Rockingham discusses road, sidewalk, and bridge repairs

BY PAULA BENSON
The Shopper

ROCKINGHAM, Vt. – Municipal manager Scott Pickup mentioned that with the Depot Street Bridge project delayed by 12-18 months, the town will take the opportunity to work on updating the utilities along Canal Street, before the start of construction. Pickup explained that they would need to stay on top of the schedule to utilize the grant funds awarded to the project, which will no longer be available beyond fiscal year 2028.

“It seems the state agencies have had a hard time keeping up with their workloads following the floods,” Pickup stated.

Regarding the Bridge Street Bridge funding, Pickup said he’s hopeful that, after speaking with Windham Regional Commission (WRC), they will be able to put the project back on their Bridge Priority Project list. Pickup reported they’d been on the list in 2023, but the funds ran out, and the commission expects to have additional funds available in 2025.

Laura Sibilgia, director of regional economic development strategies and programs for Brattleboro Development Credit Corporation (BDCC), presented the board with an update on funds allocated by voters last year and the programs they’ve helped support. Including student workforce programs and community vitality efforts, Sibilgia detailed how BDCC connects individuals and communities through shared ideas, information, and experiences.

Pickup added that BDCC has been extremely helpful with grant opportunities and applications, offering the town greater access than they would have on their own. This allows the town to grow while maintaining its infrastructure in the face of mounting climate-related challenges.

The board approved a highway permit request from Green Mountain Power (GMP) to complete the final phase of the grid update project, which will finish at the Grafton town line. GMP is currently working on phase two, and hopes to begin phase three by early November.

The validity of town meetings was discussed at the September tri-board meeting, a conversation led by board members Rick Cowan and Bonnie North. Cowan and North had been collaborating on creating a survey to present to the community for feedback.

Cowan announced, “Unfortunately, my partner on this project, Bonnie North, suffered a stroke.” Cowan said he’s received an email from North that said she is unable to continue the work at this time, and told the board, “I don’t feel comfortable moving forward by myself on this really complicated project without some staff help or volunteers from the town.” Cowan proposed delaying the issue, to be continued at a future meeting.

Board chair Peter Golec presented a bit of information he’d compiled, quoting data from 2019-2023. “In 2019,” Golec stated, “we had 71 people attend the town meeting, and 499 people voted. In 2020, 147 were at the town meeting, 1,162 people voted.” Golec explained the uptick was due to the primary and presidential elections of that year. He continued, “2021, 57 people showed up at the town meeting, and 528 people voted. 2022, 26 people at town meeting, 15 on Zoom, and 477 people voted. Last year, we had 105 people at town meeting, 22 were on Zoom, and 392 people voted.”

Cowan stated there were about 3,600 total registered voters, according to records kept by Kathleen Neathawk, town clerk.

Golec expressed his concern regarding the $1,600 cost to send out the survey, when they will likely only see 300-400 people respond. His feeling was that holding town meetings allows for discussion among voters, as opposed to voting by Australian ballot, and did not think the number of voters would change much.

The board voted to approve the Rockingham Transportation Alternatives Program (TAP) Scoping Study. Applied for and discussed previously, the project looks at trail extensions and riverfront connections between towns, in collaboration with WRC. Pickup said the reason for putting this item on the meeting agenda was, “to make sure the board was aware there is a scope of services, and a $5,000 portion that [the town] will be responsible for.”

Cowan asked, “This scoping will include the consideration of a roadway, not just a path, coming from Liberty Hill down to the water treatment plant, true?”

“Yes,” Pickup responded, and remarked that there had been a preliminary engineering study done almost 20 years ago that would at least give them a baseline from which to start. Pickup said the process will be transparent, and include many opportunities for public input.

Flannel Fest a success

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt. – The Southern Vermont Flannel Festival was a success with around 75 vendors and 5,000 attendees.

Pickup presented the board with a review of paved road conditions in Rockingham. At the start of the town’s five-year effort to improve roads, initial findings had reported 37% of town roads were in good shape, and not in need of repairs. Pickup was pleased to announce that five years later, as of October 2023, that percentage was up to 62%. The increasing costs for oil contribute to higher expenses for road repair work, Pickup explained, but he praised the success of the improvement plan.

In 2025, the town will be eligible for another pavement grant, Pickup stated. He said he’s been communicating with the town of Westminster, which also hopes to receive grant money to use for paving a portion of Route 121. If Rockingham can work in conjunction with Westminster to pave sections of 121 within each respective town, both towns would see greater efficiency, and a real potential to save on project costs.

Updating the board on ongoing town projects, Pickup mentioned that the town had about $60,000 in unallocated funds that need to be spent prior to the end of 2024. He suggested the board start to think about where those funds could be best utilized, and be ready to issue a warning before the town meeting next year.

The next selectboard meeting will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 7.

SEVCA Good Buy Thrift Stores to close Springfield and Bellows Falls

WESTMINSTER, Vt. – The board of directors and staff of Southeastern Vermont Community Action (SEVCA) is announcing the closure of our Good Buy Thrift Stores in Springfield and Bellows Falls, effective Dec. 16.

“While this decision was not an easy one, we believe it is necessary for SEVCA’s long-term growth and effectiveness. This change will allow SEVCA to direct its resources where they are needed most,” said Kathleen Devlin, SEVCA’s interim executive director. “SEVCA is grateful to the staff, volunteers, customers, and thrift store donors for their many years of dedication, hard work, and commitment to providing a welcoming space to our communities. We truly appreciate the contributions made to support the success of these stores over the years.”

SEVCA has operated thrift stores in various locations in the Windsor and Windham region since 1970. The stores in recent years have served two purposes, first to offer qualifying low-income SEVCA clients access to free and low-cost furniture, housewares, and clothing when in need. Additionally, the stores offered an opportunity for the community to both donate and shop, providing revenue to support SEVCA programming.

SEVCA is actively working to develop new partnerships with thrift stores throughout Windham and Windsor counties to continue its voucher program to assure that qualifying SEVCA clients in need will be able to access free clothing, furniture and housewares in their neighborhoods.

The SEVCA Good Buy Thrift Stores in Springfield and Bellows Falls will remain open until Dec. 16, with all items marked down 20% starting Oct. 17.

Please contact SEVCA at 802-875-7074 for more information, or go to www.sevca.org.

As the region’s designated community action agency (CAA), SEVCA works with local and state partners and in coordination with CAAs nationwide to help resolve crises, create opportunities for all people to thrive, build strong, resilient communities, and work toward a more equitable society. SEVCA was founded in May 1965, and has been meeting needs and changing lives in southeastern Vermont for 57 years.

The headline for the article in the Oct. 11 edition titled “Springfield repeals three ordinances,” is incorrect. Springfield repealed the taxi ordinance and the rental registry ordinance, but amended and did not repeal the blight ordinance.

Genealogy Workshop at Rockingham Library

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt. – Come to the Rockingham Free Public Library on Thursday, Oct. 26, from 10:30 a.m. – 12:30 p.m., for a scavenger hunt workshop to test your genealogical skills, as well as learn some new ones. Does your family genealogy make you feel like you are in a construction zone full of bumps, wrong turns, and dead ends? Often, we come to a place in our research where we cannot seem to navigate the necessary clues of an ancestor’s life, and we need to take a detour by trying another path and gaining new perspective.

Experienced genealogists and newcomers alike are welcome to bring their laptops and join genealogist Wayne Blanchard and reference and historical collections librarian Pamela Johnson-Spurlock for this workshop, as we take basic pieces of information and work together to help create a short biographical sketch of a person’s life.

This is a free program, open to the public, and accessible to those with disabilities. For more information, call 802-463-4270, email programming@rockinghamlibrary.org, or stop by the Rockingham Library at 65 Westminster Street in Bellows Falls.

Dealing with household and estate books Zoom program

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. – Join Mike Ivankovich on Wednesday, Nov. 8, at 1 p.m., for a Zoom presentation on managing household and estate books. It’s important to note that just because a book is old, doesn’t necessarily mean it has value. The program will cover several factors that determine a book’s worth. Sorting through household books can be like searching for gold, but this program will help attendees learn how to sell their own collection, books they’ve inherited, or books they’re helping someone else sell.

Ivankovich, who has been involved in the antiques and collectibles business for over 40 years, will share his expertise and insights. He has authored more than 20 books and articles in his specialty areas, and is a frequent lecturer. This program covers topics such as how to categorize books into sell, donate, or dump categories, how to identify investment-grade books, and where to sell, donate, or recycle books.

Ivankovich is an expert appraiser, who conducts appraisals for legal purposes including estate, insurance, inheritance, divorce, insurance claims, and non-cash charitable donations. He is also an award-winning auctioneer based in Pennsylvania, recognized as “Auctioneer of the Year” by his peers.

This event is free and open to the public, and if you have any questions, please call 802-885-3108.

Ma's first deer

BY RON PATCH

802-374-0119
ronpatch27@gmail.com

Rifle season is right around the corner. I got to thinking about past deer seasons.

My mother June loved venison, and we usually had it. My father Arnold, my brother Brian, and I hunted together through most of the 1960s. Dad was an excellent hunter. He got a buck every year for over 30 years.

Dad wouldn't shoot an illegal deer for any reason. In the late 1960s, because of his health, Dad had to hang it up. In 1969, my folks sold the Chester home and bought a place on the Brockway Mills Road in Springfield.

This property consisted of about 20 acres of rolling fields. A small brook meandered down through the fields. Along the brook, alders grew. All summer, deer came out in the fields just before dark.

Dad dusted off his .30-06 and put it in a corner by the back door. Every year he would watch the fields for a buck, but he never saw one. Still, his rifle was in the corner every year.

My mother was a small woman. Like I said before, she loved venison, and she was going to get some, by hook or by crook.

Dad had a John Deere tractor, so if he did get a deer he could use the tractor to drag it up to the barn. Well, late one afternoon during deer season, two deer appeared in the farthest field. Dad's .30-06 had a four power Weaver scope. By today's standards, a Weaver isn't that great, but they were widely used 50 years ago. Dad looking through the scope at the deer's heads could see no horns. It's after 4:30 p.m. now, and not long till dark. Dad said, "They're both bald."

"No," Ma said, "I can see horns on the deer on the right." Dad looked through his scope again and still couldn't see any horns. Again he said, "It's bald." "No Arn, I can see horns on the deer on the right. Hurry, shoot!" she said.

Bang! The deer dropped where it stood. Dad went and got the tractor. Taking a rope and his super-sharp hunting knife, he drove down to get the deer. Whoops! The deer was as bald as a cucumber. He didn't touch it and hastily came back to tell Ma it was a doe.

Dad was a wreck over what he had done, and refused to process the deer. I was at home when the phone rang. It was my mother. "Ronnie, can you come over? Your father has made a mistake." When I asked what, she wouldn't say over the phone.

I walked into the house to see Dad visibly shaken. Ma told me he shot a doe and could I go get it. I drove the tractor down and dressed the deer. I dragged it to the barn with the tractor and hung it up in the barn.

Ma came out to see it and said with a grin, "That's my first deer."

I quartered the deer and Ma went to work cutting it up. Dad didn't approve, but she didn't care. When it came time to eat it, Dad wouldn't touch it. Ma would take a bite, smack her lips and say, "You don't know what you're missing Arn." She loved to rub it in.

I no longer hunt, but like my mother I love venison. I am given venison from friends most every year. I am particularly fond of the heart and liver.

Some hunters leave the heart and liver in the woods. Don't leave it for me. I clean the heart and slice it about three-eighths inch thick. I sprinkle it with flour and fry it in butter, in a cast iron skillet. Three minutes per side is medium rare.

The photo with this article is from a friend of mine. He knows his way around the woods.

This week's old saying: Ma would ask, when we came home from hunting, "Any luck?" "No, didn't see any horns." She'd reply, "The only thing the horns are good for is stirring the gravy."

A local hunter's trophies.

Original song released for flood benefit

CHESTER, Vt. – Jacob McLaughlin published the original musical track "Livin' in Vermont" over Bandcamp on Wednesday, Oct. 18, to help raise money for flood relief. Inspired after the statewide flooding in July, McLaughlin composed this song. Plans of a charity benefit album at Vermont Recording Studio collapsed, so Jacob sought to release the track on his own, aided by fellow musicians Sammy Blanchette on guitar and bass, and David Lewis on drums.

Plymouth HS hears about Civilian Conservation Corps

PLYMOUTH, Vt. – Plymouth Historical Society will host renowned historian and author Marty Podskoch on Sunday, Oct. 29, at 2 p.m., at the Plymouth Community Center.

The Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) began on March 31, 1933, under President Franklin Roosevelt's "New Deal" to relieve the poverty and unemployment of the Great Depression. CCC camps were set up in many Vermont towns, state parks, and forests. There were approximately 34 Vermont towns that contained camps, including, locally, Ludlow, Plymouth, and Shrewsbury.

Marty Podskoch is a retired teacher from New York, and author of eleven books. He is currently gathering information for future books on the Vermont CCC camps, and the 68 camps in Massachusetts. He is very interested in meeting individuals who may have CCC stories and photos to contribute to these books. Please join us on Sunday, Oct. 29, to learn more about Vermont's unique history, and where remains still exist of some of these camps.

There is no admission fee, and refreshments will be available. A donation jar will be available to help defray costs.

Hetty Green scavenger hunt

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt. – The Bellows Falls Downtown Development Alliance (BFDDA) welcomes you to learn more about Hetty Green. Join us for a book reading at the Rockingham Free Public Library on Oct. 25, from 5-6 p.m. Deb Wright and Betsy Thurston will read passages from Charles Slack's book "Hetty, The Madness and Genius of America's First Female Tycoon," by Charles Slack.

From her toy bank safes with dollar coins for children, to anonymous donations, Hetty Green was more than her infamous titles of "the witch of Wall Street" and Guinness Book of World Records "world's worst miser." Hetty was loyal, she maintained lifelong friendships, and gave to those in need. A few of her antics were Robin Hood in nature; taking from the richest of the rich and giving to the poor with no request for recognition or certificates.

The Hetty H.R. Green Hall in Wellesley was given in her memory by her children, and only in death did she ride in style by private rail car to Bellows Falls, where she is buried with her husband Edward.

Test your knowledge of Westminster and Bellows Falls in the "Who is Hetty Green?" scavenger hunt, where clues lead you to local businesses for the answer and another clue.

The first clue: Henrietta "Hetty" Howland Robinson Green was born Nov. 21, 1834, and died on what date, the richest woman in the world? Find out when Hetty Green died, by going to a family owned business where you won't have to sit in the corner to eat breakfast or your deli lunch.

Find the Hetty selfie spot at the library, enjoy the "Heady Green" cocktail this month, and spy Hetty on Halloween day at Ciao Popolo. On Sunday, Oct. 29, from 3-5 p.m., spot Hetty at the Rockingham Meeting House, enjoy old fashioned games, a Meeting House tour, cemetery walk, cider and donuts, crafts, and more, at 11 Meeting House Road, Rockingham, Vt.

Renamed Green Mountain Mind and Body, located at 7254 Main Street in Manchester Center, the practice is introducing an innovative coaching therapy known as “The Destination Method.” This groundbreaking approach, founded by Rev. Dr. Robert Dee McDonald, is characterized by its transpersonal coaching strategies. It seeks to yield profound physical, emotional, mental, and spiritual results for clients. At the helm of this transformation is Danielle “Dani” Granaroli, a trained massage therapist, Reiki practitioner, intermediate level John Barnes MFR practitioner, and certified Destination Method coach. She has called Vermont home for almost nine years, and has a deep passion for dance and the outdoors. Myofascial Release is renowned for its effectiveness in addressing physical tension, misalignment, and chronic pain. Green Mountain Mind and Body takes on new dimensions with background in massage, Reiki, and Myofascial Release, Dani’s vision to incorporate “The Destination Method” into her practice reflects her commitment to providing clients with a comprehensive healing experience that addresses all aspects of an individual.

“The Destination Method” is designed to help clients alleviate unnecessary suffering. The client arrives with a problem that creates unhappiness, pain, disease, or some type of physical or emotional suffering for them. It could be something as small as daily irritations, feelings of being overwhelmed, or as profound as a deep loss in the past or traumatic memory. Through inquiry, deep listening, and collaboration, Dani assists her clients in understanding how they will know when the problem feels resolved for them. Then she guides the client through a specific process to achieve that resolution. If the root of the problem is found and the correct process is applied, then resolution can be achieved in a single session.

Green Mountain Mind and Body is currently taking new coaching and bodywork clients. Feel free to reach out to Dani with any questions, or go to www.greenmtmb.com for more information.

Dani, the driving force behind this expansion, is a California native who found her heart in Vermont. Her love for dance has not only enriched her life, but has also influenced her approach to holistic wellbeing. Dance, for Dani, became a deeply personal way to communicate and be in relationship with her body. That practice of trust and listening to the body expanded into self-empowerment. This foundation of empowerment is something she attempts to bring to clients in the work she does with them. With a

Dear Editor,

On Oct. 7, the Ludlow Rotary Club held its 32nd annual Chili Cook-off. Great event, great cause! “Reactor No. 4” chili was the winner in the spiciest category. Two years ago, the winner in this category was named “Chernobyl.” Interesting names. My memories go back 37 years ago, when I heard the news in my hometown about 300 miles from the disaster site. On April 26, 1986, Chernobyl’s reactor No. 4 melted down due to human error and released radioactive particles into the air, 400 times more radioactivity than the atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima. Is this why this chili is the spiciest? Both were horrific tragedies. Living witnesses to these disasters may not want to associate a bowl of chili with a disaster they lived through. What would any sensible person think of chili named Three-Mile Island?

Sincerely,
Svetlana Phillips

SHERWOOD, Ark. – Margaret “Peg” Omholt, 89, of Sherwood, Ark., passed away on Wednesday, June 14, 2023. Peg was born April 2, 1934, in Bellows Falls, Vt., to the late James and Doris (Huntoon) Shaughnessy. She attended local schools, and graduated from Bellows Falls High School, Class of 1952.

Peg was a member of Immaculate Conception Catholic Church, and a retired registered nurse.

She was preceded in death by her parents; her son Shawn Omholt; her brothers Lawrence Shaughnessy, Elbert Shaughnessy, James Shaughnessy, David Shaughnessy, and Paul Shaughnessy; and her sister Elberta (Sis) Corsale.

Judith A. Packer, 1942-2023

RIDGEVILLE, S.C. – Judith Amy Packer, 81, residing in Ridgeville, S.C., passed away on Oct. 12, 2023.

Judith was born at the family home on May 22, 1942, the eighth of 10 children, to Charles and Margaret Clements of Swanville, Maine. After Judith graduated valedictorian from Crosby High School in 1959, she went on to study at the University of Maine. She graduated with honors and a degree in mathematics in 1963, and began a career with Aetna Insurance Company in Hartford, Conn. Judith distinguished herself as the first woman officer at the Aetna. Throughout her career with Aetna she was promoted multiple times, holding positions as a director, as well as chairman of the standards committee, and the computer science department. Judy would go on to join the PEO International chapter in Connecticut, volunteering her time for the support and advancement of women. Of all the positions she held, she was most proud to be the chairwoman of the program for continuing education, enabling grants to well-deserving women. Women helping women reach for the stars.

Determined to make choices for herself and her future, Judy chose to explore and travel the world. While working at the Aetna, she met Charles Packer. As she would often recall, being the strong independent woman she was, Charlie would face an uphill challenge in courting her, but Charlie was persistent and insisted that they should marry; “I want to be with you, and will go wherever you go.” Judy often stated that “thankfully” his efforts “wore her down,” and they were married on July 12, 1969. Together they explored the world at every opportunity, from Europe to Asia, and across the United States to visit family. In their travels, they also visited 23 of the Caribbean islands, often staying in areas where English was not spoken, and yet found helpful lovely people despite their language barrier, making this their favorite region to visit.

Judy and Charlie lived in Rocky Hill, Conn., early on, eventually finding a lovely home in Avon, Conn. Their love of water and exploration took them to Ludlow, Vt., where they purchased a cabin on Lake Rescue, eventually turning it into their summer home. After retiring, Judy and Charlie sold their home in Avon and purchased a winter residence in The Villages in

Bicycle donations wanted -

CLAREMONT, N.H. - In May of this year, Rogue Robots of 4-H started New Chain Bike Repair with start-up grant funding through the Rural Transportation Equity Project. The project's mission is to provide free bike repair and maintenance to those in Sullivan County, assisting preferentially those for whom bikes are a primary form of transportation.

Youth in the group learn bike mechanics while assisting those in the community. Bikes used in training have been given out to those in need of primary transportation to work. The group has begun to accept donations for this purpose.

Donated bicycles will be repaired and given out free of charge to those needing a way to get to work, to school, around town, etc. Due to liability and supply chain issues, New Chain Bike Repair cannot accept every bike. Please send photographs of the bike you wish to donate to NewChainBikeRepair@gamil.com, or text them to 603-558-0296. Accepted bikes will need to be delivered to Claremont.

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt. – Canal Street Art Gallery presents "Martha & John: a Love Story of Yoga and Art," exhibiting luminous oil paintings of the Vermont landscape by the late Martha Nichols, and paintings of brightly colored abstract mathematical designs inspired by the yoga tradition of the yantra by John van der Does. "Martha & John" opens Oct. 20, and is on view through Dec. 9. Join the gallery on Third Friday Gallery Night on Oct. 20, from 5-7 p.m., in historic downtown Bellows Falls, for the opening reception. Following the screening and talk, attendees are invited to practice Asanas in the gallery, led by the artist. "Mysore Yoga Traditions," by Andrew Eppler is a documentary film providing an intimate glimpse into the yoga of Mysore. The elders, scholars, philosophers, yogis, and spiritual leaders of the community express their views on what yoga is, its original intention, and how they feel about the way it is being taught and practiced around the world. Vedic mathematics is a system of mathematics reconstructed from Sanskrit texts by Sri Bharati Krishna Tirthaji. Asana is one of the eight limbs of classical Yoga. Asanas are poses and postures, held steadily, comfortably, and firmly. The event is free and space is limited. Participants may use the gallery to practice their yoga postures together with the artist. Please bring your own yoga mat.

Linden Eller joins Canal Street Art Gallery

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt. – Canal Street Art Gallery in Bellows Falls, Vt., is pleased to present Linden Eller, the newest artist to participate in the Working Artist Program. Eller is on view from Oct. 6 – Dec. 8. The artist, based in Mount Holly, Vt., uses mixed media and painting to create work centering around the theme of memory architecture – its process of alterations, renewals, and inaccuracies.

The Working Artist Program now provides two artist studios and exhibition spaces within the Canal Street Art Gallery. Artists process their own sales and curate their own space, all during regular gallery hours. Visit the gallery to meet the artist.

Linden Eller uses a variety of materials to create, including paper, found fragments, transparencies, sewing thread, paint, pencil, ink, and pastels. Eller blends autobiographical narratives with collective subjects that travel a spectrum from delight to aches. Linden thinks of her collages and paintings as layered field recordings that represent a oneness – multiple perspectives and repetitions of the same shared story. Born in 1984, Linden spent her youth in the urban Sonoran desert of Phoenix, Ariz., before moving to Southern California to obtain her bachelor's in studio art. She's since lived and worked across Europe, Asia, and Oceania. Linden's work has been published and exhibited internationally, and she also works as an art educator.

Canal Street Art Gallery is located at 23 Canal Street in historic downtown Bellows Falls, Vt., and is open Tuesday-Saturday, from 10 a.m. – 5 p.m. For more information about the Working Artist Program or Canal Street Art Gallery, go to www.canalstreetartgallery.com, call Mike at 802-289-0104, or email artinfo@canalstreetartgallery.com.

Burlington Taiko at Bandwagon Series

PUTNEY, Vt. – The Next Stage Bandwagon Summer Series presents a concert of traditional Japanese taiko drumming with Burlington Taiko on Saturday, Oct. 21, at 3 p.m., at Cooper Field, 41 Sand Hill Road in Putney.

For more than 30 years, Burlington Taiko has educated New England communities about Japanese culture and entertained them with traditional taiko drumming.

“There is something unique about the Japanese taiko drumming, from its style to its sound,” says

Keith Marks, executive director of Next Stage Arts. “One of the driving forces behind the curation of our programming is to bring wholly unique cultural experiences to our region, and Burlington Taiko delivers at the highest level.”

Honored three times by the International Taiko community, the group has been invited to perform in Japan. With hundreds of performances under their belt, they’ve performed for an estimated half a million people.

Penelope Arms Solo Spotlight

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt. – Canal Street Art Gallery presents Penelope Arms Solo Spotlight, showing new oil paintings from the artist of the changing New England landscape. Penelope Arms Solo Spotlight opens Oct. 20, and is on view through Dec. 9. Join the gallery on Third Friday Gallery Night on Oct. 20, from 5-7 p.m., in historic downtown Bellows Falls, for the opening reception. All gallery events are free and open to the public and wheelchair accessible, please call 802-289-0104 upon arrival.

Penelope Arms, based in Westminster, Vt., works in oil and acrylic to paint landscapes inspired by the light, atmosphere, and colors of the changing New England landscape. Arms creates dense compositions emphasizing the shadows, dramatic light, and obscured horizons of her subjects. Arms’ work is a balance between detail, realism, and the artist’s own brushstrokes and textures, giving a sense of appreciation and nostalgia to each painting.

Arms’ painting practice involves the visual beauty of the artist’s environments, along with the emotional connection she feels towards them. The artist’s passion for hands-on practice and learning has taken her on many journeys. Arms has traveled to Mexico and the Greek Isles to study different artistic techniques and immerse herself in the unique traditions of these places. Arms has also studied at the Vermont Studio Center, where she honed her skills, experimented with new techniques, and built creative relationships with fellow artists.

Canal Street Art Gallery is located at 23 Canal Street in historic downtown Bellows Falls, Vt., and is open Tuesday – Saturday from 10 a.m. – 5 p.m. For more information about the Penelope Arms Solo Spotlight or Canal Street Art Gallery, go to www.canalstreetart-gallery.com, call Mike at 802-289-0104, or email artinfo@canalstreetart-gallery.com.

Walter Parks, Big Lazy –

PUTNEY, Vt. – Next Stage Arts presents a double bill featuring the reimagined historic spirituals and hymns of Walter Parks & The Unlawful Assembly, and the “guitar noir”/“crime jazz” of Big Lazy, on Friday, Oct. 27, at 7:30 p.m., at Next Stage Arts, 15 Kimball Hill in Putney.

The Unlawful Assembly reimagines and tributes historic spirituals and hymns which universally inspire, empower, and unite. Leader, guitarist, and singer Walter Parks, longtime sideman to Woodstock legend Richie Havens, is joined by featured artists drummer and producer Steven Williams, and Ada Dyer, who is currently touring worldwide with Bruce Springsteen, on vocals.

Parks’ native northeast Florida swampy feel borrows from southern rock, jazz, early 70s soul, and a few gospel interpretations that rest joyfully upon a foundation of modern electronic loops.

New York City’s gritty instrumental trio Big Lazy has flourished for over 20 years, creating film music and playing its singular brand of “guitar noir” or “crime jazz,” from the Whitney Museum of American Art to the Opéra National de Lyon. The band is known for its cinematic music and legendary live performances. With sparse instrumentation – band leader Stephen Ulrich plays electric guitar, Andrew Hall on acoustic bass, and Yuval Lion on drums – the trio forges a new American music from archetypes in blues, jazz, surf, Latin, and rockabilly. The band’s current lineup also features arranger, composer, and keyboardist Marlyser Simmons of the bands Bio Ritmo and Miramar.

Stephen Ulrich’s music weaves a melodic and textural foundation through many “This American Life” episodes.

FOLA presents “Cruella”

LUDLOW, Vt. – On Saturday, Oct. 21, at 7 p.m., FOLA will screen the film “Cruella,” in the Heald Auditorium at Ludlow Town Hall.

“Cruella” is a gripping and stylish original story that explores the transformation of the iconic Disney villain, Cruella de Vil, before she fully embraces her wicked persona.

Set in 1970s London, the film introduces us to Estella, a young and exceptionally talented fashion enthusiast with a penchant for the avant-garde. Growing up as an orphan, Estella befriends a pair of fellow thieves, Jasper and Horace, and together, they navigate the bustling streets of London while engaging in various heists.

Estella’s life takes a dramatic turn when she catches the eye of fashion mogul Baroness von Hellman, a supremely fashionable and ruthless figure in the fashion world. Estella’s unparalleled creativity and flair for fashion design earn her an apprenticeship with the Baroness, who, unbeknownst to Estella, holds a dark secret connected to her past.

As Estella navigates the cutthroat world of high fashion, she begins to embrace her rebellious alter ego, Cruella. With the help of her newfound friends, Jasper and Horace, she starts to execute daring schemes to challenge the Baroness’ dominance in the industry. These elaborate heists not only captivate the public, but also lead to a fierce rivalry between Cruella and the Baroness.

The film delves into Cruella’s complex psyche as she grapples with her identity, the influence of her newfound fame, and the truths about her family’s history that begin to unravel. Along the way, viewers are treated to a visually stunning display of fashion, music, and a thrilling cat-and-mouse game between the two fashion mavens.

As tensions escalate, the movie hints at an epic showdown between Cruella and the Baroness, a confrontation that will ultimately determine the course of Cruella’s transformation into one of Disney’s most notorious villains.

Step into the world of style, intrigue, and chaos with “Cruella” – a cinematic masterpiece that will leave you craving more. Join us for a night of fashion-forward thrills, and discover the untold story of Disney’s most iconic villainess. Get ready to embrace your inner rebel at the must-see event of the year.

Doors open at 6:30 p.m. The movie is open to everyone, and is free; donations are appreciated. For more information, call 802-228-3238.

Call for assistance

REGION – Efficiency Vermont is offering rebates on home heating systems and appliances, weatherization, and financing options to Vermonters dealing with flood damage, with an emphasis on getting people's heating systems fixed before winter. Despite continued efforts, there are a lot of unmet needs, especially in central Vermont.

According to the governor's survey of flood-hit Vermonters, about half of the 500 people who responded do not know if they'll have a working heating system in their home this winter. "I remain concerned" about Vermonters having their heating ready for winter, Governor Phil Scott said. "We don't know what stage they [the heating systems] are in," when it comes to flood-damaged homes.

Efficiency Vermont is looking for Windsor County residents who need assistance with flood damage and rebuilding before winter. If you would like to learn about programs that can help, call their customer service line at 1-888-921-5990, or email info@efficiencyvermont.com.

Efficiency Vermont flood recovery

REGION – Efficiency Vermont, alongside state and local leaders, launched $36 million in new flood recovery programs. The offers will help low- and moderate-income Vermonters and businesses replace critical home heating and hot water systems, and essential home appliances that were damaged or destroyed in the floods.

The new programs offer rebates and incentives to eligible customers on qualified products up to $10,000 purchased on or after July 10. They include:

- Home heating and cooling systems.
- Energy Star-certified hot water heater systems (including heat pump hot water systems).
- Energy Star-certified replacement appliances like refrigerators, freezers, clothes washers and dryers, window air conditioners, dehumidifiers, and air purifiers.
- Coming soon, home electric panel upgrades to allow for cold climate heat pumps and future electrification.
- Businesses can receive technical assistance and $1,000 bonus incentives for new, qualified kitchen, HVAC, and refrigeration equipment on up to four separate pieces of equipment.

The programs augment federal help that flood-impacted Vermonters can access through FEMA. Vermonters looking to access the new programs should complete the FEMA process before participating in any Efficiency Vermont incentives, rebates, or financing offers. Receiving additional funds before completing the full FEMA process could jeopardize an individual's FEMA application. Applicants must provide an attestation of a FEMA submission (or attestation of ineligibility), and of income at 120% or below the median area income of the applicant's home county. Purchases must be on Efficiency Vermont's Qualifying Products List. Rental property owners are eligible for these programs using existing Efficiency Vermont qualifications based on affordable rent levels and other factors.

Learn more by calling 888-921-5990 or visiting www.efficiencyvermont.com/floodrebate.
