Ludlow voters defeat cannabis retail sales for second time

BY SHARON HUNTLEY
The Vermont Journal

LUDLOW, Vt. – Ludlow voters rejected the retail cannabis article for a second time during a special election on Tuesday, Jan. 11. The final vote count was 249 ‘No,’ versus 204 ‘Yes.’

An earlier vote on Tuesday, Nov. 2 also ended in defeat but by a scant 17-vote margin with 179 voting ‘No’ and 162 voting ‘Yes.’ The slim differential prompted Andrea Goldman and partner Meredith Milliken, the duo who established “Gotta Love Ludlow” and were behind the initial legislation, to submit a petition for revote.

Although initially receiving encouragement from several business owners and supporters to try again, a recent spate of social media backlash forewarned that the second vote would likely not turn out in their favor, according to Goldman.

Although disappointed, Goldman and Milliken were grateful that they were able to provide information and education on the subject in an effort to help the town. “The real important thing is that from day one we tried to benefit the town both from a financial and from a public health standpoint,” Goldman said.

The Black River Area Community Coalition has been the most vocal opposition to the cannabis sales measure in Ludlow. Ac-ording to Executive Director Paul Faenza of BRACC, the organization’s mission has been the prevention of marijuana use, as well as alcohol and other drugs, among children.

In 2016, BRACC partnered with Ludlow to pass an ordinance prohibiting a vape and marijuana paraphernalia shop from taking residence in town. Faenza was concerned when the vote for cannabis sales came up, but hoped that Ludlow would choose to support the spirit of the earlier ordinance and was happy with the first vote outcome.

Once aware of the revote, Faenza said he was confident it would be defeated again because so many people called or emailed him with their support saying, “We don’t need this for our town.”

“We were confident after the first vote and hoping for the outcome that we got, and we’re happy,” Faenza said.

Goldman and Milliken

meanwhile are content to stay in the home they’ve had in Ludlow for 18 years and figure out new ways to help benefit the town of Ludlow. As for retail cannabis, they say they still firmly believe in the cause and are willing help others who may be looking to take up the mantle in their own towns.

Final statewide rules for adult cannabis sales should be adopted by Vermont state legislators in March 2022, and licenses will be issued to towns who have voted to opt-in, in October of 2022.

Collateral beauty brings restoration to Stone Hearth Inn and the Muscoe family

BY SHARON HUNTLEY
The Vermont Journal

CHESTER, Vt. – The new owners of The Stone Hearth Inn are embarking on their new adventure to restore and re-open the re-named “Stone Hearth Inn and Eatery” as a way for their family to heal after the sudden loss of husband and father, Nick Mustoe at the age of 49.

Vicky Mustoe, who herself is a seasoned property manager from Florida, and her children professional chef Connor, professional baker Georgia, and innkeeper-in-training Edward, have embarked on their new journey to restore the former Chester inn to its original glory as part of a family project to keep their family together as they continue to mend.

According to Vicky, it was the children who approached her with the idea to run an inn all together.

As it was approaching two years since their father had passed, they all agreed it was time for a change and the kids, though they are well into adulthood, wanted to be together.

They set their sights on a way to get back to a simpler life. Georgia had always liked Vermont and is a skier who would like to learn to snowboard. Also, they all missed the seasons.

Having a son and daughter who are both graduates of the Culinary Institute of America focused the family on a property that included a restaurant. Edward, the youngest of the three at 20-years-old, will take on the management, marketing, and maintenance side of running an inn under Vicky’s tutelage.

The new inn is currently undergoing extensive renovations, with restoration as a focus. “I want to bring her back to what she should be originally,” said

Vicky. The family has discovered that the original hardwood floor is underneath the other flooring and will be bringing the original floors back to life. The kitchen renovations will be updated to include bread ovens and other improvements that dovetail with their culinary expertise.

The décor will also revert to a Victorian style with twists for modern comfort, according to Vicky. The Inn will function as a true bed and breakfast, with fresh pastries and breakfast offered daily to guests.

The bar will be renovated into more of a counter space, although beer, wine, and some “spiked drinks” will be offered. They will be open for lunch and dinner with “a very casual and friendly dining area,” and are planning to expand outside with a back deck and additional seating.

The changing menu will reflect farm-to-table available produce with Connor taking the reins in the kitchen. Georgia will be working side-by-side with Connor, focusing on fresh baked pastries and breads, many of which may also be available for sale on a small scale. With their focus on the kitchen and culinary arts, the family plans to offer travel packages that include cooking and baking lessons, led either by themselves or guest chefs.

Vicky is excited for whatever comes next and was pleased to see that the red cardinals, which she identified as a sign from Nick, had followed them to Vermont, making an appearance on New Year’s Day. Nick’s former “power desk” is also in place in the office, for both Connor and Georgia’s use, another reminder for the family.

“For me, it’s an exciting adventure and project but also for me, it’s giving these kids purpose to carry on especially after losing their father,” Vicky said.

“We’re super excited and with each step we’re doing it’s getting better and better,” she said.

The family expects the inn to be ready for a grand opening sometime in March.

Possible resolution of Tierney Road dispute ahead in 2022

BY SHARON HUNTLEY
The Vermont Journal

CAVENDISH, Vt. – During their Jan. 11 meeting, the Cavendish Selectboard updated the town on several local issues including a possible future settlement amongst Tierney Road residents over a controversial proposed Snowstone quarry.

Current discussions happening at the Vermont Supreme Court and their interpretation of the state’s ACT 250 legislation may have implications that impact many new zoning towns including Cavendish. Depending on their interpretation, any parcel of land under one acre, may be open for skirting any ACT 250 oversight.

That debate is ongoing and a final decision on the matter is likely weeks or months away. In the meantime, Cavendish Town Manager Brendan McNamara said the town will keep following the issue to see how this might affect the town. He is also talking to the town counsel to find out what the town’s next steps might be specifically toward zoning if the ACT 250 statute interpretation is changed.

Tierney Road resident Mike Harrington, who has also served as a spokesperson for the Tierney Road residents, told the board that at the end of 2021, his group heard from the Snowstone lawyer who asked if there was any interest in a collaborative resolution in 2022, and Harrington said that as far as he, and other Tierney Road residents were concerned, “Absolutely.”

According to Harrington, all the Tierney Road landowners who have stood in opposition against Snowstone, have put Harrington in charge of ‘course of direction’ so if there were to be a settlement, he would be the only one in the room with the attorney, the other stakeholders, and their attorneys negotiating the outcome. “I really feel like trying to reach a settlement is the right thing to do for all the parties involved including the town,” Harrington said. He said they would be looking for a settlement agreement where everybody gets a piece of the pie and can start to mend fences.

In other town business, the town has still to decide how they will structure town meetings since the state has approved towns to adopt remote options due to Covid-19 precautions. They will also be deciding how to structure their selectboard meetings, whether to go with a hybrid or all virtual option. McNamara is looking at options for purchasing equipment, covered under ARPA funds, to equip the town office for that purpose.

An ongoing animal control issue has McNamara trying to determine next steps over two dogs who have been continually getting loose along Route 131 for the past several years. Fines in excess of $7,000 have been levied against the owners but haven’t been paid and it has not fixed the problem. McNamara is exploring what other options he might have with the town’s attorney.

Resident and volunteer firefighter Chris Marks has been appointed as Fire Warden, after Roger Shehan resigned from the post. First draft of next year’s budget has been distributed to the select board, with special budget meetings starting last week.

As part of their discussions, the board will consider a request by resident Mark Huntley, speaking on behalf of the Black River Valley Senior Center, who asked earlier in the meeting for an increase in the allocation for Meals on Wheels for Cavendish residents. Huntley hopes the raise the amount from $2,500 to $5,000.

The next regular Cavendish Selectboard meeting is scheduled for Monday, Feb. 14 at 6:30 p.m. at the Cavendish Town Office.

Rotary hears update on real estate market

LUDLOW, Vt. – On Tuesday, Jan. 11, the Ludlow Rotary Club heard from Lisa Kelley, President of the Crown Point Board of Realtors, who spoke regarding the current real estate market in the area and its future.

Kelley stated that home prices were at a peak in June. This is a seller's market, which makes it hard to buy in the area, and there is little inventory of homes for sale. On average, houses are only on the market for six days, Kelley said, which makes it difficult for local residents to break into this market when looking for a house. Kelley also predicted that mortgage rates would only increase over the next couple of years.

Buyers with resources purchase land as an alternative only to find that builders are currently booking into 2023. Kelley stated that buyers who work remotely need high speed fiber optics, which is causing a lot of demand in Mount Holly since the internet there is so fast.

In terms of the local economy, Kelley noted that second homeowners don't visit local shops on a daily basis, which puts local business at a disadvantage and also makes the community less affordable.

Kelley cautioned the Ludlow Rotary to expect more foreclosures. She said that some properties have been foreclosed for more than two years because of the backlog in the business. Besides this, Kelley said, rentals are also expensive in Ludlow.

Lisa Kelley has been a realtor from Mount Holly for 16 years and is the former owner of the Belmont General Store. It was her father-in-law, Larry Kelley, himself a long time Ludlow Rotarian, who initially urged her to get her realtor's license. Lisa Kelley is a state director of the CPBR in addition to being president. She is also active in the Mount Holly community.

Anyone interested in learning more about Rotary is invited to contact Kevin Barnes, Membership Chairman, at 802-228-8877 to receive an invitation to a meeting.

Vermont updates “Test at Home” program for K-12

MONTPELIER, Vt. – The Agency of Education and the Department of Health announced new “Test at Home” guidance about testing and quarantine protocols at Vermont’s K-12 schools. This program replaces the in-school “Test to Stay” program for presumptive close contacts of positive Covid-19 cases with an “at-home” based rapid testing process.

State officials said the speed at which the Omicron variant spreads means that the current strategy is too slow and logistically burdensome to be workable for many schools. This new approach addresses the current state of the pandemic in Vermont by allowing schools to respond more quickly, and reducing the burden of contact tracing and testing on staff, which will help schools stay open and functioning as normal as possible.

Like “Test to Stay,” the “Test at Home” initiative makes use of rapid antigen tests to keep students and staff safe and in school. “Test at Home” moves the location of the testing to at-home, before school, giving families flexibility and reducing the logistical burden on schools, families, and students. Schools still have access to in-school antigen tests, as well as PCR and other tests, to respond to students who become symptomatic at school, or who may have difficulty testing at home.

Under the new procedures, when an individual tests positive at a school, or a school is informed that a student or staff member is positive, the school will inform families of children in class with someone who tests positive for Covid-19 and the following steps should be taken:

If a student in that classroom is vaccinated, or if a staff member is vaccinated and has received their booster dose:

- They may remain in the classroom and do not need to quarantine, and they will be given two rapid antigen tests to take home for use on the fourth and fifth days after learning of their possible exposure.

If a student is unvaccinated:

- They or their parents can pick up rapid test kits from the school and test the student at home each morning for five days. During that five-day period, the student can continue to attend school, if they test negative each day. They do not need to bring proof of the negative test to school.

- If they choose not to test, they must stay at home for five days and can return to school after five days if they have no symptoms. Taking a PCR or LAMP test is recommended on or after day five.

Students who are identified as close contacts outside of school, as well as school staff who are not fully vaccinated (primary vaccine and booster shot) and have a possible exposure, can also pick up rapid tests from their schools and follow the same five-day protocol. Additionally, in the coming weeks, school nurses will be provided rapid PCR-like tests so that they can quickly test any symptomatic students or staff on-site.

School testing guidance and information can be found on the Agency of Education website at www.education.vermont.gov/covid19/testing.

Boys will be boys

First you’ll notice a handsome goat hitched to a small wagon with two boys. From a technical standpoint, this is about as good as a photograph can get. The photographer understood how to use sunlight to his advantage. It is extremely sharp with the best tonal qualities. In the hands of a competent photographer these postcards are works of art.

This postcard was never posted and was protected in a postcard album for a hundred years, so it survives in amazing condition. It dates 1910-1920.

The goat

The goat is a stocky critter with a long beard. His long horns have a slight twist. Notice the bit in his mouth. Across the side of his face is a leather strap. Another strap around his neck connects to the harness strap around his girth. The harness is professionally made, unlike the wagon.

The wagon

The wagon is a hoot. It’s a homemade jitney, possibly made by the boys.

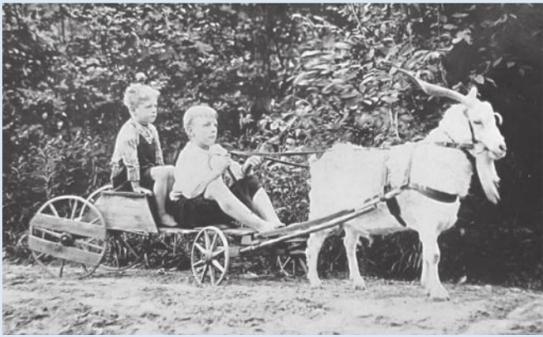

Notice the two thin boards, probably from something like an apple crate, that reinforce the rear wheel. This could have been problematic at higher speeds or over rough ground.

Equally important is the floor of the wagon. It too is made of wood and bends slightly under the weight of the two boys. The older brother holds the reins. Both boys are barefoot. The boy in the rear appears to be wearing overalls.

I think some readers in their 50s or older will remember these creative endeavors.

What could go wrong?

If the goat got to running very fast, I think the rear wheel would self-destruct. This would create a problem. Another problem would be if the floor broke under the excess weight. The driver would be laid almost on his back, still drawn by the goat. The younger boy would get the worst of it. The floor in front of the younger boy would hit the ground and dig in, catapulting the younger boy forward. In my family the youngest was expendable.

“Billy, Me and my Brother.”

While I don’t remember the following incident, I remember hearing about it. My older brother Brian and, I think it was, Milan Cook, built something like a soapbox derby car. After a few trial runs they went to the top of High Street to Cassista’s to make a Mario Andretti run. I don’t remember who was driving. At the entrance to our driveway on High Street was a large elm tree. Crash!

I remember building a go-cart when I was 14, using the motor from an old chain saw.

My father worked at J&L. He made a sprocket and welded it to the rear axle. We put a bicycle chain from the rear sprocket to the sprocket on the chain saw. In order to start it, I put a block of wood under the rear axle so the wheels were off the ground.

Then all you had to do was start the chainsaw. Sitting on the go-cart, you would rock the go-cart back and forth until it dropped off the wood block and then you hit the trigger. Zoom, how it would take off, burning gravel!

It didn’t have any brakes and it kept breaking down so I traded it to another kid for an English bike.

Postcard information

In very faint white letters at the bottom left of the postcard is: “Billy, Me, and my Brother.” On the back where the message would have been written is: “Photo made by Porter C. Thayer, Williamsville, Vt.”

Williamsville is not far out of Newfane. While I collect local postcards, some out of the area cards I just can’t refuse, this being one. It takes me back to a time when I was a boy.

Many people don’t realize real photo postcards are exactly that, a photo. Instead of printing the photo on paper like you are familiar with today, they were printed on heavier postcard stock.

Many of these postcards were produced from dry plate glass negatives. Collecting postcards became the rage beginning about 1906 into the 1920s. Everyone collected them.

You could mail friends or family members far away a photo from home, and with a message. It was the emailing of the day.

The Chester Historical Society meeting scheduled for January is canceled. We’ll see where we are in February with the Covid-19. I’ll keep you posted through this column.

This week’s old saying: “It’s better to die on your feet than to live on your knees.”

New Year tax scams

REGION – Happy New Year! Scammers have been tuning up for weeks and their efforts are coming to life.

With the tax year ending, many are collecting paperwork for filings and anticipating receipt of necessary forms. Beware of email messages, text messages, and telephone calls from government agencies such as the IRS and the Social Security Administration. The notices may carry alerts regarding unpaid tax bills, incomplete paperwork, benefits change, or a need to update files. Often the messages carry dire warnings of fines or arrest if you fail to comply immediately.

Just the receipt of such a warning can be emotionally traumatizing and establish a degree of fear. These notifications should be seen as a four-letter word in your vocabulary: scam!

Government agencies use the U. S. Postal Service for communications, not text messages, emails, or phone calls. They will not threaten you with comments like “Failure to immediately respond will result in imprisonment.”

There a few very simple steps to take:

- Take a deep breath, stop, and think.
- If you receive a phone call, hang up and don’t worry about being rude; if it’s a text or email, simply close the device window; don’t immediately erase the message.
- Use a reliable contact number and call the agency or department that allegedly issued the notice to ask if they are reaching out to you, and if not, report the scam. You will likely be asked for details including the means used by the scammer.
- After reporting the contact, erase the text or email. Never try to respond using the contact information in the scam message. Too often, the intended victim, at best, opens herself or himself to additional targeting; at worst, the intended victim provides personal information that can be used in identity theft.

Leonard T. Carlisle, 1929-2022

CHESTER, Vt. – Leonard Tucker Carlisle was born Oct. 4, 1929 in Chester, Vt., to William H. "Tuck" Carlisle and Margaret (Holman) Carlisle. He passed away peacefully in his sleep Sunday, Jan. 9, 2022 at the Gill Odd Fellows Home. He grew up in Chester and then Cavendish.

He started school in Chester Stone Village's one room schoolhouse. They didn't have running water or electricity so, every day, there were chores to do, carrying water and filling the wood box. When they moved to Cavendish they had electricity and he loved playing with the light switch on the wall.

Leonard joined the United States Navy Nov. 22, 1946, in the Korean War, active duty in Japan and San Diego, and was discharged Sept. 21, 1951. He hitchhiked across the country to return home to Vermont.

Leonard was part of the work crew that built the Proctorsville Gulf Road, worked on the Roundy farm as a young teen, drove a bread delivery route, and in 1956 he started at General Electric in Ludlow, transferring to the new plant in Rutland, where he benched dies and trained many new bench hands for over 35 years, retiring in 1991.

When still a young boy, his family moved to Cavendish where he met his future wife, Joan Gilson, when Joan was 13 years old. Joan was the little sister of Leonard's friend Ronnie, and they spent their days trying to "get away from" Joan. That changed after Leonard returned from his stint in the Navy, and he and Joan began dating. They married in Proctorsville on Feb. 7, 1953. They had four daughters.

Leonard was a proud Vermonter all his life. He was proud of being a universal blood donor, giving many gallons through many years. He was a lifelong Red Sox fan, listening to the games on his pocket transistor radio and earplug, going to Fenway Park, and going to Cooperstown to see the Baseball Hall of Fame. He was a member of the American Legion and Loyal Order of the Moose. He loved to play cards - especially cribbage; play horseshoes at GE lunch hours, winning many tournaments; teaching his daughters how to play these, and badminton, and softball along with all the neighborhood children; swimming at the swimming hole and skating at the fire station. He was an accomplished carpenter, renovating his home (an original Sears package house) to add a second floor to make room for all his daughters. He helped renovate the Holy Name of Mary Community Building, and helped with some renovations at the Cavendish Baptist Church and painting at the Gill Home. He was quite an artist, drawing and carving statues, making wooden toys, and showing them to all. His cars had moving steering wheels and doors that opened. His animals had manes and tails made from Joan's old leather pocketbooks. He enjoyed deer hunting. He was a whiz at jigsaw puzzles. He attended all the ball-games of his daughters and grandchildren. He made ice igloos for his daughters to play in. He loved babies and children. Leonard and Joan went to the Cafe at Delight, the restaurant co-owned by daughter Sheryl, every day for lunch for years, delivering his delicious pies that were on the menu, making many friends and helping with end of day duties. He was a terrific dad, grandfather, husband, father-in-law, uncle and friend to all. All of us were very lucky to have him in our lives.

He is survived by his four daughters, Roxanne (Mike) Mackey, Theresa (Peter) Southworth, Sheryl (Howard Paul) Guica, and Lisa (Scott) Spooner; his grandchildren Desiree Guica, Adrienne Guica, Bradley (Kim) Southworth, Aaron (Ashley) Southworth, and Cole Spooner; his great-grandchildren Alessia Guica, Cadence Paul; Connor, Tucker and Lucas Southworth; sister-in-law Patricia (Verne) Mossey; brother-in-law Allen Coleman; many nieces, nephews.

He was predeceased by his parents; his wife of 63 years Joan in 2016; his sisters Edna (Arthur) Stocker and Clarissa Coleman; his brother Glenn "Johnnie" (Jannette) Carlisle; brother-in-law Ronnie (Goldie) Gilson; sister-in-law Janet (Ozzie) Pikkarainen; mother/father-in-law Jesse and Clarinda Gilson.

Services will be in the spring in Cavendish. Clifford Funeral Home is assisting with all arrangements.

Dear Editor,

Yesterday my son asked if we could add Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday to the short list of holidays that we start with a cup of hot chocolate. Up to now, it's been Thanksgiving, Christmas, New Year's Day, and the kids' birthdays.

What my son really said was, "I was talking with Mom, and she says that Martin Luther King would want us to have hot chocolate on his birthday."

Mom does know best as usual. Hot chocolate is a great way to start Martin Luther King's birthday.

Dear Editor,

We want to thank all of the homeowners, property owners, and businesses in Ludlow, Cavendish, and Plymouth who so generously responded to our request for financial support again this year. Without your help, the Black River Valley Senior Center would not be able to offer the services it does to the residents of your towns throughout the

Dear Editor,

The 2022 Vermont Legislative Session is off and running. As this is the second year of our Biennium, we dove right in on Tuesday, Jan. 4. Sadly, this is also the second year in which the Covid-19 pandemic is impacting our ability to conduct our business in person at the Vermont Statehouse. Given the anticipated post-holiday surge of Covid-19 cases, coupled with the tidal wave of the Omicron variant just hitting Vermont, it seemed the prudent move to begin our 2022 Session remotely to protect the health and safety of the public, our members, and staff. While we are disappointed to have to delay in-person work, it is wonderful that we have an effective electronic alternative and can meet via Zoom.

As a result of the Legislature's pivot to online meetings, the public now has the greatest increase in access to our work in our history. Every Committee meeting is available to watch in real time on YouTube. Those links can be found on our Legislative webpage: www.legislature.vermont.gov. If you are interested in following an issue, I encourage you explore this website. Each Committee webpage has the Agenda for the week, the YouTube links, the bills in that Committee, and all the Reports and Documents supporting the Committees work. Never has Vermont's legislative work been so transparent and accessible.

Our Legislative priorities revolve around four key areas: Workforce, Housing, Climate Change, and the continued work of responding to Covid-19's persistent challenges and the needs of Vermonters. Plus, it is a year with a number of things we must do: Re-Appointment (precipitated by the Census), vote the two Constitutional amendments out of the Legislature and to the public for November's election, act on the Climate Council's recommendations, and respond to the recommendations made by some key off-Session Task Forces which addressed: Pensions, Education Finance and the Weighting Formula, and Health

The facts are, my family is learning to honor the Martin Luther King holiday just as highly as we honor Christmas and Veterans Day.

2019 was the 400th anniversary of slavery in America. Martin Luther King, who lived and died to lead our nation to overcome that dreadful foundation, does command our attention on this day. A cup of hot chocolate is the least we could do, right?

Sincerely,
Sean Whalen

Care Affordability. In addition, addressing Social Equity issues is a priority. Of course, there are the perennial requirements for a Legislative Session like the Budget and Judicial Retention. And, we only have five months to do this work, as we usually adjourn in mid-May.

This Session I continue to serve you in the Senate as vice-chair of Senate Economic Development, Housing and General Affairs, and on Senate Government Operations. In addition, I am the Majority Leader in the Senate. I have been appointed to work on the Senate Re-Appointment Committee and State Workforce Development Board. I am also a member of the Climate Solutions Caucus, the Women's Caucus, and the Social Equity Caucus.

We have a lot to do in short order. In response to Covid-19's continuing impact on our ability to gather safely in person, Senate Government Operations moved swiftly to enable the safe functioning of democracy. We set a new record, passing out three bills in the first four days of Session, two of which have passed the Senate Floor already, and one of which has made it to the Governor's desk to be signed. For a second year, we needed to make it possible in 2022 for Towns to move Town Meeting, to vote by Australian Ballot, to hold Informational Meetings and public meetings remotely, and for local candidates to not have to collect signatures.

I appreciate hearing from you. I can be reached by email at alarkson@leg.state.vt.us or by phone at 802-457-4627. To watch Legislative Committees in action and to get more information on the Vermont Legislature, the bills which are being debated now, and those which have been proposed and passed, visit the legislative website www.legislature.vermont.gov.

Sincerely,
Alison Clarkson

Jeffrey P. Laskevich, 2022

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. – Jeffrey P. Laskevich, 62, of Springfield, Vt. passed away unexpectedly at his home on Thursday, Jan. 13, 2022. He was born and raised in Springfield, Vt., the son of John and Beverly Laskevich. Jeff graduated from Springfield High School in the class of 1977. He married his wife, Sharon Graves, in 1984. They set off on an adventure to Southern California in 1986 where they lived for eight years, creating many lifelong friendships.

Jeff was a Senior Manufacturing Engineer at Macdonald Douglas in Huntington Beach, Calif. On Aug. 17, 2013, Jeff was inducted into the International Space Hall of Fame in Alamogordo, N.M. for his role in the DC-X/XA Team. Jeff returned to Springfield with his growing family in 1993. He went on to spend 25 years working at Lovejoy Tool Company. Jeff was appreciated for his flexibility and dedication to the company. Jeff’s love for learning was never ending, and at the age of 50 he decided to try a new venture. Jeff was known for his huge heart and generosity, offering a helping hand whenever possible. Jeff made a friend everywhere he went; he opened his life to anyone without judgment. His big smile and laugh were extremely contagious. Friends and family describe Jeff as the life of the party. He could always be found telling stories and singing his favorite songs.

As an avid hunter, Jeff simply enjoyed being in the woods. He loved watching the wildlife and would spend countless hours observing, scouting, and soaking in all nature had to offer. He shared this love with his daughters and anyone who showed an interest. He loved passing his knowledge on to others and sharing with them the peace he felt while there. In 1971, Jeff received his Marksman certification. Jeff also enjoyed many other hobbies including fishing, gardening, and road trips around the country.

Most importantly, Jeff loved his family. He was a devoted father to his daughters who cherished every moment spent with him. Raising three daughters with his wife was the accomplishment Jeff was most proud of. He was unconditionally supportive. Jeff often talked about how blessed he felt to have his family. He felt lucky to have gained three amazing sons and their spontaneous adventures were always filled with laughs. Jeff’s grandchildren brought out his playfulness. He loved to give buggy rides around the farm and pull pranks, always keeping them laughing.

Jeff is survived by his wife of 37 years, Sharon; his daughters Jennifer Williams (Kevin), Sarah Edwards (Dan), and Laura Laskevich (Hayden Scott); beloved grandchildren Laurenna, Hannah, Ryker, and a bonus granddaughter; his mother Beverly Laskevich of Daytona Beach Fla., brother Stevan, sister Jayne, and many cherished family members and friends whom he considered to be family. Jeremiah Losee, 1984-2022

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. – On Nov. 2, 1984, Jeremiah came into this world a beautiful blonde headed boy, a pure joy to his family. For 37 years, he touched so many lives with laughter, joy, advice, strength, and wisdom. Every person he met was a friend. He was never afraid to speak his mind whether you wanted to hear it or not. He had a huge heart made of gold that filled his big body with life.

On Jan. 7, 2022 God spoke his name and called him home to take his place in Heaven. I am sure that his family in heaven welcomed him with open arms. His passing has left a hole in our lives that can never be filled, but I know that he would want his family and friends to remember him with happiness and laughter, not with tears and sadness. He loved life, he loved his family and friends.

Jeremiah was born to Peter & Lori Losee in Springfield, Vt. He attended schools in Cavendish and Green Mountain High School in Chester. At the age of 21, he found his career at NBC solids in Springfield, and continued to work for this business as name changed he followed the owners. He met so many people along this path and left his mark on them all.

Although his life was short, the impact he left has been huge and will always be remembered.

Jeremiah is survived by his parents, Peter and Lori Losee, by his pride and joy, his crowning achievement, his son, Lucas James Losee, his Fiance, Brittany Deyo, his sister, Amanda Smith and brother in law, Juston Smith, two nephews, Kaleb Smith and Brett Lawton, three nieces, Hannah Lawton, Grace Smith and Emma Lawton, and his Godfather and Best friend, Tom (Smitty) Smith. He is also survived by Lucas’s mom, Magen Adams and her daughter, Maddison Mellow and his unbiological grandson, Anthonni Dear. Many Aunts, Uncles, Cousins and Friends and his work family at LBL Fabrications in Springfield, Vt.

He is predeceased by his paternal and maternal grandparents and one nephew, two uncles and a great uncle.

Jeremiah loved the outdoors and loved sharing his time outdoors with Lucas. Teaching him to fish, hunt, the values of life and nature, and how to protect our environment. He was also a huge Raiders fan through and through. In 2009 he decided to try his luck at racing at Claremont Speedway, the local short track and loved it! He was a two-time track champion and a rookie of the year. And again, his fire and determination and love of the sport left an impact on his racing family. He loved music, all genres, he loved gathering with his family around a fire and singing his heart out to the likes of Hank Williams Jr., Garth Brooks, Jamey Johnson and many more.

Calling hours were held on Saturday, Jan. 15, 2022, from 2 – 4 p.m. at Davis Memorial Chapel in Springfield, Vt.

In lieu of flowers, donations can be made in his memory to the Vermont Fish and Wildlife Trust Fund, Vermont Fish & Wildlife Department, 1 National Life Drive, Dewey Building, Montpelier, VT 05620-3208.

Judith L. Copping, 1952-2022

CHESTER, Vt. – Judith Lynne Copping passed away peacefully on Jan. 7, 2022, at home in Chester, Vt., after a courageous two-year battle with ovarian cancer. She was born on Aug. 16, 1952 to Lynne and Frederick Malone in Syracuse, N.Y. Her family moved to Manchester, Vt., in the early 1960s and Judi attended Manchester schools, graduating from Burr and Burton Academy in 1970. She later attended the University of Vermont.

She is survived by her husband, Steve, of 47 years, her son Alexander, her sister Kathy Malone, brother Chris Malone, and her Mom, Marilyn Egles, as well as many cherished nieces and nephews. She was sadly predeceased by her brother, Fred D. in 2014, and Dad, Frederick, in 2016.

Judi had a long career with the Vermont Country Store, starting as a waitress in her college years and retiring as a product research analyst, a job she was very proud of and greatly enjoyed. She volunteered for many years at the Council on Aging and served as a Trustee of the Whiting Library in Chester until her illness interfered.

Judi was a kind, gentle, loving soul who touched many lives with her wonderful sense of humor and a keen wit that from a very early age could reduce grown men to tears of laughter. She was an avid reader and for a time owned her own antiquarian bookstore which she moved online and operated until this fall. She was a skilled writer and enjoyed knitting, genealogy, travel, cooking, and taking care of her beloved golden retriever, Roger.

When it is again safe to gather, we will invite friends and family to come together to celebrate her wonderful life.

Robert J. Martin, 2021

ANDOVER, Vt. – Robert James Martin passed away peacefully at his home in Andover, Vt. on Dec. 11, 2021 after a long battle with cancer at the age of 75. Bob is survived by his brother William, William’s wife Mary, and his brother Michael; Alice, his wife of 50 years and their children, Cathy, Paul, and Christopher, and Paul’s wife Jody; and his granddaughters, Cassidy and Kylee.

Born in New York City to William and Mary Martin, he was raised with an appreciation of faith, humor, music, and learning. Bob met Alice early in their teens, but only became a couple after they had both finished college and met once again. He worked in the semi-conductor industry in California for a time, but returned to New York, where Alice and Bob were married and began their family life. Eventually, after attending colleges and universities in New York, California, and New Jersey he earned his Masters Degree in Electrical Engineering from Rutgers University.

While working full-time and completing the classes for his degree, he still made time to become a church lector and participate in several local leadership roles for the BSA. His enthusiasm and openness to learning new skills did not stop there. On one vacation, when his sons were younger, he learned, along with them, how to rock climb. He continued this skill for a few years, as did his sons into adulthood.

After over 40 years in the telecommunications industry, he retired to Vermont. Living in Andover for only a short time, by Vermont standards, Bob enjoyed meeting people and became acquainted with a number of persons who had the same interests as him: astronomy, singing with the Springfield chorus, lecturing at church, volunteering at the Whiting Library in Chester, and assorted other volunteer jobs in the Andover and Chester communities. As a retiree, he could pursue activities he had been meaning to get to over the years. He played a few tunes on the electric piano, sometimes practicing the same errors repeatedly. An avid reader, his interests included, but were not limited to, the topics of science, science fiction, and woodworking.

He used his sense of humor to survive rough patches in life, ease into new situations, to see the good in people, and sometimes help them to see the good in themselves. Whether the person was a business associate during the time of many changes in the telecommunications industry, a neighbor, friend, family member, or just a brief encounter with a stranger, he usually left the person with at least a smile on their face and perhaps a different way to look at something.

When diagnosed with cancer in 2017, he handled it with the same humor and positive manner, meeting it head-on honestly, realizing the negatives, but focusing on taking advantage of optimistic approaches and medical opportunities available to him.

That attitude of faith, courage, perseverance, tenacity, and, of course, sense of humor was shared and cultivated by his father, mother, and two brothers as he grew up. As Bob would put it, a full life contains the sweet and the bitter, allowing us the time to be grateful for both as we learn and grow.

An 11 a.m. mass was held at the Annunciation Parish Church in Ludlow on Saturday, Dec. 18, 2021, followed by a brief gathering with light refreshments in the church meeting room. In lieu of flowers, the family asks that you make donations to the Vermont Food Bank in Brattleboro, Vt.

Arrangements are under the direction of Davis Memorial Chapel.

“Food & Shelter,” a postmodern fairytale

PUTNEY, Vt. – The Wild Goose Players are proud to present the world premiere of “Food & Shelter,” by award-winning playwright Sean Hurley. Written at the outset of the pandemic and safely rehearsed throughout, the Next Stage production opens Friday, Jan. 21, and will run through Sunday, Jan. 30, every night, at 7:30 p.m. Food & Shelter begins with two strangers, who happen to be newlyweds, Bronwyn and Estevez, moving into a cabin in the snowy woods. Empty at first, the cabin actually contains everything they need - if only they can find it. But there's a price for the life-saving provisions: someone, or something, is determined to never let them leave. As the cabin reveals its secrets, Bronwyn and Estevez begin to confess their own. And although Estevez may be falling in love with Bronwyn, love is the last thing on her mind. “I feel as if Arthur Miller came over to my house and asked me if I'd want to direct the world premiere of ‘Death of a Salesman,’” says

“Food & Shelter” director, David Stern. “This is perhaps the most exciting creative opportunity I have had in the theater since I began working 35 years ago. Sean's play is hauntingly beautiful, full of pathos and pain. It both affirms our beautiful, brief existence and grapples with the challenges that we face in trying to connect with each other.” Sean Hurley says, “When I began ‘Food & Shelter,’ I wrote toward a certain idea of light at the end of a certain kind of tunnel. That's always my starting point – a tunnel and a light. As I've learned to trust my own process, I've come to understand that as strange as the tunnel may seem at first, if I can find my way through, I won't be alone at the end of the journey.”

Tickets are available at www.nextstagearts.org or by calling 802-387-0102. Proof of vaccination or negative Covid test within 48 hours required for entry to indoor shows. Masks required while inside the venue. For more information about Next Stage's Covid policies, email info@nextstagearts.org.
