GFC presents this year's ACE awards-

BY BILL LOCKWOOD

The Shopper

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt. -Last Wednesday night, July 28, 2022, Greater Falls Connections (GFC) held their ninth annual gathering in the pavilion at the Recreation Center in Bellows Falls. The event started with a barbecue dinner, a great spread of food with burgers and hot dogs, grilled, as in recent years, by Board member Alex Stradling. Stradling said, "We do this barbecue every year, and it's a great opportunity for the organization to honor people who make a big impact." There was also a brief annual meeting of the organization, but the highlight of the event was the revealing of the winners and the awarding of the organization's Active Community Engagement (ACE) awards for this year.

The adult award went to a couple this year. Laurel Green and Steve Crofter of Bellows Falls were recognized for all the improvements they have made in the community over the years, especially, and most recently, Steve's leadership of the group that assisted the resettlement of an Afghan family and Laurel's tireless environmental work. The Youth Award went to Grace Waryas, 17-year-old student at Bellows Falls Union High School for her willingness to stand up and advocate for sometimes controversial causes.

The ACE award recognizes local individuals or businesses that are notably active in community engagement in the Greater Falls Area. This recognition, often of the "unsung heroes" of our community, has been awarded since 2013. Nominations were recently solicited from the general public. Director Laura Schairbaum said that this year they received the typical number of submissions, but heard of several people they "didn't know at all." She said, "The ability to recognize neighbors and see themselves shine is, both personally and for the community, a good thing." Three of those nominated but not awarded were mentioned at the ceremony:

Tony Falzo, Cass Wright, and Tessa Lynch.

Last year's adult winner, Julie Cermola, said, "It's meant a lot to me, just getting that award and being recognized for turning my life around has been humbling and given me more confidence in doing other things for other people."

The 2014 adult award winner, Samantha Maskell, who is a Rockingham Youth Services Librarian, nominated the winner of the youth award. Maskell said, "Grace Waryas impressed me with her dedication to diversity, equity, inclusion, and safety by speaking up, which facilitated community conversations. I nominated Grace because, despite facing angry opposition, she has continued to speak up and expressed an ongoing commitment to creating a safe and supportive community." Waryas said, "I think this is really amazing how it's brought the community together. I am being recognized for my work, and it makes me feel Schairbaum noted that this was the first time a couple were given an award together. Crofter said, "There's lots of people who deserve the award, so many who helped each other. Everybody should pat themselves on the back." Green said, "I hope the award helps make more people step up."

Greater Falls Connections is based at Parks Place in Bellows Falls, and pairs people in need with agencies and organizations that can help, as well as helping coordinate helping efforts. Board member Doreen Stoodley said, "It's a great organization. It brings community members together. It's a great place for people to go, because they can get connected."

State Representatives Leslie Goldman and Michelle Bos-Lun were there. Bos-Lun presented the awards. Goldman said, "Greater Falls Connections is a really important part of supporting our community."

SAPCC's Duck Run and Wellness Fair a success -

SPRINGFIELD, The Springfield Area Parent Child Center held its annual "Fit 'n Fun Duck Run" on July 16 at SAPCC's North Springfield, Vt., campus, and it was a great success. The Black River was very low this year and the tiny rubber ducks entered in both the children's race and the main race needed an occasional homemade wave made by the volunteer kayakers to help them along towards the finish line, but the weather was sunny and hot, which made for a perfect day to enjoy all of the family fun.

More than 300 people attended the event. Parents and their children and those who are just young at heart flocked to SAPCC at 80 Jack and Jill Lane (formerly 6 Main Street) to enjoy Cliffhanger's rockclimbing wall, the dunk tank sponsored by The Space, an obstacle course coordinated by the Edgar May Health and Recreation Center, and food prepared by Devin Lewis' BBQ and Cakes by Maddy. Attendees visited booths by SAPCC, Uplift Acrobatics, Windsor County Mentors, Chester Dental, Talking is Teaching in Springfield, Strong Families, Black River Acupuncture, SAPCC, and Black River Produce, who donated free produce to anyone who wanted it. We were also fortunate to have coverage by our local TV station, WCAX.

This year, we introduced our first annual Children's Duck Race with 40 entries. Children entered in the race for free and got to keep their tiny ducks as a souvenir. SAPCC sold 546 tickets at $5 each to sponsor the tiny ducks in the main race. The winners of big cash prizes up to $250 were: First place Lyndsie Perkins, second place Karey Waters, and third place Carolyn Tourville.

Carolyn Tourville. By popular demand, the Decorate a Duck contest was brought back again this year, and in three categories the winners were Edgar May's "Dash" for Healthiest Duck, Kayla Bapp's "Jerry the Highland Cow" for Best Decorated Duck, and the Nestervich Family's "Daphne Duck" for People's Choice. Each winner won $100. The Lucky Duck 50/50 raffle gave $130 to one lucky anonymous winner.

we wish to thank our sponsors: McGee Chrysler Jeep Dodge of Springfield; Willow Farm Pet; North Star Health; Building Bright Futures; JCS Landscaping; Black River

Produce; Shaw's Supermarket; KJ'S Place; and Red House Press Corporation. Without you, events like this would not happen. We appreciate your generosity in continuing to help us support our community. We also would like to wholeheartedly thank our volunteers for doing everything asked of them to make this event successful. They are Dave Holmes, Benjamin Holmes, Theresa Battista, Oliver Kelley, Bradley Gallant, Destiny Cornell, Steven Young, Connor Battista, Scott Kelley, Mike Pinney, and Stephen Lawrence.

Over $3,400 was raised to help SAPCC continue providing concrete supports and wraparound services to families in the greater Springfield region. We are overwhelmed with gratitude to our community for making this year such a wonderful success.

Grand Opening of Uplift Acrobatics —

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. – The Springfield Regional Chamber of Commerce was thrilled to perform a ribbon-cutting ceremony to celebrate the Grand Opening of Uplift Acrobatics, located at 37 Main St., Springfield, Vt., in the historic Woolson Block.

Uplift Acrobatics is an acrobatics studio owned by Kaitlyn Knapp. It is committed to enhancing the lives of students and their families by providing high-quality acrobatics training, performance opportunities, and a sense of community that is uplifting, inclusive, and supportive. Their comprehensive classes focus on a variety of acrobatic topics. These include flexibility, strength, limbering, tumbling, balancing, contortion, handbalancing, acro-dance, and partner acrobatics. Time is spent moving through thoughtful acprogressions robatic presented in the Acrobatic Arts curriculum. progressions These safely take the beginnerlevel student from log rolls and somersaults to the advanced-level performer tumbling across the stage. They also offer lyra (aerial hoop) training and a variety of other workshops, camps, and intensives.

The seeds were planted for Uplift Acrobatics 11 years ago when Kaitlyn decided to start her own business bringing high-quality acrobatics and dance training to Vermont. She has spent over a decade offering her acrobatics and acro-dance classes at various facilities and locations throughout Vermont. In 2019, Kaitlyn decided it was time to begin offering her classes and programming closer to home. The Springfield community was very receptive to having acrobatics training introduced and Uplift Acrobatics thrived. This past year marked the introduction of aerial acrobatics in Springfield when she began offering lyra classes alongside their renowned ground acrobatics program. Kaitlyn is excited and encouraged to see the growth and evolution of Uplift Acrobatics and is thrilled to be in downtown Springfield.

Kaitlyn chose to open Uplift Acrobatics in Spring-field because she wanted to share her gifts and passion for the acrobatic arts with the children in her own community. Between her daily trips to the Springfield Co-op, which is her favorite store, and her husband working downtown at Dufresne Group, Kaitlyn jumped on the opportunity to become even more involved with the downtown community by opening her own studio located in the Woolson Block. She looks forward to many visits to the Black River Coffee Bar and getting to know fellow business owners downtown and throughout town.

What is truly special about Uplift Acrobatics is their dedication to offering classes based on skill level, from beginner all the way through to pre-professional. The same teacher who is instructing the pre-professional level acrobats is also teaching every level that comes before that, all the way down to the Pre-K program. Students are learning from a teacher who sees the bigger picture and knows how to help them achieve their highest acrobatic po-Future goals for Uplift Acrobatics include continuing to expand class offerings to eventually teach all of the different acrobatic arts such as aerial silks and tight wire.

Chester's early Fire District

1931 American LaFrance Yosemite fire truck mentioned in this article. PHOTO PROVIDED BY RON PATCH

By Donald E. Mitchell (Dictated to his daughter, Donna LeClair, July

Probably the first motorized vehicle with a pump the Chester Fire District #2 had was an old Buick. It was donated to the Fire District by a man of some means who owned the building currently known as Raspberries & Thyme, a restaurant. I believe the time period was right around 1930. This generous individual donated his personal car to be used as a fire truck. Earl Horton was Fire Chief at that time and held that position for at least twenty years. Earl had a frontend pump mounted on the Buick. There were two lengths of suction hose, each about 10 feet long and 4 to 4.5 inches in diameter, which were mounted on the fenders on one side of the vehicle. I believe the Buick was more or less made into a truck eventually. Originally, it probably was a two-seat touring car. The truck that we used most of the time was referred to as the Number One truck. Gordie Hart, of Chester Depot, who lived in the house to the right of the present day Family Center, was selling trucks at the time and Earl Horton bought the truck through Gordie. It had a 500-gallon per minute midship pump. The truck was purchased new, had all the equipment on it, and replaced the Buick as far as the first vehicle to be used, though we still had the Buick with the front-end pump to use as a backup vehicle if it was needed. During this time, Earl Horton had spoken to a salesman with American LaFrance and asked him to keep his eyes open for a reasonable buy to replace our old original Buick. The truck the salesman came up with was a 1931

American LaFrance Rotary Gear Pump, which a fire company in Conway, Mass. was replacing with a new truck he had sold them. Earl Horton and I made a trip to Conway to look at the truck and advised the salesman we would buy it. I think the price quoted was $750, and Earl asked me if I could go for half of it in order to buy it and then we would see if the Fire District would buy it from us! I don't remember if any money changed hands until after the District voted to buy it or whether it was just a paper deal. Had the District not voted to buy it, Earl Horton and I would have had to cough up the money and we would have owned it.

There were no interstate highways from Chester, Vt. to Conway, Mass., so it was a lengthy trip down and back to see the truck and make our decision to buy it. The roads were single lanes north and south and sometimes there were very few places to pass. On the way back, we got behind a funeral procession and followed along behind that for miles and miles, not making much time. As we approached Brattleboro, I told Earl I knew the town well enough to know some cutoffs and "we'll get rid of this funeral procession." (I grew up in Brattleboro and delivered newspapers over several years on a good many of Brattleboro's streets.) This maneuver worked and put us ahead of the funeral procession and then we made better time.

I believe the month was September when Earl Horton, Pember Hazen, and I went to Conway, Mass. to get the truck. Pember was Chester's pharmacist who owned and operated the Chester Drug Store. This trip was during hurricane season and one was forecast. It was raining. There was no cover over the front seat. It was open. The windshield wiper was handoperated by reaching up

Constance Bixby, 1926-2022

LUDLOW, Vt. – Constance Bixby, 95, of Ludlow passed away quietly in her favorite chair at home, looking out her window, early in the morning of July 23, 2022. She was born on Nov. 20, 1926, the daughter of Richard and Dorothy (Rice) Howard.

Connie was an avid reader and funneled her love of books into a 43year career as Head Librarian at Fletcher Memorial Library. During her many years there, she inspired young people to learn, and made many lifelong connections with multiple generations of Ludlow residents. In her free time she enjoyed reading, watching birds, gardening, and her pet cats. She was a proud member of the Vermont Chapter of Eastern Stars.

In 2001, Connie's beloved husband of 58 years, Francis M. Bixby passed away. Being a strong, independent woman, she could still be found raking leaves or mowing her lawn while in her 80s.

Connie is survived by her daughter Sandra Merrill, her grandchildren Beth Merrill and Raymond Merrill (wife Lisa), her great-grandchildren

Ryan and Aaron Merrill, and her great-great-granddaughters, Kinlee and Kennedy Merrill. She is also survived by nephews Mark Butler (Mary Ann) and Kevin Butler (Amanda). Besides being predeceased by her husband Francis, Connie was predeceased by her parents, her sister Gloria H. Butler, and great-grandson Jonathon Merrill. She leaves behind many friends and family members. After a long life, she closes this chapter of her great book.

Graveside services will be held at the convenience of her family at Pleasant View Cemetery in Ludlow. Arrangements are under the direction of Clifford Funeral Home in Rutland.

Phylis Savage, 1922-2022

CHESTER, Vt. – Phylis Mae Wilmoth Henry Savage, a quick-witted woman with a charm that lit up the room, died July 25 at her home in Chester at age 99 years, seven months, and 17 days. She made all the difference in the lives of so many and her work here is done.

Phylis lived through the Great Depression and five wars. She would tell you she avoided walking to school in the 1930s by hitching a ride on the back of a milk truck. She'd tell you about her oneroom schoolhouse in Grahamsville (Ludlow), which she attended with her older sister Roxana. The highlight of her school years, she'd say, was getting out of class to watch the hearse carrying Calvin Coolidge make its way to Plymouth Notch Cemetery in 1933. Phylis would tell you she was old while showing you she never really grew up. She sat at the kids' table at Thanksgiving, she liked celebrity gossip and inappropriate jokes, she spoke her mind and never did what the adults told her. She had a heart for the less fortunate and a way of making everyone feel special. Phylis was born Dec. 8, 1922 in Ludlow, the daughter of John C. and Helen (Pollard) Wilmoth. She graduated from the former Black River Academy in 1940 before attending Rutland Business School. Phylis then returned to Ludlow and commuted on train from Ludlow to Chester to work as a bookkeeper at Central Vermont Public Service Corporation, where she met her first husband Arnold B. Henry, a lineman. After Arnold died in 1957, Phylis met her late husband Hanson M. Savage Sr., a truck driver and dairy farmer. Phylis spent most of her adult life as a farmer's wife in Chester, where she prepared lunch every day for the farm help and barn cats. Phylis' life was made full by her children. She raised six kids and devoted herself to her grandchildren. To her grandkids, she was Grami, a special woman with endless fun and no rules who could fill your day with ice cream, swimming, crafting, shopping, sledding, and shenanigans. Phylis was also a mentor through the Big Brothers Big Sisters program, providing friendship, advice, and love to kids who didn't have anvone else.

Phylis gave you her heart and, when you weren't looking, she gave you her belongings. It was a good idea to check your car after a visit because she likely snuck a yard sale treasure in there.

Phylis was proudly independent until the day she died – too stubborn for it to be any other way. A tough Vermonter, Phylis showed you there's no such thing as being too old. She raked leaves in the fall and shoveled snow in the winter until her final days. If she saw another senior with a cane, she challenged that person to a race.

Phylis spent her later years laughing with friends and neighbors on her front porch on Church Street and striking up conversations with friends and prospective friends (strangers) who walked by. She was grateful to her nurse practitioner Patricia "Trish" Brown for her care, companionship, and, especially, the colorful scarves, which Trish gifted Phylis at each doctor's visit. The family would also like to thank neighbors Tom and Victoria Elgan, who always kept a watchful eye over Phylis.

While everyone wants to know the secret to a long life, Phylis had at least three – be flexible enough to bend over and touch your toes, go for a walk every day, and never skip dessert.

Phylis leaves behind her daughter, Roberta H. (Henry) Vorhis, and her late husband, Russell "Al" of Jefferson, Maine; sons Dale A. Henry and his wife Linda of Greer, South Carolina; John P. Henry and his wife Sandra of Venice, Fla.; Richard D. Savage and his wife Laurel of Chester; and Justin P. Savage and his wife Maureen of Cavendish She also leaves her grandchildren, Jonathan, Jennifer, Kriston, Allison, Luke, Michelle, Jessica, Katy, Alaina, Kori, Casey, and Chris, as well as several great-grandchildren. She is predeceased by her sister Roxana (Wilmoth) Tofferi.

A graveside service will be held at North Street Cemetery in Chester on Aug. 6, 2022, at 1 p.m., followed by a Celebration of Life at the American Legion in Chester. In lieu of flowers, make someone else feel special.

Davis Memorial Chapel in Springfield is assisting with arrangements.

Fraud Watch Network: Summertime phone scams

REGION – Summertime, and the scamming's easy! The temperature rises; so does the volume of scam phone calls and text messages. Staying safe is challenging, but not complicated. Here are some tips for self-defense against phone scams: 1) Obtain a caller ID device if you do not have one and never answer calls unless you recognize the caller's number (a legitimate caller will leave a message if it is important).

Criminals are capable of masking phone numbers or even using numbers assigned to others. Typically, these calls display your area code and possibly the three-digit prefix. That makes the scam number appear to be someone local. If there is no response to your "hello" when answering the phone, hang up. Sadly, by answering the phone your number is added to a call list as an active number. Be prepared to receive more calls. If you answer the call and the party calling is a automated call (ROBOCALL) hang up unless the call is from a know source, such as a medical professional or school.

It often is difficult to recognize a robocall. Criminals employ "smart" or artificial intelligence software to make calls. These calls use a neutral "American" voice that will pose a question such as "Hi. This is Sarah calling from Visa, Discover, Mastercard. Are you interested in lowering your credit card interest rate?" The voice activation now kicks in waiting for you to respond with yes or no. If you don't use the words expected by the system, "Sarah" will probably say, "I didn't quite catch your response," and then repeat the message. Once again, if you find yourself on the receiving end of one of these calls, hang up. If the voice offers to place you on the do not call list by pressing "9," don't; that guarantees you will receive more calls. (Tip: sign up for the Do Not Call list at 888-382-1222 or www.donotcall.gov.

The Federal Trade Commission and the Federal Communications Commission put providers on notice; they must act to block these calls or provide warnings to consumers. That is happening on cellular phones where in-coming calls may display a message such as "Likely Scam." Sadly, the technology on landline phones does not provide this service.

Alert... Prepare for a barrage of what I refer to as "Gimme Calls" and emails. Whether the call is from a charity, political candidate,

BUYING/ SELLING BUYING-SELLING Coins, Paper or party, or even an organization claiming to raise

Vermont Open Farm Week celebrates 8 years -

REGION – For the eighth consecutive year, farmers across Vermont will once again open their barn doors and garden gates to welcome the public for a behind-the-scenes look at Vermont's vibrant working landscapes. Vermont Open Farm Week 2022 will be held Sunday, Aug. 7 through Sunday, Aug. 14, and feature over 105 events at over 53 farms across the state. Events are live and sorted by day and location on www.DigInVT.com.

Open Farm Week is a celebration of Vermont farms

Okemo Valley's

Estate Source for Over 60 Years

offering visitors a backstage pass to learn more about local food origins, authentic agritourism experiences, and the chance to build relationships with local farmers. Farm visitors can look forward to maple and honey tastings, kids yoga on the farm, ice cream socials, behind-the-scenes tours, on-farm dinners, 5k races, pie contests, and more.

Each Open Farm Week event is created by a farmer and focused on highlighting the unique character of the host farm.

"Open Farm week is Vermont at its finest. Visitors get an authentic experience while touring and talking with farmers and producers," said Vermont Agriculture Secretary Anson Tebbetts. "These visits highlight how our food is produced and how farmers care for their animals and land. We are grateful for these businesses that open up their daily lives to hundreds of visitors during Open Farm Week."

Open Farm Week events are now live online. Many events are free and some require pre-registration. Not all farms are open every day, so be sure to visit www. DigInVT.com to explore the diverse event schedule and plan a visit. Everyone is invited to join the Open Farm Week conversation on social media using the hashtag #VTOpenFarm.

tation this year, at 1 p.m., will be, "I Could Hardly Keep from Laughing," by Bill Mares. He co-authored the book by the same title along with Don Hooper. Copies will be available for sale.

The new book draws from

The new book draws from the works of over a dozen Vermont humorists, detailing how humor in the Green Mountain State has evolved over the years. It features new cartoons by Hooper, and a foreword by awardwinning political cartoonist Jeff Danziger. Raised in Texas and educated at Harvard, Mares has been a journalist, a state legislator, and a high school teacher. He has authored or co-authored 18 books on a variety of subjects including the U.S. Marines and beekeeping, from workplace democracy to Vermont humor

He has been a beekeeper for 50 years and was the cofounder of a Vermont brewery. He serves on the boards of VT Digger, the Vermont Brewers Association, and Food4Farmers.

He lives in Burlington with his wife of 50 years, Chris Hadsel. They have two sons.

Refreshments will be available prior to the pilgrimage, so plan to come early, stroll through the cemetery, and sample some light snacks. There is plenty of room in the building for social distancing, and masks are requested if you are not vaccinated.

Built in 1787, the building was used for both town and church events. The church services ceased in 1839; and by 1839 it was no longer used by the town for official gatherings.

The building was restored in 1906 and is currently going through another extensive renovation to repair the plaster.

Designated a landmark in 2000, it is open all season for tours and for special events such as weddings and con-

Traditionally, the pilgrimage is the final event of Rockingham Old Home Days and is held in commemoration of the first pilgrimage to the building after it was restored. With the exception of 2020 and the Covid pandemic, the pilgrimage has been held every year.

Rockingham

ROCKINGHAM, Vt. -About 40-square-miles in area, Rockingham consists of smaller villages, Bellows Falls and Saxtons River, and the small hamlets of Bartonsville, Brockways Mills, and Cambridgeport.

Until about 1825, the now quiet hamlet near the Meeting House was the principal village of the town in business and inhabitants, and the town offices were located there. Development in Bellows Falls in the 19th century shifted the focus of the town, and a fire in 1909 destroyed the stores and post office. The Rockingham Meeting House, constructed 1787-1801, is now operated by the town as a museum. It has been declared a National Historic Landmark.

It is believed that for several thousand years Indigenous people gathered at the Great Falls on the Connecticut River. The first European settlers tried to establish homesteads in this area during the 1700s, when the land was still occupied by Native Americans, the Abenaki, who joined the French in conducting a war against English intruders. Bedrock near the Great Falls retain stone carvings known as petroglyphs that are believed to have been created by Abenaki at least 300 years ago, during a period when their villages and burial grounds were set out here on the banks of the Connecti-Rockingham was chartered in 1753 by Benning Wentworth, the colonial governor sitting in Portsmouth, N.H. After the conclusion of the French and Indian War in 1763, settlement began in earnest. Many new inhabitants came from Massachusetts and Connecticut. They cleared land and established homesteads scattered throughout the town. The Rockingham Meeting House was erected in roughly the geographic center of the town in the hamlet that still bears the name of Rockingham. However, industrial and commercial development after the Civil War produced a concentration of population and activity in Bellows Falls, where it remains today.

Old Home Days "Bring It Home" 5K

ROCKINGHAM, Vt. - A road race has been part of Rockingham's Old Home Days since the very beginning. For many years, it was hosted by the Rockingham Recreation Department. It started as a 4.2-mile race that included a daunting climb up Pond Road and a harrowing descent on North Ridge Road. In the 1980s, it was shortened and flattened to the more common 5KM distance. With construction on Canal Street we have moved the start and finish to the Rockingham Recreation Center on Playground

Road for 2022. This 5KM course, which was used for many years in the 1990s and 2000s, features a downhill first half mile, a couple of pretty flat miles in the middle, and a climb back to the Rec Center in the last half mile.

The race will take place on Saturday, Aug. 6, 2022 at 8 a.m. at 10 Playground Rd., Bellows Falls, Vt. Registration will be from 7-7:45 a.m. at the Rockingham Recreation Center. There is an entrance fee.

Interested parties can help save time on race day by preregistering.
