New owners of Leslie’s Tavern reclaim historical spirit(s)

BY PAULA BENSON
The Message

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt. – It was 1985 when Leslie and John Marston purchased a 218-year-old former tavern at 660 Rockingham Road, once owned by the Lovell family of Bellows Falls. Circa 1790, Enos Lovell built the main structure, which later became a tavern, providing food, a place to stay, and lively hospitality to travelers arriving by stagecoach. At the time, Rockingham was nicknamed “Village of Seven Taverns,” for its cluster of inns along Post Road (now Route 5). The Marstons restored the historic building, and in 1986 christened the new restaurant Leslie’s The Tavern at Rockingham. For 40 years, John and Leslie earned a loyal customer fan-base by creating delicious and memorable, Vermont-inspired fine-dining cuisine, served in a cozy setting, using fresh, local ingredients. When the Marstons began considering retirement last year, Sam Putnam had been working as John’s sous chef for five years, and Sam’s wife Ashley was in restaurant management. Sam asked if John might consider leasing the restaurant to them, and John was open to the idea. Both Sam and Ashley are New Hampshire natives, and their families had been coming to Leslie’s Tavern for years. “On one of our first dates,” Ashley recalled, “Sam took me to John’s cooking class.” The couple currently lives in Charlestown, N.H. Sam’s affinity for cooking started early. Not only did Sam have a natural knack for it, but he was eager to learn recipes and techniques directly from his “Grandma Put” in the family kitchen. As 2026 kicked off, and the Putnams started to settle into their new roles, Ashley was pleasantly surprised to learn how much she enjoys bartending, and wished she had discovered it sooner. Sam, Ashley reported, was having fun experimenting with new sauces for the nightly specials menu. Although the new Leslie’s Tavern will not offer cooking classes, they do host other types of events, charity fundraisers, corporate galas, and birthday parties. Live music performances happen most Thursdays and Sundays, with no cover charge. “The cooking classes were really John’s thing,” Ashley said. “But we hosted a Christmas party for the Walpole vet last year, and other events.” For a private party of 40 or more, they will close the restaurant to the public. The couple is excited to expand the bar service, and are already offering a more casual happy hour menu from 3-5 p.m. The rustic bar area is warm and inviting. “We really want to open that bar up and make it a place where you want to stop in for a quick bite and a beer,” said Ashley. “You don’t have to come in for a fancy meal.” Of course, the “fancy” meals will remain on the menu. Ashley and Sam’s plan is to continue the fine-dining traditions established by John and Leslie, including using fresh vegetables and herbs grown in the gardens planted by the Marstons more than 30 years ago, but, at the same time, grow the more casual tavern experience, and expand their local clientele.

Ashley said they want Leslie’s Tavern to be “not just [a place] for special occasions. We want employees from Sonnox to feel like this is somewhere they can swing by after work.” Current hours are “Thursday through Sunday, 3 p.m. to 8ish,” said Ashley, making the point that closing time can be flexible. For instance, for a private event, or if someone traveling to the area arrives at 7:30 p.m., Ashley wants those folks to know they are welcome, will be happily served, and the staff will never make them feel rushed.

Claremont MakerSpace employer listening session

CLAREMONT, N.H. – Claremont MakerSpace will host an employer listening session and roundtable on Wednesday, Jan. 21, from 9-10:30 a.m., at the River Valley Community College library, 1 College Place, Claremont, N.H. This event is designed to bring together employers from different industries to provide direct input on workforce needs, skills gaps, and opportunities for collaboration. The session will serve as a structured forum for employers to share practical, on-the-ground feedback related to hiring challenges, employee readiness, training priorities, and retention concerns. Insights gathered will directly inform Claremont MakerSpace’s workforce development programming and employer engagement strategies, ensuring future initiatives are aligned with real business needs and regional economic priorities. “Employers are the experts on their workforce challenges,” said Cortney Nichols, of Claremont MakerSpace. “This listening session allows us to hear directly from local businesses, and use that feedback to design responsive, effective workforce development solutions that support both employers and job seekers.” The listening sessions and roundtable will include a facilitated, time-efficient discussion focused on actionable workforce insights; opportunities to share industry-specific challenges and identify shared needs; and opportunities to give input that will shape future training programs, partnerships, and support services. Light refreshments will be provided. Business owners, hiring managers, and human resources professionals from all industries are encouraged to attend, including manufacturing, construction, and municipal or utility operations. Advance registration is required, as space is limited. Register at www.claremontmakerspace.org/events/#!event/2026/1/21/employer-listening-session-and-roundtable.

Joe Kenney joins Claremont Savings Bank

CLAREMONT, N.H. – Claremont Savings Bank (CSB) is pleased to announce that Joe Kenney has joined as executive vice president, chief lending officer, and will be a key member of CSB’s executive management team.

Kenney brings more than three decades of progressive experience in commercial banking, lending, and strategic leadership, and a strong record of providing thoughtful, creative financial solutions to small and medium-sized businesses. His career has been rooted in supporting local enterprises, and building long-term relationships – values that align closely with who we are as a mutual community bank.

“Throughout his career, Joe has earned a reputation for his collaborative approach, steady leadership, and deep commitment to the businesses and people he serves,” stated David Finnerty, president and CEO at Claremont Savings Bank. “Joe’s leadership experience directing large commercial lending teams, mentoring lending professionals, and fostering cultures centered on accountability, collaboration, and high performance will help shape Claremont Savings Bank’s future. What drew him to Claremont Savings Bank – and what makes this such a wonderful fit – is his genuine belief in mutual-ity and the impact community banks can have when they put customers and community first.”

Most recently, Kenney served as chief lending officer and executive vice president at BankProv, where he led lending strategy and support of business growth across New Hampshire and New England by identifying new market opportunities and leveraging innovative lending strategies. Prior to that, he held a series of senior roles, including senior vice president and director of commercial lending. He has extensive experience establishing department-wide strategic goals and integrating data-driven decision-making to strengthen portfolio performance and manage risk.

“I am truly honored and excited to be joining Claremont Savings Bank and such a talented and dedicated team,” stated Kenney. “From the moment I began speaking with Dave and others at CSB, it was clear that this is a special place with a strong culture, a deep commitment to its customers, and a true passion for community banking.”

In addition to his professional achievements, Kenney has been actively engaged in community leadership, including service on the boards of the Granite YMCA, the Friends of the Manchester Animal Shelter, and the Granite State District Export Council.

We are excited to welcome Kenney to the team as Jim Lynch, executive vice president, transitions into an advisory role as he begins his plan towards retirement. Lynch will remain active at Claremont Savings Bank and with our business clients, while providing guidance and ensuring customers banking needs are continuously met.

Documentary “Join or Die”

PUTNEY, Vt. – Next Stage Arts presents a special screening of the acclaimed documentary “Join or Die” on Sunday, Jan. 18, at 2 p.m. (doors open 1:30 p.m.), at Next Stage Arts, 15 Kimball Hill, Putney, Vt. Directed by Rebecca Davis and Pete Davis, “Join or Die” is a timely and deeply engaging film that explores a simple but powerful idea: joining a club can help save American democracy. The film follows legendary Harvard social scientist Robert D. Putnam as he traces the decades-long decline in civic engagement, social connection, and community life in the United States – and examines what this erosion means for the future of democracy.

Blending rigorous social science with humor, warmth, and striking visuals, “Join or Die” asks three urgent questions: What makes democracy work? Why is American democracy in crisis? And, most importantly, what can we do about it? Along the way, Putnam's story is enriched by voices from across politics, public health, economics, and culture, including Hillary Clinton, Pete Buttigieg, U.S. Surgeon General Vivek Murthy, Eddie S. Glaude Jr., Raj Chetty, Priya Parker, and many others. The film also spotlights inspiring grassroots organizations across the country that are actively rebuilding civic life – from bowling leagues and cycling collectives, to mutual aid groups and labor alliances. Hillary Clinton calls it “an urgent message,” while Slash Film writes, “‘Join or Die’ made me feel more moti-

Ruth grew up in Charlestown, N.H., and graduated from Charlestown High School in 1951. She married Robert E. “Bob” Bushway that same year, and they were happily married for 65 years, until Bob’s passing in 2016.

Peter W. Frink, 1955-2025

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt. – Peter William Frink, 70, passed away peacefully in the early morning hours of Dec. 30, 2025, at Springfield Hospital.

Peter was born on May 9, 1955, to William and Dorothy Frink (Trombley), in the town of Bellows Falls, Vt. He lived most of his life in Bellows Falls, with his final years spent in Charlestown, N.H.

Peter attended schools in Bellows Falls, and graduated from Bellows Falls Union High School in 1974.

Peter will be best remembered for his unwavering loyalty to anything Bellows Falls Terriers. He worked for many years as the team manager at BFUHS, supporting football, basketball, baseball, and more. Peter was always ready to take care of the finer details that go into running a successful sports team. Whether washing uniforms, filling water bottles, or repairing broken equipment, he was dependable and always willing to help wherever needed.

Through this role, Peter made many friends and lasting connections that he held very near and dear to his heart. To this day, the walls of his bedroom remain covered with certificates and photographs from that time in his life, a testament to how meaningful those years were to him.

Carolyn lived in an apartment at the Whitcomb building in Springfield, Vt., for the last 20 years of her life, right up to the time of her illness. She had many friends there, including a cat that she had for 17 years. She loved the social life there, playing bingo, cards, and pool with her many friends. Dean F. Goodwin, 1950-2025

WESTON, Vt. – Dean F. Goodwin, of Weston, Vt., passed away peacefully on Dec. 23, 2025, at his home, with his loving and devoted wife by his side.

Dean was born in Springfield, Vt., on Dec. 24, 1950, the son of Charles Goodwin III and Dorothy (Foster) Goodwin. Dean grew up at the Goodwin family farm on Route 100, affectionately known as “Sunny Acres,” alongside his three siblings.

He attended elementary school in Weston, and graduated from Burr and Burton Seminary in 1969. Dean later attended Castleton State College, where he studied a variety of subjects. He served in the U.S. Army National Guard from 1971-1976. He later served for several years as a sergeant in the Vermont State Guard.

During his early years, Dean worked for several local contractors and also spent time as a self-employed contractor. For 41 years, Dean was part owner of the Norse House Ski Shop in Bondville, Vt. He truly loved his work and the many friendships he made there over the years. Skiing was a lifelong passion, and he felt most at home on the mountain. After the sale of the Norse House, Dean went on to work at the Bromley Ski Shop beginning in 2008, until his retirement. His connection to Bromley ran deep; he first skied there at the age of 3, alongside his father Charlie, who served as head of the Bromley Ski Patrol during the 1950s and 1960s.

On Jan. 3, 2007, Dean married his longtime companion and sweetheart Janet Crossman, of Londonderry, Vt., in the meadow at their home on Dale Road. They celebrated their marriage by bringing their two families together for a dinner at the Bryant House in Weston, complete with a slice of wedding cake made of white chocolate with raspberry filling. A larger outdoor celebration followed that July, at their home, where family and friends gathered for a potluck picnic – good times that were deeply cherished.

Dean loved his hometown of Weston, and was immensely proud of his community and being of service to it. For many years he enjoyed serving as a porter and technical setup director at the Weston Playhouse for the annual antique and craft shows.

Dean had a passion and love for automobiles that began early in his life, and there are countless stories that could be told. He was a devoted collector of classic cars – each in varying stages of repair – and he took great pride in being their keeper. He was a proud and longtime member of the National Corvette Owners Association.

A homebody at heart, Dean could often be found mowing his lawn with one of his Gravely tractors in the summer, or plowing his driveway with his Kubota tractor in the winter. If you stopped by for a visit, you were likely to find him working beneath a car, or with his head tucked under an open hood. He always greeted everyone with a warm, gracious smile, and always made time for others – whether a stranger, a delivery driver, the mailman, or a friend stopping by. Each visit, no matter how brief, was deeply appreciated and held close in his heart.

Dean embraced life fully and with gratitude. He found joy in its simplest and most meaningful moments. He cherished his wife, family, and friends, a good laugh, his home, and the natural world – all creatures great and small. He loved fields and stone walls, hunting and deer camp, fishing at Stratton Pond, four-wheeling into Somerset, bird watching, meaningful conversation, peanut butter and jelly sandwiches, and music – especially Neil Young. His dogs held a special place in his heart, particularly his beloved black lab of 14 years Foster.

Despite years of disease progression, Dean lived with courage, dignity, and grace, always holding onto faith and hope for brighter days ahead. He will always be admired for that.

He will always be remembered for his kindness, sense of humor, and passion for living a genuine and happy life. You are so loved, Dean. Thank you for giving us an unforgettable ride.

Dean was predeceased by his parents and brother Charles “Tim” Goodwin IV.

He is survived by his wife Janet Goodwin; brother Kirk Goodwin (Cathy), of Grafton, Vt.; sister Martha Etchison (Dean), of Winston-Salem, N.C.; sister-in-law Sandra Goodwin, of Weston, Vt., and several cherished nieces and nephews.

A Celebration of Dean’s Life is planned for the spring, and will be announced at a later date.

Memorial contributions can be made to Londonderry Volunteer Rescue Squad, P.O. Box 911, Londonderry, VT 05148; Weston Volunteer Fire Department, P.O. Box 52, Weston, VT 05161; and/or Old Parish Church, P.O. Box 125, Weston, VT 05161.

Davis Memorial Chapel is assisting with the arrangements.

Francis A. Sadler Jr., 1943-2025

SAN MATEO, Calif. – On Dec. 24, 2025, Francis A. Sadler Jr. (“Bud” to his family and friends) passed away at the Palo Alto VA Medical Center in Palo Alto, Calif., after an extended decline in health due to heart disease and, in the end, a ruptured aorta. Born Sept. 4, 1943, in Bellows Falls, Vt., his family moved to Springfield, Vt., where he grew up. While in high school, he worked at the A&P supermarket, and caddied at the Crown Point Country Club, where a passion for golf emerged.

Upon graduation from Springfield High School in 1961, he joined the Navy, and was stationed at Pearl Harbor on Oahu, Hawaii, for three years, spending part of his enlistment with the Defense Department. He then moved to Lahaina, on Maui, becoming an avid and accomplished surfer.

Following his eight years in Hawaii, he moved to Los Angeles, finally settling in San Mateo for 30 years. While married, he resided in Tahoe, Nev., part time, where skiing became another passion.

A self-proclaimed “loner,” he really was a people person. Bud loved working in the hospitality industry for the Hilton chain in San Francisco. He enjoyed meeting and knowing well-known political figures, celebrities, and athletes from across the country.

He returned to Springfield for many years, visiting family and friends. Often his trips centered around alumni gatherings, where he worked on floats and enjoyed all the festivities, once even making a trip from Hawaii. Autumn, too, brought him back. He was truly the happiest in Springfield with family and friends. He loved Vermont, just not its long winters.

After retiring at 80 years old, he became an avid fisherman, along with many locals at Half Moon Bay, a favorite place for him, known for its beaches, surfing, and farms, west of San Francisco. When in Springfield, he stayed for extended periods with his friend Ed Foster, who prepared a special place for him in his home. Later, Bud stayed with Diane Bush and Wayne Rautio, also former friends and classmates, in Burlington, on Lake Champlain. Denny Chadwick was also a dear friend with whom he spent quality time. He is predeceased by former wife Carolyn Brashear, younger sister Linda Lauzen, parents Frank and Mary Sadler, and nephew Marc Tesconi. He is survived by older sister Marie Sadler, of Essex, Vt.; niece Carla St. Gelais, of Floyd, Va.; and nephew Tim Lauzen, of Hutto, Texas; plus several great-nieces and -nephews.

From the organ donation program referenced by the VA hospital, skin tissue was taken for burn victims in the U.S. or abroad where its most needed.

Bud was cremated in California, with remains sent to his sister Marie. His ashes will be buried at the family cemetery plot in Springfield, Vt., when a later service will be announced. A very, very special thank-you to the San Mateo Agency on Aging, and the doctors, nurses, staff and hospice workers who were so kind and caring throughout both Bud’s hospitalizations and at home. Bud ultimately died on Christmas Eve morning, at the VA Hospital.

Please remember the words of the song “Say It Now,” from Vermont’s celebrated singer-songwriter, Jon Gailmor, who also recently passed.

It’s important to act on our intuitions and gut feelings to call, visit, and speak from the heart to those you know and love – now. Later may never come.

MOUNT HOLLY, Vt. – Sally Susan Seyller (Puro) passed away peacefully on Jan. 4, 2026, following an eight-year struggle with dementia.

Born on May 28, 1943, in Fitchburg, Mass., Sally made Vermont her lifelong home, and held a deep love for its natural beauty, four seasons, welcoming people, and abundant wildlife – especially birds. She was a fierce advocate for animal rights, and a devoted supporter of St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, always championing the underdog and those in need. Sally especially loved dogs, and opened her home to many rescue dogs over the years.

Sally was predeceased by her beloved husband Gary Ivan Seyller Sr., of Mount Holly, Vt.; her parents Irma (Ojala) Zentz and John Puro; her sister Elsie (Puro) Shaw; her brother John Puro; and the matriarch of the family, her maternal grandmother Zella "Aiti" Ojala, of Mount Holly, Vt.

She is survived by her son Gary Ivan Seyller Jr. (Leyla); her daughters Sharon Seyller (Margaret Maccini) and Kristin Veysey (Thomas); six grandchildren; and three great-grandchildren. Sally adored her family, and took great joy in spoiling and spending time with her grandchildren whenever she could.

Proud of her Finnish heritage, Sally embodied the Finnish concept "sisu," which she defined as "tenacity of purpose against all odds." Sally overcame many challenges throughout her life, and in 1985 committed to lifelong sobriety. In 2003, she made a meaningful journey to Finland with her husband Gary and daughter Kristin, where she was able to visit the final resting place of her namesake, as well as immerse herself in the culture and language.

A self-taught chef, Sally had a remarkable ability to transform any recipe into something gourmet, relying on simple, fresh ingredients and an intuitive approach to cooking. She looked forward to annual family gatherings at "The Grange," where, for many years, she welcomed all family members: her children and grandchildren, siblings, nieces, nephews, partners, and cousins and their children, making ev-everyone feel at home.

Sally loved plants and flowers, and the many gardens that she and Gary planted were her pride and joy. In years past, she won several blue ribbons at the Vermont State Fair for the award-winning gladiolas that she treasured. Her love of flowers was rivaled by her love of reading, and she owned thousands of books, many of them first editions.

She grew up spending summers at the Ojala farm in Mount Holly with her grandparents. As a result of these wonderful childhood memories, Sally decided to move back to the special place where she and Gary would raise their family. Sally and Gary eventually purchased the historic one-room schoolhouse from her grandmother, where Sally and her mother Irma both attended school as children. Gary and Sally cherished their home and lived out their lives there. They spent many evenings on their back deck admiring the wildlife, especially the deer and their young. Sally often shared that love and experience with her grandchildren.

Her strength, generosity, and quiet determination will be remembered always by those who loved her.

In accordance with Sally's wishes, all services will be private. She was extremely generous to both St. Jude Children's Research Hospital and the Rutland County Humane Society, and anyone wishing to honor her memory is encouraged to send a contribution to either organization in her name.

Her family is deeply grateful for the exceptional care she received at Crescent Manor Nursing and Rehabilitation Center in Bennington, Vt., and for the compassionate support provided by the Bayada Hospice team during her final weeks.

Eric M. Taylor, 2025

CHESTER, Vt. – Eric M. Taylor passed away peacefully at home in Chester, Vt., with his wife Sali singing his favorite Grateful Dead songs by his side. His 77 years of life were packed with love, adventure, music, and friends, until he finally succumbed to ALS on Dec. 28, 2025.

Born in Cleveland, Ohio, his parents Burt and Doris Taylor moved to California shortly thereafter. Though living most of his adult life in Vermont and New York City, he remained a California kid his whole life, always seeking sunshine and the outdoors. One of his favorite places was the Sierra Mountains, and he once hiked the entire length of the John Muir Trail.

Upon graduating the University of Denver in 1970, Eric promptly married Sali in a sunny meadow behind her family home in Chester, Vt. They moved to Weathersfield Center, Vt., to chase a back-to-the-earth lifestyle, raising goats and chickens, cutting hay, and making maple syrup with Willis and Tina Wood.

Eric started filmmaking in 1973, first working as a sound recordist for the PBS Kids’ show “Zoom.” Enamored with the verité style and true stories of documentary work, he traveled the world recording everything from penguins in Patagonia, to the Kaiyapo people deep in the Amazon, and Madonna for her film “Truth or Dare.”

His shift to primetime television came in 1987, when he directed a segment in the pilot episode of “Unsolved Mysteries.” He ended up directing more than 100 segments for the show, relishing the opportunity to mix documentary interviews with dramatic recreations. He filmed documentaries for HBO, PBS, National Geographic, and others across 36 different countries and all 50 states, until he retired in 2010.

Students of Buddhism, Eric and Sali both believed in fostering compassion in their community, and founded the Westchester, N.Y., chapter of Beyond War. As part of his spiritual journey, Eric used his documentary skills to make films inspiring social change featuring Ram Dass, Thich Nhat Hanh, and the Dalai Lama.

Eric also had a lifelong passion for live music, seeing performances up until a week before he died. His favorite band was the Grateful Dead, and he attended several hundred shows dating as far back as 1967. After retiring, he played his five-string banjo for 15 years with the Stringfield Springers, an old-time string band based in Vermont.

For the last four years of his life, Eric courageously faced the challenges of ALS without complaint, ultimately letting go when he could no longer communicate. We want to thank our exceptional caregivers Coleman Drew, Katie Barber, Bonnie Hudson, and Vish Shetty, as well as Dr. Elijah Stommel and the Dartmouth Hitchcock Medical Center, the VNH for Vermont and New Hampshire, and the many ALS support groups and organizations for their extraordinary support. And, we want to acknowledge the tremendous number of friends and family who have been so helpful throughout these years, whose love, music, and guidance kept us in good spirits.

Eric is survived by his wife Sali; his sons Nate (Talya) and Jake (Jean); four grandchildren Caro, Mark, Grayson, and Hawken; his brother Karl (Su-
