Rockingham appoints Gary Fox as Interim Zoning Administrator

The Shopper

ROCKINGHAM, Vt. -On Tuesday, Dec. 20, the Rockingham Selectboard Development appointed Director Gary Fox as Interim Planning and Zoning Administrator. Chuck Wise vacated his position as Planning, Zoning, and Health Officer of Rockingham after Christmas.

Municipal Manager Scott Pickup asked VT League of Cities & Towns (VLCT) for guidance, and Rockingham reserves the right to appoint someone for up to one year. He suggested Fox as Interim Planning and Zoning. Pickup said as a shared position of zoning and health it "created conflicts and difficulty on the enforcing end as well as administration and zoning requirements, it was difficult to do all three well." He indicated that was not a reflection on Wise, but the reality. Pickup suggested prioritizing the zoning administrator and hiring a health officer part-time.

Chair Peter Golec said Shaun McGinnis was Deputy Health Officer, Village President Deborah Wright expressed concern of adding to his current duties as Village Fire Chief.

Board member Rick Cowan asked about the town website. Board member Bonnie North volunteered again to teach staff how to manage and update the website.

Golec had concerns with the appointment of Fox and his workload. Fox explained when Pickup discussed it with him, he had called places like White River to ask questions about their combined office. He said it's "typical for planning and development to work jointly together, there is a lot of overlap."

Fox said the development office has ramped up projects and grant applications with Betsy Thurston assisting with administration pieces. He explained each successful grant application added more work, but structurally they were positioned to take on the role.

North agreed that planning with development made sense, but was concerned about zoning and the constant flow of applications. Fox said that Wise had automated much of the functionality and for now it was workable, but said the picture could change in the spring.

Fox said with the current and future work on the Area Wide Plan, Island, and Under the Hill projects, the departments had many ongoing permits they were working on together. He said he "appreciated Chuck's work" and saw the offices working well together moving forward. Fox said that working as an interim "will provide insight into the departments to keep them cohesively working together."

Fox referred to the work being done by Rockingham Incremental Development Working Group (RIDWG) and the necessary zoning bylaw adjustments for the future. A recent grant application has been submitted for the Modernization Bylaw Grant through the Department of Housing and Community Development.

Pickup said by appointing Fox this gave the town the opportunity to continue holding meetings and supporting the Development Review Board (DRB) and Planning Commission (PC) while they began the hiring process.

Vice-Chair Susan Hammond asked about the revision of the town plan scheduled for 2023. Wright, also the PC Chair, said they were at the end of the polishing piece, but still had the introduction, maps, and links. She said there was a lot of input necessary for the zoning administrator, and once the town plan was complete the next step was the zoning bylaws. She said Wise took the minutes.

Golec said, "the information needs to be ready for the board ahead of time, it can't be done the night of the meeting."

Board member Elijah Zimmer asked if there were any other options. Pickup said they could leave the position vacant and cancel meetings.

The board appointed Fox as Interim Zoning Administrator. Cowan thanked Wise for his work over the years.

The Rockingham Selectboard meeting on Tuesday, Jan. 3 will have the final articles for the warning, budget, and tax rate. The meeting will be in the lower theater of the Bellows Falls Opera House at 6 p.m.

The Discuss Neighborhood Development program targets housing crisis

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. - In an effort to help alleviate the current housing crisis in Springfield, the Town Manager Jeff Mobus recently introduced a presentation to the selectboard by the Mount Ascutney Regional Commission (MARC) called Discuss Neighborhood Development.

The presentation was or-

"The goal of discussing Neighborhood Development Area designation was to ensure that the select board was aware of the requirements and the benefits of an NDA designation," Town Manager Jeff Morbus said in a recent interview "In particular the town would likely need to tion.

Dec. 20, the Edgar May Health and Recreation Center presented Springfield first graders with a First Fins certificate for one free four-week session of Starfish Swim School group swimming lessons.

The Edgar May Center has been offering the First Fins program since 2008. Through First Fins, children will learn the basics of water safety, including safe behaviors when enjoying any bodies of water, including the beautiful rivers, ponds, and lakes throughout Vermont.

According to the CDC, drowning is the second leading cause of death in children under the age of 14. However, participation in formal swimming lessons can reduce the risk of drowning among children and young adults.

In addition to safety, swimming lessons give children the skills to feel confident and comfortable in the water, and introduces them to a lifelong activity. "Learning to swim can provide the skills needed to

"The mission of the Edgar May Center is to provide area residents with the opportunities and resources necessary to pursue a healthy and active lifestyle. This is an important skill for children to learn, and we are happy to provide children in our community with this opportunity," said Christian Craig, Executive Director.

were delivered to first grade students this week and can be redeemed for any of the Edgar May's group swim lessons prior to the end of September 2023. Schist & Giggles

Of my many interests, Mother Nature ranks at the top. Ever since I was a kid I've always picked up bird nests or feathers I found. I have a few feathers I've kept, along with a few bird nests. The question has always been how to display them. They are ephemeral at best.

The photo with this article is one of my creations. The glass base is an antique lamp shade. On top is a tiny bird nest. The eggs you see are antique clay Bennington marbles.

I love putting little things like this together. This display makes me smile. At the bottom of the glass shade is a cardboard milk bottle cap.

It's from Hastings Dairy in Springfield. We'll get to Hastings Dairy in a bit.

The bird nest is very small and made of fine grasses intricately woven together. It very much resembles basket weaving. It's no more than two and a half inches in diameter, and weighs almost nothing.

The glass shade is 100 years old. Part of the glass is frosted while other parts are molded. I'm sure many will have seen these shades. They no longer sell but I still pick them up when I see them.

In the antiques trade, these marbles are referred to as Bennington marbles. No doubt other 19th century potters produced them. They are made of clay and of different diameters. They have an unglazed surface and come in many colors. By themselves they are not much to look at, but in the nest they are fun.

Hastings Dairy

Several years ago I interviewed Marion Harlow of North Springfield. Marion was 100 at the time. We talked about her memories of the old days. I remember her telling me about Hastings Dairy. Hastings Dairy was on Union Street very close to what is Union Street School today.

I remember Marion telling me about the day Charles Lindberg landed at the North Springfield airport in 1927. Marion said Hastings Dairy was at the airport selling ice cream.

Tiny bird nest with marbles for eggs.

I called Hugh Putnam about Hastings Dairy. He agreed it was near the school. And Springfield Historical Society has two Hastings milk bottles and some of the cardboard bottle caps. Hastings milk bottles have always been desirable with milk bottle collectors.

Ted Spaulding remembered doing some electrical wiring in the Hastings building in the early '50s. By then Hastings had been bought out by Idlenot Dairy. Ted mentioned the hardening room. I asked what that was. It was the cold room for ice cream. Ted said it was -28 degrees below zero. Ted said Frank Kendall worked in the cold room and that he wore a fur coat to keep warm.

The Hastings bottle cap pictured reads: "SPRING-FIELD, VT MILK PASTURIZED Hastings (in script) 4%" I think today whole milk is 3%. Hastings 4% milk would have been creamier.

Rufus Estey Dairy

I also have a Rufus Estey bottle cap. Estey Dairy was on Route 143, or Skitchewaug Trail as I know it. Past the Springfield Humane Society the road curves to the right. If you went straight instead of taking the curve you would be in Eureka. Keep to the right. The first building on the left was Estey Dairy when I was a kid. I don't know what it is today.

Some dairies processed only milk from Holsteins, Jersey's, or other breeds. I don't always trust my memory but I seem to remember Estey used milk from Jersey cows. Jersey milk has a higher butterfat content than say Holsteins. But Holsteins produce more milk than Jerseys do.

Because I love the natural world I have a number of other interesting items. I have a couple of the paper-like wasp nests. They can be quite large although mine are smaller. When I was 14 out hiking in the woods one cold winter day I found a wasp nest fastened to a low hanging branch. I broke the limb off and brought the nest home.

My mother had an antique secretary with glass doors on top. Ma kept a few china dishes and such in the top section. I opened the doors and put the large wasp nest on a shelf. A couple hours later I went to admire my new acquisition. Imagine my surprise to see the inside of the glass doors covered with crawling wasps. I didn't gain any points that day.

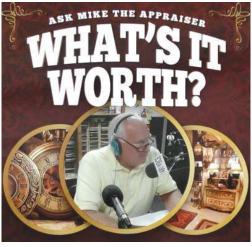

This week's old saying is from Henri Rousseau: "Nothing makes me so happy as to observe nature and paint what I

DNA test results meet the family tree

ROCKINGHAM, Vt. - The Windham County Genealogy Interest Group will meet on Saturday, Jan. 7 from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Rockingham Library and over Zoom. This meeting's focus will be on DNA test results coupled with family trees.

DNA testing companies are heavily promoting their products by offering sales for the holidays, which means that many more matches will be coming to those who have already tested. Those who are testing for the first time now have many more possibilities than in the past. Testing companies have also websites. In this meeting we will focus on how to get the most out of your test results and talk about how to take advantage of the features offered on each company's website.

Testing alone is not enough. To be useful for genealogy, a family tree needs to be uploaded or created to connect the results of the person who took the test to the profile card in their family tree. Then, it is possible to connect matches who are known relatives to their profiles on the tree. New tools and enhancements to existing tools provide a way to sort through matches to identify common ancestors. It is possible to make connections with cousins who may not be made changes to their known in person but who can help provide information about ancestors that others are also researching.

To register for this program or to share your questions about DNA test results, go to www.forms. gle/D5X6wDAhdt36bbJw9. Zoom links will be emailed to registrants.

Meetings are free and open to all with an interest in family history. The Windham County Genealogy Interest Group is an informal organization whose members are dedicated to genealogy education, research, and best practices. Meetings are held every other month, alternating between the libraries in Brattleboro and Bellows Falls, and online using Zoom. For more information, please contact windhamcountygig@gmail.

Local retailers receive "Star Store" recognition

TOWNSHEND, Vt. - According to the Centers for Disease Control and www. CounterBalanceVT.org, tobacco companies in America spent 15 million dollars in Vermont last year. Most of that marketing budget was spent placing ads in the stores where their products are sold, and targeting the youth.

To celebrate local stores that have reduced advertising in 2022, three nonprofits in Windham County, ments in the towns and vil-(Building A Positive Community, West River Valley Thrives, and Greater Falls Connections) have completed the 2022 "Star Store Program." Recently, the two groups completed 66 store assesslages of Brattleboro, Bellows Falls, Dummerston, Grafton, Guilford, Jamaica, Newfane, Putney, Rockingham, Townshend, Wardsboro, and Westminster. These assessments looked at both tobacco and alcohol marketing in stores

Top year-end investment tips –

REGION – Just what you need, right? One more timeconsuming task to be taken care of between now and the end of the year. But taking a little time out from the holiday chores to make some strategic saving and investing decisions before Dec. 31 can affect not only your longterm ability to meet your financial goals but also the amount of taxes you'll owe next April.

Look at the forest, not just the trees

The first step in your yearend investment planning process should be a review of your overall portfolio. That review can tell you whether you need to rebalance. If one type of investment has done well – for example, large-cap stocks - it might now represent a greater percentage of your portfolio than you originally intended. To rebalance, you would sell some of that asset class and use that money to buy other types of investments to bring your overall allocation back to an appropriate balance. Your overall review should also help you decide whether that rebalancing should be done before or after Dec. 31 for tax

Also, make sure your asset allocation is still appropriate for your time horizon and goals. You might consider being a bit more aggressive if you're not meeting your financial targets, or more conservative if you're getting closer to retirement. If you want greater diversification, you might consider adding an asset class that tends to react to market conditions differently than your existing investments do. Or you might look into an investment that you have avoided in the past because of its high valuation if it's now selling at a more attractive price. Diversification and asset allocation don't guarantee a profit or insure against a possible loss, of course, but they're worth reviewing at least once a year.

Know when to hold 'em

When contemplating a change in your portfolio, don't forget to consider how long you've owned each investment. Assets held for a year or less generate shortterm capital gains, which are taxed as ordinary income. Depending on your tax bracket, your ordinary income tax rate could be much higher than the longterm capital gains rate, which applies to the sale of assets held for more than a year. For example, as of tax year 2022, the top marginal tax rate is 37%, which applies to any annual taxable income over $539,900 ($647,850 for married individuals filing jointly). By contrast, longterm capital gains are generally taxed at special capital gains tax rates of 0%, 15%, and 20% depending on your taxable income. (Long-term gains on collectibles are different; those are taxed at

Your holding period can also affect the treatment of qualified stock dividends, which are taxed at the more favorable long-term capital gains rates. You must have held the stock at least 61 days within the 121-day period that starts 60 days before the stock's ex-dividend date: preferred stock must be held for 91 days within a 181-day window. The lower rate also depends on when and whether your shares were hedged or optioned.

Make lemonade from lem-

Now is the time to consider the tax consequences of any capital gains or losses you've experienced this year. Though tax considerations shouldn't be the primary driver of your investing decisions, there are steps you can take before the end of the year to minimize any tax impact of your investing decisions.

If you have realized capital gains from selling securities at a profit (congratulations!) and you have no tax losses carried forward from previous years, you can sell losing positions to avoid being taxed on some or all of those gains. Any losses over and above the amount of your gains can be used to offset up to $3,000 of ordinary income ($1,500 for a married person filing separately) or carried forward to reduce your taxes in future years. Selling losing positions for the tax benefit they will provide next April is a common financial practice known as "harvesting vour losses."

Jake Swamp and The Pine plus Derek Sensale

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt. -There will be a special coheadline matinee concert with Americana Act of the Year nominee Jake Swamp and The Pine, plus Derek Sensale of Pinedrop at Stage 33 Live in Bellows Falls at 3 p.m. on Sunday, Jan. 8, Jake Swamp and The Pine is Drew Zieff: one guy with a beard, a guitar, a voice, foot-stomping percussion, and gumption. His live shows seamlessly ebb and flow between the energy of a full band and the intimacy of a singer-songwriter, with songs ranging from powerful acoustic anthems to knee-slapping hoedowns to slow and somber waltzes.

A New England Music Awards nominee for 'Americana Act of the Year' and 'Roots Act of the Year', and a Boston Music Awards nominee for 'Americana Act of The Year' and 'Vocalist of The Year.' This show will be a stop on the Jake Swamp and the Pine "Simpson and Banks" album release tour, and is scheduled just a few days before his performance at the Rockwood Music Hall in NYC.

Derek Sensale, the driving force behind the well-loved, but on-hiatus Brattleborobased string band Pinedrop, will play original folk songs rooted in tradition and generously dusted with Vermont soil. Since 2019 he's been keeping a relatively low profile, writing and starting a family, and Stage 33 Live is honored to be part of his return to public performance.

Tickets are cheaper when bought in advance online or can be purchased at the door. Limited seating is available; the event will be recorded and filmed. The Covid protocol will be the guidelines in effect in the community on show day. Currently the guidance is that masks are optional, which may change without notice. Please do not attend if you are experiencing any Covid symptoms.

More information about the nonprofit, allvolunteer project, and this and other upcoming events, can be found at www.stage33live.com.

Stage 33 Live gratefully acknowledges the help of so many individuals without whom none of this would be happening, and institutional support this season from The Island Corporation, the Vermont Arts Council, the Bellows Falls Opera House, and the Rockingham Arts & Museum Project that helped fund improvements and maintenance, and generally smooth out a lot of the rough edges. Stage 33 Live is a 501c3 nonprofit organization, and all donations are deductible to the fullest extent. Volunteers run the thing from stem to stern.

Antje Duvekot and The Sea The Sea in Putney

PUTNEY, Vt. - Antje Duvekot is a germanborn, American-raised singer/songwriter whose songs have been critically praised for their hard-won wisdom, dark-eyed realism, and street-smart romanticism. Her bicultural upbringing and relative newness to english have helped shape her unique way with songs, giving her a startlingly original poetic palette. They are the keys to the powerful, even revolutionary, empathy that informs everything she writes. She has won some of the top songwriting awards including the grand prize in the John Lennon Songwriting Competition, the Kerrville Folk Festival Best New Folk Award, and the

Boston Music Award for Outstanding Folk Act.

Since the release of her debut studio CD "Big Dream Boulevard," which was voted #1 Folk Release of 2006 by the Boston Globe and was named to the Top 10 Releases of the Year by National Public Radio's Folk Alley, Antje has been touring extensively, criss-crossing the United States and Europe. She is a compelling live performer and has played at major festivals, including Newport, Mountain Stage, Philadelphia, Falcon Ridge, Great Waters, and Kerrville. Antje's most recent studio release, "Toward the Thunder," centers around themes of courage, resilience, and striving for something better, and as with most of her writing, a sense of hope and perseverance shines through the songs.

The Sea The Sea is the upstate New York-based indie folk/pop duo Chuck E. Costa and Mira Costa. They have garnered features across all music platforms, including Apple Music "Best of the Week" and "A-List Singer/ Songwriter," and appeared on live performance broadcasts of Mountain Stage, Audiotree, and Paste Music/ Daytrotter. The group's 2020 release "Stumbling Home," dubbed "otherworldly" by Rolling Stone magazine, marks the duo's third fulllength album.

Next Stage is located at 15 Kimball Hill in downtown Putney, Vt. Tickets are cheaper in advance or can be bought at the door. Advance tickets are available at www. nextstagearts.org. Next Stage will provide a cash bar with beer, wine, and cocktails. For information, call 802-387-0102 or visit www.nextstagearts.org.

Many thanks to our donors for gifts made to Springfield Hospital.

Last year's donations are helping us purchase new IV pumps throughout the hospital. Prior gifts funded new defibrillators, a new exam chair for our ENT office, operating room equipment, and an ultrasound machine for the emergency department. The generosity and support from our many donors have made these things possible.

This year, your gift will help us purchase a new Portable X-ray Unit that will allow us to x-ray patients in the Emergency Department or in our Inpatient Care Unit, eliminating the need to transport injured or ill patients. We will bring the equipment to
