Ludlow Planning Commission survey —

BY IAN BARD
The Vermont Journal

LUDLOW, Vt. — The Ludlow Planning Commission discussed the public outreach survey they are setting up for the municipal planning grant at their Feb. 21 meeting. The municipal planning grant encourages towns to look how they can update their zoning by-laws to facilitate the development of more housing. Board Chair Terry Carter worked with members of Mount Ascutney Regional Commission (MARC) before the meeting and came with a number of possible survey questions prepared.

A handful of citizens were present at the meeting and eager to speak. The Pettigrew Inn was cited again for not running as the inn it claims to be, and disrupting the surrounding neighbors. Citizen Eric Alden spoke at the meeting, repeating sentiments he's stated before, that the planning commission is the most important board of any town. He reminded the board and citizens that they only meet for 18 hours total every year, "you could meet for 218 hours a year, and still not get done what needs to get done." Citizen George Tucker asked everyone to think about what they want Ludlow to look like in 10 years, mentioning that zoning regulations are always playing catch up.

The board members reviewed the questions proposed by Carter, many of them were designed for people looking for housing. Board member Andrea Goldman asked if the survey could only deal with housing, or if they could put other topics around it. She expressed her feeling that the survey should be more broad and really allow people to talk about what they want. Martha Harrison, from MARC, told her that while it can have other things in it, the main focus should be housing. It was mentioned how a broad survey was already done in 2018 when creating the town plan. Member Ryan Silvestri thought the board should really ask citizens how they want to see the town grow. He suggested questions that ask how residents would feel about specific improvements or changes, such as a parking garage in town, or raising the building height in the village. Citizen Steve Meyers told the board that they work for Ludlow, not Okemo, and that time should be spent making housing for citizens, not the mountain.

The board discussed the target audience of the survey, with Carter wanting to specifically target employers and employees from the village. Silvestri and Goldman felt this would artificially shrink the pool of people taking the survey, and would require immense work. They suggested the survey be much more open, simply asking a person to describe themselves at the beginning. Silvestri felt this allowed anyone "with a stake in Ludlow" to give their opinion, as well as helping them sort the data after the survey.

Carter and Goldman agreed to meet with members of MARC before the next meeting to batten down the survey questions. The board will finalize the survey at the next meeting.

Citizen Jean Strong mentioned that the village trustees must approve all of these changes that are being made, and that that does not always happen. She expressed the need for more public support at those meetings. Goldman agreed that when it comes time to approve the changes they've worked on not as many people come as they hope. The board explained that the trustees asked to receive all changes for the grant at once, rather than continually approving little changes. Citizens expressed their concern for this, as so much with housing has changed in the past year, they do not want to see how much more would change before these changes are approved. The board said they could ask the trustees to approve certain changes ahead of time.

The Ludlow Planning Commission meets on the third Tuesday of every month at 6 p.m. in the Ludlow Town Hall. The next meeting will take place on Tuesday, March 21.

Smokin' Bowls expands into new location —

BY PAULA BENSON
The Vermont Journal

PROCTORSVILLE, Vt. — For over 15 years, Smokin' Bowls in Rockingham has been serving homemade, piping hot chowders, soups, chili, pulled pork, and more, out of a tiny, roadside "soup shack." Frequently, the small parking lot will be full of cars with people patiently waiting for one of their signature dishes, like Cheech and Chong chili cheese nachos.

All innuendo aside, Smokin' Bowls is known for their fresh, local ingredients and inspired recipes. Chef/owner Sarah James said it took her about a day to ruminate on the name, suggested by her former husband. "I just decided, yes that's it. That's the name."

Some of the 'smokin' bowls' found on the menu are filled with African peanut soup, mushroom bisque, or clam chowder. Waffle bowls, stuffed with fried chicken, or chili, or even a deconstructed Reuben are a popular menu item. Head Chef Eric Draper designs dishes like lamb meatball sliders, and smoked cheddar infused smashed burgers with roasted tomato aioli.

James said she drove by the property when it had a 'for rent' sign out front. She'd been up to Okemo and Killington to research building a food truck, a project that James says is still happening. James contacted

Neal's owner Neal Baron to tell him she was interested in taking over the space, and when Baron included the tables and chairs, the bar, everything in the kitchen, and other items in his offer, she made the decision to lease the property and open a full-scale restaurant with an expanded menu and big plans for the future.

Smokin' Bowls is already showcasing live music on the weekends, and James wants to start hosting game and trivia nights, and karaoke. She had hoped to install an ice-skating rink this winter, but that will have to wait for next year.

James and her business partner Jason Kobec have other ideas for the large, grassy area next to the restaurant, including a potential summer concert series featuring Vermont musicians like Jatoba, and Saints and Liars. They also want to install green houses, vegetable and herb gardens, and a chicken coop.

The establishment doesn't yet have their liquor license, but they are allowing customers to BYOB, and the staff encourages people to shop at nearby Singleton's market to purchase their alcoholic beverage of choice.

With seating for 80-100 people and two large, flat screen televisions, the restaurant is ready for sports viewing, and James anticipates that once they can serve beer and wine, Smokin' Bowls will become a go-to spot for game days. James runs a thriving catering business as well and wants to rent out the space for private events once everything is in place. The soup shack is still in business Fridays through Sundays, and James hopes to have the food truck operational soon. Although most days James works from 8 a.m. to 11:30 p.m., and has had one day off since Christmas, she says she's tired but excited for the future of the business, which is well on its way to becoming a local staple.

Cavendish ARPA Committee

CAVENDISH, Vt. — The members of the Cavendish ARPA committee have announced that they will hold an informational session at the Cavendish Town Meeting to discuss use of the town's ARPA funds. The town meeting will begin on March 6 at 7 p.m. in the Cavendish Town Elementary School on Main Street in Proctorsville.

The American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) distributed funds to all 50 states, providing resources needed to respond to the pandemic and its economic effects and to build a stronger, more equitable economy during the recovery. Vermont further distributed the money to all towns and cities and to many state departments and agencies to use for various purposes.

The Coronavirus State Fiscal Recovery Fund and the Coronavirus Local Fiscal Recovery Fund established under ARPA comes with rules and regulations on how the money can be spent. The guidance that accompanies the money runs to well over 437 pages. The Cavendish committee is working within these rules to establish a system for Cavendish to most effectively spend the $421,631 allocated to Cavendish.

The committee is interested in hearing from as many residents as possible to gather as many suggestions as possible for use of the money. The committee members will briefly explain restrictions on spending the funds as set forth by the US Treasury department and will explain how the committee will solicit and receive suggestions from the public. There will also be a timeline with deadlines for submissions. Final determination of spending will be made by the Cavendish Selectboard.

For more information on the Cavendish Town Meeting, please see the town website at www.cavendish-vt.com or call the town office at 802-226-7291.

In my 50-plus years buying antiques from private homes, I met many old Vermonters. Some of these old Vermonters knew things now long forgotten. Below I give a few examples:

Quilts
It was probably 45 years ago, I was in an attic of a generational home buying antiques. I opened an old blanket box. Inside, neatly folded, were a number of antique quilts. One by one, I took them out and unfolded them to look them over. The old lady stood beside me and told me who made or owned each quilt. One quilt had stains. When I pointed it out to her, she told me how to remove the stains. She said, “On a very cold winter day, take the quilt outdoors and lay it stain side down in the snow. Leave it out overnight and bring it in the next day. The cold will draw the stains out.” I’ve never tried it, but it seems plausible.

Candle wax
I learned from an old man how to remove built up wax from candlesticks. This is very simple and it works. Place the candlesticks in your freezer overnight. The wax will be easier to remove the next day.

Cotton balls
One summer day, close to 50 years ago, I went to see an old man in Weston. I walked up onto his porch and knocked on the door. I noticed he had several cotton balls tied to his screen door. I asked what they were for. He told me cotton balls kept flies away from the screen door. This way you can open the door without letting flies in the house.

Ladder back chairs

This history is interesting. I have seen it a few times in my life. A ladder back chair is a high back side chair. They will have three or four horizontal slats, one above the other. Hence the term “ladder back.”

Ladder back chairs from the 18th century will sometimes show wear on the front of the finials. How could this be? Picture yourself standing behind the chair: Now tip the chair forward, so the finials rest on the floor. A toddler learning to walk would grab the rear legs or a stretcher, and push the chair around. This is how the little tike learned to walk. Generation after generation used this chair in this fashion, wearing flat spots on the front of the finials. It is part of the chair’s history. Don’t refinish.

Cutting teeth
Coin silver teaspoons were produced in the 18th century on into the mid-19th century. Individually made by silversmiths, they are very thin and lightweight. You will sometimes see these spoons where the bowl of the spoon has tiny dents.

When babies were cutting teeth, these spoons were given to the baby to cut their teeth on. If you have a coin spoon with tiny dents, this is why.

Cleaning cast iron
When your cast iron gets cruddy this may clean it for you. Place the cast iron upside down in a hot oven. Let it heat for an hour or so. Take it out of the oven and let it cool. When cool enough to handle, spread salt over the interior surface. Using a coarse cloth, work the salt into the iron. This abrasive scrubbing will improve the cooking surface.

After using a cast iron skillet, wipe it clean. Then crumple up wax paper and rub the heated surface, turning the wax paper over a few times. The wax will seal the surface.

Lamp chimneys
Some clear glass oil lamp chimneys have a ruffled top. The old Vermonters found an excellent use for these glass chimneys. The lamp would be lit and set at a low flame. A small saucer was placed on top of the chimney. Water was added to the saucer. Then mothers placed a baby bottle in the saucer. The ruffled top of the chimney allowed smoke to escape. If you used a regular flat top chimney, the flame would be smothered and die. The milk in the baby bottle would be warmed from heat of the flame. I remember testing heated milk on the inside of my wrist.

This week’s old saying: “Behind every successful man is an amazed mother in law.”

Dear Editor,

Hello, neighbors. My name is Wendy M. Levy and I am excited to be on this year's town meeting ballot as a library trustee. I believe my leadership skills, my love for libraries, and my knowledge of how crucial they are to a community make me an excellent addition to the Rockingham Free Public Library's Board of Trustees.

I moved to Bellows Falls from Brattleboro in April, 2022, and I am so glad I did. One of my favorite things about living here is the Rockingham Free Public Library (RFPL). It's a beautiful building inside and out, and the librarians are helpful and dedicated. While most of my interaction with the library is borrowing books, DVDs, and magazines, I also go there to read the newspaper, use the printer, do the communal jigsaw puzzle, attend events, and learn about local resources from the librarians. It's a nice place to be when I need some quiet but I want to get out of the house.

From the age of five, when my mom got me a library card, I've been a fan of libraries. I love to read. My first after-school job was at the Dover (N.J.) Public Library. I am currently enrolled in the state's Certificate of Public Librarianship program, so some day I might even become a librarian.

I've been a long-time supporter of local, independent media. Some of you may recognize my name from "The Commons" newspaper, where I was a reporter for many years. A lot of my work there was covering municipal government; thus I know how boards and budgets work. In 1998 I helped start a community radio station, and since then I've served in various leadership and volunteer roles at other non-commercial radio stations.

Libraries match my ethics and values. I am lucky enough to have a life that allows me some time for service, and RFPL is where I want to do it. Public libraries serve all visitors, whether or not they live in the town, and they provide free access to information, art, and entertainment. They are not owned by any profit-making entity. We all own them, thus we are responsible for them; their quality reflects our dedication to our community.

As a trustee, I will bring my love for collaborating with others on projects that maintain and improve my surroundings, and my attentive and inquisitive nature. I look forward to working with the director, the staff, the other trustees, the Friends of the Library (of which I am a member), and the community to ensure the library remains viable, accessible, and loved by you: the Rockingham community and our visitors.

I hope you'll vote for me on March 7. See you at the polls.

Signed,
Wendy M. Levy

Dear Editor,

I am writing today with thoughts regarding Plymouth's Selectboard. The board meets twice monthly, on the first and third Monday. Recently, there have been changes to that schedule (cancellations or postponings) that were not well communicated. A December meeting was cancelled and another set up a few days prior to the cancelled date, which we learned later through the posted minutes (very grateful for those). Another meeting was held in February regarding short-term rentals in which a select group was invited, but there was no general notice to voters. In addition, it has been difficult to view the agenda for those meetings until sometimes very late on the day of, or in some cases there was no agenda published. Vermont statutes say selectboard agendas should be available five days before the meeting.

More importantly, the selectboard will be making a decision this spring on how large a bond

(up to $800,000) it will issue to cover the costs of the upcoming municipal building renovation. Since the approval, the town has seen its cash increase from $1.8 million (June 2022) to almost $3 million in January 2023. In comparison, Ludlow ended June 2022 with about $2 million in cash/investments, compared to $1.9 in cash/investments for Plymouth. At the same time, Plymouth's annual budget is well less than 30% of Ludlow's annual budget.

There are a number of projects that those increased funds will be allocated to, but it is critical that the selectboard informs the town of its intentions for those substantial funds, and more importantly use at least some of those funds to reduce the final amount of the bond issue. Plymouth has ARPA funds remaining that exceed $150,000, which do not seem to have a designated use. Perhaps those could be used toward the building renovation, but at a minimum, ideas should be dis-

In this environment of increasing inflation, a pending multi-million dollar school bond issue, and other requirements of the town, in particular the fire department, it is extremely important that our representative government looks to manage its fiscal and budgetary responsibility with prudence and transparency.

Notwithstanding, I cannot emphasize enough how we as a town are so grateful for all the work the current selectboard has done in addressing issues that may have not been addressed in the past in a timely fashion. I completely appreciate that the demands on the selectboard for their time and energy are extensive, with little to no compensation. I only ask simply for better information flow and communication.

Thank you so very much.

Very best regards,
Carol Goodwin

Dear Editor,

On Feb. 22 in The Vermont Journal, Mr. Stuart Lindberg accused me of more vicious crimes than Vladimir Putin. These include character assassination (his), "spilling vitriol" on the Cavendish Health Officer, demanding that she state that "she is not now and has never been a denier," acting like Robespierre and some fictional monarch, demonstrating "the creeping normalization of the authoritarian mindset," calling to "cancel Ms. Eddy" (whatever that means), a desire to "persecute Ms. Eddy," being "driven by blind and irrational religious zeal," making "illogical and ill-informed" claims, and consuming "an incapacitating amount of Kool-Aid." (Maybe good Vermont IPA, but not Kool-Aid)... Did someone say "vitriol?" (For a comparison of vitriol levels, watch the Feb. 13 Cavendish Selectboard meeting, where I committed these crimes (www.okemovalley.tv/cavendish-selectboard-213-4).

I'm not the only criminal in Lindberg's mind. The VT Department of Health, which certifies town health officers, and the FDA "declared that the shots would prevent viral transmission when they did not." Nobody said that. They said the vaccines were shown to be over 90% effective in preventing serious illness, and the infected can spread it, but are less likely to (www.nature.com/articles/d41586-022-02328-0). The evil pharmaceutical industry is the culprit in this conspiracy. There is plenty to say about this industry, driven by the profit motive like every other industry (It's called "free market capitalism," which Mr. Lindberg espouses). Too bad pharmaceuticals aren't pristine like the oil industry, which never takes a cent from the government, uses public (i.e., our) land, funds climate change denial, or bribes a politician. Maybe that's why Mr. Lindberg feels so proud to work for them. Well, one person is working to curb the excessive profits of the pharmaceutical companies: Bernie Sanders.

Mr. Lindberg mentions his "conscientious objection to the unprecedented and indiscriminate mandating of the Covid mRNA shots." The general population was not required to get the vaccine, and it's not "unprecedented" to require vaccines www.mayoclinic.org/coronavirus-covid-19/history-disease-outbreaks-vaccine-timeline/requirements-research. It's called "public health" – Covid is an infectious disease: if you get it, you can spread it.

Lindberg presents some generally dodgy, out-of-date links to people who disagreed with most investigators. There are always dissenters, but these people have been proved wrong. Despite Mr. Lindberg's misreading of the FDA vaccine adverse event data, serious adverse events from the vaccine have been rare. Lindberg's spreading misinformation about the vaccines is dangerous and unconscionable.

Mr. Lindberg says the vaccines have "never been tested on a mass scale." But the trials were planned and conducted by doctors, scientists, and statisticians, who, unlike Mr. Lindberg, who has never studied or worked in science, know a great deal about medicine. Tens of thousands of subjects took part in these trials. The trial results were rigorously reviewed. Waiting to test the vaccines "on a mass scale," whatever that means, would have required waiting for years, and probably seeing millions of people die (www.commonwealthfund.org/blog/2022/two-years-covid-vaccines-prevented-millions-deaths-hospitalizations).

So, compared to Lindberg, what do I know? I spent 20 years studying math and programming computers, then 30 years as a statistician in the pharmaceutical industry. Lindberg has no scientific education or experience, but got a minor in economics some years ago, which apparently means he is equally knowledgeable about statistics. Well, as the Dunning-Kruger effect says, those who know the least think they know the most. Unlike Lindberg, I don't imagine I know much about the science of vaccines. So I rely on those who do, at institutions like the Vermont Department of Health, the FDA, the NIH, the CDC, the WHO, the Mayo Clinic, Walter Reed, etc. They all say the same thing: Covid vaccines are safe and effective.

Sincerely,
Kem Phillips
Cavendish, Vt.

Dear Editor,

Please vote yes for the Springfield School District's budget. Good schools are vital to a community, and a community that supports its schools is an asset. Positive thoughts and positive actions get results.

I know there are some folks out there who like to talk about the shortcomings of our schools, but why not talk about the good things, and support efforts to correct course when such action is needed? Every year there is a budget advisory committee (BAC) composed of community folks who volunteer to look at the budget, visit the various schools and departments, and question things that might look awry.

Dear Editor,

I am writing in support of the Springfield, Vt. school budget. I have had the pleasure of serving my first year as a school board member, which has provided me an up close view of our schools. I also have a 7 grader in the district. You may have heard that our school is facing immense challenges in implementing special education – to the detriment of some children. I care deeply about our obligations to students with disabilities and take the current problems very seriously. This could be a reason to doubt that our district is properly utilizing our resources. However, I see it differently. We have a new superintendent and ought to give her the chance to address these challenges head on. Our board is dedicated to ensuring that we continue to improve, not only services to the students most in need, but to all students. Some improvements can be made immediately, while others will take more time. For instance, our newly launched Pre-K program is designed to identify students needing special education services early to provide interventions during early childhood development, in order to decrease future continued learning difficulties. The program improves children's kindergarten readiness, counteracting effects from the pandemic when so many small children were isolated in their homes. This program is also helping to meet a childcare shortage in the region, having lost over 100 slots during the pandemic. This is just one example of how our district is helping to improve our students' chances for success that we will see long-term.

Perhaps some Springfielders do not know about the district's goals to increase literacy and math proficiency across the district and the actions they are taking to accomplish that. Those efforts, by their nature, are not visible to the public, but the goal to increase parent and family involvement should be. I can remember seeing pictures in the local papers of math night held in the Riverside Middle School gym. OMG! Kids and parents were smiling as they engaged in mathematical activities. Yes, math!

Schools are the heart of a community. Please let's all get together and show our support for our community. Please vote yes for the Springfield School District's budget on March 7. You can also request an absentee ballot from the town clerk's office.

Thank you,
Char Osterlund
Springfield, Vt.

Dear Editor,

I attended the Feb. 13 meeting where the Cavendish Selectboard reappointed the Town Health Officer Doris Eddy. Days before, and at the meeting, Kem Phillips presented an objection because Eddy publicly endorsed Stu Lindberg for State House Representative, despite his misinformation about the Covid vaccine. We provided evidence and links to his published letters. Many had seen them and Phillips' rebuttal. Dr. Phillips' three decades experience in clinical trials allowed him to refute

Mr. Lindberg's false claims. If our THO was unaware of this, she could clarify at the meeting whether she disagrees and supports the VT Department of Health (VDH) policy, but she didn't attend. The discussion was civil, and the board moved to recommend Ms. Eddy to be confirmed by the VDH, ironically, the department whose policy she may or may not support.

Margo Caulfield, through Cavendish media, provided a summary of every announcement by Dr. Levine, VDH commissioner. If Ms. Eddy participated, it wasn't obvious. I haven't heard any public statements from her except one that masks "should be encouraged." One board member mentioned Doris' long contribution to the town and through the pandemic but didn't provide specifics. Another stated that Lindberg is "passionate" about what he does. No one assured they knew what Eddy's contribution was during the pandemic and what is her position on the issue. Both Eddy and Lindberg are active in the community, but it's irrelevant. The issue is that Lindberg is dangerously wrong, and Eddy is silent about it. The THO is responsible for providing health information and for preventing or mitigating any significant public health risk. The devastating pandemic took the lives of 1.13 million Americans. It put stress on health workers, teachers, and first responders. Businesses took a hit. Cavendish would have benefited from the THO's public statement that she supports the VDH Covid vaccine recommendations – the only tool we have in preventing or mitigating the disease. It isn't easy to publicly speak on a highly politicized issue, but leaders should be heard.

We want to support passionate people who are willing to serve our small community, and we entrust the board to appoint them. However, passionate people could be dangerously wrong. The board's decision to reappoint Eddy without learning what her position is has given credence to lies about the Covid vaccine. It is like appointing a passionate minister, just to learn later that he/she doesn't believe in God. Cavendish taxpayers deserve answers.

Sincerely,
Svetlana Phillips
Cavendish, Vt.

Dear Editor,

I would like to endorse Martha Dale, resident of Londonderry, as a candidate for the Londonderry Selectboard. I have known Martha for many years as a neighbor, friend, and professional colleague, and have seen her succeed in many leadership roles. She brings many skills to the table, which include listening, discerning and identifying common goals, encouraging collaboration which results in consensus, and accomplishing end goals. Martha will support our town's efforts to address workforce housing issues, the updating of our zoning by-laws, fair and equitable tax rates, and work to create a positive, cooperative spirit on the selectboard.

Martha is currently involved with the Mountain Towns Housing Project, which is focused on building an affordable single-family home on Bob Perry Lane in Londonderry. In addition, she spearheaded getting the Derry Rink off the ground and built, along with recruiting volunteers to maintain the rink throughout the winter (now in its second year of operation). She serves on the Second Congregational Church's mission committee, which directs funds to local, national, and international community support and relief programs. She also serves on the Londonderry Beautification Committee and effectively gets townspeople to volunteer to water all of the flower boxes and barrels located through our town for the summer and fall season. Martha is on the Ways and Trails committee under One Londonderry, working to map and publish a guide (both paper and digital) to all of the hiking and biking trails in our community. And last but not least, Martha is the chair of the board of directors at Grace Cottage Hospital, our hometown medical care facility that services Londonderry and many other local communities.

Martha's background in health care management, her deep love of Vermont, and specifically Londonderry, her involvement in many nonprofit organizations over the years, her family ties to the town that span many years, and her well-established commitment to our community makes her a perfect candidate for a position on the selectboard.

Sincerely,
Cynthia H. Gubb

CCCD spring bulk seed sale

WALPOLE, N.H. – The Cheshire County Conservation District (CCCD) is again offering farmers the opportunity to purchase bulk seed orders for spring 2023. The Spring Seed Sale, a partnership between the CCCD and King's AgriSeed, enables orders less than 1500 lbs. to avoid shipping costs - a benefit the CCCD is proud to offer in support of local farms.

This year, CCCD will be offering two order opportunities:

Early order for frost seeding: Orders must be placed by March 6 and will be available for pick-up at the CCCD Office (11 Industrial Park Dr. Walpole, N.H.) on March 15. Suggested seeds for frost seeding include: Red Clovers, White Clovers, 3 Way Clover Mix, Orchard Grass, Timothy, and Kentucky Bluegrass. Frost seeding is broadcasting seed on top of the ground in early spring when we are going through freeze thaw cycles. The freezing and thawing opens small cracks in the soil that then close back up providing good seed to soil contact. Recommended seeding rate is five to eight pounds per acre. Contact CCCD with any questions.

Regular bulk order: Orders must be placed by April 3 and will be available for pick-up at the CCCD Office (11 Industrial Park Dr. Walpole, N.H.) on April 14.

Creative aging workshops

SAXTONS RIVER, Vt. – Drawing out the wisdom of the past is among the goals of a series of free workshops being offered in Saxtons River for seniors, through collaboration between Main Street Arts, 24 Main, and the Saxtons River Historical Society.

The program is funded by a Creative Aging grant from the Vermont Arts Council through its Creative Aging program and is open to 15 participants ages 55 and older.

A kickoff luncheon to introduce the program and sign up participants will be held Friday, March 10, from noon to 1:30 p.m. in the dining room at 24 Main (the former Christ's Church).

Workshops will take place on Fridays, March 17, 24, and 31, and April 7, 14, and 21 at Main Street Arts from 10 a.m. to noon.

The seniors will be encouraged to turn their memories into collage, watercolor painting, poetry, and story, and the resulting work will be presented at a month-long interactive exhibit in the MSA gallery, with an opening Friday, Apr. 28. The public will be invited to respond with their own insights into how to bring the wisdom of the past into today.

Project leader will be creative aging expert Susan Rosano, a mosaic and mural artist from Guilford. She has been a Master Teaching Artist and a Registered Expressive Arts Consultant and Educator for more than 20 years, bringing visual and expressive arts projects to senior citizens, hospice patients and their families, and in schools, libraries, hospitals, and museums. In 2021, she trained to be a Vermont Lifetime Arts Teaching Artist and was awarded a National Arts Strategies Creative Community Fellowship. She is on the teaching roster for the VAC's Creative Aging program.

"One of our goals is to increase awareness of creative and positive aging among both our participants and the public who see and hear the products of their work," said Susan Still, MSA board chair.

"We also want to create a space for creativity and encourage socializing among the seniors, who are often isolated," she added.

Creativity will be nurtured through accessible techniques and the use of story prompts and collage. Fellowship will be encouraged through free refreshments and social time at each meeting.

Further information and registration for the lunch on March 10 and workshops can be found at www.mainstreetarts.org/drawing-out-the-wisdom-of-the-past.html.

Attendance at the informational lunch does not guarantee or commit to participation in the workshops.

Jesse Peters, Seven Short Sets

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt. – Jesse Peters will play a full set following micro-performances by local and regional performers Brian Dade, Carl Beverly, Charlie & Emma, Gillis Mills, Ian Galipeau, Josh Cummings, and Will Stahl. A 3 p.m. matinee at Stage 33

Live will take place on Sunday, March 5. A donation is suggested at the door, there will be no advance tickets sold. There is limited seating and performances are recorded and filmed.

Jesse Peters has been a Southern Vermont music scene mainstay since moving back to the area in 2001. His styles run the gamut while remaining focused and accessible.

Seven 12-minute-or-less short slots will precede – some familiar players, some new ones. Micro-sets are an engaging and effective way for an audience to discover performers. Impressive talents often materialize out of left field... and sometimes talents are just plain out of left field.

With the backlog of Covid-postponed shows to reschedule and a growing list of artists waiting for future dates, Stage 33 Live hasn't run many open mics since the lockdown. When the featured act scheduled for this date needed to withdraw, opportunity opened a door. Jesse, who had been on tap to open, was elevated to the feature slot, and a call was put out for half a dozen performers interested in playing short slots. There were seven responses within 24 hours.

Entry will be by donation at the door for the featured performer. Nobody will be turned away for lack of money. The show will be at 3 p.m., at Stage 33 Live at 33 Bridge Street, Bellows Falls, Vt. on Sunday, March 5. For more information about the nonprofit, all-volunteer project, and this and other upcoming events, visit www.stage33live.com.

Lotus lantern worksop

REGION – On Wednesday, March 15 at 6 p.m., join The Korean Spirit and Culture Promotion Project (KSCPP) and the Springfield Town Library for a workshop over Zoom to create a traditional Korean lotus flower lantern. KSCPP is a nonprofit organization dedicated to nurturing a greater awareness and understanding of Korean history and culture.

The presenter from KSCPP will lead patrons through the creation of their lotus flower lanterns using provided materials. After the lantern craft, patrons will watch a documentary on the history and culture of Korea. Since 2005, KSCPP has hosted this class more than 200 times at different libraries across the United States. Thank you to the Friends of Springfield Town Library (FOSTL) for sponsoring this.

This event is free and open to the public. Contact the library at 802-885-3108 if you have any questions.

Sign up is required to attend at www.bit.ly/3lroTbd.

Weston Pop-up University

WESTON, Vt. – For the fourth year, Weston Pop-Up University invites you to join neighbors from near and far in fun and informative courses taught by local folks, supported by the Wilder Memorial Library in Weston. It's "popping up" again, just in time to bring some good cheer and a little entertainment during the dreary mud season of March. While it bears the fancy name "university," it's really just a series of one-off classes about a wide variety of topics, from cooking to crafts to fly-fishing to science, for adults and families alike. No final exams, we promise.

In our first year, after just getting started with in-person classes, we had to go online because of the pandemic. This year we are offering a mix – some classes on Zoom, some in person, some even in a hybrid format. We are grateful for our collaborators The Hub Restaurant, Weston Theater Company, and New Thought Vermont for providing support and venues for our programs.

We've brought back the ever-popular wine tasting with a local restaurateur, cartooning with a local artist, and cooking with the Chef at The Hub. And we've also added spring wreath-making, a nutrition class, pie crust making, family friendly trivia, karaoke, a film night, and several other classes – 13 total.

Everyone is invited to participate, and classes are free. Registration is required as some of the classes are limited in size. View the classes and register at www.weston-popupuniversity.org.

Judi Forman is the new artist in the Working Artist Program

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt. – Canal Street Art Gallery is pleased to present Judi Forman, the next artist to participate in the Working Artist Program. This program is an artist's studio and exhibition space within the gallery, and is open during the gallery's regular hours, Tuesday to Saturday, from 10 a.m. – 5 p.m., and on Third Friday Gallery Nights, from 5-7 p.m.

Judi Forman, based in Westminster, Vt. is a metal artist creating one-of-a-kind jewelry. Forman works with silver, copper, niobium, titanium, and steel, using metalworking techniques such as anodizing, imprinting texture, and drawing with colored pencil. The artist uses layered sheets of metal, shaped into works such as "Three Moons Brooch" and riveted together. Using patina and colored pencil, the artist creates abstract compositions, often inspired by nature on the multiple surfaces she has shaped.

The Working Artist Program is open to all artists with priority for local artists. Working artists are expected to interact with gallery visitors, discuss their artwork, process, and practice, and answer questions. Artists process their own sales and curate their own space. Upon completion of the program, artists present a self-curated solo show within their space to coordinate with a Bellows Falls Third Friday Gallery Night event.

Canal Street Art Gallery is located at 23 Canal St., Bellows Falls, Vt. For more information, go to www.canalstreetartgallery.com, call Mike at 802-289-0104, or email artinfo@canalstreetartgallery.com.
