

The 18th Annual Walpole Artisans Tour returns after hiatus

BY BILL LOCKWOOD

The Shopper

WALPOLE, N.H. – After Thanksgiving Day comes the famous retail weekend of Black Friday and then “Shop Small” Small Business Saturday. Locally, again this year, it also had the 18th Annual Fall Artisans Tour of the artists and crafters of Walpole Cooperative.

Originally, it was an event where various artists and crafters had their studios open for the public. Last year, there was no tour due to Covid. Like two years ago for the 17th annual tour, the artisans decided to gather in just three locations at the Walpole Artisans Store at 52 Main Street, the first floor of the Walpole Town Hall on the common, and at 33 Bridge Street across the river in Bellows Falls where one of the event organizers, Chris Sherwin, has his glass studio.

As Sherwin said last time, “I can’t take my furnace with me.”

Also in the building with Sherwin is Gail Hynes’ photo studio. Four other crafters gathered there, offering a combination of quilts, hats, handmade crafts, and photographs. This location will also be open for the various holiday events of the Bellows Falls Downtown Development Association, including Ladies’ Night Dec. 10 and the Parade of Lights Dec. 11.

On Saturday afternoon, Sherwin said there had been a good turn out so far. In fact, he said all the artists and artisans he is in regular contact with have reported this a “crazy good year,” feeling they have done better already than 2019, which had also been a record year.

maker who also does artistic design and repair, echoed this sentiment. He was minding the organization’s shop on Main Street in Walpole. He felt the tour was “doing great. [There are] a lot of local folks and a lot of people from out of state.”

He added, “It’s been a lot of fun interacting with them.”

This year the shop was where the bulk of the over 25 participating artists’ and artisans’ work was actually on display, as it is on a rotating basis through the year.

Their promotion material indicates they have “a wide variety of mediums, including wool and silk scarves, hand-forged jewelry, hand-blown glass, seasonally themed gifts and paperweights, cloth and leather handbags, wood and leather candle holders, turned wooden bowls and pens, hand painted apparel, all-natural skin care products, wooden harps, original paintings, holiday ornaments, as well as beautiful and charming note cards...and much, much more!”

The third venue at the Walpole Town Hall had fewer vendors actually present than it did two years ago when it was really crowded. Wayne Cotton, who was there with his handcrafted wooden bowls and other woodcrafts, said there was a lot of uncertainty this year over the changing Covid event rules and competition from a number of other events the same weekend. Joellen Knight, another woodwork designer who was there with her fine handmade harps, among others agreed with Cotton. Still, the traffic through this venue was good as well.

The group shop and the Walpole Artisans Cooperative can be contacted through www.facebook.com/Walpole-Artisans-Cooperative, their website www.walpoleartisans.org, or by calling 603-756-3020. ## Putney Housing Project meeting draws attention

BY JOE MILLIKEN

The Shopper

PUTNEY, Vt. – Plans for a new housing complex on a vacant piece of property near the Putney Farmers Market and Community Gardens drew quite a bit of attention at a recent virtual meeting about the proposed project. Nearly 100 viewers attended the meeting, which included both housing trust and Putney town officials.

In the fall of 2020, the Brattleboro-based Windham Windsor Housing Trust and Putney-based Green Commons of Vermont proposed a plan to purchase roughly four acres of land in order to build housing on the southern portion of the lot, still allowing space for both the farmers market and community gardens.

Green Commons was created with the idea of acquiring and preserving “green spaces,” promoting local agriculture, preserving and providing local public areas for recreation, and to assist in efforts of making food accessible for all.

The initial plan was to build a total of 24 one- and two-bedroom affordable housing units – suited for both families and individuals – to be located on both sides of Alice Holway Drive. The land for the proposed housing project is owned by general partners Jeff Shumlin and Marcia Leader of Putney Gateway Associates.

The original plan has since been altered to now offer a total of 17 apartments, including 13 one-bedroom and 12 two-bedroom units, and eight town houses. The rent for these units would be based on income and the buildings will offer electric heating and cooling with solar panels installed on the roofs of each building.

From its inception, the site plan was developed as to not affect the farmers market or the community gardens. “Our intention from the beginning was to develop a site plan that would leave the gardens intact, so we haven’t planned anything that directly impacts the gardens,” said Elizabeth Bridgewater.

ter. Bridgewater is the executive director of the Green Commons of Vermont.

“We did make some adjustments [to the site plan], but that was in response to a report that prompted a different storm water management approach – and a subsequent design change – not because the original plan impacted the gardens.”

In the recent virtual meeting, officials from the housing trust responded to several questions from town officials, ranging from property taxes for the buildings and the logistics of property management, to property assessments and possible noise triggered from residents living in units so close to each other.

The yet-to-be-named Putney housing project would be jointly owned by the Windsor Housing Trust and its partner, Evernorth, a nonprofit housing development company based in Burlington, Vt. However, the project would be controlled and managed locally and any investing partners will have no part in the decision-making processes.

Trustees discuss the Wastewater Treatment Plant’s dry sludge program

BY BETSY THURSTON

The Shopper

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt. – On Tuesday, Nov. 23, the Bellows Falls Trustees discussed the sludge dryer system and the Wastewater Treatment Plant.

Municipal Manager Scott Pickup said paving of the lot behind J&H Hardware was delayed because new pipes were added to divert rainwater from the roof from going directly to the plant. He explained that much of the overtime came from rain events with excess stormwater going straight to the plant, which created the alarms. By separating those pipes, Pickup explained, there should be reductions in operating costs and overtime at the Wastewater Treatment Plant. He thanked Director Rob Wheeler for his part.

Pickup gave an update for purchasing the dryer and partnership with Resource Management Inc. of Holderness, N.H. He said at the plant tour in August their observations included reduction of wet tons turned to pressed dry cake, the trucking, and field use. He said it “truly is a real recycling continuous effort.”

Pickup said the long-term concern with the wet sludge would be availability of disposal. He noted that there was demand for Class A biosolids and in the future it might be an additional revenue source for the village. For now the savings were not paying for disposal.

Pickup said that the state of Vermont had a complex permitting process and hoped to have the classifications for both states in December. He had said in an earlier meeting, “I’m not comfortable [to recommend the purchase] if we don’t have at least both states for Class A.”

He explained the purchase price for the machine was $268,450. At the Oct. 12 Trustee meeting, Pickup said they had signed the contract with RMI and installed the dryer in October 2020. In December of 2020, payments began at $10,500 per month. Pickup had explained that RMI was no longer working with Shincci-USA and that Shincci-USA was moving forward to sell, service, and install the units on their own.

He had explained that the dryer pilot program would end in December and decisions should be made on purchasing the dryer or returning to hauling wet sludge.

On Nov. 23, the proposals included purchasing the machine from RMI, working with them or Shincci, or establishing a new contract with Casella. On the bill of sale with RMI, an option for a full relationship was added to provide disposal and testing of the Class A biosolids. RMI would also be responsible to assist with wet sludge disposal if necessary.

Pickup said there were multiple conversations with Shincci-USA and had developed contact with Shincci in Japan who had been able to acquire parts for the machine domestically.

He said Shincci-USA offered a proposal for additional support but was concerned there was no East Coast representation and only two representatives, both based in Arizona.

Casella offered a three-year variable rate contract on emergency backup pricing with new hauling service to New York state.

Pickup said the department recommended purchase of the machine and would get the Trustees a cost benefit analysis at their first meeting in December with time to vote at the second meeting. The Trustees had previously decided in October on one meeting for December.

Wade Masure said based on the information they had received, one meeting was sufficient to make a decision. The board agreed.

Pickup spoke highly of Wheeler. “Rob and team have been really tremendous... Without their expertise and their abilities, this would have failed. A lot of the success of this going forward falls on [Wheeler’s] shoulders...”

McAuliffe said, “If you assume we can borrow at 2% and finance this over five years, we would be looking at an annual payment of $56,000...basically $4,700 per month.”

Village President Deborah Wright asked about the life expectancy and mentioned there was no warranty.

Pickup said the machine could last 30 years as long as it was heavily maintained. He speculated that by exchanging parts for stainless steel at the seven-year mark, it could give them at least 25 years. He said the lack of warranty was one of the concerns.

McAuliffe said, “Given what this means...taking a wet product and trucking it over the highways and putting it into a landfill versus investing in the machine and producing a Class A fertilizer is all positive. In this day of rebuilding America, there has to be funding to encourage this kind of decision by municipalities.” He agreed with the dryer purchase and recommended looking for federal funding.

Springfield neighborhood lights up —

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. – Celebrate the holidays by entering the In The Spirit! awards, an outdoor decorating contest for residents or organizations that are located on Union Street or Park Street and all the smaller neighborhoods that connect to those two streets. Even if you don't live in one of these neighborhoods, you can drive around to view the holiday spirit from dusk to 9 p.m. between Monday, Dec. 20 and Friday, Dec. 21.

Three In The Spirit! prizes will be awarded. The Clark Griswold Christmas Award of $100 and a plaque will be given for the most outlandish, fun, or over-the-top outdoor decorations. The Traditional Display Award of $75 will be given for the most appealing use of traditional holiday elements, and the Misfit Toy Display Award of $50 is for the best use of elements that engage children – especially inflatables.

It's free to enter. It's fun to share your holiday cheer with your neighbors. You could even win a prize! Not to mention bragging rights. The last day to enter is Friday, Dec. 17.

If you live in the area of Union Street or Park Street or any of the smaller streets that connect to them, you can enter the In The Spirit! awards program in any one of three possible ways. Enter online at <https://forms.gle/mpx2gcfHtf3N38jN9>; or mail a note that includes your name, street address, email address, and phone numbers to UPNA, 101 Union St., in Springfield; or send the same information to upnainc@gmail.com.

In The Spirit! awards are sponsored by Union Park Neighborhood Association, a nonprofit 501(c)(3) organization whose mission is to build a vibrant, safe, and cohesive neighborhood. The neighborhood consists of Union Street, Park Street, and the many smaller streets and neighborhoods that connect with them.

For further information about Union Park Neighborhood Association or the In the Spirit! awards, call Lori at 802-885-6388, or go to the Union Park Neighborhood Association Facebook page.

Springfield Schools PTA successful fall fundraiser —

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. – The Springfield Schools PTA recently competed their inaugural fundraiser of the 2021-2022 school year, a catalog sale featuring local favorite Halladay's Harvest Barn. With the help of students and families from Elm Hill and Union Street Schools, the SSPTA exceeded their fundraising goal, earning a profit of over $4,600. The order was the largest in Halladay's fundraising history.

The top selling students were fourth grader Penelope Daniels and kindergartner Jameson Clapperton, who each took home a $50 cash prize. Profits will go towards various classroom support initiatives, including the keystone Snack Tote program, which provides healthy snacks to students facing food insecurity at home.

The successful fundraiser was a bright spot in another school year punctuated by the pandemic. With many parents facing time-consuming challenges, membership numbers are down far below the pre-pandemic average. Meetings are still being held online, and SSPTA leadership remains hopeful that in-person meetings, which include childcare for all attendees, can resume this spring.

Perhaps most notably, Covid concerns and restrictions have once again prompted cancellation of the much beloved "Breakfast with Santa" holiday event. However, SSPTA is currently strategizing an alternate activity to celebrate the season with students and staff.

The Springfield Schools PTA provides support to students and staff at Springfield's primary and elementary schools. Meetings take place virtually via Google Meet and take place on the second Wednesday of each month, and new members are always welcome. Updates can be found at www.facebook.com/groups/Springfield-SchoolsPTA. Wright wondered about possible ARPA funds due to the health risks of wet sludge.

Pickup agreed that it might be eligible because it is wastewater and infrastructure related.

Masure asked why Vermont's certification process was so much longer. Pickup said they are exceedingly cautious and demanded more thorough and rigorous testing.

Due to town department budget hearings, the Trustees will meet once next month, Dec. 21 at 6 p.m. in the Lower Theater of the Bellows Falls Opera House.

LOCAL HISTORY

BY RON PATCH

Ron Patch is a Chester native, Chester Historical Society president, and a lifelong antiques dealer.

He can be reached at 802-374-0119 or email knotz69@gmail.com

Calendar correction

The 2022 Chester Historical Society calendars are now available. They are for sale at Erskine's, Salon 2000, Stone House Antiques Center, Chester Hardware, Smitty's, Blair Books & More, and The Framery of Vermont.

No one likes to admit a mistake, but I made one that needs to be addressed. The photo I used for December 2022 has an error in the caption. It's the photo with this article.

I described the location as south of the Depot crossing and the tall building in the background as being E.J. Davis coal elevator. This is an error on my part. Ted Spaulding pointed out to me that it was the Vermont Mineral Products building that burned in 1955. Vermont Mineral was located just north of the First Avenue crossing on the left.

I do make mistakes now and then. There's a difference between constructive criticism as Ted offered, and a gleeful "You got that wrong."

In the antiques business, I have heard many times that antiques dealers never lose money. Well, if an antiques dealer doesn't lose money now and then, he's not buying very much. I make these mistakes too.

I was just shy of 4-years-old when this place burned so I have no memory. Because I don't remember this building, I mistook the December photo as E.J. Davis coal elevator.

From the Nov. 9, 1955 Springfield Reporter:
"Vt. Mineral Products, Inc. Destroyed by Fire Saturday

"The talc mill owned by the Vermont Mineral Products, Inc. in Chester Depot in Chester Vermont was completely destroyed Saturday night in a spectacular fire which broke out about 8:15 p. m. Flames shooting high into the air from the wooden structure attracted hundreds to the scene.

"Damages estimated to be over $50,000. It is believed the fire started in the elevator shaft of the building but the cause is undetermined.

"The alarm was sounded by Mrs. William Basso who saw the flames at about the same time a passing motorist noticed them. Fire Chief Albert Damore and about 20 men from Chester Fire Department Aid No.1 and a number of men from Fire District No.2 of Chester Depot, responded to the alarm. Chief Miland H. Jordon and about 10 men from Springfield Fire Department came to the aid of the Chester men. Firemen laid 6,000 feet of hose to pump water from the nearby river to save the plant. No one was injured.

"Despite the efforts of the firemen the fire burned all night and it wasn't until after daylight they were able to extinguish the stubborn blaze. The main tower collapsed to the ground with a terrific crash and sparks flew to nearby sheds and buildings. The firemen quickly doused the sparks and were able to confine the damage to the main buildings of the talc mill. The main tower, the stone shed, and machines were completely lost.

"Stanley Dorand, President of the Vermont Mineral Products Inc., announced they were not definite for the future of the Company. The fire put 15 men out of work including those working the mine in Felchville.

"Two Rutland Railroad cars loaded with talc on the companies siding were not damaged. The south bound freight was detained by two hours because of the heat.

"A new truck for the Chester Fire Department had been shipped from Elmira, N.Y., on Wednesday of last week and was due to arrive in Chester on Saturday. Had it had arrived in time it would have helped considerable in an attempt to save these buildings."

A couple months ago, I wrote an article for The Vermont Journal & The Shopper I titled, "The country auction." It was an article about country auctions here in Vermont in the early 1970s. I described the old Vermonters, their farms, and their way of life. Because I lived it, no research was needed.

I was recently contacted by the editor of Journal of Antiques and Collectibles. This is a glossy antiques magazine with a national audience. For their upcoming March issue they are running a special feature about "Barns." The publisher and editor searching online found my article, "The country auction." Both loved it.

The editor contacted me to see if I would expand that article for their Barn feature this March. After some thought, I agreed. They want 1,500 words and any photos I might have. I have many photos to select from. It'll be fun.

Split the Ticket Fund delivers this holiday season —

REGION – Many Vermonters in need will receive a surprise gift of warmth this winter thanks to the Split the Ticket Fund. While thousands of Vermont families receive fuel assistance through the Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program, there are many Vermonters that don't qualify but still need help. These families can receive donations of heating oil, propane, and kerosene from the Split the Ticket Fund, a Vermont-based 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization.

This innovative program matches cash donations with donations of heating oil, kerosene, and propane from Vermont's fuel providers. The delivery ticket is split in half: every $1 donated buys $2 worth of fuel.

Vermont's heating fuel and service providers are mostly small, family-owned businesses. They are often the first to hear about and respond to a heating emergency. This program gives them, as well as local businesses, organizations, and individuals, the opportunity to provide a gift of warmth to someone in their community. Since it was created in 2007, the fund has delivered more than 100,000 gallons of free heating fuel to our neighbors in need.

Those receiving a gift of warmth are nominated by someone in the community. If there is someone you think is deserving this winter, please email split@vermontfuel.com to let us know.

Thanks to everyone for the little acts of kindness that can make a big difference this holiday season. Go to www.vermontfuel.com/split for more information about the Split the Ticket Fund.

Chester Rotary welcomes Bob Sartini as a new member

CHESTER, Vt. – Chester Rotary happily welcomed Bob Sartini to its ranks this past Thursday morning, Nov. 18, 2021 at a breakfast ceremony that honored him and Rotary's mission of "Service above Self"

Bob and his wife, Judy Yogan, moved to Chester in 2020 after living in Boston and Rockingham for many years. In Boston, Bob had a long career as a manager at Boston University Medical Center. In retirement "Bamboo Bob" took up backpacking and thru-hiked many national scenic trails including the Appalachian Trail and our own Long Trail, some trails multiple times, for an excess of 13,000 miles. He looks forward to Rotary's continued involvement in the community and has interest in the Chester Historical Society and the Chester Conservation Committee as well. We look forward to Bob's involvement with Rotary.

Chester Rotary meets every Thursday at the Fullerton Inn at 7:30 a.m. If you are interested in learning more about Rotary, please join us as a guest at one of our meetings or call Alan Farrar, 802-875-2696, or Ian Montgomery, 802-875-5446, for more information.

Dear Editor,

The Warm Hands Warm Hearts planning committee wish to thank the Chester and Andover communities for the wonderful support for Warm Hands Warm Hearts 2021.

Many generous donations of coats, blankets, boots, and other warm items were all given free to all shoppers. Donations of cash were used to purchase healthy snacks for each shopper.

Many volunteers helped by monitoring donation boxes, setting up and taking down the displays, moved and stored the display racks and storage bins, put together the snack bags, and were present during the shopping.

Special thanks to the Chester Baptist Church for hosting the event, Newsbank for printing the posters and rack cards, cash donations from Chester Baptist Church, Chester Rotary, and Andover Community Church.

Drop boxes for donations were sponsored by Whiting Library, Chester-Andover Elementary School, the GMUHS Honor Society, Smitty's Market, Chester-Andover Family Center, Andover Town Office, Chester Town Office, American Legion Post 67, American Legion Auxiliary Unit 67, Andover Community Church, Chester Baptist Church, and Chester-Andover Family Center.

Paper bags for the snacks were donated by Chester Hardware, Chester Sunoco, and Erskine's Grain and Garden. Snacks were donated by Black River Produce and several anonymous donors. Thank you to the "Snack Bag Crew" who filled 200 snack bags to distribute.

All the items left at the end of the event were donated to the Church of Christ Clothing Closet and the Boy Scouts for further distribution.

There were many volunteers who helped with tasks big and small. We feel gratitude for each of you.

Editorial: Press issues have affected our delivery times

Dear readers,

It has been a busy couple of weeks with the Thanksgiving holiday, early deadlines, and a few papers not getting to you on time – as you expect them to each and every week. I'd like to extend my deepest apologies and thank you for your patience as we worked through press staff shortages and equipment breakdowns.

When the press notified us last week that their printing was behind schedule, we made a quick decision to insert the Nov. 17 edition into the Nov. 24 paper to ensure you got both editions.

Please understand this delay was not due to any lack of dedication that we have to our community or our newspaper. My staff and I are working diligently to make sure all of our deadlines are met. We work persistently each week so that our news, advertisements, obituaries, and crossword puzzles are carefully edited, designed, and arranged into every paper.

Once the layout of our paper is completed and pages are sent to the press, the printing process is out of our control. Furthermore, the timeline of printing also affects the distribution and delivery via the U.S. Postal Service and our store delivery drivers.

Although our news is well read on our website and our Facebook page, our print paper is still our priority for our readers and advertisers, including the towns we serve as paper of record. In addition, not every person has reliable access to the internet, and many rely on us for their news. Obituary services, advertisers' promotions, and local events are often time sensitive, and we value getting that information to our readers in a timely manner.

Our paper should be reaching you on time this week, and we are working to make sure this issue does not continue. So thank you again for continuing to support our community newspaper, and for being patient during a difficult time.

Sincerely,
Shawntae Webb, Publisher
The Vermont Journal & The Shopper

carriers wait for those bundled newspapers to arrive in their respective markets. Then, they are transferred, divvied up, and those drivers, all independent contractors, take to the roads to deliver that day's edition.

Last month, after a series of late deliveries and printing issues with Upper Valley Press, our printer in North Haverhill, New Hampshire, we were informed by the printer that the labor shortage is making it impossible for them to keep up with their workload. UVP not only prints The Times Argus and Rutland Herald, as well as the Claremont Eagle Times and The Vermont Journal and The Shopper (all publications owned by Sample News Group), it prints other weeklies from around the region, as well as many of those direct marketing inserts you get in the mail.

But like us, if UVP falls behind on its print jobs, something gets pushed. Lately, because we are at the end of the line, it has been us. That has meant our newspapers have not been getting into the hands of our motor route carriers on time, and it has meant we have had to find alternate locations to print some of our products. It has also meant certain inserts have not been in the papers, or delayed beyond their usefulness, which is unacceptable to us.

This will probably not come as a surprise: There are not a lot of print facilities in Vermont willing or able to work all night.

In fact, very few Vermont newspapers (weekly or daily) own and maintain their own presses. It has been more cost-effective to use larger commercial press facilities that have state-of-the-art equipment and the staff to operate and maintain them – until there aren't enough people to operate and maintain them.

As a result, we have been in ongoing talks with printers all around New England and upstate New York. It has been an epic effort to quilt together a schedule that allows for adequate print windows, hired transportation, and meeting deadlines that do not compromise our quality reporting.

So, we thank you for your patience. And know that these little papers are doing amazing work despite a pandemic and the challenges it places on our families, as well. In fact, we are producing more products than ever, with both our loyal and new advertisers. We are seeing more people reading us in print and online. We are confident that we have weathered the storm that has taken so many community newspapers. But we do face a formidable challenge in finding a new printer.

Be assured that if your newspaper is late, you're probably not alone. We are taking all of the steps necessary to ensure we are — like a good friend — here to greet you every day that we publish.

Thank you for reading us, and standing by us, today and always.

Reginald Cyr, 1941-2021

LONDONDERRY, Vt. – Reginald Cyr, 80, of Londonderry, Vt., passed away early Thanksgiving morning, Nov. 25, 2021, following a brief battle with cancer. He passed peacefully at home, surrounded by all his family and endless love.

Reginald was a loving father, grandfather, great-grandfather, uncle, brother, friend, and so much more. He worked through hardship, overcoming all obstacles life threw in front of him and using them as leverage to better himself.

He was born at his family home on a farm in New Brunswick, Canada, March 1, 1941. He was number 13 out of 27 children. His life was full of adventure. He grew up surrounded by family, which made him the best family man. He was loving, kind, generous, humble, trustworthy, and an all around incredible man.

He was predeceased by his mother Marie Chamberland Cyr, father Heliodore Cyr, along with many brothers and sisters. He is survived by Jeanine, the mother of his children, and his children Rick (Nancy) Theriault, Tina (Bill)

ASCUTNEY, Vt. – On Nov. 23, 2021, Phillip Leon Davis passed away peacefully in his home in Ascutney, Vt., at the age of 84, with his wife Dortia Brown Davis by his side.

Phillip Davis was born Nov. 1, 1937, in Springfield, Vt., to Herbert and Gladys Davis. He grew up alongside his brother Ronald Davis in Perkinsville, Vt. Phillip graduated from Springfield High School, served in the Vermont National Guard, was a member of the Free Masons of Vermont, and worked at Fellows Gear Shaper. Phillip later started his own business: Davis Furniture Refinishing.

His greatest accomplishment, however, was his family. Phillip married the love of his life Dortia Davis, June 11, 1960. Together they raised two daughters, Marsha Narwid and Marie Davis, and played an integral role in the upbringing of their granddaughter, Brittani Mulholland.

Throughout the years, you could find Phillip puttering in his workshop, riding the snowmobile trails, fishing at the family lake house, or going to car shows. In his later years, he would be "winning" card games with friends, singing karaoke, and carving birds and wildlife. He was fortunate to call Vermont and Florida home for many years, with a surplus of friends and family in both states. Phillip was someone you could always depend on for advice or to lend a helping hand, and his knowledge and wit will be deeply missed.

Phillip is predeceased by his parents, Herbert and Gladys, and his brother Ronald. He is survived by his wife of 61 years, Dortia; his daughter Marsha and her husband David Narwid; his daughter Marie; his granddaughter Brittani; and many other family members and friends.

A celebration of life was held Nov. 29, 2021 at the Perkinsville Community Church. In lieu of flowers, please make a donation to the helpful men and women at the Ascutney Volunteer Fire Department.

Davis Memorial Chapel is assisting the family with the arrangements.

James H. Twitchell, 2021-1940

S. LONDONDERRY, Vt. – James H. Twitchell, 81, beloved lifelong resident of South Londonderry, Vt., passed away peacefully at his family home after a brief illness, Nov. 16, 2021. Jim was born Sept. 25, 1940, in Brattleboro, Vt., the son of Arthur K. and Helen (Tams) Twitchell.

He was raised on the family homestead where he discovered his love for farming. He had dedicated his life to the preservation of the land and lived his life raising cattle and other livestock. Jim had a love of the outdoors and spent many of his days hunting and fishing and sharing these passions with his boys.

Jim started his schooling in Londonderry, then graduated from Leland & Gray Seminary in 1958 and onto Vermont Technical College graduating in 1960 with a degree in agriculture.

He loved the spring season so he could start sugaring, which he did since a very small child. His passion to make maple syrup was shared with all who came to the sugarhouse. He was a member of the Vermont Sugar Makers Association. He won an award in April of 2011 at the Maple Festival for first place in the Fancy Syrup division. His syrup earned them the best Fancy Syrup in the State of Vermont.

Jim worked on Sen. Edward Janeway's Farm from 1957 to 1965 when he was elected to the position of town clerk and treasurer of Londonderry, a position he held for 47 years, along with his then wife Shirley E. Twitchell.

Jim spent most of his life serving the community. Jim was a 54-year member of Champion Fire Co. 5, serving 26 years as its president. He also served 25 years as the town's Forest Fire Warden. He was the master of the Londonderry Grange, treasurer of Boy Scout Troop 410, officer of the Londonderry Credit Union, Trustee of the First Baptist Church, and numerous other community organizations. He also took care of his friends and neighbors of Winhall Hollow.

James leaves behind his brother A. Robert Twitchell of South Londonderry, his three sons Stephen L. and his wife Roxana, Melvin and his partner Susan, both of South Londonderry, and Timothy W. and wife Amelia Dawn of Houston, Texas. He also leaves a grandson Nickolas R. Burbank of South Londonderry and his former wife Shirley E. Twitchell.

Funeral services will be announced at a later date. In lieu of flowers, memorial donations may be made to Champion Fire Co. 5, P.O. Box 5, South Londonderry, VT 05155. To send the family personal condolences, please visit www.sheafuneralhomes.com.

James A. Critchfield, 1957-2021

SAXTONS RIVER, Vt. – James A. Critchfield, 64, of Saxtons River Road, died Nov. 27, 2021. He passed comfortably surrounded by his friends and family at the Grace Cottage Hospital. He was born Dec. 15, 1957, in Allensville, Pa., the son of Charles and Marion (Swain) Critchfield. He attended schools in Fall Mountain and was a graduate of Fall Mountain High School.

After high school, Jim entered and served our country in the Air Force. Jim worked at the VA Hospital in White River Junction, Hubbard Farms Walpole, N.H., and for the town of Grafton, Vt. He was a member of the Post 37 Bellows Falls American Legion.

On Feb. 26, 2000, in Saxtons River, Vt., Jim married Lisa Marie Brough who survives. He is also survived by his son Joseph and wife Victoria Critchfield; five granddaughters and one grandson; one sister Linda; and brothers David and Scott. He was predeceased by his parents and his brother Walter.

There will be calling hours from 5-7 p.m., Sunday, Dec. 5, 2021, at the Fenton & Hennessy Funeral Home, 55 Westminster St., Bellows Falls, Vt.

Robert W. Heidtmann, 2021

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. – Robert William Heidtmann died unexpectedly in his home, Wednesday, Nov. 17, 2021.

Bob was born to William and Erma (Genovesio) Heidtmann. After graduating from Chester High School, he moved to southern California where he worked on the oil platforms off the coast of Santa Barbara. Eventually Bob settled back into Vermont life where he worked as a master mechanic and then as a school bus driver in more recent years.

He was a treasured husband, father, and son. He will always be remembered for his sense of humor and so much more.

He is survived by his parents, his wife Tama Heidtmann, son Dillin Karl Heidtmann, daughters Kierra Martens, Savanna Baldwin, and his sisters Gail Marine, Patty Johansen, and

A celebration of life will be held Dec. 2 at the Elks Lodge in Springfield, Vt., from 4-8 p.m. Davis Memorial Chapel in Springfield is assisting with arrangements.

Kent E. Moore, 1955-2021

ALSTEAD, N.H. – Kent Edward Moore, 66, of Sarasota, Fla., passed away Nov. 16, 2021.

Kent was born March 5, 1955, the son of Ralph and Beverly (June) Moore. Growing up in Alstead, he enjoyed building and racing soapbox derby cars, horseback riding, and spending time at Vilas Pool. Kent had a love for nature from a very young age. He enjoyed camping, spending time in the woods, and exploring the great outdoors.

After vacationing in Sarasota, where his parents wintered, he moved there to enjoy the warm and sunny climate. Florida allowed him to experience the beauty of nature year-round. Kent spent a few years as a deep sea fisherman, as he felt at peace on the water. He spent a lot of time boating, sailing, and fishing in the beautiful, blue Florida waters. Kent returned to his lifelong trade as a machinist until his retirement in 2017. Kent enjoyed his city and loved to go out and spend time with other locals. He will be missed dearly by many people.

Kent was predeceased by his father Ralph Moore. He is survived by his mother Beverly (June), his daughter Kelly and

LORIEN KELLY

SALES ASSOCIATE, LUDLOW OFFICE

Lorien grew up in Potsdam, NY and spent her childhood exploring the Adirondack Mountains. For the past 20 years she resided at the Jersey Shore, traveling back and forth to Vermont every weekend during ski season.

After a career in Chiropractic she decided to become a real estate agent so she could spend more time with her family. Real estate came naturally to her after her extensive experience in healthcare helping her patients. She received numerous awards from Resources Real Estate in NJ and thrived on overcoming the many challenges that arose in every deal.

The mountains were calling her back and in July of 2021 she moved with her family to Ludlow Vermont, the town where her love for adventure took hold and flourished. Her enthusiasm, perseverance, attention to details and commitment to excellence have made her a success. Whether you are buying your first home, listing a house that has been cherished for years, or have investment interests, Lorien will guide you to ensure a smooth and successful transaction. There is no task too small or too big, Lorien will have your back!

Notebook: Rivalry motivates Shiffrin

KILLINGTON, Vt. – Magic Johnson had Larry Bird. Arnold Palmer had Jack Nicklaus. Mikaela Shiffrin has Petra Vlhova.

When an athlete has a peer it can battle and compare itself to, it brings out the best in both. That is exactly what the American Shiffrin and the Slovakian Vlhova do for each other in women's Alpine skiing.

They are the top of their sport and in a tier that others struggle to touch. Their excellence was on full display on Sunday's FIS World Cup slalom race in the fifth annual HomeLight Killington Cup at Killington Mountain.

The pair filled the top two spots on the podium as they have done many times before. It was Shiffrin who came out with her fifth straight slalom win at Killington with a combined time of 1:38.33 and Vlhova finishing second 0.75 seconds behind Shiffrin.

The two embraced after they had finished their second runs. Emotions were certainly different for both. Shiffrin had just put down a second run good enough to win and Vlhova had just made one mistake on her run that cost her the victory.

Results aside, the two have respect for their fellow elite skier.

"We've just been pushing each other for so long. I've always said it that it doesn't make it easy. It's definitely a fight every race," said Shiffrin of the challenge of going up against her rival.

Mikaela Shiffrin.

A very knowledgeable and energized crowd on a flurry filled Sunday.

"You have this feeling where your heart is beating out of your chest because you don't know what is going to happen. For everyone on the mountain, we want to win so much. You don't know if it's going to happen with competitor like Petra, who rarely makes mistakes."

There isn't much that separates Shiffrin and Vlhova on the slopes. Last weekend in Levi, Finland, it was Vlhova pulling out two slalom wins with Shiffrin second in both. This week, it flipped. Such has been their rivalry, a give and take for winning results.

"It's challenging, but it's also really satisfying when you have a race like today," Shiffrin said. "She felt it in Levi (Finland) and I felt it today. The other athletes aren't far behind either."

Sunday's 46th slalom win was historic for Shiffrin as the two-time Olympic champion tied a 32-year-old World Cup record for most World Cup wins in a single discipline set by Swedish skier Ingemar Stenmark in giant slalom.

Shiffrin will have plenty of chances to grab sole possession of that World Cup record and also add on to her Olympic legacy in the coming months.

Home sweet home

They say absence makes the heart grow fonder and the seven U.S. Alpine skiers that competed in Sunday's race know that to be true.

The Killington Cup had been a great success in its first four years, but last year's event was canceled due to the Covid-19 pandemic.

This year's event was scaled back in attendance due to Covid protocols, but both days were sellouts of 10,000 people packing around the Superstar Trail.

"This is a really special race for a lot of reasons," Shiffrin said. "Because of the atmosphere and because so much of family can be here. I've spent so much time on the East Coast and it feels like home. Last year we didn't get to come here. We missed it. We missed it a lot."

Shiffrin is a Burke Mountain Academy product as are two of her teammates in Sunday's race, Nina O'Brien and Zoe Zimmerman.

There's a special feeling when they get to compete on the snow in Vermont.

"I love Killington. It's where I started my first World Cup and got my first World Cup points," O'Brien said. "It's definitely special to me. I spent four years in Vermont, so I feel comfortable here."

O'Brien remembers her first time skiing Killington being a Vermont states race as an under-18 skier.

Paula Moltzan was a National Champion while skiing for the University of Vermont. She finished seventh in Sunday's race.

Moltzan cherishes any chance she gets to compete in the Green Mountain State.

"I love coming back to Killington every year," Moltzan said. "The crowd is awesome and I feel like I have a slight hometown advantage."

"The whole morning we see everyone cheering for us and feel a lot of support. We want to put on a good show for (the fans)," O'Brien said.

Given the amount of Vermont connections on the team, this race always has the Americans abuzz.

"We take pride in relating to New England. We were talking about on the trails this morning," Moltzan said. "Even though for some it might not be their home home, it feels like home."

Moltzan jumped the railing to give some special supporters a hug after Sunday's race. She was home.

The next generation

Shiffrin and Vlhova may be at the top of the podium more often than not, but there are plenty of skiers on the rise looking to make their mark.

Sweden's Hanna Aronsson Elfman, an 18-year-old, was the lone skier born in the 2000s to make the 30-skier final run. For a portion of the second run, Aronsson Elfman was the woman to beat holding the top spot.

She ended up finishing 15th when it was all set and done, but she made a statement that she's on the rise.

Sunday's race wasn't what O'Brien was looking for, as she didn't qualify for the finals, but the 23-year-old is one to watch in the coming years.

"There are a lot of good girls and we have a good team, so hopefully we'll have a few good stars," O'Brien said.

There were young skiers out in droves for Sunday's event and certainly many want to be at the top of the Superstar Trail competing one day.

O'Brien once was one of those girls with a dream while at Burke.

"You never know how close you can be to the World Cup," O'Brien said. "I certainly didn't think that I would be there when I was their age. I would tell (young skiers) to keep going and have fun with it because they can definitely make it here."

Scats and Tracks, a virtual offering for elementary school students

REGION – The Covid-19 pandemic has had many teachers on the lookout for new and exciting ways to teach outside. Vermont Fish & Wildlife is offering a virtual program for elementary school classes grades 1-6 designed to get kids outside with their teacher, while also learning about Vermont's local wildlife.

Scats and Tracks is a four-week program that gives educators plans and support to lead nature hikes on school or nearby grounds. Each week's hike teaches students identify scat and tracks for a different native species, and it is supported with access to a virtual class visit on nature facts from Fish & Wildlife Department experts. This year's species are gray fox, beaver, gray squirrel, and eastern wild turkey.

There are two ways for classes to participate, designed to meet the needs of different schedules and student groups: pre-recorded lessons or live virtual presentations with a department staff member once a week.

Vermont Fish & Wildlife understands that many educators have questions about leading a nature hike of their own. Staff are available to answer any questions about that portion in advance and to provide tips.

The live virtual sessions will take place weekly during January 2022. Educators that choose the pre-recorded option will receive the video links and additional information in late 2021.

To register for the program, educators should contact Education Specialist Corey Hart by emailing him at corey.hart@vermont.gov or calling him at 802-505-5562. Please indicate which option you prefer, school, grade level, and how many students will be participating. The homeschool community is also encouraged to reach out.

Upcoming programming at Whiting Library

CHESTER, Vt. – It is a busy time of year at Whiting Library with many upcoming and on-going programs for all community members to enjoy. Here is what's going on at your library.

In the Youth Services department, Carrie King hosts a weekly storytime for preschool-aged children every Friday at 11 a.m. Children who are delighted by picture books, sing-alongs, and craft creations will greatly enjoy this regular gathering.

The new Teen Writers Workshop is a monthly meetup group held each first Wednesday of the month at 4:30 p.m. for teenagers. A mix of free writing and sharing, the workshop develops writing skills and practices in a supportive and welcoming environment and is led by local writer and library trustee, Rosamund Conroy.

Starting back up in January is the Book Club for Kids who are ages 9 years and up, held the second Wednesday of each month at 3 p.m. The first meeting of the Book Club for Kids will be Jan. 12, 2022.

The monthly Whiting Library Book Club for Adults welcomes new readers at any time. The book club reads a wide variety of fiction and nonfiction titles and meets for a discussion in a hybrid in-person and Zoom meeting each third Wednesday of the month at 3 p.m. Email whitinglibrary1@gmail.com if you would like to receive the book club emails.

The library will be hosting two informational sessions for the Chester-Andover 100% Campaign for food and fuel security, put on by Senior Solutions and the Chester-Andover Family Center. Thom Simmons will be at the library Dec. 8, from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m., and again Dec. 11, from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m., answering any and all questions about food and fuel assistance available to local residents. If you need more information about what benefits you are eligible for and how to fill out the right forms, come to the library for all the resources you need.

Whiting Library has a new art exhibit by celebrated local artist Jeanne Carbonetti. Jeanne's paintings are known for their luminous, vivid colors, strong composition and fluidity, appearing almost as if the paint is still wet and moving on the paper. These paintings will brighten up your day!

All paintings are for sale and half of the proceeds from artwork purchased from the library will go towards the library. Thank you, Jeanne, for this beautiful exhibit and for your generous collaboration with the library to support future programs and events for the community.

You can find more information about all Whiting Library programs on our website, www.whitinglibrary.org, or by calling 802-875-2277. Sign up for our monthly e-newsletter to receive programming and event information direct to your inbox.

FOLA releases schedule for coming 2022 season

LUDLOW, Vt. – At its recent meeting, FOLA approved an event schedule for the coming 2022 season, which will consist of 14 movies, two public forums, and a Metropolitan Opera.

Among the movies scheduled for 2022 are a documentary on the Apollo 11 flight to the moon, a three-film series of comedian and actor Robin Williams' great films, a silent movie of director Alfred Hitchcock's "The Lodger" featuring Jeff Rapsis' musical background, and a Harry Potter film for the Christmas season.

Since 2022 is an election year, FOLA will sponsor two public forums dealing with the primary election, which should be interesting given the open U.S. Senate and House seats, plus a general election candidate forum.

A scene from the Metropolitan Opera's presentation of the comic opera, "The Merry Widow," which will be a first-time feature in FOLA's 2022 season.

PHOTO PROVIDED

As a first for FOLA and the Ludlow area, plans have been made to show a comic opera, "The Merry Widow," featuring the great soprano, Renee Fleming. As FOLA Chairperson Ralph Pace noted, "This is an opera you'll leave whistling for all others when attending events in the Heald Auditorium of Ludlow Town Hall.

According to Program Director Scott Stearns, other events may be added during the season.

All of these events will continue to be free and open to everyone. FOLA will continue to observe the Ludlow town policies concerning Covid-19. Currently, that policy calls for masks required for unvaccinated persons and recommended for all others when attending events in the Heald Auditorium of Ludlow Town Hall.

For more information, call 802-228-7239 or go to www.fola.us.

Submit short story, essay, or poem for Vermont Writers' Prize

COLCHESTER, Vt. – Green Mountain Power and Vermont Magazine are urging writers to get their entries ready for one of the state's premiere literary contests, the Vermont Writer's Prize. The prize is awarded in two categories – prose and poetry. Each winner receives $1,250 and their works will be published in Vermont Magazine's Summer 2022 issue.

Submissions can be essays, short stories, or poems that focus on "Vermont – Its People, Its Places, Its History or Its Values." The prize was launched in 1989 to celebrate writing about Vermont and Vermonters, while honoring the literary legacy of the late Ralph Nading Hill Jr., a Vermont historian and writer and longtime member of GMP's board of directors.

"Vermont is full of wonderful perspectives, and what Vermont means to us is different for everyone. Each year we receive heartfelt reflections on the Vermont experience, and I'm looking forward to reading the latest entries to see how our amazing state inspires another group of talented Vermonters," said Steve Costello, writers' prize judge and vice president at GMP.

Entries are being accepted now, and the deadline is Jan. 1, 2022. They must be unpublished, works of prose fewer than 1,500 words, and poems fewer than 40 lines. Individuals may submit only one work. Entrants may be amateur or professional writers. Employees of Vermont Magazine or Green Mountain Power and previous winners are ineligible.

You can submit your entry to www.vermontwritersprize.submittable.com/submit/86155/vermont-writers-prize.

SBW Douglas Cuddle Toys Good Friends Campaign

WALPOLE, N.H. – Savings Bank of Walpole and the Monadnock Broadcasting Group/KNE-FM are once again teaming up with Douglas Cuddle Toys to raise money to benefit a local nonprofit. This year's nonprofit is Monadnock Understands Childhood Hunger. The campaign kicked off Friday, Nov. 12.

Throughout the holiday season, SBW branches will serve as point-of-sale locations, selling stuffed animals generously donated by Douglas Cuddle Toys. MUCH receives 100% of the sale proceeds and uses the funds to help the community and those in need. This year's warm and fuzzy fundraising ambassadors include Valeria Princess Unicorn, Polar Bear Softie, Paya Panda, and Bolt Australian Cattle Dog.

"The Good Friends campaign is an annual event that all of us at SBW look forward to each year, especially this year when some traditional events still aren't happening. It's a way for us to showcase our community's local spirit and commitment to help others," says Mark Bodin, president for Savings Bank of Walpole.

"Raising money for a local nonprofit like MUCH is important because the proceeds enable them to provide food and a number of related resources that help children and families in our community. Of course, the campaign wouldn't be possible without the generous donation of stuffed animals and all the effort of everyone at Douglas Cuddle Toys, as well as the participation of KNE-FM and the Monadnock Broadcasting Group."

Come and get your Good Friends today!

Black River Academy Players present “It’s a Wonderful Life”

LUDLOW, Vt. – The Black River Academy Players are in rehearsal for a presentation of the inspiring Christmas tale,

Under the direction of Stephanie Rowe, the beloved tale will be brought to life on the Hearld Auditorium stage at Ludlow Town Hall as a 1940s-style radio on stage production. Dressed in formal attire of the period, actors, behind microphones, will perform by reading from authentically formatted radio scripts to bring back the golden age of live radio shows.

Live sound effects of door knocks, bells ringing, and fights will add to the fun while the themes in Frank Capra’s original production will remain intact. Eight local actors are participating in the show. Tuckerman Wunderle of Chester takes on the role of George Bailey, the man who learns after despair that he really has had a wonderful life. Actors Tom Field, Don Gray, and Irene Ramen of Springfield take on multiple roles, as do Maia Gilmore of Ludlow, April Lawrence of Charlestown, and Paul and Mary Faenza of Mount Holly. Set aside the evenings of Dec. 10 and 11 at 7 p.m. to see this marvelous story brought to life.

The Dance Factory presents “The Nutcracker” 30th anniversary

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. – Join Clara on her magical journey to the Kingdom of the Sweets in the Dance Factory’s production of “The Nutcracker.” This year marks the 30th anniversary of the family-friendly holiday tradition, which annually delights upwards of 800 attendees. The full-length, professionally costumed spectacle will be staged at Green Mountain Union High School in Chester, Vt., Saturday, Dec. 11 at 7 p.m. and Sunday, Dec. 12 at 2 p.m.

“It’s been wonderful to have been a part of ‘The Nutcracker’ since its start,” says Dance Factory owner Kate DeRosia, who has seen the show grow in scope and complexity. The production now has so many costumes that a climate-controlled room was built in the studio’s basement to house them all. The numerous custom set pieces include a growing Christmas tree, a life-sized sleigh, and an ornate bespoke throne, and require a dedicated set crew – including DeRosia and husband Mark.

When asked about her backstage duties, DeRosia laughs and says, “We do anything and everything that needs to be done!” She adds, “Seeing the joy on the dancers’ faces, their parents, friends, and extended family, makes every difficulty worthwhile.”

“The Nutcracker” has given hundreds of local dancers an invaluable pre-professional performance experience, including the opportunity to dance soloist roles which many dance schools outsource to professionals. This year Madailein Wolf, 16, of Springfield, and Ayla Price, 16, of Plymouth will alternate the roles of Snow Queen and Sugar Plum Fairy, while Millie Allen, 13, of Springfield will be featured as Clara. Ben Haseltine, a Chester native currently attending the University of Hartford, returns to perform as the Nutcracker Prince. The principals anchor a cast of youth and adult dancers from southern Vermont and New Hampshire. The show is directed by Ashley Hensel-Browning, with choreography by Hensel-Browning and Dance Factory founder, Susan Hagan.

While “The Nutcracker” functions in part as a showcase for Dance Factory students, it was designed as a way to bring accessible arts to the community, a tradition that owner DeRosia enthusiastically continues. To lower the financial burden of attendance, ticket prices are kept low. For those who cannot attend in person, performances are recorded and broadcast by SAPA TV. Through its history, in excess of $20,000 in proceeds have been donated to local arts initiatives, including the Springfield High School Drama Club.

Advance tickets are strongly encouraged this year and can be purchased at Tina’s Hallmark and Woodbury Florist in Springfield, and in Chester at Sage Jewelry and Gifts, and Blair Books. Online tickets are available through Eventbrite: www.tinyurl.com/d6nx5xyd.

Limited tickets will be available at the door. Please note that masks will be required of all audience members as per district Covid regulations.

Support for “The Nutcracker” has been generously provided by the following local sponsors: Bean Group, Bibens Ace Hardware, Denise E. Photography, Edgar May Health & Recreation Center, Edward Jones, Gurney Brothers Construction, Halladay’s Flowers and Gifts, HB Energy Solutions, Heritage Deli and Bakery, Inn at Weathersfield, National Field Representatives, Six Loose Ladies, Smokeshire Design, Springfield Co-op, Style House Salon, Tina’s Hallmark, and Willow Farms.

The Dance Factory was founded in 1984 and offers quality instruction in ballet, pointe, acro, modern, hip hop, jazz, tap, yoga, and preschool dance. Located on Main Street in Springfield, the remodeled space boasts two studios with high ceilings and professional dance floors. Winter session began Nov. 29, and all enrolled students are eligible to dance in the spring recital. Late registration is being accepted for some classes. For more information, please visit www.DanceFactoryVT.com.

Call for volunteer home visitors, respite volunteers, and referrals

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. – Senior Solutions is seeking volunteers for its Home Visitor programs. This area agency on aging, which supports adults to age in place with dignity and independence, serves southeastern Vermont and has a number of opportunities for volunteers to provide support and companionship to their older neighbors.

Friendly Visitors is a free program that connects volunteers of any age with those who may benefit from companionship. Visitors may also provide assistance with shopping, errands, and transportation to community events and activities. Senior Companions engage in many of the same activities as Friendly Visitors. In addition, they receive an hourly stipend and must meet age and income requirements.

Vet-to-Vet Vermont builds relationships between veterans that keep them connected to their military community while providing companionship with a veteran buddy. Respite Volunteers provide a block of time to sit with an individual who needs companionship and supervision. These volunteers are trained to provide practical care and allow caregivers to have some time for themselves.

Volunteers in all of the programs receive mileage reimbursement. Senior Solutions is also looking for referrals of people who would benefit from such services. To volunteer for any of the programs, or to refer someone who could benefit from them, please call the Senior Solutions Help Line at 802-885-2669 or toll free at 866-673-8376. You can find out more about Senior Solutions by going to its website at www.seniorsolutionsvt.org.

Governor Phil Scott relaunches Vermont Lights the Way

MONTPELIER, Vt. – Gov. Phil Scott is again encouraging Vermonters to help show Vermont Lights the Way, an effort to literally brighten communities and neighborhoods around the state by decorating homes, businesses, buildings, or other creative ideas to help celebrate the holidays during the pandemic. “When we started this initiative last year, it was one of the only ways for us to connect with our neighbors and communities during the holidays. I’m very grateful that we have come so far this year thanks to vaccines, and we can continue this tradition with hope and optimism before us,” said Gov.

Scott. “Time and time again, Vermonters show why we’re known for strong, close-knit communities and a willingness to step up to help one another. Vermont truly does light the way and there is no better time of year to brighten up our state for all to enjoy.” In addition to decorating, Vermonters should share pictures of their displays – or favorites from around the community – on social media using the hashtag #VTLightsTheWay. This will allow those who are unable to tour the lights to take part in the celebration, and photos will be shared through the governor’s channels and at his weekly press conferences. The governor is also asking Vermonters to help him recognize people for their acts of kindness and service by nominating them for a Rays of Kindness recognition. Rays of Kindness recognizes Vermonters for small acts of service and goodwill. Nominations can be submitted at www.governor.vermont.gov/rays-of-kindness. Nominees will receive a recognition certificate, and some will be featured at the governor’s weekly press conferences or on his social media channels. “Seeing all the lights around the state last year had such a positive impact, lifting the spirits of many. As we look toward an even brighter future, this continues to be a great way to spread holiday cheer, goodwill, and community spirit,” said Gov. Scott.

Vermont Fish & Wildlife has online license gift certificates

MONTPELIER, Vt. – Finding a gift that will continue to give for a full year is a challenge, but the Vermont Fish & Wildlife Department has a solution on their website – a license gift certificate for hunting and fishing licenses. “It’s the perfect gift for a friend or family member who hunts or fishes,” said Cheri Waters, Fish & Wildlife’s licensing coordinator. “You can go to our website, fill out the gift certificate, and pay for it online, and then you can print the certificate to present to your recipient.” The gift certificate has a link in the license section of the Vermont Fish & Wildlife website, www.vtfishandwildlife.com. The person who receives the certificate must go to the website to redeem their certificate and purchase their licenses. “If you have a friend or relative who hunts or fishes, this is an easy gift-giving solution,” said Waters. “The gift certificate will cover licenses for 2022 or for licenses in future years.”
