Patrick Cody receives LRC community service award

LUDLOW, Vt. – Patrick Cody, Executive Director of Okemo Valley TV (OVTV), had the cameras turned on him this past Tuesday, Sept. 27, when, as the guest speaker to the Ludlow Rotary Club (LRC), he was honored with the presentation of the LRC’s annual Ludlow Community Service Award.

Rotarian Art Randolph, in presenting the award to Cody, cited the many years of coverage of area town meetings presented by OVTV, along with the local programming promoted by the local public TV station. “Patrick has been a leader in ensuring that area folks have an opportunity to display their talents in addition wonderful in helping us get off the ground when we started this station 20 years ago.”

Cody admitted that when he heard of the job opening, he didn’t even “know where Ludlow was.” He soon readied the station to open in part of the old home economics room at Ludlow Elementary School where the station spent its first ten years. This was followed by a year in a trailer as they awaited their section of the old tank barn of the National Guard Armory to be converted for station use, where it has been for the last nine years.

to the informative area town committee meetings they presented,” Randolph noted. In accepting the award, Cody said, “It takes a village to make all the things necessary for a public TV station to succeed. The people in Ludlow and the area were

Blessing of the Animals

CHESTER, Vt. – On Sunday, Oct. 9, at 9:30 a.m., St. Luke’s Episcopal Church – the gray church at 313 Main Street, a few doors west of the Fullerton Inn, in Chester, Vt. – will hold a Blessing of the Animals on its back lawn. Members of the public are invited to bring an animal or the photo of an animal. Participants should come a bit early to the service, which will start promptly at 9:30 a.m. and conclude at 10 a.m., and bring a small lawn chair, if they need to sit, as well as a leash or restraint for their animal. The pet blessing ceremony is in commemoration of St. Francis of Assisi, who was famous for preaching to a wolf which then spared the lives of those who would feed him, and for leading a simple life of poverty and charity that honored all creatures – a lifestyle still honored in the monastic orders that bear the Saint’s name.

After the blessing, there will be a regular Eucharistic service of thanksgiving for creation inside the church sanctuary. All are welcome to attend the communion service and, since the weather will likely be cool, participants may safely house their animals in their vehicles. However, animals are also welcome to be with their owners inside the church to celebrate God’s love for all creation, if the animals are well-behaved and on leash or in a carrier.

ine spoke to the membership about GFWC, its history, and its advocacy throughout the years. GFWC was recognized on the floor of the United States Senate as “a gem among our midst” by then-Senator Joseph Biden for its work in bringing hope to victims and survivors of domestic violence and abuse, and its early support for the Violence Against Women Act. This year’s community projects and fundraising efforts for the club’s scholarships and many civic contributions were reviewed. The next meeting will be held Monday, Oct. 10 at 6 p.m. Contact President Penny Trick at 860-305-6558 or any member for information.

From Page 1 the board ultimately elected not to do so. Finally, after a good deal of input from the citizens present at the meeting, the Ludlow Selectboard chose not to grant Okemo Mountain the two contract amendments the Mountain had requested. The first was to change their standard one-year lease to a five-year lease, and the second was to grant Okemo the Right of First Refusal to Stearns Pit, should the town decide to sell it. The next Ludlow Selectboard meeting will be on Monday, Nov. 7 at 6 p.m. in the Town Hall.

Antique clock restoration

Steve Green asked if I would look at his wife's family clock. Steve married Michelle Wade. The clock had been Michelle's grandparent's clock, Carroll and Edna Wade of Plymouth. It had resided in a closet for 30 years, awaiting resurrection.

This Ansonia clock was manufactured circa 1890 to 1900, and referred to as a "Kitchen clock," at that time. Today in the trade, they are known as gingerbread clocks, and are often made of oak. Earlier examples were made of walnut.

Of interest to me, this clock is an oak case with a nickel-plated dial pan and nickel pendulum. The silver stencil on the tablet had been erased by years of aggressive cleaning. Usually, oak case gingerbreads have a brass dial pan, with gold stencil on the reverse side of the door tablet, and a brass pendulum.

Walnut case gingerbreads had a nickel-plated dial pan, silver stencil on the door tablet, and a nickel-plated pendulum. Why my interest? You might wonder. I think Ansonia made this oak case clock during their transition from walnut case to less expensive oak case clocks, using up their remaining supply of nickel-plated parts on a few oak gingerbreads. It is also possible it was a special order. Either way, it's of interest to me.

Kerosene

Years ago, I met an old timer, who told me about using kerosene as an evaporative lubricant. He used a tin, screw top cover from a tin can. He placed the cover in the bottom of the clock case, containing kerosene, and closed the door. As the kerosene evaporated, it collected on the dial, movement, and pendulum. I don't recommend this.

Over many years and refillings, the kerosene attracted the dust that gummed up the movement. The first thing I did was give the movement a good bath in clock cleaner. Then I dried and oiled the movement, greased the springs, and set it up in the test stand. It ran fine, with just minor tweaking needed.

Finish

When the clock was brought to me, it had been painted over twice, each time a different color. Using paint remover and hours of scrubbing and picking, I removed the paint as best I could. In the end grain the paint was very stubborn. In some places, I was able to hide the paint in the end grain with a colored pen. It was impossible to get it all.

The pendulum was heavily corroded from the kerosene. I went through my collection of clock parts and found the exact pendulum in mint condition. So I switched pendulums. I'm always looking for clock parts. Now you know why.

The Tablet

I called Lindy Larson down in Westminster to see if he had a gingerbread tablet with silver stencil. Lindy is a nationally known clock dealer. "Yes, come on down," he said. Lee Decatur and I drove down to Lindy's in Lee's 1953 MG. It was an enjoyable ride in Precious.

Lindy had several tablets out for me to choose from. I selected a beautiful new old stock tablet. This tablet was not a stencil. The design you see is etched right into the glass. The tablet needed to be cut to size. Neither Lee nor I felt competent to cut the glass. One mistake and it's over.

I took the doorframe and tablet to the Framery of Vermont to see if they would cut it. John DeBenedetti, using his wall mounted glasscutter, first cut the glass to size. Then he cut the angles at the top of the door. Perfect. I was holding my breath!

Refinish

After I was finished with paint remover, I went over the entire case with a fine steel wool. Now it was ready for a new finish. I used a golden oak stain. The wood was dry and thirsty, so it took three applications.

Restoring this clock required Lindy, John, and Lee's help. The paper dial had yellowed from the kerosene and needed to be replaced. Lee cut a new dial and glued it to the dial pan.

This team effort resulted in a beautiful clock the family will enjoy for years to come. Like your car, antique clocks require periodic maintenance. I don't do much clock repair anymore. I've always had a soft spot for Ansonia clocks and woodworks grandfather clocks.

This week's old saying I heard years ago: "When you're on a dirt road and come to a fork in the road, keep to the right if you don't know which way to go. You'll be right more times than wrong."

SAHA annual meeting talks "Vermont Eats"

N. SPRINGFIELD, Vt. – The Springfield Art and Historical Society (SAHS) will be holding its annual meeting at on Oct. 15, 2022 at 1 p.m. at the society, located at 65 Route 106, North Springfield, Vt. The public is invited to the meeting and program, but only members can vote at the meeting. There will be a short business meeting at 1 p.m. and the program will begin at 2 p.m.

The program speaker will be Steve Perkins, President of the Vermont Historical Society, who will present "Vermont Eats." This will be a tasty jaunt down memory lane discussing the traditional foods served up in homes here in Vermont during the challenging times of the Great Depression, when so many food products were rationed. Do you recall meals served post-war that may have been a carryover from those lean days? As one old-timer later said, "A depression? Us folks in Vermont didn't know there was a depression." The society will prepare some Depression recipes so we can all have a taste. Room is limited, so be sure to come early. This program is free and open to all. For more information call 802-886-7935 or email sahs@vermontel.net.

Dear Editor,

I would like to introduce myself to the citizens of Windsor County who may not know me. My name is Claude Weyant. I am running for the High Bailiff position in Windsor County.

The High Bailiff is an unpaid position. The High Bailiff has two responsibilities: The High Bailiff has the authority to arrest the Sheriff, if that ever becomes necessary; and the second responsibility is to take over the Sheriff's Department, in the event that the elected Sheriff can not continue to be the Sheriff, for whatever reason. In reality, that is the most important concern to keep in mind when you cast your vote for High Bailiff. The High Bailiff keeps the Sheriff's Department running, until the Governor chooses a new Sheriff.

I feel that I am the best person to become the High Bailiff for the following reasons: I have been a Full Time Law Enforcement Officer for 36 years, and I have been a member of the Windsor County Sheriff's Department for the past 21 years.

With my prior experience, I joined the department as a Sergeant. Through the years, I climbed up the ranks at the Sheriff's Department. For the past 12 years, I have been second in command at the Sheriff's Department, as Captain. There are many challenges and unique understandings to running the Sheriff's Department. With limited tax base funding, the Sheriff's Department has to operate under contracts with everything from Town Patrols, Traffic Details (such as construction projects), deputies working the two courts in our County, etc. I currently do all of the scheduling. I work with all the different people we work with on these contracts. And, I attend Select-board meetings with Sheriff Chamberlain. Besides doing my assignments as Captain, I am responsible to serve all the civil process that comes into the Sheriff's Office throughout the County. I work with many area attorneys and the courts doing the civil process. For several years, I taught the DARE program at elementary schools throughout Windsor County.

From 1996 to 2014, I was the high school wrestling coach at Bellows Falls High School. For the last several years, a co-op team was formed with both Bellows Falls and Hartford High Schools. During my last season in 2014, our Bellows Falls-Hartford team won fame throughout New England, as we were champions or placed high in area tournaments. That same year we placed second in Vermont and I had the honor to be nominated as the State of Vermont Coach of the Year.

I live in Windsor. My wife of 45 years, Carol, and I have six adult children, and eight grandchildren. I ask for and would very much appreciate your support and vote.

Feel free to contact me with any questions or concerns.

Sincerely,
Claude Weyant

Dear Editor,

Let me start by saying that although not a native, I have lived, worked, and raised a family in Springfield, Vt. since 1976. This is my home; I love it, and never wish to live elsewhere. It has been very exciting to see the changes in the past few years – the renovation of the Woolson block, the Springfield Food Co-op moving downtown, the razing of the VNA and Bakery buildings, the new Comtu Cascade Park, the Black River Innovation Campus (BRIC), the bump out in the square, and the removal of the J&L plant to name a few outstanding examples. It's wonderful to see the Park Street falls lit up at night, the climbing wall at the Edgar May Recreational Center, the enhanced pedestrian crosswalks, the Jamie Townsend mural on the theatre building, the lighted alleyways, new benches and plantings on the Toonerville Trail, and to run into the Simpsons around town. Evidence of our enthusiasm is everywhere.

Hoyt's Landing, the Toonerville Trail, Hartness Park, Muckcross, the Crown Point Road, and the gorgeous Black River (that runs the entire length of town) provide some spectacular views and countless venues for outdoor recreation, as well as being a gold mine of economic opportunities.

That being said, I would like to make a few suggestions that I think are necessary for the positive evolution of Springfield:

1. MAINTENANCE. When driving into town, you pass by many areas where basic maintenance has not been done. Grass needs more frequent cutting, weeds have grown up through sidewalks, shrubs are not trimmed, places that should be maintained are left overgrown, etc. First impressions are long lasting. Our public works department is short staffed and often absent in the summer months due to vacations and time-off for hours spent plowing. I get it. But we need to make it a priority and do better, whatever that takes. I believe we need a separate department or budget dedicated to maintenance, to include mulching and watering the many little garden areas around town. Any improvements to the downtown will be for naught if we don't expect and plan for the necessary upkeep.

2. VOLUNTEERS. Springfield On The Move (SOM) is "a nonprofit that partners with business, citizens, property owners, and the town government to make Springfield's downtown an attractive, desirable, and economically sustainable destination for residents and visitors." With a very small budget from the town, SOM has one salaried employee, the Executive Director. There are also about 15 board members, and another 8-10 regular volunteers. The average age of these folks is approximately 70. SOM and the Garden Club are made up of a population of mostly retired citizens. As we get older and unable to do the work involved in making the town look better, we are not being replaced by more able-bodied volunteers. SOM and the Springfield Garden Club do the planting, weeding, mulching, and watering of all the garden spaces and flower boxes around town, as well as the holiday decorating. The concerts in the park last year and this year were sponsored by SOM. More volunteers are needed. Younger volunteers are needed.

3. TOWN BUDGET. The town of Springfield has a "Main Street Master Plan," which was published in June 2017, more than five years ago. In it, there are 22 specific projects to be started or accomplished by this time. Only three have been completed and three others begun. As stated in the plan, downtowns are no longer used as the main shopping centers, but rather as places to enjoy theater, dining, and strolling around. Visitors need to be attracted to the setting. The potential is there. The projects in the "Master Plan" haven't happened because of a lack of funds, however, there are many sources of revenue that could be tapped. The Town's governing body has neither the time nor the skills for marketing and fundraising. It is my opinion and my hope that the town of Springfield will hire a marketing professional and a grant writer to help us take advantage of our many assets and resources. We can all do so much more to make Springfield the kind of place we can be proud of, and to make it a place that others want to visit.

Sincerely,
Corky Bond
Springfield, Vt.

Dear Editor,

36 residents of the Old Terrace Neighborhood in Bellows Falls, Vt. enjoyed three hours of good food and good company on Sunday, Sept. 25, 2022. It was the idea of Sustainable Rockingham and an action step of the recently revised Rockingham Hazard Mitigation Plan. Four people came together to organize the event.

Pop-up tents, tables, and chairs set the stage for a lavish potluck meal and conversations. A hand drawn map of the neighborhood, roughly enclosed by Prospect, Blake, Gove, and Taylor Streets helped new friends show each other where they live. A voluntary sign-up sheet will be the start of a neighborhood communication system.

One person who has lived on Brown Street since 1972 said they couldn't remember any event that brought the neighborhood together as this party did.

It was sweet to see "old-timers" getting to know people who have only moved there a short time ago, or in one case, a family who is about to move there.

Because our neighborhood is geographically isolated and relatively easy to define, pulling our neighborhood together might be easier than it would be in other parts of town, but we'd like to encourage other neighborhoods to try. We believe the community spirit engendered by events such as our party will help our town be more resilient, sustainable, and welcoming.

There was general agreement that we will do this again. Some of the ideas placed in a suggestion box included door-to-door caroling in December, a summer pool party, and a cooperative springtime neighborhood tag sale.

Thanks so much to our co-organizers Jim Malley and Tarra Neff; thanks to everyone who brought food to share; and a big thank you to the Rockingham Highway Department and Chuck Wise for arranging for safety by blocking off Brown Street for the duration of the black party.

Our lives are better today knowing we are part of a caring community.

Sincerely,
Laurel Green and Steve Crofter

football game on Thanksgiving day. How about the holiday party in December or a New Year's Day dinner?

All are great events and all can be administered in a personal way. After all, traditions are typically passed along and hopefully continue for generations to come. They can be influenced by holidays, historical events, or simply of one's own volition.

I have a tradition of writing a short story and sending it along with each Christmas card. Oh, and it rhymes too (it makes the writing process more challenging). I wouldn't refer to it as poetry in the philosophical sense, but as an entertaining tidbit in acknowledgment of the approaching holiday.

What are your traditions leading into autumn and winter? I just bet there are some unique ones the public would be interested in learning of.

Sincerely,
Coppice Thicket

Lawrence Raymond
Massucco, 1947-2022

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt. – Lawrence Raymond “Ray” Massucco, 75, died at home Tuesday, Sept. 27, 2022 in Bellows Falls, Vt.

He was born in 1947, in Waterbury, Conn. and grew up in Bellows Falls, the son of Dr. Lawrence and Marion (Bigelow) Massucco.

Ray is survived by his wife of 53 years, Ginny; their three children, Neil Massucco, Julie (Mike) Kleiner, and Kate (Matt Slocum) Massucco of Seattle; two sisters, Mary Lou Massucco of Saxtons River and Sarah Jane (Stephen Chipman) Massucco of Bartonsville; his grandson, Ben Kleiner; four nieces; two nephews and two grandnephews; many cousins; and his law office partners and employees. He is predeceased by his parents and brother, Johnny Massucco.

Ray graduated from Bellows Falls High School in 1965, the University of Vermont in 1970, and Suffolk Law School in 1973. Following graduation from law school he returned to Bellows Falls to practice law with Tony Kissell and began a career he genuinely loved, which spanned 50 years. Ray enjoyed gathering with his colleagues of the Windham County Bar Association, and rarely missed the annual meeting. He was also active in the Vermont Bar Association, served on the Vermont Board of Bar Examiners, and the National Board of Bar Examiners.

Ray loved his hometown and its history, promoting it enthusiastically at every opportunity while also working to bolster its future. He volunteered and served on many boards and committees throughout his life; the Downtown Townscape project, the YMCA board, the Connecticut River Watershed Council, Rockingham’s 250th anniversary celebration, was active with class of ’65 BFHS alumni, acted as Village and Town Moderator, and served on the Rockingham Free Public Library Board and Greater Area Rockingham Services Board. Ray was a prolific blood donor, and recently gave his 183rd pint. He and his office looked forward to the Windham County Big Brothers and Big Sisters “Bowl for Kids’ Sake” fundraiser each year, and raised thousands of dollars for that organization.

As a life-long music lover, Ray was never happier than when bringing the next live music event to Bellows Falls. The Roots on the River festival was a passion for him. He worked tirelessly and joyfully for nearly 20 years to make it happen. In 2006 he founded Vermont Festivals. He presented the Vermont Symphony Orchestra, folk musicians, comedians, and drew visitors from all over New England and beyond. Ray’s gift of gab allowed him to form lasting bonds of friendship with these musicians, artist, and fans.

Of all his many passions and commitments, Ray most loved his family and creating special memories to spin into tales he could share with everyone he met.

Visiting hours took place on Monday, Oct. 3, 2022 from 4-7 p.m. at the Fenton and Hennessey Funeral Home 55 Westminster St. in Bellows Falls. A Funeral Mass took place on Tuesday, Oct. 4 at 11 a.m. at St. Charles Catholic Church, Cherry Hill in Bellows Falls, Vt.

Burial followed the service in St. Charles Cemetery in Westminster, Vt.

In lieu of flowers, memorial donations may be made to Our Place Drop-In Center or a charitable organization of your choosing.

Arrangements have been entrusted to the care of the Fenton and Hennessey Funeral Home in Bellows Falls, www.fentonandhennessey.com.

Robert Henry Wordell,
1950-2022

ATHENS, Vt. – On Sept. 26, 2022, Robert Henry Wordell (Bob) passed away peacefully, surrounded by his daughter Heidi Chase, (also his devoted caregiver) and her family after a battle with bladder cancer. Bob was born March 26, 1950 to Beatrice (Standish) Wordell and Raymond Everett Wordell Sr. in Lakeville, Mass., and attended schools in Lakeville, Mass. before moving to Jamaica, Vt, and then living in Athens, Grafton, Chester, Bellows Falls, and Westminster, Vt.

Bob was a hard worker all his life; seldom without a job, working for various private individuals doing odd jobs and holding jobs with the town of Newfane, Vt., maple sugaring for Norman Knight for years, Gurney Brothers, Grafton Village Garage, Wilson and Lawrence, and Bazin Brothers, before retiring. Bob loved country music, his dog (Tilly), hunting, playing cribbage, chess, poker, and golfing for children’s charities, going to fairs, animal parks, potluck picnics, and spending birthdays and holidays with friends and family. He was a member of the Elks, Moose Lodge, VFW Lodge, and Polish American Club in Bellows Falls, Vt. throughout the years, where most weekends were spent socializing with his many friends.

Bob was predeceased by his mother, Beatrice (Standish) Wordell, his father, Raymond Everett Wordell, brothers, William and Dennis Wordell, and

Camaraderie at the Diaper Bank

REGION – Every couple of months something magical happens in Vermont that most people are not aware of. The Vermont Diaper Bank Program shows up at The Family Place in Norwich with a U-Haul full of disposable diapers for the communities in the southern region. Representatives from about 60 organizations including food pantries, nonprofits, doctor’s offices, and child-care centers show up at the drop-site and form an assembly line to unload the diapers and wipes from the truck, hand them down the line to the designated recipients who fill their cars with thousands of diapers, and head off down the road to their facilities.

Kayla Bapp, one of the Springfield Area Parent Child Center’s (SAPCC) PCC specialists, makes this trip to stand in line to receive SAPCC’s allocation. During the last drop, Kayla managed to cram 4,000 diapers and wipes into her small Kia sedan. With the Kia packed to the limit, she then drove to SAPCC’s North Springfield Campus and unloaded diapers, size zero to six, to give out free to families of the Center’s southern Windsor and northern Windham county service area.

Times are hard, costs are sky high, and providing this service to the community helps take a little bit of pressure off of these struggling families. They can receive a package of diapers and wipes once per week for as long as the supply lasts and they are passionately grateful. This service has made a difference in their lives. These are a couple of quotes from families who have benefited from the diaper bank program:

“The program for diapers has been a Godsend for us as CCO’s of my granddaughter. There are so many expenses that are not reimbursed and diapers help tremendously.” And, “The diapers are very helpful, especially when I couldn’t afford to pay the bills and buy diapers at the same time.”

Although Northern Vermont is serviced in a similar fashion with a drop-site in Burlington, it’s the camaraderie that has evolved in Norwich that is special. The assembly line process developed one day when the two individuals who typically unload the truck didn’t show up. From that day forward, this group of unsung heroes, connected only by the services they provide, formed a line to unload the U-Haul and load thousands of diapers and wipes into their vehicles. The families served by the Diaper Bank may not be aware of how all this unfolds, but they are keenly aware of how fortunate they are to get this free service.

Everyone Eats extends program –

WESTMINSTER, Vt. – The Vermont Everyone Eats (VEE) program, providing Covid relief support for Vermont restaurants, farmers, and meal recipients since Aug. 1, 2020, is confirmed to continue beyond Sept. 30, 2022. To date, this program has provided over 3.2 million meals to Vermont eaters in need, along with $32 million to the local restaurants who make the meals, and over $3 million to Vermont farmers and food producers whose ingredients are used in the meals

Everyone Eats is an innovative, multi-sector Covid relief program providing economic support to local restaurants, economic benefit to farmers, and restaurant-prepared meals for food-insecure Vermonters negatively impacted by Covid. All three pillars of the program – restaurants, farmers, and eaters – continue to benefit significantly from the relief this program provides.

The contract is being extended to allow VEE to continue providing meals through the holiday season and the coldest months, using the remaining available balance of state funds which the legislature allocated to the program as a component of the Covid-19 emergency response and recovery. The Vermont Everyone Eats program is currently 90% funded by FEMA and 10% funded by a special allocation from the Vermont State Legislature.

This program, which currently distributes approximately 29,000 meals per week to eaters across Vermont, engages nearly 700 restaurants, farms, food producers, hubs, and distribution partners throughout the state’s 14 counties.

For more information on the program or how to receive a meal, visit the Vermont Everyone Eats website at www.vteveryoneeats.org/.

Connecticut River Valley Stingrays 2022-23 swim team

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. – Edgar May Health and Recreation Center is excited to announce that registration is open for the Fall 2022 and Winter 2023 sessions of the Connecticut River Valley Stingrays youth swim team. The fall session will begin Oct. 17, 2022 and continue through Dec. 16, 2022. The winter session will take place Jan. 2, 2023 through March 17, 2023.

Children ages 6 to 18 are invited to join our developmental, junior, or senior swim teams. Swimmers at all levels will have the chance to compete in swim meets throughout the region. "When your child joins our swim team, they will be joining a fun, friendly, and supportive environment. Our goal is to improve their athletic performance at all stages of swimming and focus on team building and sportsmanship," says coach Ann Thompson.

To join the developmental swim team, children ages 6 to 10 must be able to swim 25 yards in either freestyle or backstroke. Coaches will work in and out of the water to teach each swimmer proper swimming skills with a focus on strokes. The participants will also progress to longer lengths of swimming to give them the endurance they need for shorter races. Developmental swim team will meet Monday, Wednesday, and Friday evenings.

To join the junior team, swimmers must be 8 years or older and be able to swim 50 yards of each stroke as well as a 100-yard IM with minimal corrections. The junior team will work on improving proper swimming technique. These swimmers will swim longer yards and multiple sets. Junior swim team meets Monday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday evenings.

Prior to joining the senior team, swimmers must be advanced by their swim coach or have met with the coach for a skills assessment. The senior swim team will meet Monday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday evenings.

"We're eager to welcome back our returning swim team members," adds coach Rick Matthews, "and we encourage new participants to join us for these exciting fall and winter sessions!"

Registration is available at www.edgarmay.org or by calling the front desk at 802-885-2568. Swim team participants must be active members at the EdgarMay for the duration of the swim team session.

A Vermont salamander

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. – It was a typical river cleanup – volunteers with the Black River Action Team (BRAT) were filling trash bags, pick-up trucks, and boats with all manner of trash and junk they collected from the bed and banks of the Black River in Springfield, Vt.

A special crew, dubbed "The Tire Brigade," was working hard to locate and extract larger items from the lowest two miles of the river.

After pulling up several tires, a couple of rusted bicycles, and an extremely heavy railroad tie, out plopped the largest salamander volunteer Lenard Barber had ever seen. Gently cradling it for a quick photo by fellow volunteer Jeff Semperebon, he carefully released it back into the water to watch it swim away.

According to herpetologist Jim Andrews, the common mudpuppy is a "pretty unusual" sight in Vermont, only found in Lake Champlain and the Connecticut River as well as the lower reaches of the tributaries to both. Yet the two populations are distinct from each other. Mark Ferguson of the VT ANR's Wildlife Diversity Program explains: "Interestingly, mudpuppies in the Connecticut River system have long been thought to be an introduced population... related to mudpuppies from the upper Mississippi drainage or nearby. Mudpuppies in the Lake Champlain basin are native."

Andrews, director of the Vermont Herp Atlas, says that the biggest threat to mudpuppies in Vermont is the use of lampricide chemicals. If you spot one, send a couple of photos to the Vermont Reptile and Amphibian Atlas at www.VtHerpAtlas.org, or email jandrews@vtherpatlas.org.

Local artist brings new eyes to old buildings

SAXTONS RIVER, Vt. – Artist Ricky McEachern will feature a half-dozen buildings from his new hometown of Saxtons River, Vt. in his new, oil painting exhibit, which will be on display for a month in one of those very buildings. There will be an opening reception Friday, Oct. 7 from 6–9 p.m. at 26a Main Street, a.k.a. “The Cute Red Building.”

McEachern has titled the show “Wood & Light” and calls it a celebration of the many interesting manmade structures found in New England and their play with natural light.

“I think of this work as a series of portraits. I am hoping I can show each one’s unique personality and maybe capture a glimpse of its past glory,” he said.

The selection of paintings includes buildings that were once part of the village’s busy economy, including the wool pullery, the former hardware store, the one-time grocery store where the show is mounted, as well as repurposed buildings, including a house now used for costume storage and the former Christ’s Church, which has become a community center known as 24 Main.

McEachern is sprinkling the show with tantalizing bits of entertainment, including Ken Rokicki on Latin guitar at the opening, guitarist and singer Jonny O of Pizza Stone on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 15, and an Art, Poetry, and Open Mic event for poets to read works inspired by wood and light and emceed by poet Rebecca Cross Sunday, Oct. 23 from 2–4 p.m.

In collaboration with the Saxtons River Historical Society, McEachern has scheduled a Saxtons River Memory Circle Sunday, Oct. 16 from 2–4 p.m. for folks to share stories about the buildings depicted in the paintings. The historical society has also created a pamphlet with information about the buildings and a map for a self-guided walking tour.

The gallery will be open Thursday through Sunday from 10 a.m. – 6 p.m. through Oct. 29, or by request.

Examples of McEachern’s work can be seen at www.rickymceachern-artist.com. He is also the producer of the podcast Eager to Know, which engages conversations with creative-leaning people.

Black River Academy Players’ “Greater Tuna”

LUDLOW, Vt. – The Black River Academy Players are rehearsing “Greater Tuna,” to be presented Oct. 21 and 22, 2022. The wacky inhabitants of the tiny Texas town, the third smallest in the state, consist of men, women, children, and animals – all played by just two skillful actors, Tom Field of Springfield, and Tuckerman Wunderle of Chester. They change parts and costumes at breakneck speed, and invent a different voice for each character.

Watch for an announcement of where you will be able to enjoy an evening of belly laughs at this irresistibly funny mix of humor and pathos.

Comedian Ed Smyth

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt. – Comedian Ed Smyth will perform on Oct. 30, 2022 at 3 p.m. at Stage 33 Live. This show is for adults and kids, as Smyth hosts a fictional television show on stage.

Ed will be performing as Bronco Brad, hosting “The Dang Tootin’ Good Time Show” that airs from fictional WEXL-TV every Thursday afternoon – a throwback to the TV cowboys of the past, but quirky. There’s a “Science Corner” with a talking neutrino. Learn how to draw a flying kielbasa in “Art Corner” and memorize the square root of pi with mnemonics in “Math Nook.”

Audience members are encouraged to show up in cowboy hats, boots, or similar western gear to receive a Bronco Brad deputy sheriff badge and an authentic Bronco Brad Deputy Sheriff Certificate.
