KMA Publications Inc. acquires The Message of the Week———

REGION - Robert Miller of KMA Publications Inc., owner and publisher of The Vermont Journal and The Shopper, announced Friday, April 27, 2018 that he has purchased The Message of the Week. The sale will merge the newspapers but continue to be published only under The Vermont Journal and The Shopper banners. The merger will also expand coverage, helping to strengthen local news and readership. The Message, as a separate entity, will cease publication immediately.

For Miller, the purchase comes Odessa Miller had started with The Message of the Week. Bill and Joan Johnson in the early full circle, owning The Message, The Vermont Journal & The Shopper, locally a paper that his parents Max and owned and operated papers, have acquired 1970s. "I feel like The Message is home again, back to where it started," he said. Miller recalled feeling the same way when he purchased The Shopper back in 2009, acquiring another paper his parents had started years almost 57 years ago. "I grew up in the newspaper business working for my parents. I wanted to bring my parent's early publications back into the fold."

All inquiries to The Message are now automatically being forwarded to The Vermont Journal and The Shopper office in Ludlow. For any additional information, contact The Vermont Journal and The Shopper at 802-228-3600.

CTES principal position to be listed as permanent in second search -

BY SHARON HUNTLEY

The Vermont Journal

CHESTER, Vt. - Cavendish residents were successful in their petition of the Green Mountain Unified School District board to change the Cavendish Town Elementary School principal to a permanent, full-time position. At a well-attended special meeting of the GMUSD board Monday, April 30 at Chester Andover Elementary School, the board approved to re-list the CTES principal position as a full time, permanent position as they begin the search for new candidates. Superintendent Meg Powden confirmed that position would be offered a one-year contract however.

The prior search for a CTES principal, advertised as a one-year interim position, failed to result in a hire. Two candidates were initially vetted, and met with community members at a public forum April 11. Joseph Smith dropped out of consideration the following week. The remaining candidate, Madeline Carlock, was offered the job on April 18 but refused the position by the next morning, citing a concern for lack of public support. Criticism from the community throughout the process was that the pool of qualified candidates was hampered by the way the position was originally advertised, specifically as "one-year, interim."

After Carlock's refusal, Cavendish community members, including Sara Stowell, Denise Hughes, Carolyn Solzhenitsyn, and Margo Caulfield, acted quickly to circulate a petition to Andover, Baltimore, Cavendish, and Chester residents both online and at the town offices and area businesses, to change the principal position to a full-time position before being advertised to potential candidates. Within the span of a little more than a week, they gathered 343 signatures from lo- legal council, and they confirmed cal residents and state representatives that the authority to set and change including Vermont state senators Ali- parameters of the CTES principal son Clarkson and Dick McCormick and house representative Annmarie Christensen.

Following circulation of the petition, the organizers sent an email to Powden asking her to reinstate the CTES principal position to a permanent position. The email also asked the GMUSD to call for an emergency board meeting to approve the change. The email was forwarded onto Board Chair Marilyn Mahusky, and the April 30 meeting was scheduled as a

The meeting opened with public commentary from Hughes, Barlow, Stowell, and others supporting the petition and talked of its widespread community support. Board member Doug McBride expressed his thanks for the community activism saying, "This kind of community involvement is staggering to me...regardless of the issue this is a great sign for our school and our school district to have people really care about what's going

Mahusky recapped the CTES principal search process to date and then laid out the possible options that the board could consider including changing the description of the principal position as petitioned, hiring another interim position, or selecting an internal candidate to fill the position in the short term. Board member Joe Fromberger questioned which board had the authority to make changes to the principal position citing Article 12 of the GMUSD district agreement. His suggestion was that the responsibility rested with the CTES board until that board was officially dissolved in July 1, 2018. Mahusky countered that Powden had checked with the TRSU's position was the responsibility of the GMUSD board.

Board member Erin Lamson made the motion to change the position of the CTES principal to a full time, permanent position. It was seconded and approved by a large margin with only Fromberger voting no. The job will be posted on School Spring and LinkedIn immediately.

The search committee will need to reconvene to select the new principal. However, board members Kate Lamphere and Jeff Hance, who served on the prior search committee, were unable to commit to the time necessary. Doug McBride agreed to participate if other Cavendish members could not. The search committee will be finalized at the next board meeting when more members could be in attendance and after prior participants could be contacted.

Leigh Dakin asked whether residents could participate in the search committee. Powden agreed. "I think it would be a good idea... If there are community members interested on serving on the search committee, please let me know," she said.

Discussion turned to appointing three board members from the GMUSD to be on the newly revised TRSU board, which will include three members from the GMUSD and three members from the Ludlow Mount Holly Unified Union School District. Four GMUSD candidates emerged: Marilyn Mahusky from Chester, Joe Fromberger from Andover,

New Ludlow town manager takes the reigns

BY THOMAS FOSTER IV

The Vermont Journal

LUDLOW, Vt. - On Friday, April 27, Frank Heald officially retired from his position as Ludlow Town Manager, after making the announcement last November. He had held the position for 15 years and has seen many changes in Ludlow over the years. However, he spent his last week helping the new town manager, Scott Murphy, transition into the new job.

Having been Town Manager of Wilmington for five years, Murphy had already known Heald. "We got along together good, and would golf once or twice a year," he said. It was this friendly relationship that led him to ask about the position.

"When I heard Frank was retiring, I called him to talk about the position. I was attracted to the town of Ludlow," he commented. Over the past week, he had the opportunity to be shown around by Heald and meet the Select Board, Village Trustees, and the Water Commision. "I met a lot of very nice people and got to hear many stories. Everyone loves Frank," he said reflecting on his first week.

Murphy has four grown children, and five grandchildren, and has lived in Vermont for the past 35 years and enjoys cross country skiing in the winter. In addition to his experience as Town Manager of Wilmington, he was a part of the Community Development Committee of Bennington, Vt. and attended North Adams State College in Massachusetts. "Economic development is my forte, and I have experience writing and managing grants," he says, hoping to apply his skills to Ludlow. "My immediate goal right now is to blend in with the organization. There are a lot of big projects going on right now. I'm really excited. I hope I'll be able to do even half the job Frank has done over the years."

As Heald spends his first week of Town Office.

retirement out of state, Murphy is now taking the reigns and will be at the upcoming Select Board meeting on Monday, May 7 at 7 p.m. in the Ludlow Town Hall. The Village Trustees meet the first Tuesday of the month at 6 p.m. Murphy invites the public to attend these meetings.

"There are several large projects that we are working on at the moment including the Commonwealth Ave. Hazard Mitigation project, the Wastewater Treatment Plant upgrades, various paving projects including Bridge St. and Andover St. after a culvert replacement. Also, the Ranger Solar Project is beginning any day now and will be one of the largest in the state when completed. The Flood Control dams need repairs (including the Red Bridge Dam, which has a small crack in the structure) and a funding request has been submitted," he responded in an email.

GMUHS exchanges students with high school in France

CHESTER, Vt. - This year, nine students and two faculty members of Green Mountain Union High School pioneered an exchange program with Lycée St. Joseph La Pommeraye, a high school in France. The 2018 St. Joseph La Pommeraye exchange program was an opportunity for our students to better understand French culture and gain fluency in French language through practical experience. This opportunity broadened GMUHS students in France. their cultural horizons, cultivated problem-solving skills, and created lasting international connections. Noelle Gignoux, a senior, spent a semester at St. Joseph's the previous school year and helped instigate this program with the support of faculty advisors. Both schools hope for this international exchange to take place every two years.

students and two teachers from St. Joseph's came to Green Mountain and stayed with host families in the communities of Cavendish, Chester, and Grafton. Nine students from Green Mountain went to St. Joseph in the northwest of France from April 5-19, where each stayed with a local family, toured the Loire Valley, took part in daily school life, recreational activities, school-sponsored group excursions, as well as experienced the rich French culture. In addition, they were able to spend two nights in Paris and explore the city before their return to America. Faculty advisors Mrs. Pamela Johnson-Spurlock, school librarian, and Mrs. Brennan, food and culture,

Jr. Iron Chef students invited to Statehouse

CHESTER, Vt. - We are pleased and proud to announce that one of our winning teams in this year's Jr. Iron Chef competition was invited to the Vermont Statehouse, to witness the reading of a Jr. Iron Chef Vermont Resolution, to be recognized by their House Representatives. They also had the chance to cook their award-winning recipes for the Legislators. We regret that only one of our winning teams from Green Mountain was able to participate this year; however, both teams were recognized and announced before the crowd of legislators and fellow Statehouse visitors when the resolution was read.

This demonstrates a significant accomplishment for both our teams: the Cheftains, and the Skillet Takes. The Cheftains went to the Statehouse. They toured the Statehouse and served their recipe. They served close to 100 portions to a delighted crowd of our legislators. Senator Alice Nitka even stopped by to say hello.

We have participated in this great event now for six years and have won four times. Jr. Iron Chef Vermont is something we all look forward to each year. It not only is a great learning experience, but lots of fun. Thank you to all who make it possible to be involved in a great event.

The 7th annual Derby Gala to feature The Speckers

LUDLOW, Vt. - The Derby Day Okemo Valley TV's Gala, an annual benefit event for Okemo Valley TV on Kentucky Derby Day, will be held Saturday, May 5 at Willie Dunn's Grille at the Okemo Valley Golf Course in Ludlow from 5 to 8 p.m. This year part of the entertainment will include live music from John and Ida Mae Specker, the local father-daughter duo who specializes in traditional folk string music.

The Vermont Journal

The Speckers have been regular recording artists in the Okemo Valley TV studio. Last year's Producer of the Year, John has recorded over 60 songs in the studio alone. "We are thrilled to have John and Ida as part of the event this year," says

Executive Director, Patrick Cody. "They have played a big part in the evolution of our studio and have had such a major presence on our station for several years now. And it's perfectly fitting to have their string music as a soundtrack to the Derby Gala."

The event will include a meal of small plates, prepared by Willie

Ida and John Specker.

OVWC visits Weston Playhouse at Walker Farm

LUDLOW, Vt. - The Okemo Valley Women's Club recently visited the new Weston Playhouse at Walker Farm. On Monday, April 9, the club was fortunate to be able to hold their meeting on the premises of the beautiful new playhouse and was treated to a private tour of the facility. Twenty members were in attendance, plus two

Emily Matthees, operations manager of Weston Playhouse at Walker Farm, gave a very informative and fascinating behind-the-scenes tour of the newly built $6.3 million playhouse, which expands the entertainment potential of the Weston Playhouse Theatre Company by adding this spectacular year round second stage and community center. The 8,000 square foot building, which opened in September 2017, includes a flexible performance space that can be configured for theatre, concerts, lectures and meetings, banquets, and film and video production. The spaces in the playhouse are light and airy, with moving parts, including seats and staging. This state of the art second stage playhouse seats up to 140 people and has every amenity imaginable for a facility of its kind. The playhouse acquired the farm several years ago, and fundraising efforts made the construction possible. The building presents productions from May through October and is also available for functions. The original farmhouse and some of the outbuildings are used for storage for the playhouse. Both playhouse facilities, Walker Farm and the original playhouse in Weston, host approximately 180 staff personnel during the season including actors, interns, directors, and seasonal staff. The Okemo Valley Women's Club set up a small area for refreshments right in the bright lobby, and after Emily's tour, they took a break to enjoy treats prepared by this month's hostesses Sally Scarp, Carol Haigh, Midge Tucker, and Brigid Faenza.

Vice President Karen Haskell called comfortable, functional and flexible a business meeting to order following the refreshments. Viola Wynne submitted the secretary's report, and the minutes were approved. Michele Twombly gave the treasurer's report, discussing state membership dues, the club's Barbara Jean Barker scholarship donation, and proceeds from club fundraising projects including the Tree of Remembrance and winter bake sale. Committee reports included the club's annual garden project at Mountainside House, the end of year May banquet, and the ongoing statewide Barbara Jean Barker scholarship recipient interview process. The club discussed new business including the impending state meeting in Burlington, Vt., taking place May 4 and 5. The proposed slate of officers for 2018-20 was discussed as well. The next meeting of the GFWC Okemo Valley Women's Club will be the May end-of-year banquet, which will be held this year at The Chop House in Ludlow. Anyone interested in joining or attending should contact President Darlene Remy 802-228-4907; membership chairwoman Roxie Davis 802-226-7417; or any member.

Summer camps offered

SAXTONS RIVER, Vt. - Main ily to celebrate the week Street Arts is offering four unique camps in June and August, including printmaking, puppetry, theater for teens, and its popular arts exploratory camp.

Printmaking with professional printer Clare Adams for ages 6 through 9 will meet Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, June 20, 21, and 22 from 9:30 a.m. to noon.

Adams will teach the basics of mono-printing using stencils and layering with non-toxic, waterbased inks. Students will collaborate on a group wall hanging and take home individual creations.

Shoshana Bass of Sandglass Theater will direct Puppet Camp for ages 8 through 12 the week of June 25 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Participants will build a variety of simple puppets of different sizes, embellish them with character and costume, and learn techniques for animating the puppets and creating story for them. At the end of the week, there will be an informal showing for friends and famof puppetry. In addition to puppetry, there will be group-building games and focusing exercises to get the creative energy flow-

May 4, Springfield Unitarian Universalist Church will present "Surviving Progress," at 7 p.m.

"Surviving Progress" presents the story of human advancement as aweinspiring and double-edged. It reveals the grave risk of running the 21st century's software - our know-how - on the ancient hardware of our primate brain, which hasn't been upgraded in 50,000 years. With rich imagery and immersive soundtrack, filmmakers Mathieu Roy and Harold Crooks launch us on journey to contemplate our evolution from cave-dwellers to space explorers.

Enter and win Rutland innovation home -

RUTLAND, Vt. - Rutland's Innovation Home, a super-efficient home to be given away in a contest designed to raise awareness about available jobs, energy innovation and the community, is weeks ahead of schedule – and organizers are extending the deadline to apply to win it.

Green Mountain Power, Naylor & Breen Builders, the United Way of Rutland County, NBF Architects and dozens of partners started the project Feb. 26, 2018 and after just eight weeks are within a month of completion. Siding is going up, the interior got its first coat of paint on Monday, and lights, flooring, and appliances will soon be installed.

"The collaborative spirit of dozens of donor contractors and Naylor & Breen's keen focus mean the house will be complete by the end of May six to eight weeks earlier than expected," GMP President and CEO Mary Powell said. "This home features some of the innovative technologies GMP offers so customers have more control over the energy they use, while at the same time helping to drive down costs for all customers."

Entry into the contest, which is free to any U.S. citizen over the age of 18, requires submission of a 500-word essay explaining why the applicant wants to live in the Rutland Innovation Home and what the individual or family would bring to community life in Rutland. The contest is now open until 11:59 p.m. on June 18, 2018. Contest information and complete rules are at www.greenmountainpower.com/home-contest-entry-rules.

A nine-member committee of community and business leaders will select 10 finalists based on their applications and essays, and will select the winner based on the essays, background checks, and interviews. The 1,500-square-foot traditional New England-style farmhouse designed by NBF's Edward Clark, will include three bedrooms, one and a half baths, a wide front porch, and the latest in energy technology and controls.

Historical letters

Most readers will know that I am an antiques dealer and have been for over 45 years. My passion is early historical documents.

Being self-educated has its advantages, you study what you like. For me, I love historical documents. As the years passed I became known throughout New England as a collector/ dealer of these old documents.

called in as a consultant by an auction gallery or a private collector to identify and catalog their documents. Such is the case here.

Recently, I was contacted by Bill Smith of Smith's Auction Gallery of Plainfield, was asked to catalog a group of estate documents. The estate was in Corning, New York and was moved to Plainfield to be sold at auction.

When I saw these documents I got goosebumps. Below is an outline of what I discovered.

A handwritten three-page letter's heading is Albany May 12, 1779. The letter was written by Philip Schuyler to Colonel Van Schaick.

General Washington directs Schuyler to have Col. Schaick organize a group of soldiers together with Oneida Indians to chart the Oswegatchie River. The Oswegatchie flows from the Adirondacks, north to the St Lawrence River. In 1779 the British threatened this area. The letter is signed Philip Schuyler. This letter 1818 and led by Andrew Jackson. and the relevant history could be Henry Young was with Jackson on an article by itself.

Also is a collection of Continental paper currency, all dating from the 1770s. Continental Currency was circulated in all thirteen Colonies. While unpopular with the Colonists due to inflation and different values from colony to colony, there was a larger prob-

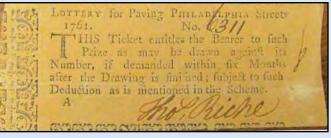

The British would sail into New York harbor and anchor. Then men were sent into the city to collect Continental Currency. Onboard ship they had printing presses and set about counterfeiting the 'Continentals' as they were known. The counterfeits were then distributed throughout the Colonies.

Ben Franklin said, "The artists they employed performed so well that immense quantities of these counterfeits which issued from the British government in New York, were circulated among the inhabitants of all the states, before the fraud was detected. This operated significantly in depreciating the

One way to determine a counterfeit bill today from a genuine bill is rather easy. Genuine Continental Currency notes have tiny flecks of mica imbedded in the paper. The counterfeits did not have mica.

Another item is a very rare 1782 Treasury Check for $120. It is signed M. Hillegas. Michael Hillegas was the first treasurer of the United States. Estimates range that there are only 75-200 of these checks in existence today.

Included in this collection is a 125-page journal kept by Henry Young. The title page reads: A journal of East and West Florida with itineraries by H. Young, Cap't of Topographical Engineers, 1818.

The first Seminole War was in this expedition and recorded latitude and longitude, topography, soils and rivers. Further he made accurate records of old Spanish roads and forts along with the many different Indian tribes.

In those early days slaves escaping from the southern states escaped to Florida, then a Spanish territory. Here the slaves were safe and established settlements which were recorded by Young. This journal is a major historical artifact.

won what is considered one of Britain's most important naval battles. On that day in 1805 Nelson was killed.

There's an important Civil War letter regarding formation of a new regiment in New York. Many officers signed the letter. On the reverse side is a handwritten note approving the new regiment, and signed 'A. Lincoln.'

Another letter is written and signed by U. S. Grant. Then there is on an 1862 New York Quartermaster letterhead the signature, 'C.A. Arthur.' Arthur is best known as the 21st president but during the Civil War he was Quartermaster for the State of New York. Not done yet, there is also a White House card with a bold signature, 'Chester A. Arthur.' Another letter is written and signed by Salmon Chase, Chief Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court. Chase was born in Cornish N.H. There is also a very rare 1761 Philadelphia lottery ticket, likely printed by Ben Franklin.

There is much more I could write about this collection but I'm running out of room. Now perhaps you understand why I had goosebumps. The auction is Monday, May 28 in Plainfield, N.H. at 10 a.m. I will be there.

Jackson Ellis releases first book, "Lords of St. Thomas"-

LUDLOW, Vt. - Vermont writer and Okemo Valley native Jackson Ellis has released his first novel, "Lords of St. Thomas." Ellis won the 2017 Howard Frank Mosher First Book Prize for this story set in Nevada during the Depression. It is published by Vermont independent publishers, Green Writers Press.

In the 1930s, during construction of the Hoover Dam, the U.S. government began buying out the residents of St. Thomas, Nev. Yet the hardheaded Henry Lord, believing the waters of the newly created Lake Mead would never reach his home, refused to sell or vacate his property. It was a mistake that would cost him dearly.

"Lords of St. Thomas" details the tragedies and conflicts endured by a family fighting a futile battle, and their hectic and terrifying escape from the floodwaters that finally surge across the threshold of their front door. Surprisingly, it also shows that, sometimes, you can go home again.

Beloved Vermont author Howard Frank Mosher described the book this way, "A dramatic story of the beleaguered Lord family, forced off their land by the creation of Lake Mead. At the heart of the book are the patriarch Henry Lord, who refuses to leave his doomed home and town, and his young grandson and namesake. The novel is both a terrific coming-ofage story and an exact and haunting evocation of a bygone time and place. What's more, it's a great read. I loved every page."

Ludlow's indie bookstore the Book Nook has signed copies for sale. The Book Nook will also host a book reading with Jackson Ellis on Friday, July 6 at the Ludlow Town Hall Auditorium. It will be an evening featuring local talent as Jackson Ellis reads and talks about "Lords of St. Thomas," Rachel Carter will discuss her latest works, and we will provide a Ludlow premiere of "My Name is Art," a short film based on a story by Asher Ellis. Op-Ed: Raising property taxes won't lower property taxes

The Legislature is again considering using the property tax as a deterrent against high spending in Vermont schools.

Currently, school tax rates go up proportionally with per-pupil spending increases. The bill recently passed by the House would change the education funding system so that tax rates would rise faster than spending increases as a disincentive to higher spending.

Legislators say they understand the pressures on property tax payers and want to ease their plight. But in the name of cost containment, they're proposing to make it more painful for Vermont resident homeowners who want to or have to spend more on their kids' education.

That might make sense if towns were willfully or carelessly spending too much on education. But that doesn't appear to be the case. An examination of the 25 towns with the highest per-pupil spending each year from fiscal 2012 through fiscal 2018 shows a lot of volatility. Few were consistently high spenders. Only five towns, with combined enrollment of fewer than 1,400 students, made the top 25 list every year.

Over the course of seven years, 65 individual towns appeared at least once on the top 25 list. Just under half were on the list for only one year. More than 60 percent made the list for just one or two years. Of the 65 towns, just over one-third pay tuition to send all or some of their kids to school, which means they have no or limited control over their spending. They simply pay the required tuition amount per pupil to the receiving school.

Some of the smallest tuition towns experienced the greatest volatility over the last seven years. These communities are vulnerable to large swings in per-pupil spending if new students move into town after the school budget has been set. Lemington and Victory, for example, went from being among the lowest spending towns to the highest in just a few years because of an influx of students.

Punitive tax rates aren't going to force these towns to become more efficient. They only add insult to injury for taxpayers who already have seen a spike in their tax rates through no fault of their own. What's the point of pushing their tax rates even higher?

Before the Legislature goes any further with the get-tough approach, it really needs to take a little time to understand why communities spend what they do - and that goes for below-average spenders as well as the high spenders.

As it turns out, the school consolidation law, Act 46, is more likely to help towns like Lemington and Victory avoid sharp tax increases than the House bill would. Ten towns have joined the Northeast Kingdom Choice School District. The single district will have a large enough enrollment so that a few additional students here and there shouldn't cause spikes in the tax rates, as they sometimes do for individual towns.

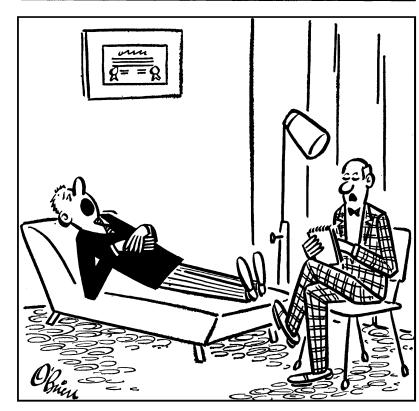

The governor and the Legislature have a short-term problem of their own making for fiscal 2019. Last year, they agreed to use Education Fund reserves to artificially lower tax rates this year, and now that decision has come back to bite them with higher property tax rates projected for next year.

Rather than look for ways to punish local voters, Montpelier needs to come up with another short-term fix to bring down property taxes next year. Then over the summer and fall, it needs to study the causes of high and low spending before proposing more new cost-control policies.

It also needs to get serious about permanently reducing the pressure on property tax payers by eliminating the residential school property tax and moving to a system where school taxes for all Vermont residents are based on their ability to

Op-Ed: Ridesharing networks in rural Vermont

There's something in the DNA of Vermonters that comes from our Yankee ingenuity that helps us solve problems using limited resources, and usually in a way that helps benefit our community at large. While a fulltime professional squad of fire fighters might make sense for larger areas like Burlington, the same service is quite of volunteers who help out when the need arises. Similarly a centralized public transportation system makes sense in population dense areas like those in and around Burlington. But it becomes difficult to justify it most parts of the state. But just as previous generations of technology, like pagers and radio, helped to enable volunteer fire departments to provide an important service in rural areas that would otherwise be impractical, today there is another opportunity for rural Vermont to embrace technology to help empower individuals to help

Transportation network companies like Lyft are looking to expand in Vermont to help connect Vermonters to each other and make the impractical possible, using a decentralized model similar to the volunteer fire fighters our local communities depend on.

Networks like Lyft don't seek to send in fleets of vehicles to crowd our roads with out-of-state license plates, but instead are here to help us better connect with each other. In so many places in rural Vermont there are people who - due to age, finances, or other circumstances - find themselves temporarily, or permanently, without a means of transportation. Lyft can help solve those challenges and fill critical transportation needs.

There are also thousands of Vermonters who could really benefit from making a few extra bucks, and maybe making better connections with the people that live in their area. Individuals around the country have used services like Lyft to earn money on their own schedule. In 2017, Lyft drivers nationwide earned $3.6 billion. Over 90 percent of those drivers drove part-time around a full-time job or other responsibilities.

Lyft has also been shown to enhance safety by reducing DUIs and giving people a safe way to get home. Communities around the country with access to ridesharing services friend, that all enhance rider safety have seen declines in DUI arrests and deaths. Additionally, ridesharing services provide a greater level of safety than do traditional transportation options. Before a potential driver can offer their services, they must undergo a thorough background check process that checks for criminal offenses and driving infractions. Companies like Lyft also carry insurance limits up to $1 billion. And they have a number of other innovative features, like the two-way rating system, realtime tracking of rides, and the ability to share your route and ETA with a beyond what public transit offers.

As the Legislature looks at regulating these ridesharing companies I hope that they can preserve the way these companies have been able to do business so that drivers and riders can continue to benefit from financial opportunities and needed transportation in places where they are hard to come by while also providing common sense protections and the freedom they need to help each other as neighbors.

Dear Editor,

The 24th of April was the 103rd anniversary of the beginning of the Armenian Genocide in Turkey. Prior to that date, the Ottoman government had confiscated all the firearms in the hands of Armenians living in Turkey. They were able to do this because of previously existing firearms control laws, which required registration of

The following comments are in regard to recent letters on firearms legislation. I can remember my dad telling my brother and me that

1. There is no such thing as an empty rifle (or any other kind of firearm), 2. Never point a rifle (or any other firearm) at anyone unless you intend to shoot him then and there - that is to say, never.

This was pretty stark advice, but very good. My father made sure that we were trained in the use of firearms as children. The NRA has expanded and refined this kind of instruction and advice in its firearms safety pro-

With regard to Mr. Patch's letter, this is the key statement: "A year or two down the road when the legislators realize the new gun laws did nothing to make schools safe, they will pass more gun laws, which will mean a loss of more freedoms."

In my opinion, this is the only real purpose for Act 94 that Gov. Scott signed into law the other day - specifically banning standard capacity magazines and requiring universal background checks for the purchase or transfer of firearms. Understand, I am not saying that Mr. Patch's statement reflected either the governor's or the Legislature's intention, but it will surely be the law's ultimate effect.

This is how the Romans finally defeated Hannibal – a little at a time. Neither the new law nor any other laws will prevent evil people from doing evil things and - in my view - that is the intended effect, as Mr. Patch observes. The ultimate purpose is to disarm the American people.

I believe that every Vermont voter with the slightest tinge of patriotism should remember who was involved in passing this law and vote accordingly this year. I certainly understand the concern about doing something and the fear of having to explain a vote to the parents of a child murdered in school. I must say, however, that it is difficult to understand why legislators would be concerned about "young people that are saying that we are not doing enough" when you have just defined them as immature, unreliable, impulsive, and untrustworthy in the law that forbids anyone under 21 to buy a firearm. It seems to me, however, especially since it is believed that the ban on standard capacity magazines and the universal - as opposed to commercial - background checks will be contested at law, that the attitude of the legislators should have been: "I will not vote for this bill in its current form. The magazine ban is irrelevant to the question of school safety and I will consider voting for it when it is presented without the magazine ban."

Conversely, the governor could have vetoed the bill with a similar message. I find it strange that someone would vote for a law with the idea that two of its parts will/may be overturned by the courts. My own observation regarding magazines is that the law should have made the use of a firearm with any size magazine in the commission of a crime an additional felony, without regard to the seriousness of the original crime.

If there are not serious electoral consequences for those responsible for the offensive aspects of this law, the Legislature will continue to pass other laws involving firearms, even worse than this one. There are some things that are not to be tampered

Background checks for purchasing firearms from a firearms dealer or other business or via a gun show are beneficial. But requiring, as the law does, universal background checks is a big problem, if for other reason than that it opens the door to Soviet style attempts to entrap people by attempting to buy or otherwise obtain firearms from them. The state of Vermont and, I assume, other states as well, send young people into businesses that sell alcohol, trying to get the clerk to sell these products to a minor so that law enforcement can take action against the store. It is not beyond the realm of possibility that this will become policy for firearms as well. Not being able to trust the people with whom you interact tends to break down a society.

One more thought on universal background checks. Consider the question of narcotics. People buy narcotics all the time that are illegal to sell, possess, or use. Despite the best efforts of the police and attempts at education, abuse of narcotics continues unabated. People who are not inclined to obey the law won't be affected or limited by the law in any way. The same principle applies to universal (as opposed to commercial) background checks. Furthermore, background checks of any kind are useless unless the databases they rely on are complete, accurate, and purged when the reason for being in the database no longer exists. The only reason the boy in Florida was able to buy firearms is that school policy forbade reporting disorderly or even criminal behavior to the police and thus, his name was not entered into any of the databases that a background check

The real causes and any hope for a solution to the problems of people committing mass murder are not those that a legislature, governor, or a judge can address. Murder is already against the law, after all. The destruction of religious belief and practice and the loss of faith, both in religion and in America itself are the underlying causes of this problem; they are beyond the competence of politicians and jurists. Leadership in these areas by example and exhortation will accomplish much more than laws that affect only those who are law-abiding. My two cents.

Respectfully, G.M. Donabedian Chester, Vt.

Kalevi J. Pajala, 1944 - 2018

ANDOVER, Vt. - Kalevi Jaakko Pajala, 73, of Andover, Vt., died peacefully Wednesday, April 25, 2018 at the Jack Byrne Center for Palliative and Hospice Care in Lebanon, N.H. Born in Sievi, Finland, Nov. 19, 1944 to parents Toivo Olavi Pajala and Mirjam Saily Pajala, he arrived in the United States with his family in April 1957. He attended schools in Andover and Chester, graduating from Chester High School in 1963. After graduation he attended Vermont Technical College in Randolph, Vt. He graduated with a degree in electrical tech in 1965. After graduation he enlisted in the U.S. Air Force and went to Lackland Air Force Base in Texas. After, he attended jet engine mechanic be found watching the Formula One school at Chanute AFB in Illinois After completing training, he was stationed at Craig AFB in Selma, Ala. where he worked on fighter aircraft and training jets. After the Air Force, he returned to Vermont and worked at Vermont Research Corp. in North Springfield for 24 years. He later worked at Macdermid Equipment, also in Springfield. While at Chester High School, he distinguished himself as a gifted athlete. He excelled in both soccer and baseball. His playing style, "movie star" looks, and the fact that nobody could pronounce his name earned him the nickname "Killer." Years later, when someone would talk about him they would only know him as Killer and not Kal or Kalevi.

For many years, he was a ski instructor and later alpine skiing coach at Okemo Mountain in Ludlow, Vt. During the summer, he played softball in the Green Mountain Softball league and played men's league soccer with his sons on the Chester town team. An experienced outdoorsman, he rarely missed an opening day of trout season, and every fall he would be in the woods hunting deer in Vermont and Maine. On at least one occasion, he bagged a buck on his birthday. Kalevi was an avid sports fan and rooted for all teams from New England. Sometimes he had to be reminded that the players and refs on the TV could not hear him coaching from the couch. Early Saturday mornings, he could auto races. The Finnish drivers were his obvious favorites.

"Stubborn Finn" described him to a T. He learned carpentry skills from his father Toivo and was a great mechanic. He had a knack for keeping vehicles on the road; sometimes well past their useful lives.

He leaves behind many nieces, nephews, cousins, in-laws, and friends, and will be missed by all. He is predeceased by his parents. He is survived by his wife of 23 years, Vivian Pajala of Andover; his sons Bradley Pajala of Londonderry, Vt. and Gregory Pajala and his wife Journey Pajala of Winooski, Vt.; stepsons David Allen and Pam of Florida, Kevin Allen and Gayle of North Carolina, and Matt Allen of Milton, Vt.; two grandsons Olavi and Jaakko whom he adored; five step-granddaughters; three step-grandsons; 4 step-greatgrandchildren; three sisters Ritva Burton and husband Bill of Springfield, Vt., Ulla and Kenny Cook of Ludlow, Vt., and Lisa Lemmer and her husband John of Barnard, Vt.; and his aunt Irja Tofferri whose address is "travelling."

Funeral services will be held at the Andover Community Church Saturday, May 5 at 2 p.m. A reception will follow in the back of the church. In lieu of flowers, donations can be made to the Andover Project Committee, 953 Weston Andover Rd., Andover, VT 05143.

Jean F. McWilliam, 1932 – 2018

GRAFTON, Vt. - Jean F. McWilliam, 85, of Townshend Road died Wednesday, April 18, 2018, following a period of declining health. Jean was born in Red Bank, N.J. on July 16, 1932, the daughter of Carl and Mabel (Noyes) Feldman and was raised in Summit, N.J. She was a graduate of Summit High School and attended the University of Vermont, earning a degree in home economics in 1954.

She also met her future husband, Edgar McWilliam, at UVM, whom she married upon graduation. The two settled in Grafton and formed a partnership with his parents to operate the family dairy farm. Later that partnership continued as she became one of the founding managers of the Grafton Village Cheese Co. Jean also worked in bank customer service, retiring from First Vermont Bank in Bellows Falls. She was active in the Congregational Church in Grafton where she served many years as treasurer and secretary. She was also a member of the Fire Department Ladies Auxiliary and the Women's Club of Grafton and was involved with many community projects. Jean enjoyed travel, particularly trips to the Maine coast. She enjoyed her many friends, was an avid reader, enjoyed photography, and Celtic music.

Jean is survived by her husband of nearly 64 years Edgar McWilliam; daughter Gail McWilliam Jellie, husband David, and children Michael

The 2018 Apple Blossom Cotillion contestants bring big screen to life -

BY KAREN ENGDAHL

The Vermont Journal & The Shopper

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. - Linking arms and reeling off a series of Rockettelike kicks, the young men of the 2018 Apple Blossom Cotillion danced in formation as the young women Cotillion contestants moved in a circle behind them, matching their steps to the music of "Beauty and the Beast." Now rehearsing in their final few days before the performances of "Apple Blossom on the Big Screen" at Riverside School on May 4 and 5, the contestants and their escorts are putting the finishing touches on routines they started learning last Janu-

sports

BY BILL MURPHY

The Vermont Journal & The Shopper

The Vermont Journal and The Shopper's coverage area includes five high schools. Alphabetically, they are Bellows Falls, Black River, Fall Mountain, Green Mountain, and Springfield, and they all have their supporters. In general, if one lives in an area, they root for that team.

There are, at times, oddities, which camouflage one's rooting interests though. The most prevalent examples would be a person who grows up in one town and moves nearby or a person who grows up elsewhere and, although they live in one of our communities, chose never to jump on any bandwagon.

In short, local interests are usually cut and dry.

When it comes time for area fans to support professional and college sports, the majority forges together and gives their loyalty to their closest teams. Obviously, there are more Bruins, Celtics, Patriots and Red Sox fans than anything else around here. Each of those sports has fans who grew up here and fans who have migrated here while cheering for other teams. But the have a way of wearing on the people around him. He is at a point in his overwhelming majority are New England sports fans.

This time of year really makes my head hurt. Monday night, three New England teams were in action all at the same time. If you are one of those fans who craves, smells, and consumes every sport, what do you do? You obviously, either prioritize, or, you flip your remote so many times, your batteries have to be replaced.

Oh, what it would be like to be young again! This is the truth. There were days of heavy sports action, especially in the spring and the fall, that I would situate myself in a hallway at my house, so I could catch our two televisions and watch two games, and then have two radios beside me to bring in two

The most important and satisfying part of that experience of my youth was that I could keep track of all four games and could ace any quiz you threw my way. Keeping track of two games at the same time today can challenge me. Certainly, don't give me a quiz.

Boy, back then those were the days.

Strangely, I've found, football has the most unique rooting interests in these parts. More fans of other teams are prone to wear their colors in public than any other sport. This is true in our five high schools and throughout New England.

Area rooters are clearly worthy of calling this Patriot country, but I really think when it comes to a breakdown, football has more non-Patriot fans who grew up here than any other professional sport. One of the reasons for that is, there are probably more professional football fans among the local ranks than any other sport.

A couple of more things about area Patriot fans. About 75 percent of them are really intense. And well more than half of that 75 percent are Patriotblind. Whatever their team does is right, even if it is cheating. I am a Patriot fan, but there are areas of their approach, which make me uncomfortable. In my mind, Bill Belichick is clearly the greatest coach of all time, but his ways career that many of his most devoted disciples are openly questioning his approach and decision-making. It frightens me that the ending may not be

By the way, be observant of shirts, hats, etc. worn by area football fans. If you keep track, correspond with me at bmurphy@vermontjournal.com to weigh in with your numbers.

Although football now rules the popularity meter locally, for most of my life the Red Sox were clearly the number one choice for sports enthusiasts. The Red Sox are right up there - football and baseball are eons ahead of basketball and hockey in popularity - but football marketed itself better and moved to the top.

Those of you choosing not to root for area teams have lost out lately. The New England area has won hands down more professional sports titles than any part of the country since the turn of the century.

There are several cities that have more than one sports team in a particular sport and thus more chances to win, but there is no location that sees more playoff teams on a regular basis than New England. During the last two cycles, New England has been represented in the post season by every sport, two years running. Wow!

Look at how things stand today, the Red Sox have the absolute best record in baseball and both the Celtics and the Bruins have a chance to advance to their Eastern Conference Finals.

So readers, cheer on your teams, and in addition, find out a way to fit in a sports event or two at your area high school. The weather right now has warmed up, giving you a chance to take in some action and enjoy the

Bellows Falls comes in first and second in the annual weight relays

BY BILL MURPHY

The Vermont Journal & The Shopper

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt. - Bellows Falls hosted and then boasted about the 2018 Howard-Weiser Weight Relays held last week at Bellows Falls' Hadley Field. The Terrier boys captured the competition, and their female counterparts placed second to a strong Hartford High School team. The girls' weight event was the most competitive of the day.

Both Bellows Falls squads, as is the case almost each spring, should be in the thick of things come June 4, when the Vermont Division III State Track Meet is held at Green Mountain Union High School. Following behind the Terrier boys was Lebanon High School. The hosts collected 48 points to Lebanon's 36. Newport finished third with a strong 32 points, followed by Brattleboro 23, Springfield 22, Windsor 10, Fall Mountain 9, Green Mountain 8, and Hartford 6.

For the Fall Mountain boys - and girls - their best team event was the high jump where they scored eight of their nine points.

Hartford was much stronger in the girls' competition where their 56 points led the way compared to the Terrier girls' 50. Lebanon collected 35-and-a-half points in third place with Thetford 33, Brattleboro 28, Newport 7, Green Mountain 4, and Fall Mountain 3-and-a-half rounding out the field.

Bellows Falls had three individual performers tie for first place in the pole vault, along with Hartford's Ileana Sivois. A four-way tie was created when the competition was forced to stop because a competitor knocked the standard off its stand. Points were awarded as a result of competition to date. The boys' pole vault had to be cancelled as a result.

Bellows Falls track coach, Tim Eno, took advantage of the interruption by lightening up the day with a public address announcement, which brought a roar of laughter. Eno let the crowd know the boys' competition would have to be scratched, but he quickly added Bellows Falls would be awarded the 10 points for winning the event that would not be held. Following a short pause, Eno added, "Ha ha, just kidding."

Eno also said the poor spring weather has held back his team's training regimen. "I'm not real aggressive with the workouts until the weather warms up. It is all about peaking on June 4 for the state meet."

There was no pause after this statement this time. He's not kidding. Everything is set to peak at the end of the season. Just in time for the medals to be passed out.

Unified basketball team celebrates senior night and the playoffs

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. – The Springfield Cosmos unified basketball team had much to celebrate recently. In their last regular season home game, the team honored their senior members. Now, with five wins to round out their season, they are headed to the playoffs.

Senior night

Senior night turned into a success for the Cosmos Unified Basketball team as they brought the season's record to a 5 to 2 end. The Cosmos brought in their fifth win with a 38-30 victory over the Rutland Raiders. Also that evening, tradition continued for the Springfield Cosmos as each senior was recognized at the last home game for them. Natalie Corliss, Cameron Colon, and Lance Robinson are three-year unified basketball veterans. Since the sport's inception here in Springfield, Vt. in the 2015-16 school year Cam, Lance, and Natalie have shined as players and mentors for their teammates. Coach Gultekin and Coach Pestana awarded flowers and posters to each of them. Fellow students created each poster and decorated it with their name, player number, qualities, and senior photo.

In their last home game, the players responded and worked as a team with strong rebounds, passing, looking for the open man, and numerous assists. Paul Dana led the evening with four assists along with veteran players Cameron Colon, Alex Damato, Falisha Maly, and Natalie Corliss to manage the team in setting up plays so all could score.

A huge thank you to Mackenzie Godin for leading the night with the National Anthem and having the team sing along.

VSO musicians to perform in area schools -

REGION - The Vermont Sym- Bonnie Klimowski. phony Orchestra's "Raising Cane" woodwind trio will present performances at three Windham County schools May 14: Saxtons River Elementary at 9:30 a.m., Anthens-Grafton Joint Central School at 11 a.m., and Central Elementary in Rockingham at 1:30

"Raising Cane" is always a big hit in schools. Oboist Ann Greenawalt, clarinetist Steve Klimowski, and bassoonist Janet Polk are all excellent performers with years of experience turning kids on to classical music. Their show focuses on the unique sounds of the three reed instruments, making the analogy that musical timbres are the composer's palette of colors. Students are engaged in participatory exercises designed to familiarize them with these ambassadors from the woodwind family and sharpen their listening skills.

On May 17, the Vermont Symphony Orchestra's "Fiddlesticks!" string trio will present a performance at the Elm Hill School in Springfield at 9:45 a.m. This performance is made possible by the Upper Valley Friends of the VSO.

Members of "Fiddlesticks" are David Gusakov, Hilary Hatch, and

They also bring "Godzilla," the bass fiddle, with them!

Their dynamic performances are designed to introduce children to the most important members of the symphony orchestra and to make some of the key concepts in classical music making come alive. Longtime members of the VSO, the performers are funny, friendly, interactive Raising Cane. and wonderful

These performances are part of the Vermont Symphony Orchestra's statewide SymphonyKids education program, which reached over 22,000 schoolchildren last year with 257 presentations serving 139 schools in 111 different towns. There are approximately 65 million refugees, asylum-seekers, and internally displaced people around the world. Elena Georgiou's "The Immigrant's Refrigerator" plucks a few of these people out of the crowd and brings their stories to life. Populated with a cast of characters that shine the light on what it means to be an outsider in the early part of the 21st century, these stories take the reader into the lives of those who have entered a country legally, others who were forced to enter illegally, and the rest who call a country home as a result of the geography of birth. Alfred Hitchcock returns to South Londonderry Depot —

S. LONDONDERRY, Vt. - A few years back, the Friends of the West River Trail presented a two-part series of presentations on that master of mystery, Alfred Hitchcock. A speaker from the Vermont Humanities Council gave a lecture on his career and films and had a screening of "The Trouble With Harry," a Hitchcock film notable for having been filmed in Vermont and having been largely a comedy.

On Tuesday, May 15 at 7 p.m., the Friends will present another Hitchcock underexposed classic at the South Londonderry Depot, "The 39 Steps." Doors will open at 6:30 p.m. and light refreshments will be served.

As in many other Hitchcock films - think of "Rear Window," "The Man Who Knew Too Much," and "North by Northwest" - an "everyman" becomes swept up in events beyond his control and must fight to preserve his life, clear his name and, in this case, protect his country from pre-World War II Germany. Robert Donat and Madeleine Carroll star.

As with "Psycho," a female character introduced early in the film whom we expect to be female protagonist is and that sends Donat from London to the Highlands of Scotland to unravel the mysteries that have cast him as a murderer and put his country in jeopardy.

Alfred Hitchcock made this film in 1935 in black and white and while still living in Britain. Although he filmed "The 39 Steps" over 80 years ponents. ago, British film critics still consider it one of the finest films their country has ever produced. It's exposure here in the U.S. has been modest.

This presentation will be the first to employ a new audio-visual system that the Friends have acquired, with thanks to the Thrifty Attic for a substantial grant and Toby Fitch of South Londonderry for his technical advice in selecting and assembling the com-

SCP 98th season auditions

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. - The Springfield Community Players are looking for local talent to come out and join the team this season as they cast for their famed shows! This year the players will feature the following shows: "Lend Me A Tenor," "The Boys Next Door," and "The Marvelous Wonderettes: Dream On." In an effort to attract as many people as possible, the players will be hosting group auditions May 20 at 2 p.m. and May 21 at

"Lend Me A Tenor," a comedy by Ken Ludwig, takes place in a hotel suite in 1934 Cleveland. On a very important night for the Cleveland Grand Opera Company, Tito Mirelli, the world-famous Italian tenor, is set to sing the starring role in Otello. Henry Saunders, the general manager of the company, is frantic that everything turns out right. He insists that his assistant, Max, a nervous young man and tenor wannabe, watch over Tito's every move to insure smooth sailing.

After huge fight with his fiery Italian wife, Maria, a series of mishaps leaves Tito comatose. Max is left to save the entire production of Otello. He navigates the company through one disaster after another and with Saunders' help ends the show in grand, farcical fashion.

The cast of "Lend Me A Tenor" requires four men and four women, ages 20 to 60.

"The Boys Next Door" is a play by Tom Griffin. Set in the Boston area, it focuses on four men with various mental disabilities who live in a group home. It takes place over roughly a two-month period and consists of brief vignettes about the men's lives. The play provides a humorous commentary on the men's lives, taking a surprising turn as Barry's father comes to visit and as Jack, the caretaker, accepts a new job. It was adapted into a television film in 1996 by Hallmark Entertainment.

The cast of "The Boys Next Door" requires eight men and four women ages 20 to 70.

"The Marvelous Wonderettes" are back for the 2018 season! It's 1969 and the Marvelous Wonderettes are back at Springfield High - Go Chipmunks! - to throw a retirement party for their favorite homeroom teacher. As the girls sing their way through the greatest girl-group hits of the '60s and bid Ms. McPherson a fond farewell, one of the Wonderettes reveals she'll also be saying goodbye to search for success and happiness on her own. Act two finds the girls back together as the class of 1958 celebrates their 20-year reunion. The classic pop and rock hits of the '70s provide the perfect soundtrack for these old friends to catch up on the places life has led them.

The cast of "The Marvelous Wonderettes: Dream On" requires four women, in their 20s to 30s. Those auditioning should prepare a song and bring their sheet music with them for the accompanist.

Auditions will be held at the Players Studio on 165 South Street Springfield, Vt. For further questions, contact the Springfield Community Players at the studio at 802-885-4098 or by email springfieldcommunityplayers@gmail.

Spring wildflower walk —— winter this has been! But spring is finally here. One way to celebrate is by finding the physical signs that confirm it. Therefore, Sunday, May 6, from 9:30 a.m. to noon, Libby Mills and Sarah Waldo will lead a favorite program for the Windmill Hill Pinnacle Association: the annual off-trail forest stroll to discover ephemeral spring wildflowers. These seemingly delicate flowers are hardi-

Hunt safely this turkey season

MONTPELIER, Vt. - Hunt- don't shoot. Lack of positive idening safely during turkey season is easy if you follow tips issued by the Vermont Fish & Wildlife Department. Vermont's regular spring turkey season is May 1-31.

With the opening of spring turkey hunting season, the Vermont Fish & Wildlife Department urges hunters to consider these safety tips:

Never shoot unless you're absolutely sure of your target and what is beyond it. Look for a beard, as only turkeys with beards are legal during the spring season. If you're not sure, tification could result in shooting an illegal bird, or worse, another hunter. Be sure to have a good backstop any time you shoot a firearm or bow.

Never stalk a gobbling turkey. Your chances of getting close are poor, and you may be sneaking up on another hunter.

Avoid red, white, blue, and black in clothing and equipment. A tom turkey's head has similar colors. Stick with hen calls. A gobbler call might draw in other hunters. Avoid unnecessary movement. This alerts turkeys and attracts Don't hide so well that you impair your field of vision.

Wrap your turkey in blaze orange for the hike back to your vehicle.

Always sit with your back against a tree trunk, big log, or a boulder that is wider than your body. This protects you from being accidentally struck by pellets fired from behind you.

Place decoys on the far side of a tree trunk or a rock. This prevents you from being directly in the line of fire should another hunter mistakenly shoot at your decoy.

Wear hunter orange while moving from set-up to set-up. Take it off when you are in position.

Fun spring fishing events

MONTPELIER, Vt. – Fishing is a great way to enjoy the outdoors with friends and family. Many anglers remember their first fishing experience with a parent or mentor who taught them the basics and gave them the opportunity to catch fish. That opportunity is now being replicated across Vermont through several programs that are specifically designed to teach beginners how to fish.

One of the most popular programs is Let's Go Fishing, administered by Vermont Fish and Wildlife. It is a network of certified volunteer instructors who encourage and teach Vermonters of all ages and abilities how to fish. Instructors teach fish-

tance of good aquatic habitat, fishing ethics, and fishing regulations. Clinics are always free and open to

Vermont Fish and Wildlife also has a Children's Fishing program, which provides kids the opportunity for a fun and successful fishing experience at locally organized events. Organizers of these events often include charitable, community or nonprofit groups such as fire departments, fish and game clubs, Rotary and Lions clubs, town recreation committees, 4-H clubs, and scouts groups among others. Vermont walleye fishing season opens May 5 —

REGION – The Vermont walleye fishing season will open on Saturday, May 5, marking the return of some of the best walleye fishing in New England.

"We saw some really nice, trophysize walleye during our recent survey work, which certainly brightens the outlook for the upcoming wallfisheries biologist with Vermont Fish & Wildlife.

Vermont has excellent spring walleye fishing opportunities in several lakes and rivers across the state. Such opportunities include Lake Champlain and its tributaries – the Missisquoi, Lamoille, and Winooski eye season," said Chet MacKenzie, rivers and Otter Creek. Salem Lake low perch population and provide and Island Pond also have walleye populations.

> A trio of additional waters - Lake Carmi, Chittenden Reservoir, and the Connecticut River, also offer quality walleye fishing but are subject to specific regulations. In all waters of Vermont except Lake Carmi, Chittenden Reservoir, and the Connecticut River, walleye have an 18-inch minimum length requirement and three-fish daily limit. The open season is from Saturday, May 5 to March 15, 2019.

Lake Carmi has a slot limit for walleye because of the lake's high productivity and high rate of walleye harvest. The minimum length is 15 inches; all walleye between 17 and 19 inches must be released. The daily limit is five walleye, but only one may be over 19 inches long. The season is open May 6 through March 15.

Chittenden Reservoir has special walleye regulations in order to produce large walleye that can help control its over-abundant yelanglers with an opportunity to harvest a trophy walleye. The minimum length is 22 inches, the daily limit is two, and the season is open June 1 through March 15.

Connecticut River walleye fishing rules are set by New Hampshire. No walleye between 16 and 18 inches may be kept and the daily limit is four fish, of which only one may be longer than 18 inches.

As a reminder to anglers, there is no open season on sauger, a close cousin to the walleye. Once more abundant in southern Lake Champlain, sauger may still appear there rarely. If caught while fishing for other fish, sauger must be immediately released.

Anglers are encouraged to read about current fishing regulations in the "2018 Vermont Fishing Guide & Regulations" available free from any Vermont license agent.

To purchase a fishing license or learn more about fishing in Vermont, visit www.vtfishandwildlife.

Distant Hills Gardens & Nature Trail 507 March Hill Rd. Walpole, N.H. 03608 Nature Trail Head - 66 March Hill Road www.distanthillgardens.org

In the hills above Walpole and Alstead, N.H., sits 58 gorgeously tended acres with winding trails meandering through carefully cultivated gardens, wetlands, bogs, forests, and fields, al designed to inspire children and adults to appreciate the interconnectivity between our natural habitats and wildlife. Welcome to Distant Hills Gardens and Nature Trail, home of Kathy and Michael Nerrie since 1979. What began as a hobby to cultivate their sprawling property with ornamental gardens and showcase its natural features has transformed into an inspirational trail network and natural play land to share with visitors.

The gardens trail network snakes through the property, leading to many different habitats where native plants and wildlife species thrive together. A three-acre milkweed meadow is home to a burgeoning monarch butterfly population. Vernal pools, swamps, forest seeps, and other wetland areas support native ferns, fungi, herbs, and wildflowers and are teaming with many different frog and salamander species. A boardwalk crosses a fascinating floating cranberry bog. Artistic metal sculptures are located throughout the property along the trails adding interest and beauty. In addition, an eight-acre sugar bush produces maple syrup and a small Christmas tree plantation area supplies trees for family and neighbors.

A highlight of the property is a stone circle that was built in 2012 by Michael Nerrie. These large stones are set in alignment with the coordinates of the winter solstice and surround a fire

A newer addition to the property is the Distant Hill Nature Trail, a mile-long network of wheelchair and stroller accessible gravel trails, accessible via a nearby trailhead. Discover a nature play area called White-Rock Woods, an outdoor space made of natural components such as bark, logs, plants, earth, rocks, and trees for kids to interact with.

The property continues to evolve each year. According to the Nerries, the goal is to have visitors to Distant Hill leave with a better understanding of the vital connections between plants, animals, and humans, and how we can use Earth's resources in a way that strengthens and sustains those connections.

Distant Hill Gardens is only open to the public on select weekends - the first and third Saturday and Sunday of the month in May and June, and the first Saturday and Sunday, July to October 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. They are also available for private tours and visits by appointment, for special events, and educational workshops. Distant Hill Nature Trail and White-Rock Woods is open daily, year-round, from dawn to dusk.

HELP WANTED

Hi! My name's Mouth, and I'm a 2-year-old neutered male that came to Lucy Mackenzie as a stray. I'm so happy I did, too, because I love and tested for lots of things, including feline immunodeficiency virus (FIV). It's a good thing, too, healthy otherwise! FIV-positive cats can live as long and healthy a life as non-infected cats, and we have the same needs as any other cat. To err on the side of caution, I should either be an only-cat, or I can live with another FIV-positive cat. I should also always be kept indoors. No more

That's OK, because I'd much rather be close to my people. I'm really affectionate, really playful and really sweet. If you've been looking for a new feline companion, stop in and meet me to-

You'd never know, though, because I'm so because it turns out that I have it.

Hampshire and Vermont apiary inspector, will hold a beekeeping workshop from 1-4 p.m. on Saturday, May 19, at 18 MacLean Road in Alstead. Look for the "bee" sign on the south side of Walpole Valley Road. Topics of discussion: finding queens, requeening and 2-queen colonies, pollen collection, swarm control, supering, and bee venomtherapy. Bring a veil, if you have one, as we shall be opening some colonies. We'll be inside if it is a rainy day. Registration required. Email lindenap@gmail.com or call 603-756-9056.

GRAFTON, Vt. - Join the Nature Museum in Grafton for a walking tour with a mushroom forager on Saturday, May 19 from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. to learn about foraging safety for medicinal and edible mushrooms. Your mycological guide, Ari Rockland-Miller, will begin with a colorful and informative presentation introducing foraging safety, strategy, and ethics. After this indoor talk, the group will head out on a guided foray into the nearby woods, conserved by the Windmill Hill Pinnacle Association. Once you put on your forager's eyes, your hikes will never be the same again! Space is limited: register today! Morning hike is schedule at 9:30 a.m. and afternoon hike at 1 p.m. For more information, visit www. nature-museum.org, or call 802-843-2111.

FRIDAY, JUNE 8 -CHESTER, Vt. -The Nature Museum is hosting a presentation by Bridget Butler, the Bird Diva, for an introduction to her "slow birding" approach on Friday, June 8 from 7 - 9 p.m. at the NewsBank Conference Center in Chester. Bridget will share how to read bird body language, how to listen beyond just birdsong, and how to discover our own sit-spot to achieve a more intimate look at the natural world. Join us for this special presentation and Q&A with the Bird Diva. Light refreshments from the Grafton Village Bakery will be served. For more information or to register, visit www.naturemuseum.org, or call 802-843-2111. Optional field session at a local residence in Grafton on the morning of Saturday, June 9 is available for separate registration.

SATURDAY, JUNE 9 -GRAFTON, Vt. -The Bird Diva will take us on a "slow birding" adventure through the forests and fields of a private property in Grafton on Saturday, June 9 from 7:30 - 10 a.m. Learn how to look with and without binoculars, map what you're hearing and seeing, and take field notes which will improve identification and awareness skills. Participants are encouraged to dress for the weather, to bring a notebook, water, and a comfortable, portable chair or pad to sit on. This birding walk is a unique opportunity and complements the Bird Diva's talk on Friday, June 8 at the NewsBank Conference Center. Separate registration for the field session is required. ARIES (March 21 to April 19)

Taking advice isn't always easy for self-assured Rams and Ewes who think they know what's best. But it wouldn't hurt to listen to what close colleagues have to say.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You know how to balance life's practical aspects with the poetic. This gives you a special edge this week in both your professional endeavors and your personal life. GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) your home-related activities and your workplace responsibilities. Be mindful of both without obsessing over one or the other. CANCER (June 21 to July 22) A change in plans is likely as you discover more facts about a possible commit-

Focus on keeping a balance between ment. Continue to ask questions and, if vou're not sure about the answers, demand proof. LEO (July 23 to August 22) Be careful not to let that Leonine pride keep you from seeking wise, experienced counsel before making an important decision. A family member once again seeks your help. VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) That surge of Virgo energy drives you to take on more work assignments. Be careful you don't overdo it, or you might find yourself overdone: i.e., burned out.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Your decision to be upfront with colleagues on a touchy matter causes some consternation at first. But in the end, your honesty wins their trust and admiration.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) As in the past, someone again wants to share a secret with you, knowing it will be safe. But do you really want to be this person's confidante? Think about it. SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) As one of nature's straight shooters, you seek to correct misconceptions about a project. Do so, of course, but without giving away too much too soon. CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Creative pursuits continue to be strong in the gifted Goat's aspect.

New friendships can come from sharing these experiences with like-minded art aficionados. AOUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Resolve lingering grumblings over your way of doing things by keeping your mind open to suggestions while continuing to show how your plans will work. PISCES (February 19 to March 20) The perceptive Piscean might find that changing course in midstream isn't as workable as it would seem. Explore this option carefully before making a decision. BORN THIS WEEK: Your willingness to share your love of life's good things brings joy to many, including, of course, yourself. © 2018 King Features Synd., Inc.

Southern Vermonters attend National Opioid Summit

REGION – Vermonters from Bennington, Windham, and Windsor counties attended the National Rx Drug Abuse and Heroin Summit during the first week of April in downtown Atlanta. Approximately 3,000 experts attended the conference, including representatives from prevention, treatment, recovery, and law enforcement. According to the organizers, it is the largest collaboration of federal, state, and local professionals seeking to address prescription drug abuse, misuse, and

Some of the local organizations that attended included Turning Point Recovery Centers of Springfield and Windham County, Health Care and Rehabilitation Services of Southeastern Vermont, Springfield Medical Care Systems, Dartmouth-Hitchcock, Southwestern Vermont Medical Center, Grace Cottage, Greater Falls Connections, Brattleboro Area Prevention Coalition, West River Valley Thrives, Deerfield Valley Community Partnership, Union Middle and High School, Brattleboro Police Department, and the Vermont Department of Health.

Michael Johnson, director of Turning Point Recovery Center of Springfield, said, "There were two things that stood out to me during the summit. Recovery is successful when a person stays connected. And, as a community, open collaborations and warm hand-offs will make our work more successful."

The U.S. Surgeon General, the National Institutes of Health, the Office of National Drug Control Policy, and other federal agencies working on these issues delivered notable presentations during the conference. The featured speaker during the conference was Former President Bill Clinton. Premier researchers from around the country provided the latest data and exciting new approaches to opioid prevention and

The advisory urges more individuals, including family members and friends of those at risk for opioid overdose, to know how to use naloxone and keep it within reach in order to save lives. The Surgeon General declares, "increasing the availability... of naloxone is a critical component of our efforts to reduce opioid-related overdose deaths and, when combined with the availability of effective treatment, to ending the opioid epidemic."

The summit was unique in that doctors, police officers, pharmacists, and community leaders were attending the same workshops and working together to identify gaps and create solutions together. Participants came back even more committed to continuing the work in our communities to tackle this issue from many perspectives. Participants were exposed to inspiring models from across the country that are making a big difference in response to the opioid and heroin

"It is always helpful to meet people working on creative solutions to this issue. It is clear that Vermont is actually doing some things right about this crisis, and there is always more we can do," says Robin Rieske, prevention consultant for the Vermont Department of Health.

The local attendees received funding through a Vermont Department of Health Alcohol and Drug Abuse Programs grant and the Drug Free Communities Support Program grant to attend the conference. Through their experience, the participants are ready to assist in reducing stigma, incorporating recovery into treatment programs, sharing the latest data trends, supporting peer-based programs, and creating community-wide involvement.

Representatives from prevention, treatment, recovery, and law enforcement agencies in Bennington, Windham, and Windsor counties were in Atlanta during the recent National Rx Drug Abuse & Heroin Summit.

Points to consider for retirement —

REGION - If you're a decade or so away from retirement, you've probably spent at least some time thinking about this major life change. How will you manage the transition? Thinking about a few key points now can help you focus your efforts and minimize the anxiety that often accompanies the

Reassess your living expenses

Think about how your living expenses could or should change. For example, while commuting and other work-related costs may decrease, other budget items may rise. Health care costs, in particular, may increase as you progress through retirement.

expense budget will look like in the 70 - your benefit will be higher. first few years after you stop working. And then continue to reassess this budget as your vision of retirement becomes reality. Keeping a close eye on your spending in the years leading up to retirement can help you more accurately anticipate your budget during

Consider all your income sources

First, figure out how much you stand to receive from Social Security. You can elect to receive retirement benefits as early as age 62, however, doing so will result in a reduced benefit for life. If you wait until your full retirement age - 66 or 67, depending on your birth date - or later - up to age

The Vermont Journal/The Shopper

You can get an estimate of your retirement benefit at the Social Security Administration website, www.ssa.gov. You can also sign up for a my Social Security account to view your online Social Security statement, which contains a detailed record of your earnings and estimates for retirement, survivor, and disability benefits.

Next, review the accounts you've earmarked for retirement income, including any employer benefits. Start with your employer-sponsored plan, and then consider any IRAs and traditional investment accounts you may own. If you are married, be sure to include your spouse's retirement accounts as well. If your employer provides a traditional pension plan, contact the plan administrator for an estimate of that monthly benefit amount as well.

Pay off debt, power up your savings Once you have an idea of what your possible expenses and income look like, it's time to bring your attention back to the here and now. Draw up a plan to pay off debt and power up your retirement savings.

Entering retirement debt-free - including paying off your mortgage - will put you in a position to modify your monthly expenses in retirement if the need arises. On the other hand, entering retirement with a mortgage, loan, and credit card balances will put you at the mercy of those monthly payments.

In these final few years before retirement, you're likely to be earning the highest salary of your career. Why not save and invest as much as you can in your employer-sponsored retirement savings plan and/or IRAs? Remember, if you're 50 or older, you can take advantage of catch-up contributions, which enable you to contribute an additional $6,000 to your 401(k) plan and an extra $1,000 to your IRA in

Manage taxes

As you think about when to tap your various resources for retirement income, remember to consider the tax impact of your strategy. You may want to withdraw money from your taxable accounts first to allow your employer-sponsored plans and IRAs more time to potentially benefit from taxdeferred growth. Keep in mind, however, that generally you are required to begin taking minimum distributions from tax-deferred accounts in the year you turn age 70.5, whether or not you actually need the money. Roth IRAs are an exception to this rule.

If you decide to work in retirement while receiving Social Security, understand that income you earn may result in taxable benefits.

Account for health care

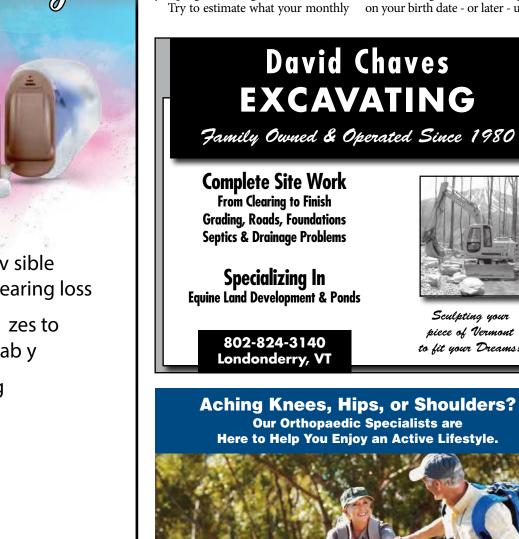

Health care should get special attention as you plan the transition to retirement. As you age, the portion of your budget consumed by healthrelated costs - including both medical and dental - will likely increase. Although Medicare will cover a portion of your costs, you'll still have deductibles, copayments, and coinsurance. Medigap policies are sold by private health insurers and are standardized and regulated by both state and federal law. Another option is Medicare Advantage also known as Medicare Part C, which allows Medicare beneficiaries to receive health care through managed care plans and private feefor-service plans.

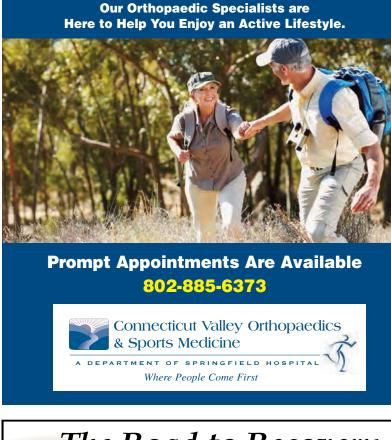

If you have a family history of debilitating illness such as Alzheimer's, have substantial assets you'd like to protect, or want to leave assets to heirs, a long-term care policy may be worth considering.

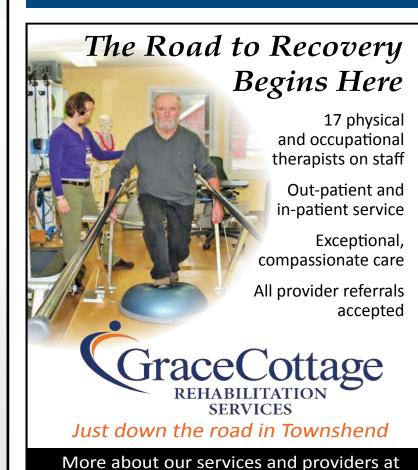

Ease the transition

These are just some of the factors to consider as you prepare to transition into retirement. Breaking the bigger picture into smaller categories and using the years ahead to plan accordingly may help make the process a little easier.
