Charlestown once again celebrates Old Home Days

BY KYLE LAURITA-BONOMETTI

The Shopper

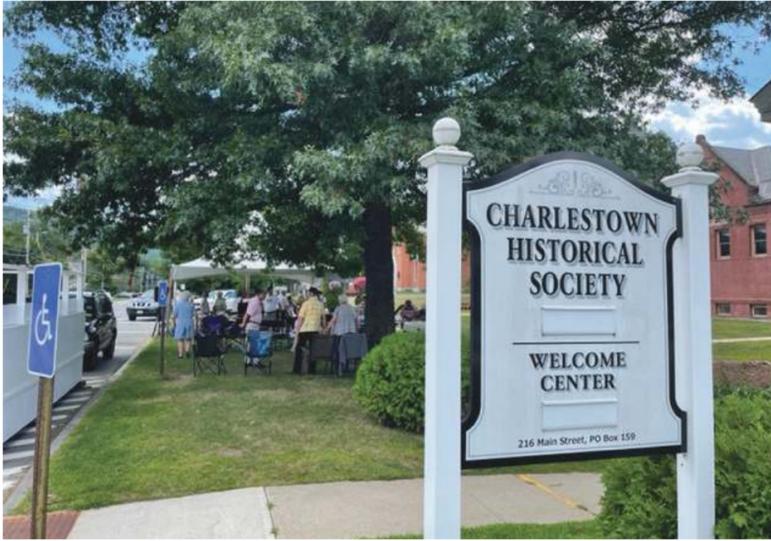

CHARLESTOWN, N.H. – “Slow and steady.” At Charlestown Old Home Days, the weekend of Aug. 19, Aug. 20, and Aug. 21, 2022, Troy, of Monster’s Tacos and Let’s Get Loaded food trucks, described business for the day. “Slow and steady,” he said, as he loaded up two corn tortillas with chicken and lettuce.

Slow and steady is a good way to describe Charlestown, N.H.’s Old Home Days. The event, while not being the most bustling of festivals, has always attracted a steady influx of visitors from around New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, and the surrounding states. This has been true since 1910, when Charlestown first began Old Home Days as a way to bring people and revenue back to the town after the wave of emigration towards the more industrialized cities of the day, said Sue Reed of the Charlestown Historical Society. “Once you had the railroad,” said Reed, a lifelong Charlestown resident, “people would start coming back for the festival.”

According to Reed, Old Home Days tend to be a small town event, “Like a town festival crossed with a reunion.” People would come back to their hometowns to reunite with their fellows. And there was certainly a hometown atmosphere in Charlestown this past weekend, where Class Reunions took place, food trucks parked in a ring beside Main Street, and families strolled down the street to admire the horse-drawn carriages passing by.

Several events took place over the weekend, including fireworks on Friday night, a parade Saturday morning, and, on Sunday, an open house of Fort No. 4, built in the 1700s, the fort Charlestown was settled around.

Kids could be seen running from the ice cream stand to the “Hocus Pocus” magic show across the street, and in the midst of it all, the Historical Society, which was open throughout the morning and afternoon, answering questions and showcasing historical collections from the town’s past. Here, proud citizens of Charlestown keep the traditions and pastimes of the town alive. “We’re working with the Board of Directors to rebuild the fort [Fort No. 4],” said Reed as she presented an original blueprint of the stronghold. “We’re starting to do fundraising.” Old Home Days like these are important to the towns of Vermont and New Hampshire, where they rely on the revenue and publicity of the festivals to bring attention to projects such as the rebuilding of Fort No. 4. The event, which takes place in Charlestown once every five years, has been delayed by the Covid pandemic since 2020. However, while such festivals are important to these local economies, at its core, Old Home Days is an opportunity for residents of towns such as Charlestown, N.H. to take pride in their home and to share a bit of their town’s character with the world. Along the side of Main Street, the pastors of the Church of Life handed out Italian sausages, grilled with onions and peppers. They distributed the food freely, and when asked about their generosity, one of the pastors shrugged and said, “We finally get to celebrate Old Home Days.”

Retired teacher realizes a dream with Next Chapter Records

BY JOE MILLIKEN

PUTNEY, Vt. – A new music shop is now open for business in scenic Putney, Vt. called Next Chapter Records. Launched in June by retired middle school teacher and longtime music enthusiast Mitch Harrison, Next Chapter Records offers both vintage and new vinyl, select CDs, t-shirts, and vinyl cleaning accessories.

“I’m a longtime music junkie in general, and I just love vinyl,” Harrison said in a recent interview. “I have great memories over the years, of first raiding my sister’s vinyl collection and then flipping through records on my own, starting in the ‘80s at my hometown record shop in Pompton Lakes, N.J.

“I’ve always had a love for sharing the gift of music with people via mix tapes, sending online links, suggesting live shows, and through the college radio station. The idea of opening a record store is just an extension of all that. It brings me joy to get records in the hands of people who are excited about a certain band, or have been looking for a certain release. It’s also fun to just chat about music with them [customers].”

When Harrison decided to retire from teaching, he wanted to create something new, the adventure of being his own boss and being able to celebrate the history of music with others. In choosing the location for his music shop, he saw the open 120 Main Street in downtown Putney and it just felt right to him. “It was just the right size to get started and I really wanted to be in a ‘downtown’ area. We are losing our downtowns throughout this country, and they are a critical part of a community. I want to, in some small way, contribute to a small, downtown environment by opening an independent record store. Putney has a vibrant music culture and hidden in these hills are some very artistic and eclectic folks, and many are vinyl lovers.”

Next Chapter Records prides itself on finding and offering high quality, rescued vinyl, and making it available to vinyl aficionados so it can be enjoyed and collected once again. They also offer select new releases as well as other vinyl accessories.

“It’s my job to dig for vinyl and bring them to the people who visit Next Chapter,” Mitch said. “We have gotten a great response from customers regarding our variety and about 90% of what we offer is rescued vinyl records, and we also have some new vinyl, CDs, shirts, turntables, and vinyl cleaning accessories.

“We also pride ourselves on carrying music that blurs musical lines and is hard to stick in just one genre. We want to appeal to everyone who ventures in, so we carry everything from one dollar records to rare collectibles.”

After a soft opening in May, the response from the community and from those visiting from out-of-state has been amazing. Residents seem genuinely excited to have a record store in town, and the other businesses in Putney have been very supportive. To learn more, visit www.nextchapterrecords.com.

Rockingham continues to discuss housing issues

BY BETSY THURSTON

ROCKINGHAM, Vt. – At the Tri-Board meeting scheduled for Tuesday, Sept. 27, 2022, the Rockingham Incremental Development Working Group (RIDWG) has invited a representative from the Vermont Housing Finance Agency to present their findings from the Vermont Housing Needs Assessment 2020-2024. The board would like to invite all who are interested to attend the meeting to learn more.

In early 2020, the Take Action Rockingham meetings determined that a top priority is the redevelopment and rehabilitation of Bellows Falls buildings. 43 interested residents joined a committee, but Covid-19 stalled the group formation until 2021. Sarah Lang, then of the Southern Vermont Economy Project and Brattleboro Development Credit Corporation helped bring Incremental Development Alliance (IncDev) to Rockingham with financial support provided by the VT Council on Rural Development (VCRD), VT Natural Resources Council, Preservation Trust of VT, VT Housing and Conservation Board, and the VT Community Foundation.

IncDev provided technical assistance to the town and interested residents that included a target market analysis, educational lectures about small scale development, spot tests, process mapping, and a regulatory review.

RIDWG, a small grassroots group of local residents and regional organizations, was formed to carry the momentum from IncDev’s training and bring a focus to the power of small incremental improvements, through beautification and collaboration. Other topics covered at RIDWG meeting as an outgrowth of the IncDev were Accessory Dwelling Unit (ADU) feasibility, the formation of landlord groups, contractor lists, and the creation of a Neighborhood Development Area. RIDWG even helped create a pro forma training and a multifamily home buyer course hosted by the BDCC.

On June 9, 2022, a group from RIDWG; Trustee Jeff Dunbar, Planning Commission member John Dunbar, RIDWG Administrator Sarah Lang, Development Director Gary Fox, and Bellows Falls Downtown Development Alliance (BFDDA) Director Betsy Thurston led the “Reimagining Rockingham” panel at the Downtown and Historic Preservation Conference in St. Johnsbury, Vt. The conference was hosted by the Preservation Trust of VT, VT Dept of Housing and Community Development, and was also attended by Rockingham Historic Preservation Commissioners Walter Wallace, Elijah Zimmer, and Diana Jones.

Lang introduced IncDev and the technical assistance the nonprofit provided. Fox gave the history of RIDWG’s creation starting with the first VCRD visit to Bellows Falls in 1998.

Jeff Dunbar highlighted IncDev’s training with workshops that he and member Duane Case had attended including the Small Developer Boot Camp. He said one of the challenges was identifying the first “small but big thing,” and opportunities included Downtown second and third-floor spaces and the over 85 Carriage Houses throughout the village that could be developed into ADUs.

John Dunbar discussed zoning districts, setbacks, and density requirements and shared statistics that 46% of Bellows Falls housing stock falls well below the requirement for lot sizes. He provided spot tests of four properties typical of those within the Village of Bellows Falls.

One example showed that bylaws require a 7,000 square foot minimum while the subject property has 3,850 square feet. Frontage setbacks require 70-foot minimum. The same property only had 39. The front and rear requirements at 25 and 30-foot minimum have a mere 5 and 3 feet respectively. Dunbar said that the majority of village houses, if built today, would not be allowed under current Rockingham zoning bylaws.

Dunbar went on to emphasize that zoning ought to facilitate the preservation of our neighborhoods and that adding residential diversity to Bellows Falls’ walkable neighborhoods is vital to maintaining a welcoming, attractive, and vibrant village.

Thurston highlighted BFDDA’s work from 2020, thanks to a Community Block Development Grant that paid for the lights in the trees and with help from Zimmer and Jesilyn Bashaw. Together they have developed the Keep Bellows Falls Beautiful campaign, which meets monthly to improve and beautify the village. On

Bellows Falls banknotes

BY RON PATCH

Last week I bought a few old coins and three old paper banknotes. Two of these banknotes date to the early 1860s; both are from The Bank of Bellows Falls. The third banknote is June 1830 from The Bellows Falls Bank.

The State of Vermont regulated these early banks, not the federal government. The following information is from Lyman Hayes, History of Rockingham, 1907. Hayes' is a comprehensive book of 850 pages. If you don't have a copy you can read more about these banks online, page 439 on.

Hayes mentions a bank in Bellows Falls prior to 1831, but he doesn't mention the bank's name. The third banknote I bought is that earlier bank. It is The Bellows Falls Bank. I don't know when this bank was organized. Those records would exist at UVM Special Collections or the Vermont Historical Society. The Bellows Falls Historical Society may have some of this information. If I wanted to know more, I would start there.

"The Bank of Bellows Falls was incorporated Nov. 9, 1831, by special act of the legislature, with a capital stock of $100,000. The incorporators were Mark Richards and John Smith of Westminster, William Henry of Chester, and Daniel Kellogg, Henry F. Green, S.W. Goodridge, James I. Cutler, and Alexander S. Campbell of the town of Rockingham. The first meeting of the incorporators was held Feb. 2, 1832, at the old Mansion House, which stood on the Square south of the present bank building.

The following board of directors were elected: Daniel Kellogg as first president, Nathaniel Fullerton, James I. Cutler, Nathan Wheeler, Samuel Porter, John Smith, and Otis Adams. These organized by electing Daniel Kellogg as the first president, and William Henry, cashier.

These two officers were authorized at the same meeting to purchase the lot upon the west side of the Square, now covered by the south end of the opera house building. Upon this lot, within a few months, was erected the small, plain, one-story brick building which served as the only banking house of Bellows Falls until 1875. The business was commenced in a small room in the second story of the Mammoth Block, immediately over what is now the store of the Howard Hardware company, and was continued there for a few months until the new building was ready for occupancy. This small building was occupied by the Bank of Bellows Falls during the remainder of the existence of that institution. In 1841, the discounts of the bank amounted to $130,134.50, only four banks in Vermont at that time doing a larger business.

Daniel Kellogg remained president until January 1837, when he was succeeded by Nathaniel Fullerton of Chester. William Henry, the first cashier, occupied the position until March 9, 1847, his resignation being occasioned by his election to Congress. He was succeeded by James H. Williams (1st). Mr. Fullerton was president and Mr. Williams cashier until the institution was merged into the National Bank of Bellows Falls, June 12, 1865.

By the terms of the new national banking act, the National Bank of Bellows, described above, was organized from the old Bank of Bellows Falls, described above, on June 12, 1865.

In accordance with the statutes providing for the retirement of the circulation of the bills of old state banks, the directors of the National Bank, on Jan. 8, 1867, had a memorable bonfire in which they destroyed $144,000 of the bills of the former institution..."

Above you read the names of presidents and cashiers. These banknotes were signed by both the president and cashier. The signatures on my notes are Kellogg, Williams, and Henry, as they should be.

My banknotes escaped the $144,000 bonfire. How many others exist, I do not know. These notes are well circulated and quite soiled from almost 200 years of handling. I am happy to have them.

The paper is a very thin, flimsy, tissue type paper. Of interest, as I have seen many times before, notes of this period are only printed on one side, the reverse is blank.

Banks received these notes directly from the State in denominations of: $1, $2, $3, and $5. Other denominations exist. I know of an uncut sheet of notes from the Jamaica Bank. Nathaniel Fullerton built the house Jerry Stewart lives in today.

This weeks old saying: A reader's father used to say this after he'd been in the presence of an overly talkative woman; "That woman has her tongue hung in the middle and it wags at both ends."

Springfield Library talks "Crop Circles" —

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. — On Tuesday, Sept. 6, at 7 p.m., join John Root at the Springfield Town Library for his presentation of "Majesty and Mystery of Crop Circles," featuring designs that have been appearing with increasing sophistication during the past three decades in farmers' fields and other locations all over the world.

occur near sacred sites and refer to mystical traditions, are discussed as well.

This program is free, accessible, and open to the public. The Springfield Town Library is located at 43 Main Street, Springfield. For more information, please contact 802-885-3108. You may also join in from home over Zoom. Sign-up required.

Oct. 18 — Another Election? Already? — Jon Margolis, Author, Free-Lance Journalist. Yes, it does seem as though political campaigns never cease, or at least blend into one another. Let's try to find out.

Nov. 1 — Yankee Spy! New Hampshire's Jonathan Hale in the Civil War — Alan Rumrill, Director, Cheshire County Historical Society, Keene, N.H. Cheshire County native Jonathan Davis Hale left N.H. to seek his fortune in the mid-1800s. He gained wealth, only to lose it all when the Civil War began, because of his support for the Union. Consequently, he served as a spy for the Union throughout the war. His life story is a tale of wealth, happiness, patriotism, danger, loss, and, finally, heartbreak and poverty.

Nov. 15 — Traditional Hand Tool Crafts, Wood Types and Local Forest History — Wade Smith, Mill Hollow Craft School, Keene, N.H. To many people today, traditional hand tools are objects in a museum. But these tools were at the technologically-advanced end of thousands of years of development. We'll discuss the woods used, with history about forests in our region. We'll observe demonstrations of these original tools, and attendees will even have the chance to try them.

Nov. 29 — The Beauty and Poetry of the Heavens: The Ancient Teachings of Aratus — Mark Breen, Planetarium Director and Senior Meteorologist, Fairbanks Museum. Astronomy has inspired almost every type of expression, from visual arts, music, and the written word, to sciences and mathematics. Each appreciates the universe from a different viewpoint. An example of this is found in "Phaenomena," by the Greek poet Aratus. Breen will use excerpts from the ancient text to guide you through the heavens in the very same way Aratus did over two millennia ago.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

Most Vermonters tell me they vote for the person, not a political party. I am asking each of you to put your ideological persuasion aside, don't rush to judgment, and don't assume you know where I stand because I am a Republican. "Get to Know Bill" and my ideas, then vote for the person that you feel brings the most to the table on behalf of all Vermonters, left, right, and middle.

State Pension Plan Participants, including State employees, teachers, and municipal employees, were all asked to work more, for less [benefit] this last legislative session as the unfunded pension liability worsened with recent market declines. It was last calculated at $5.5 billion. I am the only candidate to author a plan to keep Plan Participants' benefits intact, lower the unfunded liability by a billion or two within a couple of years, and stabilize plan funding for taxpayers.

Vermonters are feeling less safe than ever before. Drug overdoses have soared and Burlington is beginning to look like the "wild wild west" with weekly reported shootings. Recent criminal justice reform has missed the mark of equality and left us all less safe and more vulnerable to crime. I have a plan to help keep our schools safe and guns out of the hands of the mentally ill while ensuring our rights as Vermont and U.S. citizens.

I also have written plans that include solutions for Lake Champlain's poor water quality, alternative energy production and climate change, and more, all on my website, www.HuffForVTStateRep.com. Let's have a civil discussion about how we move forward with less divisiveness, fix our issues at hand, and create policy that benefits generational Vermonters and newcomers alike. Please consider casting your vote to allow me to serve you in the coming years.

Sincerely,
Bill Huff, Candidate for Windsor County Senate Thetford, Vt.

Dear Editor,

This letter is addressed to my constituents of the WDR-WDH district, citizens of Athens, Chester, Grafton, and Windham, for showing up and voting in our Aug. 9 primary, one of American's most sacred duties to perform. I encourage all citizens of our district to exercise their right to vote on Nov. 8 and support others to do so, if needed. It is very important to have all your voices heard.

With my name on November's ballot, you

Dear Editor,

To the casual observer, a stonewall may appear to be just another ubiquitous New England element. In its practical application, the wall's fieldstone of granite, schist, and gneiss had to be dealt with if pasture or cereal crops were to prosper. What better way to make use of this abundant resource than to assemble into a wall.

A well maintained stonewall is value added should know that my position is to protect the constitutional rights of the People within the WDR-WDH District. I have taken on this position of candidacy because of you all within my community. This district of ours is experiencing challenging times and I want to make sure no more unnecessary burdens are placed upon us.

I hearten you to feel comfortable to openly criticize and/or question my stance on particular issues. My intention is to offer mediums where we may participate in healthy discourse that enhances understanding and hopefully cultivating new ideas.

In addition, I expect our district to hold me accountable. Also know, I am not running to promote my own views. I am running to support the backbone of our great state of Vermont, our families, and small businesses. I am proud to be on the ballot, for the People. You can contact me and review both my Facebook page, (evaryanvt), and/or my website, (www.evaryanvt.com).

Sincerely,
Eva Ryan

and enhances curb appeal. Perhaps more aligned with farmhouses, contemporary homes fair just as well. It's just a matter of constructing a wall suitable to the landscape and the homeowner's personal flavor.

To truly appreciate a wall of rock though, the fruit of one's own labor in erecting it is absolute. The pride in accomplishing such an arduous task is not at all unlike the euphoria one experiences when earning that very first paycheck (at least when actual paychecks were a thing). We are humans and we create. Anything less is to disregard our very identities.

I admire the craftsmanship of the local baker, the finish carpenter, the quilter, and yes, the stone mason. I salute all craftsmanship. We are in a better place because of these men and women. So let us not lose that collective knowledge. Keep the basics alive and we will thrive.

Sincerely,
Coppice Thicket
Alstead, N.H.

Bernadette Curtin McNeill, 1925-2022

LUDLOW, Vt. – Bernadette C. McNeill passed away peacefully in her 98th year on the morning of Aug. 17, 2022 with the love of her family around her. The third of six children, she was born on March 22, 1925 in New York City to Cornelius D. Curtin and Edna (Riester) Curtin. Raised on Long Island, she graduated from the Dominican Academy in Manhattan, and soon started to work as a secretary for various companies in New York. She met Donald W. McNeill on a blind date, and they married a few years later in 1950, in Yonkers, N.Y.

Moving up to New England in the late '50s, she raised her family, living in Danvers, Mass., Somers, Conn., and Billerica, Mass. She retired after working many years for BASF, Inc. and Dennison/Kybe in Marketing and Office Administration.

After the passing of her husband, she moved up to Ludlow, Vt. where she spent ten years. She loved living in the community of Ludlow, looking out over the mountains. She volunteered at the Ludlow Elementary School Library and the Fletcher Memorial Library, loving the children, the teachers, and always learning. She was presented with a Volunteer Award by Vermont Senior Solutions and the entire Elementary School turned out to celebrate her 90th birthday! She always looked "sharp" wearing one of her many scarves and always with lipstick and her hair "done."

Elizabeth Campbell Chromec, 1947-2022

SAXTONS RIVER, Vt. – Liz passed away at her home in August of 2022. Born in 1947 in New York City, her family moved to Saxtons River in 1949. She attended Saxtons River Elementary School and Bellows Falls High School. She graduated in 1965 from The American School of Paris and attended Middlebury College. After attending Norwich University's accelerated program for teaching, she became a long-term substitute teacher in Cornish, N.H. schools and worked in special education at Bellows Falls Union High School.

She enjoyed hikes through the forest and taught her daughter how to track the many animals that lived in the snowy hills and fields of the family farm. In the 1990s, she volunteered at a wild bird sanctuary, nursing injured birds back to health. She had a knack for soothing the injured birds and lived for the day when they were released back to the wild.

She was a gifted artist and writer. In the 1970s, she created the most extraordinary embroidered clothing as gifts for her loved ones. She embraced spirituality and studied religions of the world, most formatively the teachings of the Dalai Lama and traveled to India to study Buddhism.

Many of her strongest friendships were forged in her youth, with those she was friends with from grade school through high school. She became like a

“Echoes of Light and Beauty” at the VAULT —

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. — Gallery at the VAULT is excited to present “Echoes of Light and Beauty,” a show of works by Robert Carsten, PSA-Master, IAPS-Master Circle, on view until Sept. 14. It is a must see, with numerous new paintings in several styles and sizes that come together splendidly. Robert captures the essence of the natural world around us in all its beauty and light.

Creative from early childhood on, Robert pursued studies at the Art Students League of N.Y.; Rhode Island School of Design; and Accademia di Belle Arti in Italy. A longtime instructor of art, he has taught classes and workshops locally, nationally, and internationally in Europe and China.

He writes on art and artists for several national art magazines. A sought-after juror for art exhibitions, he was recently on the panel of jurors for the Pastel World International Exhibition of IAPS in Albuquerque, N.M.

“I’ve always had wide-ranging interests in the visual arts,” says Robert. “I work in different media and use various approaches and techniques. Realism, impressionism, post-impressionism, and abstraction all interest me as modes of expression that I use to interpret different subject matter. Most of the art in this exhibition was created during the pandemic, some of which were demonstrations for Zoom classes that I continue to teach.”

Robert is a long-time resident of Springfield and lives with his artist wife Lynette and their beloved cats.

For more information please call Gallery at the VAULT, 68 Main St., Springfield, Vt. We are open Wednesdays and Saturdays from 11 a.m. – 5 p.m., and Fridays from 11 a.m. – 7 p.m. Contact at 802-885-7111, galleryvault@vermontel.net, or visit our web page at www.galleryvault.org or on Facebook.

BELLOWSFALLS, Vt. — Lenny Solomon will perform on Sunday, Aug. 28, 2022 at 4 p.m. at Stage 33 in Bellows Falls, Vt. A singer, songwriter, and guitarist, Lenny Solomon’s style has been compared to early Bob Dylan, Guy Clark, and Jerry Jeff Walker. In the late ‘60s he was a fixture at the fabled Spider John. He stepped off the circuit for a couple decades to raise a family and work in environmental research, but kept honing his songwriting chops. He re-entered the performance arena in the late ‘90s, and has since released five albums and won a dozen songwriting awards.

Magic hosts "Magic Mile for Cancer"

LONDONDERRY, Vt. – The Dana Farber Cancer Institute will present a "Magic Mile for Cancer" on Saturday, Sept. 17, 2022, at 10:30 a.m., at Magic Mountain in Londonderry, Vt. The

"Magic Mile" will be broken down into three categories: A run, for those who would like to run for a competitive time; a walk, for those who would like to hike at a casual pace and enjoy the scenery; and a "Kid's Mile," for those age 12 and under. The registration deadline to participate is Friday, Sept. 16, 2022 at 4 p.m., online at www.runreg.com/magic-mile-for-cancer.

The "Magic Mile for Cancer" is a one mile race or hike, directly up Magic Mountain's iconic Red Line ski trail, scrambling in places up steeps and through cliff bands. 100% of entry fees will be donated to Dana Farber Cancer Institute. Following the race, there will be live music, food, and drinks at the Black Line tavern at the base of the mountain, as well as raffles and giveaways. Any in attendance are invited to stay at Magic Mountain into the afternoon for the "Halfway to St. Patrick's Day" celebration. This event will be held rain or shine.

Vermont's Watershed Wildlife at Rockingham Library

in their local watershed and get to know them and their connections to water a little better. There will be live animals at this event.

This program will also be the final event for the Rockingham Library's 2022 summer reading program, Oceans of Possibilities. This program is free and open to all ages. For more information contact the Library at 802-463-4270, youthservices@rock-
