antique photographs. They were still in use in the 1920s in amusement parks.

A tintype is not tin but a thin iron sheet. When treated with the collodion process and inserted into the camera, they would result in an image within minutes.

The albumen
The albumen is my favorite photograph. They are not dark like the tintype and are much sharper. In the 1860s, a basic CDV as you see here would cost 25 cents. The tintype would have cost 10 to 15 cents.

Another advantage of the albumen is that they are a paper photograph. This enabled people to write a name on the reverse of the photo. Tintypes being black metal, neither ink nor pencil would adhere to the metal. Seldom does a tintype have any history with it.

Albumens were a glass negative that produced positive images. Many photos could be produced from the glass negative. Tintypes were the negative and the only one produced.

Nathaniel Fullerton
Nathaniel Fullerton was born in 1775. He was a prominent citizen in Chester in the banking business. He was president of the Bellows Falls National Bank. When he died in 1872 at the age of 97, he had the distinction of being the oldest bank president in this country.

Many will know the home his son Frederick Fullerton built on Main Street in Chester. This is the yellow mansion where Jerry Stewart lives today. I find this home mentioned in his day as "The Fullerton Mansion." It certainly is the finest Victorian home in Chester. Nothing else comes close. The Fullertons are buried in Brookside Cemetery.

A.S. Hayward
A.S. Hayward is Albert Steven Hayward. I've been aware of Hayward's photographs for years but never knew much about him. Peter Farrar and I have been researching Hayward.

Hayward moved around quite a bit. We found him in Londonderry and then Ludlow. For a while, he was in Proctorsville working as a photographer using the albumen process. He then moved to Chester where he continued the albumen process. I've seen more of his Chester photos than his Proctorsville photos. Over the years, I've picked up a few of his Chester and Proctorsville photos. Thanks to Ted Spaulding, the Chester Historical Society now has a couple more Hayward photos to add to those we had.

We have a number of questions we have yet to answer. Where did Hayward receive his training in photography? His photos are more thoughtfully arranged than his country peers. I've always thought he was trained by an urban photographer.

As you look at the photo with this article, ask yourself which process you would choose? I think most will agree the albumen is best. The pose in the albumen is not straight on as it is in the tintype. In the albumen, Fullerton poses at a slight angle.

I'm known by many Vermont and New Hampshire antiques dealers as a buyer of most anything Chester. It was probably 15 years ago I was offered the two photos you see with this article. They were found in a Victorian photo album where they had not seen the light of day since they were taken. This accounts for their like-new condition.

Another thing worth mentioning about Hayward is the red border he used to frame his photographs. Almost without exception, photographers of his day used a gold border, not red. To my knowledge, Hayward is the only Vermont photographer who used a red border.

Over the years, I have examined thousands of these photos. I have only seen a handful of CDVs with a red border from other New England photographers. I have seen one green border.

Understanding the Net Investment Income Tax

REGION – If your income hits a certain level, you may face an additional wrinkle in calculating your taxes: the net investment income tax – also referred to as the unearned income Medicare contribution tax. This 3.8% Medicare tax applies to some or all of your net investment income if your modified adjusted gross income exceeds certain thresholds. The tax is in addition to any other income tax applicable to such income.

In general, the net investment income tax applies to U.S. individual taxpayers – similar rules apply to certain domestic trusts and estates.

Calculation of net investment income tax

The net investment income tax is equal to 3.8% of the lesser of (a) your net investment income or (b) the excess of your MAGI over:

- $200,000 if your filing status is single or head of household
- $250,000 if your filing status is married filing jointly or qualifying widow(er) with dependent child
- $125,000 if your filing status is married filing separately

For purposes of the net investment income tax, MAGI is generally equal to your adjusted gross income. However, if you are a U.S. citizen or resident living abroad, you must include in MAGI the foreign earned income that is generally excludable from gross income for federal income tax purposes.

Net investment income
Net investment income includes gross income from interest, dividends, nonqualified annuities, royalties, and rents that are not derived from the ordinary course of a trade or business, and net gain from the disposition of property not used in a trade or business.

Gross income and net gain from a trade or business may be included in net investment income if the trade or business is a passive activity or engaged in trading financial instruments or commodities.

In general, a passive activity is a trade or business in which you do not materially participate. Rental activities are treated as passive activities regardless of whether you materially participate, but there are certain exceptions.

Net investment income is reduced by any income tax deductions allocable to these items of gross income and net gain that are included in net investment income. Examples of deductible items that may be allocated to net investment income include investment interest expense and state and local income tax. Deductions may be subject to limitations.

Generally, an interest in a partnership or S corporation is not property held for use in a trade or business, and gain or loss from the sale of a partnership interest or S corporation stock is included in net investment income.

Net investment income does not include income excluded from gross income for income tax purposes. It also does not include items of gross income and net gain specifically excluded from net investment income. Examples of excluded items include: wages, unemployment compensation, alimony, Social Security benefits, tax-exempt interest income, income from certain qualified retirement plan and IRA distributions, self-employment income, and gain that is not taxable on sale of a principal residence.

Even though certain items such as wages and income from certain qualified retirement plan and IRA distributions may not be included in net investment income, they may be included in MAGI, which is a factor in determining the amount of net investment income that is subject to the net investment income tax.

Planning for the net investment income tax

For a particular taxable year, the net investment income tax applies only if your MAGI exceeds the appropriate threshold based on your tax filing status. Also, the net investment income tax applies to the lesser of (a) your net investment income or (b) the excess of your MAGI over the appropriate threshold. So you may be able to reduce exposure to the net investment income tax by controlling the timing of items of income or deduction that enter into the calculation of net investment income or MAGI.

For example, you might consider increasing your net investment income in a year in which your MAGI does not exceed the threshold. Conversely, you might consider decreasing your net investment income in a year in which your MAGI exceeds the threshold.

In general, you may be able to increase net investment income in a particular year by pushing income into that year and deductions into another year. Conversely, you may be able to decrease net investment income in a particular year by pushing deductions into that year and income into another year. You will need to consider how increasing or decreasing net investment income affects MAGI.

Ordinary income and long-term capital gains tax rates are generally much higher than the 3.8% Medicare tax rate applicable to net investment income. Planning for the net investment income tax should not be done without considering its effect on the regular income tax.

There is no standard deduction for purposes of determining your net investment income. Itemized deductions are not available for purposes of reducing net investment income unless you itemize deductions for purposes of regular income tax. However, neither standard nor itemized deductions reduce MAGI.

Recordkeeping
Net investment income tax is reported on IRS Form 8960. If you owe net investment income tax, you must attach Form 8960 to your tax return. For purposes of the net investment income tax, certain items of investment income or investment expense receive different tax treatment than for the regular income tax. You will need to keep records for the items included on Form 8960. Generally, you need to keep records for the life of the investment to show how you calculated basis. You also need to know what you did in prior years if the investment was part of a carryback or carryforward.

THIS AND THAT

BY BILL MURPHY

The Vermont Journal & The Shopper

Before the ink was dry on last week’s issue, Green Mountain made a major statement on where their rank was in boys’ area basketball. I had stated that Bellows Falls and Springfield were likely the top two teams in the area because of their new coaches and a senior-laden experienced group. The Chieftains defeated Springfield 66-49 on the second day of their own Holiday Tournament and blew those rankings out of the water. Now, we will take our chances on the girls’ rank and file.

Once again, I believe two teams should separate themselves from the rest of the pack; and this time, I find it really difficult to choose between the two. Springfield and Fall Mountain should be the two teams that advance the furthest. For the sake of making a choice, I tab the Cosmos with the top spot. The Division II Cosmos came out on top in their first two contests against a pair of Division III locals and showed the necessities to take the early fly on them.

Pete Peck’s team opened with a 52-12 triumph over Leland & Gray and then came out on top in a home contest with archrival Bellows Falls 57-45. Unfortunately, those two teams, who have delighted area fans the past two years with their match-ups, will only meet once this season. The Terriers’ move to Division III has removed their second contest from the slate. Obviously, because they are in different divisions, the classic playoff match-up with the large crowd the two schools drew last winter won’t be repeated.

In those first two encounters, Hailey Perham led Springfield in scoring in the opener with 12 and Gabby Wardwell and Meghan Stagner added 8. In the Bellows Falls victory, Wardwell’s 22 led the way, Perham contributed 18, and Stagner 8. Haley Streeter added 8 points of her own versus Bellows Falls. Peck said, “You can’t complain about being 2-0. Bellows Falls is good and was a good early season game for us. I like our group of seven seniors and the underclassmen we have and look forward to the challenges ahead.”

Fall Mountain is 1-1 and will be hosting their own holiday tournament beginning the day after Christmas with the Wildcats in action versus Hillsboro-Deering at 2:30 p.m. Matthew Baird-Torney’s team caught bad breaks the first week of action. First, they lost their opener to weather against Raymond, which forced them to open against New Hampshire Division III favorite Conant.

Bill Murphy predicts girls basketball teams’ success.

That line of bad luck continued when the Wildcats fell into foul trouble right away versus Conant and dropped behind by a bundle. Although Fall Mountain played Conant quite even for about half the game, the early lead prevented them from being really competitive and they lost 66-47. Sophomore Avery Stewart’s 17 points paced Fall Mountain and Sophie Bardis and Makenna Gril-lone added 10 and 7 respectively. Taylor Patch had an impressive game with 7 rebounds, 4 assists, and 3 steals.

The Wildcats were not tested at all in the season’s second game as they thrashed Winnisquam 81-6 in a game, which saw ten Fall Mountain players score. This time Stewart and Bardis netted 15 and 13 respectively, while Grillone and Shea Pickering were also in double figures with 13 and 11. Baird-Torney was “pleased with our depth on display,” in the second game, while mentioning, “Glad we had an early opportunity to see where we need to get to,” regarding the Conant game.

Although Bellows Falls stands at 0-2 with a tough home game versus Windsor taking place as this paper is being printed, don’t be surprised if they put together a strong season.

The schedule maker did the Terriers no favors concerning their start, which saw that open with Division II defending champ Fair Haven on the road and bowing 65-42. The Slaters could be working on a back-to-back scenario. Taylor Goodell led the Terriers in scoring in both games thus far, tallying 13 versus Fair Haven and 20 in the Cosmos game. Halle Dickerson netted 12 in the Fair Haven encounter and Maya Waryas’ 9 supported Goodell’s mark-52-25 defeat in the opener to Twin Valley. Hannah Robinson tallied 9 points in that opening loss and netted 11 in the victory over Black River in the second day of the tourney. Turnovers have been a problem for Green Mountain.

The win over Black River 43-31 could well be the final athletic contest between those two schools, who have been rivals since before any of us were around. Kim Cummings’ 22 points led the scoring parade for the girls from Chester, who had their own high school when the rivalry began.

Black River is presently 0-4 in their final year of competition, but Coach Howie Paul feels, “We are getting better every game, and I think – with the lack of experience we have – played as well as we could against Black River. It was close much of the second half and even Coach Buffum said with a few breaks the game could have been ours.”

Leland & Gray should finish above Black River in area play. The Rebels held their own tournament to open the season, and they split the two games. They advanced to the finals with a one-sided 32-14 triumph over Arlington before they ran into a buzzsaw named Brattleboro 47-14.

Brattleboro won one of the best girls’ games in the Vermont early season in the first round when they nipped Burr & Burton 66-65 on a big hoop at the buzzer. Sydney Hescock had 11 points to pace Coach Terry Merrow’s team in their opener.

“It was a good opener for us, but, playing Brattleboro, we certainly couldn’t match up,” Merrow stated.

Shrine Maple Sugar Bowl N.H. coach announced

LEBANON, N.H. – The Shrine Maple Sugar Bowl Board of Governors is pleased to introduce Coach Tarek Rothe as the 2020 New Hampshire Head Coach. Coach Rothe will lead his team of 38 of New Hampshire’s best senior players into the 67th annual Shrine Maple Sugar Bowl Game, which will be played in the Dave Wolk Stadium at Castleton University Aug. 1, 2020.

Coach Rothe was previously introduced as the New Hampshire head coach for the Shrine team at the New Hampshire Huddle recently. He comes to us from Alvirne High school in Hudson, N.H. where he has been head coach for the last three years. Coach Rothe began his career at Alvirne in 2001, taking a full-time teaching position as a special education teacher just a few years later. He was also the indoor and outdoor track coach for both the girls’ and boys’ teams.

Prior to taking the helm as head coach, he was an assistant for many years in both Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

Coach Rothe was born and raised in Mexico City, Mexico and moved to Massachusetts when his dad’s firm moved to Wilmington. He played on the 1988 State Championship football team at Dracut High School and then onto the University of Lowell until a knee injury forced him out.

Coach Rothe stated, “I’m excited. It’ll give me a chance to coach some of my guys one more time. I was the freshman coach for this group of seniors.”

Because the Shrine game is played the day after his wedding anniversary, he told us, “Of course, I had to talk it over with my wife, but she understood. She told me I couldn’t pass up the opportunity to coach in the game.”

Coach Rothe continued, “I know what the Shrine Game is all about,” and “I’m looking forward to representing New Hampshire in the right way, meeting a lot of new kids and, hopefully, bringing home a win.”

The purpose of the Shrine Maple Sugar Bowl is fundraising for the world’s greatest philanthropy, that of supporting children in need at our Shrine hospitals. The game contributes to three hospitals in our region: Shriners Hospitals for Children in Springfield, Mass. and Montreal, Quebec, Canada in treating orthopedic conditions and our world-renowned burns hospital in Boston. All services are provided regardless of the families’ ability to pay.

The Shrine Maple Sugar Bowl Board of Governors is extremely pleased to have Tarek as our 67th New Hampshire coach. Please visit www.shrinemaplesugarbowl.com for updates to our program after the start of the new year.

Learn to Curl clinic offered in Hartford at Barwood Arena

WHITE RIVER JCT., Vt. – Did you watch the Olympic Curling events on television? Did it look like something you want to explore? Well, the time to check out the sport of curling is now. There are many local people in the Upper Valley who curl regularly, and they want to show you how much fun it is to play the game.

The Upper Valley Curling Club is offering a “Learn to Curl” clinic Tuesday, Jan. 7, from 9:30 a.m. to 12 p.m., at the Barwood Arena in White River Junction, Vt. The clinic is open to anyone interested in learning the sport. The club will provide all of the equipment needed to curl; you just have to wear warm clothing and shoes with non-skid soles. Participants will start with an off-ice introduction to the concepts and rules of the game and then move onto the ice for hands-on instruction.

Space is limited, so interested participants must register in advance at www.uppervalleycurling.org.

The Barwood Arena is located on the grounds of the Hartford High School at 45 Highland Ave. in White River Junction. For more information, go to www.uppervalleycurling.org, or email uppervalleycurling@gmail.com.

Learn to Curl clinic will be held Jan. 7 at the Barwood Arena in Hartford.

Main Street Arts, Historical Society host Fireside Chats

SAXTONS RIVER, Vt. – Main Street Arts and the Saxtons River Historical Society are again pairing for a series of Fireside Chats to highlight the area's history and nature three Sundays in January, from 5:30 to 6:45 p.m., in the dining room of the Saxtons River Inn.

This year's series features talks on early gunsmiths, theater in the area, and Wagyu beef. This series begins Jan. 5 with a talk by Eric Bye of North Springfield, the former editor of Muzzle Blasts magazine, a rendezvous coordinator, a member of the National Muzzle Loading Rifle Association and author of "Flintlocks: A Practical Guide for Their Use and Appreciation." He is the national record holder with flint pistol on NMLRA's Curley Gostomsky National Primitive Range and is an experienced deer and turkey hunter. In his real life, Bye is a translator accredited by the American Translators Association and is fluent in French, Spanish, and German.

His talk will highlight two local gunsmiths: Artemas Leonard of Saxtons River (1804-1859) and Norman Brockway of Bellows Falls (1841-1936). While Leonard was best known locally, Brockway's skill and prowess enjoyed national fame.

The second in the series is Jan. 12 when the topic will be "Rockingham's Love Affair with Theater," featuring actor and theater owner Falko Schilling and Rick Cowan telling the story of theatrics from the 1800s at the Bellows Falls Opera House to more recent productions at the Saxtons River Playhouse, Vermont Academy, and Main Street Arts.

The series concludes Jan. 19 with a talk on the produc-

Eric Bye will talk about early gunsmiths at this year's first Fireside Chat Sunday, Jan. 5 at the Saxtons River Inn.

"Yee Haws and Ha Has" at Claremont Opera House

CLAREMONT, N.H. – On Saturday, Jan. 25 at 8 p.m., comedian Paul D'Angelo and Nashville recording artist Lexi James will be co-headlining a "Yee Haws and Ha Has" event for a night of hilarious stand-up comedy and sensational country music.

Comedian Paul D'Angelo has been headlining A-list comedy clubs around the country for over 30 years, entertaining hundreds of prominent corporate clients and opening for over 60 international stars such as

Aretha Franklin, Ray Charles, The Beach Boys, Chicago, Tony Bennett, and Tom Jones. He co-starred in the Showtime movie, "The Godfathers of Comedy," and is the author of two multiple award-winning books, "Stories I Tell," and its sequel, "More Stories to Tell."

As a New England front-runner in pop country music, singer-songwriter Lexi James has amassed more than 16,000 Facebook fans in her short career. She's toured up and down the Northeast and beyond with her message of feel-good, be yourself lyrics paired with a soulful vocal performance. Lexi James has shared the stage with country legends such as Charlie Daniels Band, Marshall Tucker, and Brad Paisley. She recently released her last record, "Ripple in the Water," in 2018, and in 2019 she expanded her touring and moved to Nashville part-time!

Tickets can be purchased online at www.claremontoperahouse.org, by phone at 603-542-4433, or in person at the Opera House Box Office in City Hall Complex at 58 Opera House Square.

Warm and fuzzy holiday activities

StatePoint – Whether you're braving the cold to find the perfect Hanukah gift or searching high and low for the ideal Christmas tree, there are plenty of opportunities to create special memories with your family this season. And there are ways to make each event a little warmer and fuzzier.

"One of the best things about the holidays is how cozy everything can feel," says Laryssa Grant, women's buyer for national shoe retailer, Rack Room Shoes. "And while it can be a busy time of year, it's important to treat comfort as a priority and slow down to enjoy each moment."

Here are three activities to try this season that can make you feel warm and fuzzy on the inside and outside!

Get snugly

Over-scheduling can put a damper on the holidays. That's why it's important to carve out some quality time to get in the spirit. Give each family member a goodie bag of holiday-themed pajamas and then pop in a holiday movie to spend the evening snuggled up with the people you love.

Make it cozier: Pair the pajamas with shearling-lined or faux fur-lined slippers to ensure everyone's feet stay warm and toasty all night. Cozy, comfortable slippers can also serve as ideal stocking stuffers this holiday season.

Adopt a charity

Set an example for younger generations by adopting a charity for the holidays. Whether you give the gift of your time or money, supporting causes close to your heart can become a cherished family tradition.

Make it cozier: After each family member selects a special charity, set aside time to discuss over a cup of hot chocolate and homemade cookies.

Take a tour of local lights

Check out the lights in your community for a fun and budget-friendly way to get in the holiday spirit. From spectacular light shows to twinkling home displays, take advantage to explore all your area has to offer.

Make it cozier: Change into your pajamas before heading out to see the lights. Everyone will be warm and comfortable on your journey.

Whether it's doing good works or enjoying the sights and sounds of the season, there's no better time of year for creating cozy memories.

Northshire presents “Sing to It” by Amy Hempel

MANCHESTER, Vt. – On Friday, Jan. 10 at 6 p.m., legendary writer Amy Hempel, a master of the short story and one of the most celebrated and original voices in American short fiction, comes to Northshire Bookstore to present “Sing to It,” an “exquisite collection” and a “quiet masterpiece by a true American original.”

Hempel is a master of the short story. A multiple-award winner, Hempel is beloved and highly regarded among writers, reviewers, and readers of contemporary fiction. These 15 exquisitely honed stories reveal Hempel at her most compassionate and spirited, as she introduces characters, lonely and adrift, searching for connection.

In “A Full-Service Shelter,” a volunteer at a dog shelter tirelessly, devotedly cares for dogs on a list to be euthanized. In “Greed,” a spurned wife examines her husband’s affair with a glamorous, older married woman. And in “Cloudland,” the longest story in the collection, a woman reckons with the choice she made as a teenager to give up her newborn infant. Quietly dazzling, these stories are replete with moments of revelation and transcendence and with Hempel’s singular, startling, inimitable sentences.

Amy Hempel is the author of “Sing to It,” “The Collected Stories of Amy Hempel,” “The Dog of the Marriage,” “Tumble Home,” “At the Gates of the Animal Kingdom,” “Reasons to Live,” and the coeditor of “Unleashed.” Her stories have appeared in Harper’s, Vanity Fair, GQ, Tin House, The Harvard Review, The Quarterly, and have been widely anthologized, including “Best American Short Stories” and “The Best Nonrequired Reading.” She teaches in the graduate writing program at Bennington College and at Stony Brook Southampton. She lives near New York City.

Northshire Bookstore is located at 4869 Main Street in Manchester. For more information, call 802-362-2200 or go to www.northshire.com.

Fred Marple humorous Guide to New England

WALPOLE, N.H. – The Walpole Historical Society will present Yankee humorist Fred Marple and his Guide to New England “for locals and people from away” Friday, Jan. 10 at 7 p.m. in the Walpole Town Hall.

Fred will discuss Yankee food, including why we think baked beans and vegetables boiled with a piece of corned beef are fine cooking. He’ll examine Yankee fashion, from the ever-present flannel to rummage sale ensembles. Fred will also explain life in a small

Fletcher Farm School announces Open Art Studio for painting

LUDLOW, Vt. – Fletcher Farm School for the Arts and Crafts has announced a new program, a Open Art Studio, to be held two days a week: Wednesdays, from 9 a.m.-12 p.m., and Saturdays, from 10 a.m.-1 p.m. This program will be led by artist Annie Moore. Moore will supply painting supplies for a small fee per session, or participants are welcome to bring their own supplies and their works-in-progress. Participants will be able to build a body of work with as little or as much help from Annie as desired. The Open Art Studio will open Saturday, Jan. 4, 2020 at 10 a.m. at the Fletcher Farm School for the Arts and Crafts in Ludlow. To register, call 802-228-8700, or register online at www.fletcherfarm.org.

New spring classes

In addition to the Open Art Studio, we have a number of other new classes coming up during the spring term, as well as a few old favorites. Among the new classes are “Fantasy Felting,” “Introduction to Fly Tying,” “Handmade Stories,” “Beginner Pysanky,” and “Monoprinting Fabric,” all in March.

In April, we have “Painting Spectacular Flowers in Watercolor,” “Needle Felting,” “Art Quilting,” “Chair Caning,” and “Contemporary Impressionist Landscapes in Pastel and Mixed Media” with 2020 featured artist Robert Carsten.

National Geographic contributor Ted Schiffman will lead a workshop on “Nature and Landscape Photography” in May, joining classes in “Botanical Printmaking on Fabric,” “Creating Mosaic Wall Art,” and “Making a Black Ash Pack Basket.”

Soprano Mary Bonhag featured during special two-night Jukebox

RUTLAND/BURLINGTON, Vt. – The Vermont Symphony Orchestra’s innovative chamber music series, Jukebox, returns in 2020 with special guest performer Mary Bonhag. Performing at Rutland’s Merchants Hall Jan. 17 and ArtsRiot in Burlington Jan. 18, this two-night feature will focus on the power of words, poetry, and speech, and how it transforms and inspires artists.

Bonhag, a Marshfield, Vt. resident, is noted for her “marvelous versatility” and “supple, expressive” voice by the San Antonio Times. In the 2019-2020 season, she has worked to compose lullabies with at-risk mothers as part of the Lullaby Project, been a featured recitalist at the Middlebury Song Fest, sang the music of Evan Premo at the annual Beethoven and Banjos Festival, and much more.

Registration for Susan G. Komen Snowshoe

GRAFTON, Vt. – Standard registration rates continue to be available now through Jan. 25 for Susan G. Komen New England's Snowshoe Vermont 3K or 5K walks. Fees will go up on event day, Sunday, Jan. 26.

Snowshoe Vermont will be held at Grafton Trails & Outdoor Center, the new host venue, in Grafton, Vt. The Outdoor Center will open for registration and pre-walk activities at 9 a.m., and both snowshoe walks will get underway at 10 a.m. A survivor group photo and fundraising recognition will take place prior to the start of the snowshoe walk. Tea Cup raffle will be open between 9-11:30 a.m., with winners being drawn after all snowshoers are back.

Snowshoe Vermont is a family-friendly event with fun for everyone, and snowshoe demos will be available event day on a first come, first serve basis from official snowshoe partner, Dion Snowshoes of Bennington, Vt.

A meet and greet will be held

There's plenty of time to register and fundraise for the 2020 Komen New England Snowshoe Vermont.

PHOTO PROVIDED

Saturday, Jan. 25, from 4-6 p.m., at the Grafton Inn. The Grafton Inn has a limited number of rooms available. Call the inn for details at 802-843-2253. The event will be an opportunity to register, turn in donations, and meet fellow snowshoers and sponsors, while enjoying light appetizers and beverages.

While fundraising is not required, it is strongly encouraged. Snowshoe Vermont allows Komen New England to support many local families through funding for critical breast care services and groundbreaking research, and there are many ways to get involved. Participants can snowshoe walk as a team or as individuals. There are several ways to volunteer and donate. There is still time to become a corporate sponsor and help Susan G. Komen reach its bold goal of reducing breast cancer deaths by 50% in the United States by 2026.

If you have ever been a part of a Susan G. Komen New England event, you know it's a life-changing experience. Surrounded by survivors, patients, family members, and friends, you feel the inspirational, emotional, and powerful connection that brings thousands of people together every year to help raise funds to find a cure for breast cancer.

For more information regarding Snowshoe Vermont, please visit www.Komen-NewEngland.org/Snowshoe/Vermont.

2020 hunting, fishing, trapping licenses are available

MONTPELIER, Vt. – Vermont hunting, fishing, and trapping licenses for 2020 are now available on the Fish and Wildlife Department's website, www.vtfishandwildlife.com. Existing permanent, lifetime, or five-year licenses cannot be updated online until Jan. 1.

"Vermonters really enjoy hunting and fishing," said Vermont Fish and Wildlife Commissioner Louis Porter. "Many people like to purchase 2020 licenses before Jan. 1, so they will be ready for the new year."

According to a federal survey, Vermonters rank first among residents of the lower 48 states when it comes to participating in fish and wildlife recreation – with 62% of Vermonters going fishing, hunting, or wildlife watching, and they led in the New England states in hunting and fishing with 26% of residents participating in one or both.

Porter noted that proceeds from license sales have helped pay for some of Vermont's greatest wildlife conservation success stories, including restoring game species as well as helping nongame species such as peregrine falcons, bald eagles, loons, and ospreys. These funds also go to managing more than 145,000 acres on wildlife management areas that provide critical habitat for many species as well as recreational opportunities for Vermonters.

Printed copies of the "2020 Hunting & Trapping Guide and Fishing Guide" are also available from license agents. The department's website will soon have a link to online versions as well.

Ice fishing clinics start Jan. 11

REGION – Learning how to participate in an outdoor activity can be challenging, and ice fishing is a good example. Knowing this, the Vermont Fish and Wildlife Department has scheduled a series of free ice fishing clinics for anyone would like to learn about the latest proven ice fishing techniques.

"Our ice fishing clinics will be held from mid-January through February with the possibility that some dates may change according to ice and weather conditions," said Fish and Wildlife Education Specialist Corey Hart. "Everyone is welcome no matter their experience level. We want this to be fun and helpful for all."

Vermont Fish and Wildlife's ice fishing clinics in January and February offer a great opportunity to learn about the different kinds of ice fishing.

Each clinic will last 2.5 to 3 hours, and exact location details will be given when people register for the event. Topics to be covered include ice safety, hole drilling, equipment and techniques, regulations, and different techniques for different fish.

All participants will have the opportunity to practice what they have learned near the end of each event. Everyone is urged to wear clothing suitable for the weather conditions.

Pre-registration is required and can be done on Fish and Wildlife's website www.vtfishandwildlife.com. Corey Hart at LetsGoFishing@vermont.gov or 802-265-2279 will be available for questions.

pets of the week

If you're looking for a pair of cats to add to your family, Morticia and Gomez are the purrfect kitties for you! Both of these cats are very sweet and loving. They have been in a room filled with kids and were very happy to greet each child! They are 5 years old and came in together as strays, and we think they are siblings. They seem bonded and will only be adopted together. To adopt this amazing pair, stop by Wednesday through Saturday, from noon to 4:30 p.m., or call 802-885-3997 for more information.
