Road construction and paving projects —

REGION – Paving on VT Route 131 from Downers to the VT/NH border began Monday, April 18. The project will last throughout the summer and into the fall. Motorists can expect alternating one-way traffic directed by flaggers and minor delays. Crews will work on ditching in several areas as well.

The bridge replacement project continues at Exit 8 on I-91 in Weathersfield. Lane and speed reductions are in effect in each direction as southbound traffic is merged to the northbound bridge using a crossover.

A deck replacement project is underway on VT Route 103 just south of Smokeshire Road in Chester. Expect speed and lane-width reductions, and intermittent temporary road closures and lane closures with alternating one-way traffic along VT Route 103.

Chester to Springfield VT Route 11 paving project has begun, spanning from the intersection of VT Route 11 and VT Route 103 in Chester, and continuing for 6-plus miles to the intersection of VT Route 11 and VT Route 106 in Springfield. Some ditching and drainage work will be happening simultaneously. Expect minor delays. Project to be completed this summer.

In addition to the above, multiple bridge replacement projects have resumed on VT Route 11 between VT Route 103 in Chester and VT Route 106 in Springfield. Expect one-way alternating traffic at multiple points along this route, with minor delays in several locations.

Please be patient and mindful of crews working on roadways in the area. Plan ahead for delays.

LMHUUSD greenlights “Portrait of a Graduate” —

BY SHARON HUNTLEY
The Vermont Journal

LUDLOW, Vt. – During their April 13 meeting, the Ludlow Mount Holly Unified Union School District board agreed to move forward with a program called, “Portrait of a Graduate,” presented by Jeff Korchinski from the nonprofit, “Battelle for Kids.” The program guides education leaders and community members to jointly “re-envision and transform their school systems” and would be paid for by Elementary and Secondary School Emergency Relief Funds.

Two Rivers Supervisory Union Superintendent Lauren Fierman will now present the same program to the Green Mountain Unified School District board at their meeting this week in hopes of convincing them to embrace the same program in order to implement the district-wide initiative, creating a “Portrait of Graduate” for the whole TRSU. The program would cost approximately $37,000 in ESSER funding.

Fierman learned of the program and heard glowing reviews of its effectiveness from nearby superintendents at Windsor Southeast Supervisory Union and Windsor Central Supervisory Union who highly praised the program.

According to Korchinski, BFK members would facilitate the five-month, district-wide process, helping the district engage a large group of stakeholders including educators, students, parents, community members, business leaders, board members, administration, and those of different religious and cultural backgrounds. These participants, who would be known as a “design team,” would then meet four times over the course of several months to establish a vision, articulate priorities, align the organization, and build momentum and coherence, all to “prepare students to be effective and accountable and responsible citizens in our communities.” That initial work could eventually lead to a strategic plan and three to five-year roadmap for implementation.

Korchinski said that each district’s goals are unique and that their company doesn’t get involved in regulating and devising any particular outcome; instead, they help build a foundation of support and trust among all the stakeholders. He said the tougher work comes after the vision is created, but with the larger group support, decisions can then be made on how to allocate resources, and what things might need to be adjusted or shifted.

Once complete, BFK provides access to their network, providing opportunities to collaborate with other school districts that are in various stages of implementing changes, and learning from their challenges and successes.

If Fierman receives support from the GMUSD board, she will then work with Korchinski to schedule the program in the coming months.

Two candidates for the LMHUUSD vacant three-year board seat were being considered and both spoke to the board: Jamie Wilson and Maria Gambino. The board voted twice, both times ending a tie with two board members voting for each candidate and one abstaining. Another two board members, Sebastian Frank and Judith Pullinen, were absent. The board subsequently decided to table another vote until their next meeting when the full board might be present.

The board also postponed assigning two LMHUUSD board members to the newly forming, dual-district Professional Development Committee until all board members were present next month. The agreement to form this joint district committee resulted from the recent vote to align all district school schedules, effectively eliminating the half-day Tuesday with embedded professional development time that Cavendish had employed for decades. Both boards agreed to form the joint committee to seek new options for district-wide professional development for teachers.

According to LMHUUSD board chair Paul Orzechowski, he and GMUSD board chair Joe Fromberger agreed that the committee would include two board members from each of the two district, one teacher from each school in the five districts, and one parent from each of the two districts for a total of 11 board members. Fierman reminded the board that this group was an advisory committee that would make recommendations to the boards, not decide policy.

District principals, LES Principal Cathy Farman and Mount Holly Principal Craig Hutt Vater, presented the results from a survey they distributed to Pre-K parents with the idea of making some changes to the Pre-K program.

The survey asked questions about Pre-K participation in aftercare; if parents were open to Pre-K placement in the other school; and if they were interested in five-day or three-days for their four-year-old child.

Seven families answered the LES survey: three preferred the five-day option, one was interested in extending aftercare from 2-4 p.m., and none considered placement in Mount Holly.

LES parents were additionally asked if they would still enroll if the day were extended but transportation not provided and five of the seven said no, they would need transportation.

There were 11 families who responded to the Mount Holly Pre-K survey: none preferred the five-day model and two preferred a three-day model; nine said they would likely use aftercare; and three were open to placement in Ludlow.

Based on these results, LES will keep their current program with no changes, and MHS will launch a pilot program next year, for five-days per week for four-year-old children. They will also allow Ludlow families to participate if interested.

The last day of school is Monday, June 20 for students and Tuesday, June 21 for teachers.

The LMHUUSD Annual School District Meeting is scheduled for Wednesday, May 11 from 6-6:30 p.m. at Ludlow Elementary School, with their regular monthly meeting immediately following.

Plymouth holds short and sweet meeting —

BY SHAWN TAE WEBB
The Vermont Journal

PLYMOUTH, Vt. – The Plymouth Selectboard held a brief, 14-minute meeting Monday, April 18, which gave updates on the town building renovation project, discussed flower plantings around town, opening a bank account for tax sale funds, and thanking Randy Kennedy for his hard work over the years.

Selectman Rick Kaminski updated the board on the town building renovations. The architect has issued the plans for the project, and the pre-bid walk through has been rescheduled to this Friday, April 22. Construction bids will then be open at the May 16 selectboard meeting for a group of handpicked contractors that the board felt were fit for the job.

Chair Jay Kullman noted the town had two candidate interviews for the Town Clerk appointment, and will have a third interview later this week.

Resident Abigail Hurlburt expressed interest to plant flowers around town signs. Kaminski agreed this was a great idea, but noted that a plan for maintenance of the garden areas should be part of the approval. The town is seeking any volunteers looking to help plant flowers around town signs and buildings, and to help maintain the plantings throughout the season.

The town’s financial advisor recommended they open a bank account specifically to hold the funds from tax sales for the duration of a year from the sale. A motion was approved to open a new account at People’s United Bank.

Kaminski gave a Road Commissioners’ report, informing the board that Randy Kennedy gave his notice. The town will be looking to fill the open highway department position. Kaminski also noted they are stock piling materials, and have leftover sand they will be able to use next year. The department has been out grading, and they “got a good start on summer work.”

Kullman said, “Randy has done good work,” and the board wishes to thank him for all of his hard work over the years.

ESRB students write and perform, “We Are Nature” —

LUDLOW, Vt. – On Saturday, May 14 at 2 p.m., agents from the fictional organization, “The International Time Navigators Association,” will be live on stage at Ludlow’s Town Hall auditorium.

Written entirely by the Expeditionary School at Black River’s student body, “We Are Nature” is a comedy. The ITNA agents go forward in time to look back and reflect on the ways in which today’s climate challenges could have been avoided. Resolving the causes of pollution is the script’s overarching theme.

The ITNA agents are determined to figure out how to minimize the destruction occurring to the earth’s ecosystem. They find themselves in a school in 2022 trying to blend in and understand how to influence changes in human behavior.

Having had to postpone this live performance a number of times due to concerns regarding the spread of Covid, students decided to incorporate that reality into the script’s themes as well. These fictional characters come to the conclusion that developing “informed and integrative thinking skills” is one step toward resolving pollution and saving the planet.

Directed by Susan Haefner, this learning experience was made possible by a Vermont Arts Council grant.

Tickets can be purchased in advance at www.esblackriver.org/social-fundraisers or at the door.

For additional information, contact Kendra Rickerby, Head of School, at krickerby@esblackriver.org.

Mountain towns rise up in aid of Ukraine

WESTON, Vt. – One thing Vermonters are particularly poor at is sitting around and doing nothing in the face of a storm or other crises. And so it was when two residents of Weston, Wayne Granquist and Jim Linville, were overwhelmed upon hearing of the atrocities happening in Ukraine. What could be done to offer support from far-off Vermont?

In a few days, a small group kicked into gear; they gained access to Magic Mountain, flooded towns with “Help Ukraine!” flyers, arranged food – including hundreds of pirogues and gallons of borscht – and organized live music, which included a Ukrainian “front man.” Over 400 people attended Magic Mountain’s Black Line Tavern for the event on Saturday, April 9, where more than $35,000 dollars was raised for the charity, Save the Children’s Ukrainian Crisis Relief Fund.

Two of those who spared nothing to help were Will Reed and Lexi Young, both of whom have Ukrainian American mothers. They enlisted local chefs Wes Genovart, Rogan Lechthaler, and Alyssa Prouty to provide all the food, gratis. They also got a Vermont band, The Western Terrestrials, to come play. An opening band, Morning Dewett, also performed.

Geoff Hatheway, President of Magic Mountain, engaged the whole Magic Mountain team, including Kerry Mara and Josh Hearne, and donated the venue and his team’s time and creativity for the event. As Geoff noted, “We are a community mountain and make a special point of pitching in to help our neighbors and other good causes.” Earlier in March, Magic Mountain donated to “Save the Children” for every lift ticket they sold, as well as matched 100% of customer donations, raising over $10,000 for the charity’s Ukrainian Crisis Relief Fund.

Gun Burns of South Londonderry sewed Ukrainian flags for the event, including a huge one which was used as a backdrop for the bandstand. She also organized and ran a silent auction of donated items. Local children pitched in at the Peru Town Hall by making over 200 Ukrainian buttons, which they sold at the fundraiser. The kids brought in over $1,000, and gave event goers beautiful little keepsakes.

Maryann Morris and others from The Collaborative enabled all the credit card and Venmo charges, and manned the check out desk. As for getting the word out about the event in record time, a number of other charitable organizations were tapped – from libraries and churches to Neighborhood Connections and other local organizations. Folks came out of the woodwork to donate food, auction items, and time. In short, the entire community was enlisted and energized.

Save the Children’s Ukrainian Crisis Relief Fund was chosen from a large number of other excellent options simply because it’s been in Ukraine for years and is currently equipped to help Ukrainian refugees who are scattered throughout the many European countries accepting them. For anyone wanting to offer further support, please feel free to write a check to the fund and send it to P.O. Box 299, Weston, VT 05161. All donations are greatly appreciated.

Fundraising dinner for Grenier family

BELMONT, Vt. – Colfax Lodge No. 21, IOOF, will be joined by several other local groups to offer a spaghetti and meatball dinner on Saturday, April 30 at 5 p.m. at the hall in Belmont. Take-out meals will be available starting at 4:30 p.m. This is an opportunity to support the Grenier family, as Mrs. Grenier has started some medical treatments. The food has been donated by members of local area organizations and grocery stores. The meal will include salad, bread, and a dessert, with a suggested donation. You certainly may contribute any amount to help the family. Please contact Dennis at 802-259-2460 or ddevereux@vermontel.net with any questions.

Hilda Davis Scholarship

LONDONDERRY, Vt. – The Second Congregational Church, United Church of Christ, of Londonderry, Vt. invites applications for this year’s Hilda Davis Scholarship Fund. The Hilda Davis Scholarship Fund was started by Davis’ family in 2017 to help commemorate Davis’ effort in educating and guiding family and children.

Hilda Davis grew up in London, England during World War II, in a working-class family and was married to her husband Edward for 66 years until her death in 2012. Hilda worked hard to improve her environment and help her family better their surroundings. Hilda led her life based on Christian principles and felt it was important to pass these on to her children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren. Hilda spent hours teaching the children; she put family above all else and believed that children should be given every opportunity to improve their lives through a good education. The $2,500 scholarship will be awarded to students entering their first year of college or vocational school. Award winners can reapply in subsequent years. Applicants must reside in the greater Londonderry area and should be active in a Christian community through participation in church, a Christian education program, Christian-based mission work, or a Christian Youth Group. A letter of recommendation from a minister, Christian educator, or Youth Group Director is required. Applicants will also be asked to write an essay on how Christian principles or the teachings of Jesus Christ have played a role in their lives. More information may be found at the website of the Second Congregational Church at www.2ndcongregationalchurchvt.org or by calling the church office at 802-824-6453. Applications are due May 1, 2022.

Rotary hears from Ludlow Ambulance Director

UDLOW, Vt. – The April 12 meeting of the Ludlow Rotary Club featured Stephanie Grover, Ludlow Ambulance Director, speaking to Rotarians and guests about the state of ambulance services in Ludlow and their nearby service district. Grover expressed gratitude for the support of Ludlow voters, who again approved the Ambulance budget request of $312,000 for FY 22-23. The budget will support paying two people to work 24/7, year-round, in an effort to reduce the number of missed calls. Missed calls have been a major issue for Ludlow Ambulance, as they have relied strictly on volunteers to respond. Missed calls occur most often during the winter months when there are so many from Okemo Mountain Resort. It is increasingly difficult for residents to devote the time required to meet all the volunteer training requirements when they also work full-time. An advantage of paid staff is that they are compensated for the six months of entry level-EMT training required. Paramedic training requirements are even more extensive, requiring two years to complete. Ludlow Ambulance serves a portion of Plymouth and Cavendish in addition to Ludlow. They would like to add the two additional paid staff to cover a second ambulance from December through April to address the high number of missed calls during the ski season. In other business, the Rotary Club continued preparing for the 64th Annual Penny Sale to be held April 30 at the Ludlow School gym at 6 p.m. Anyone interested in learning more about joining the Rotary is invited to contact Kevin Barnes, Membership Chairman, at 802-228-8877 to receive an invitation to a meeting.

Historical donation

Recently, the Chester Historical Society received a wonderful donation of historical artifacts from a lady in Halifax, Nova Scotia.

A former Chester resident, last living in Nova Scotia, requested that her early family documents were returned home to the Chester Historical Society. It's an interesting lot, as you shall see.

The deeds represent Andover and Hillsboro County, N.H. properties. The families represented are Carlton, Larkin, Kingsbury, Peabody, and others. The donor's name was Lucille Carlton Stewart. Lucille Carlton graduated Chester High School in 1939.

Included is a Kingsbury family genealogy record beginning in England in 1539 and ends here in Vermont in 1822. There are many early deeds. The earliest handwritten deed I have found so far is from 1779. Here are a few details from that deed:

"Know all men by these presents that I, John Keyes of Wilton in the County of Hillsboro and state of New Hampshire, yeoman for... Consideration of the sum of five pounds, paid to me in hand by Isaac Peabody jun..."

This deed is interesting. In 1779 the colonies didn't have their own currency, so payment was British pounds. In those days European coinage was in circulation here. Circulating in the colonies at the time were British, French, Irish, and Spanish coins. This is the birth of America.

At this time a word such as "presents" could be spelled with an "f" instead of an "s." Often, when you see "f" instead of "s" is when the word had two s's. An example would be "witnefs."

As I held this 1779 deed I found the last line moving. "In the fourth year..." I felt I was there.

"...John Keyes have here unto set my hand and seal this six day of September AD 1779 in the fourth year of American independence..."

The Carlton family

donation are two old photo albums. One album includes many photos of Lucille's childhood. There are photos of her as a baby, in grade school, and eventually at Chester High School.

There are numerous photos of the Carlton house, its barns and a round wooden silo. Of particular interest to me are photos of the soapstone quarry on the property.

Those my age will remember swimming in the quarry. Some of us painted our names on the rock face on the opposite wall. There's another photo of a man holding a six-foot long soapstone core sample from the core drill. This is the first time I have seen photos of the quarry. I am unaware of any others.

I know of two different occasions when men were killed here.

Old letters

There are a few letters and handbills from the mid-1800s. One letter is from a Civil War soldier from Andover. It was written by Charles H. Larkin when he was at Fortress Monroe, Va., May 19, 1861.

Being such an early war date, hostilities hadn't heated up yet. In this letter home, Larkin comments on his pleasant accommodations. Food is good, but he doesn't like guard duty.

"...I wrote to you that we were going to change quarters. Well, we moved over here the day before yesterday, and are now in as comfortable quarters as soldiers can get. It is a first class hotel and is a very pleasant place. Our room is on the west side of the house. Under our window is a yard with gravel walks and so many flowers. I am sitting now with my paper on the window stool and my arm at the open window. In the road the soldiers are walking and talking and laughing in the style peculiar to soldiers.

We have been down on the beach watching a conflict between our war vessels and a secession battery. The firing has stopped now for it is too dark to fire with effect now. They kept up a brisk firing there on both sides, but the Steamers are not injured in the least..."

Fort Sumter had only been fired upon the month before. Larkin reenlisted in February 1864 and was mustered out of service in March of 1866.

Larkin served in Company G of the 7th Vermont Infantry Regiment 'til war's end. The 7th fought at the Siege of Vicksburg in June and July 1862, Baton Rouge, La.; Aug. 5, 1862, Gonzales Station, La.; July 15, 1864, Mobile Campaign and Spanish Fort, Ala., March 17 to April 11, 1865; and Whistler, Ala., April 13, 1865.

This week's old saying:
"People who live in stone houses shouldn't throw glasses."

OLLI, "Vermont Women in the Civil War"

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. – Howard Coffin, noted Vermont author and lecturer on Civil War history, will present the OLLI – Osher Lifelong Learning Institute program, "Vermont Women in the Civil War" on Tuesday, April 26 at 2 p.m. at the Nolin Murray Center next to St. Mary's Church on Pleasant St. in Springfield, Vt.

Coffin has written several books on Vermont's role in the Civil War. He researches his information from family diaries and letters. Thus, his stories concerning the role that women played during the war are accurate and detailed personal stories.

Come hear how Vermont women sustained the home front in the Green Mountain State as they managed the operations of the farms and worked in factories to manufacture much-needed supplies for soldiers while the state's able-bodied men were away on the battlefields during the Civil War, years of 1861-1865. Learn how others joined the war effort by editing anti-slavery newspapers, speaking out against slavery, and teaching classes to newly-freed slaves in the South.

Listen to Vermont women's own words as Coffin relates his research from their letters and diaries to tell their stories – including that of one Vermont woman who appears to have secretly enlisted and fought in a Vermont regiment.

The next OLLI program, just one week later on May 3, will be the final program of the Spring semester. This earlier postponed program, 'Landscape Gardening for Pollinators and Wildlife,' with Henry Homeyer, is co-sponsored by the Springfield Garden Club.

Pre-registration is highly recommended. Registration can be done online by going to www.learn.uvm.edu/olli/springfield. For registration assistance, please call 802-656-5817.

Due to the current situation of Covid-19, the University of Vermont expects all participants at UVM sponsored non-credit events (including OLLI), will be vaccinated. Masks are required to be worn at indoor events.

Springfield's Dance Factory returns with Spring Recital

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. – Following two years of pandemic-related disruptions, The Dance Factory will be presenting their Spring Recital on Saturday, May 7 at Springfield High School. Well over 100 dancers will be on stage, some of whom travel up to 40 minutes to attend classes. Performers aged preschool to adult will be showcasing their proficiency in ballet, modern, jazz, hip hop, tap, acro, and yoga.

The recital marks a joyous return to staged, costumed performances for Dance Factory students. The 2020 recital was canceled completely in compliance with Covid protocols. In 2021, the studio arranged a week of casual outdoor performances at North School in North Springfield in lieu of a traditional performance.

"We are so thankful that we are able to have an indoor recital with costumes, lighting, and music," says studio owner Kate DeRosia. "Everyone has worked so hard this year, and it's time to celebrate!"

While ballet students at

The Dance Factory have the opportunity to perform in the studio's annual production of "The Nutcracker," the studio's Spring Recital is the main performance opportunity for students who study all other dance styles.

"There is so much excitement about getting to perform on stage again," says Dance Factory teacher Ashley Hensel-Browning, who is also dancing in the recital. "The joy and enthusiasm radiating from our students is sure to be contagious."

To accommodate audiences and dancers – most of whom are performing in multiple pieces – The Dance Factory will host performances at 2 p.m. and 6 p.m. Advanced teen and adult dancers will perform in both shows, while younger classes will be split up between the two times.

The studio faculty wishes to extend their appreciation to Springfield High School for hosting the recital, with special thanks to Theater Department head Becky Skrypeck, lighting director Velcea Kae, and all the wonderful custodians.

The Dance Factory, located on Main Street, is an inclusive, community-centered dance studio that has offered classes since 1984. The studio's highly-trained faculty welcomes dancers of all ages and ability levels. Preregistration is now open for summer dance sessions for ages preschool through adult. Dear Editor,

“Hometown”
I remember whispers of parties back home
And all the girls I wanted to be like Resentful and bitter ‘cause I didn’t get an invite
No, I’ve never been to a party in my hometown
You either want to fit in, or can’t wait to get out
But these days I look back and smile instead
And wonder if they think about me now and then
And when I leave
It’s not the first time, it won’t be the last
And everyone says the years go fast
Running far sure is harder than I thought

When every road leads back to southern Vermont
And though I’m not the same girl as when I first flew out,
Things never do change in this two-street town
To go from
Far away places to familiar dirt roads
I’m lucky to be one of the few who know
Mud season and fires shining through summer nights
Streets flying flags of purple and white
And while my soul tends to go wherever it’s called, I know it always has a place there in Bellows Falls
Sincerely,
Nina King

Fraud Watch Network: Social Media Scams

REGION – Do you recognize the names Kuaishou, QZone, or Sina Weibo? Maybe not, but most people around the world at least recognize most of these: Facebook, Instagram, Snapchat, Twitter, TikTok. Welcome to the growing world of social media. User numbers are astounding. Facebook alone identifies nearly two billion people accessing its “service” daily; that is almost one-quarter of the population of the planet. Social media is a gold mine for scammers.

In 2021, the Federal Trade Commission reported losses of greater than three-quarters of $1 billion to social media scams; almost 100,000 victims. Those numbers are just from the FTC and don’t include what is reported to other agencies or state governments, let alone what is not reported.

Almost one-half of the scam complaints received by the FTC involved online shopping; attractive ads promoting in-demand items at low prices from brand name companies. Facebook and Instagram accounted for nearly 90% of the fraudulent ads. Criminals even used the services provided to advertisers that allow for commercial targeting based on individual habits. The ads lead to copycat websites featuring deep discounts and favor payment with money transfer programs such as Zelle and Venmo. In the end, no product is received and the criminal profits. Four recommendations: 1) Don’t shop from social media ads; 2) Check with the Better Business Bureau or conduct a browser search of the company attaching the word “scam” or “complaint” to the name; 3) Don’t click the link that is provided. Enter the retailer’s name on the search line and go the official website. If there is a sale, it will show up there. Brand-name companies do not offer deep discounts to billions of social media users; 4) If you decide to take a chance and make a purchase, use a credit card and not a debit card, as credit cards offer numerous protections from fraud.
Investment scams are also growing at a rapid rate through social media. Some involve crypto currency like Bitcoin to invest in traditional categories including stocks, bonds, precious metals, petroleum exploration, and real estate. Quite often, the criminal uses social media to “friend” victims and develop a relationship with them before setting the investment trap. In 2021, the median loss in an investment scam was over $1,800. Losses as high as $40,000 are common, but in most cases easily preventable.

Don’t be lured by the promise of high returns or guaranteed protection from losses. It may look great, but the promises may be too good to be true. Legitimate investments must be registered with your state, usually the Secretary of State or Department of Financial Regulation, and the brokers must also be registered. Don’t succumb to urgency or the need to transfer money by cash services such as Zelle, Venmo, or wire transfer.
When dealing with social media, remember that every entry you make is being watched by someone or something – a computer. Be discreet when sharing personal information. Innocent comments about health, preferences, or family becomes ammunition for the con artist. Carefully consider any requests from strangers to “friend” you or enter your circle of contacts.

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. – The Memorial service for Florence Gomez will be held Saturday, April 30, at 2 p.m. at the Springfield Church of Christ at 972 Chester Rd.,

Springfield, VT 05156. Due to current health concerns, the family requests masks be worn during the service; they will be provided at the entrance.

Lucille Hart, 1933-2022

WESTON, Vt. – Lucille (Wood) Hart, 89, of Weston passed away peacefully at her home on April 12. She was born in Rutland, Vt. on April 10, 1933 to William and Beatrice (Devino) Wood. Her fondest memories were of living on the farm and attending high school in Vergennes. Lucille met her husband, Harry Hart, of 48 years at a Tinmouth barn dance and became a lifelong resident of Weston in 1951.

A caregiver by nature, she dedicated her life to nurturing people. She provided what we now know as “home daycare” to her grandchildren and area residents. Family was very important to her and she was always there to listen, feed, and comfort in times of need. She was our “Dr. Hart” and will forever be missed.

As a younger gal, favorite past times included fine spirits, playing cards, and listening and dancing to old time country and bluegrass music. In her later years, Lucille enjoyed baking, reading, flower gardens, word search puzzles, and rolling dice.

She is survived by five sons and one daughter; Harry Hart Jr. of Weston; Anthony (Lydia) Hart of Pownal; Stephen and Jeffery Hart of Weston; Brian (Monica) Hart of Peru; Veronica (Ken) Bolton of S. Londonderry; two brothers, Leslie and Glen Wood;

Abby M Krim, 1961-2022

LUDLOW, Vt. – On Jan. 14, 2022 the world lost one of its kindest to heart disease. Abby M Krim was born on April 10, 1961 in New Rochelle, N.Y. and had been living in Ludlow, Vt. for the past few years. She was the cherished daughter of Carol and the late Michael Krim, of Trumbull, Conn., Abby’s hometown. Abby is also missed terribly by her sister Risa, brother-in-law Gary, her niece Dana and nephew Eric, both of whom she adored, as well as by her dear Aunt Barbara, special cousins, and very close friends. She was the granddaughter of her proud grandparents, all no longer here, Ida and Samuel Krim, Dorothy Mirsky, and her namesake, who never got to meet her, Abraham Mirsky. A private service took place on Jan. 16.

Though she worked in marketing, Abby was an exceptional photographer, always with camera in hand and always excited to learn new advances in photo and printing technologies. She was also a wonderful writer and a skilled potter.

As a high school junior, Abby spent her summer studying with current Harvard students and getting a taste for college life. She graduated from Colby College where she met some of her dearest friends. She had also earned her MBA. All of this education paid off when she and her uncle would challenge each other to finish the Sunday NYTimes crossword puzzle first – in pen.

Abby loved both of her parents very much. After losing her father, she continued to visit her mother as often as she could. Throughout her life, Abby enjoyed traveling to National Parks, which her parents first introduced her to on childhood family vacations, as well as to Europe. Knowing how much her mother loved to travel, with the loss of her dad, Abby stepped in and the two shared many wonderful trips together.

She loved being with her family and friends. She loved sharing Starbucks and stories with her niece and a common sense of humor with her nephew - usually at her sister’s expense which made it all the funnier (but she was always a good big sister). She had a great chuckle, which was heard during the telling of stories. She cherished her friendships, some spanning over 50 years. Whenever possible, she met up with cousins or friends and looked forward to all family gatherings – even if she had to do the drive (sorry). It wasn’t uncommon that during one of her many photography trips, she would detour a few hours to meet up with a friend. We wish there was more time for talks around the table and if the table could be at Rovers Return, all the better.

Abby was a true and loyal friend who cared about what interested the people who surrounded her, whether a close friend or casual acquaintance. One of her friends may have said it best, “Abby was a good friend with a kind heart. She was one of the most civic minded, good citizens I ever met. She gave blood (as often as the Red Cross would allow), voted, and was responsible in her actions. She could find joy in small things – a good cup of coffee, a good picture or painting. Because of Abby, I had adventures and met people I otherwise would not have known, for that I will be forever grateful. The world is a poorer place without her.” – CH

The next time you smell a strong cup of black coffee, think of her. We miss you, Ab.

Unified Basketball, Springfield vs. Brattleboro

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. – The Springfield Unified Basketball team rang in their second win on Tuesday, April 12 at Dressel Gym to give them a 2–2 record. The Cosmos welcomed the Brattleboro Colonels in their fourth game of the season. Community members, teachers, and parents again filled the stands to watch the contest.
Under the hoop for the Cosmos was Emily Toner, Lexy Bills, Isaiah Short, and Sam Bailey, rebounding offensively and defensively to help the Cosmos lead the team in baskets. Leading Springfield with points were Lexi Bills with 14 points, and Emily Toner and Isaiah Short with eight points. Patrick Toner, Josh Graves, and Kailtyn McGrath each chipped in with two points. Williams and Gultekin’s offensive setup dished the ball to Toner, Bills, and Short throughout the night. Assists from Carl and Bennett to their teammates helped the Cosmos ring in the big win.
At the half, the Cosmos and Colonels were tied at 16–16. Emily Toner’s six points gave the Cosmos the lead at the end of the third quarter with a 28–22 lead. Bills finished out the fourth quarter with six points, and a basket from Graves gave the Cosmos their final score of 36 points.
Coaches Gultekin and Pinter-Petrillo have been working with the team this week on rebounding and fast break layups. The drills paid off. Sam Bailey was a speed demon up and down the court to position offensively and defensively. Bailey was not able to sink a shot during the game, but with his determination baskets will soon fall. Keep shooting Sam! The Cosmos, as Gultekin said, is a young team. It was so exciting to hear the athletes want to stay on the court and play. Isaiah Short was so into the game that he wanted to stay on the court the entire time. Toner also commented, “Put me back in, put me back in.” I have been coaching the team for seven years and each year I have fun, see growth, and always look forward to next year. Covid set us back, but we are back now. This young team will keep growing and growing, in skills and enthusiasm. Thank you team for giving me the opportunity to coach all of you.
Lexy Bills earned many points throughout the night with her fast breaks and jumpers. Isaiah Short focused tonight on dribbling to the hoop to earn his eight points. Emily Toner is a powerhouse under the basket. Her motivation helped lead the Cosmos to their win.
For Brattleboro, Jonie Tuttle led with ten points, and Justin Wegiel and Bobby Petrie both added four points. Ashley Cleveland, Tyler Bolduc, Kyle Simuro, and Justin Anderson each chipped in two points. Thank you Brattleboro for the visit. We will see you on May 4 on your court. Enjoy the rest of the season and have fun.

Spring Home Improvement

Prepare your property for spring-

LUDDLLOW, Vt. – The weather is shifting from winter to spring, making it a great time to prepare your home for the changing season. Whether your house feels stuffy from having the windows shut all winter or you're looking to spruce up some things, we have tips to help you accomplish your spring-cleaning list.

Clean Gutters – Gutters are great for directing rain away from your roof, but they also collect leaves and other debris. Check your gutters and downspouts for any blockages to ensure there are no water backups anywhere. You'll also want to make sure there aren't any holes or cracks.

Check the Roof – While you have the ladder out, check your roof for any damage. Be on the lookout for any damaged or missing shingles. It's also a good idea to check your attic for any signs of water damage. If you aren't comfortable checking yourself, there are many professional services that can inspect your roof.

Clear Area Around AC Unit – Pretty soon you will be turning on your air conditioning, if you haven't already. One key outdoor task some homeowners overlook is clearing out the area around the AC unit. Leaves, weeds, and other debris can build up over the season and it is important to make sure it's clean in order to run properly.

Check Siding/Foundation/Window Seals – With snow melted and plants not yet in bloom, spring is a good time to check the structure of your home. Take a walk around your property to check for cracks in your foundation, siding, and window seals. If you find any damage, you will want to get them taken care of before too many spring storms arrive.

Clean Outdoor Social Areas – Give your outdoor furniture and appliances a good refresh so that the spaces are guest-ready when warmer weather hits. Clean buildup off of your grill so can host your first barbecue of the season and clean up your outdoor furniture so your friends and family have a place to sit.

Change Filters – When was the last time you replaced any of the filters on your appliances? Customarily, homeowners should be changing the filters around their home every 3-6 months. This includes cooling and heating systems, dryers, range hoods, and refrigerators, among others.

Clean and Repair Screens – Window and storm door screens collect dirt and debris throughout the year. Spring is a great time to take them out and hose them off to start fresh this season. They may also get damaged from weather or general wear and tear.

Consider repairing or replacing any torn or damaged screens.

Replace Detector Batteries – Changing the batteries in detectors around your home is both a good habit and safe practice. Replace your smoke and carbon monoxide detector batteries at least once a year.

Clean the Fireplace – Call your local chimney sweep because you probably aren't cleaning your fireplace as often as you should. Spring is a good time to have your chimney inspected for hazards like creosote buildup or flue damage. Whether you have a woodburning or gas fireplace, proper maintenance will go a long way toward keeping you and your home safe from fire damage.

In Summary – Tackling an entire list of spring-checkup tasks can feel overwhelming. Spread your spring cleaning out over a few weekends and be sure to have some fun in between.

VLCT, Efficiency Vermont to expand municipal energy efficiency programs

Grants will help fund projects to improve energy efficiency. STOCK PHOTO

REGION – The Vermont League of Cities and Towns and Efficiency Vermont have launched a new partnership to lower municipal energy costs and climate impacts. The partnership, part of VLCT's recently launched Business Alliance Program, is focused on helping municipalities access the support they need to reduce their energy costs and save taxpayer dollars.

Vermont's share of the American Rescue Plan Act of 2021 allocated over $200 million to its towns. Other state and federal funding opportunities are on the horizon. Towns can work directly with VLCT experts to understand how to leverage these dollars. One option is to invest in energy efficiency projects that can reduce energy expenses and support their climate goals.

Municipalities that are interested in saving energy can sign up for a free energy assessment from Efficiency Vermont at www.efficiencyvermont.com/towns. During this consultation, an Efficiency Vermont energy consultant will work with town staff to identify and prioritize energy-saving projects for their buildings.

This session, the Vermont Legislature is considering bills that would create additional energy-related opportunities for municipalities. Should these proposals pass into law, the Vermont Department of Buildings and General Services would be able to offer grants of up to $250,000 per municipality to undertake energy efficiency projects like fuel switching and weatherization using state-allocated ARPA funding. VLCT, the Department of Buildings and General Services, the state's regional planning commissions, and Efficiency Vermont would work together to develop and implement the grant program.

Yarn Workshop at the VAULT—

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. – Gallery at the VAULT invites you to join fiber artist Julie Crabtree for a workshop entitled “Letting The Yarn Speak,” on Saturday, April 30 from 10 a.m. – 5 p.m.

Learn hand-embroidery, a free approach to embroidery stitches. Learn several stitches and explore those stitches in a creative way, using various threads and yarns over themselves to create texture in a new concept. After making a sample, three to four stitches will be chosen to create a textured piece based on a photo or picture of tree bark, water, or ice, etc., basing the design on the image, building up stitches using a limited pallet but a variety of yarns, to create the texture and finally adding beads to finish the piece. Some stitches taught will be Cretan, Bullion, Raised Chain Band, Double Knot, Twisted Chain, French Knot, and Couching. Samples will be shown and you will have lots of hands-on help.

A supply list is provided upon registration. Register by Wednesday, April 27.
