Rockingham requests Gov. Scott's support for Bridge Street project

BY PAULA BENSON
The Vermont Journal

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt. – The Rockingham Selectboard met on March 17, at 7 p.m., in the lower theater, where Board Vice Chair Amy Howlett presented an update on the search for a new municipal manager. Howlett reported that the notice for applicants was posted in February, and the town had received 44 applications since then.

Retired Montpelier city manager Bill Fraser, now working with the Vermont League of Cities and Towns, had been assisting the hiring committee with vetting the applicants. The committee, which consists of Howlett, Selectboard Chair Rick Cowan, Bellows Falls trustee Wade Masure, and town human resources manager Heather Hitchcock, pared down the field to five of the most qualified candidates, and, after conducting interviews, selected two to come back and meet with town department heads, the Rockingham Selectboard, and the Bellows Falls Trustees. Ultimately, a vote by members of both boards will determine who will fill the position.

During public comment, Bellows Falls resident Laurel Green addressed the board as a representative of the local chapter of Indivisible, a grassroots pro-democracy movement, regarding an application for an upcoming No Kings event at the Waypoint Center. Green noted the application was not on the meeting agenda, although she had spoken with Alex Torpey, interim town manager, about the group's request.

The event is part of a national day of action, Green told the board. "We are planning a rally at the Waypoint Center with speakers, music, singing, dance, and games for children of all ages," Green said. There will also be an organized march through Bellows Falls, returning to the center.

Rockingham resident William Keating identified himself as the "safety coordinator" for the group and reported that there would be 17 trained safety volunteers at the event, and that he had been meeting with Police Chief David Bemis to discuss safety procedures.

More than 60 people have volunteered to assist at the event, Green offered. The program will begin at 1 p.m. and run for about 45 minutes before the march commences.

The event was approved by the board, pending further discussion with Torpey, the town legal counsel, and the town's insurance company regarding the request for an insurance waiver.

Organizer Susan Brace asked for clarification about the requested insurance waiver, explaining that insurance is not issued for political events on a federal level, and that requiring something the local group cannot provide infringes on their first-amendment rights of freedom of speech and assembly. Torpey acknowledged that town policy required some revisions to better and more clearly establish guidelines for all future event requests.

Development director Gary Fox was in attendance to report on the Bridge Street Depot project, which VTrans recently announced would be delayed by four years due to lack of funds.

Fox requested the board sign a letter addressed to Gov. Phil Scott focusing on honoring the commitment VTrans made via a State Transportation Improvement Program (STIP) in 2020. In the meantime, Vermont state senators are calling for a congressionally directed spending request.

"There are a lot of communities in Vermont that are in trouble right now, with VTrans [delaying bridge projects]," stated Fox. "What is different about this is we're not talking about a bridge for transportation [only]. We're talking about a number of different economic development projects, developers, [and] funding we have lined up."

Fox told the board, "Bellows Falls Area Development purchased two lots on the island to have site control and redevelop. Sustainable Valley Group purchased two lots under the hill to have site control and do that cleanup and redevelopment." Fox relayed that to put an additional four-year delay on the construction would be "untenable."

The board approved Fox's request to ask Gov. Scott for his support to complete the project during the 2027-2029 construction schedule.

Ray Perry, tree warden, and Polly Thompson, member of the tree committee, brought a green and financially beneficial idea to the board at Tuesday's meeting. Together, Perry and Thompson presented a concept to turn an unused space within the fenced-in community garden at the bottom of the ski tow hill into a community tree nursery.

Thompson told the board they ordered 10 trees for $80, and in four or five years those trees will be worth $1,000. Recently elected board member Dalila Hall moved to support the effort and suggested including local schools and arborists. The board authorized the motion.

In other business, Hall moved that all selectboard materials be provided in a digital form, and that the packet be made available for the public to view online. Hall said she believed this might help boost attendance at selectboard meetings. Torpey agreed and said both boards should approve the new protocol, indicating that he would present the idea to the trustees at their meeting on March 24.

The Rockingham Se-

lectboard will meet next on April 7, at 6 p.m., in the third-floor conference room.

Bellows Falls Ski Tow marks 73rd year

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt. – The Bellows Falls Ski Tow is celebrating its 73rd year of operation, continuing a longstanding tradition of accessible winter recreation for the community. Open to the public free of charge throughout the 2026 season, the ski tow operated through the support of donations from local skiers and community members, and a corps of dedicated volunteers.

This season, the tow saw steady use, including by local resident Walker James, 20, who spent time skiing and working at the hill while home on break from college.

Looking ahead, the Bellows Falls Recreation Department is working to expand both access and programming at the site. Director Jarrod James noted that the department is committed to maintaining the ski tow as a welcoming, low-barrier resource for all.

To further that goal, the department is currently seeking donations of ski and snowboard equipment to help ensure that local youth can participate.

Plans are also under consideration to enhance the facility in the coming year, with proposed improvements including a picnic area, outdoor speakers for music, and the possible addition of a terrain park. The recreation department is also broadening its scope to include arts and culture, which could bring live music and other community-oriented activities to the slopes next season.

For many families, the ski tow serves as an important introduction to winter sports. "My 9-year-old landed his first jump on this hill," said Aimee Parnell, executive director of the Great Falls Regional Chamber of Commerce.

"It's exciting to think of our community's young people having access to a resource like this."

Community leaders are also exploring opportunities to connect recreation with workforce development. Parnell noted that discussions with local partners have included expanding hands-on learning programs into ski and snowboard tuning. With several ski areas nearby, these skills could provide pathways to employment in equipment repair and related technical fields.

"I'm looking forward to collaborating with the recreation department to foster opportunities like these," Parnell said.

As the ski tow enters its eighth decade, organizers hope continued community support will sustain and grow this unique local asset for future generations. Donations can be made by contacting recreation director Jarrod James at recreation@rockbf.org.

Springfield on the Move downtown revitalization efforts

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. – Springfield on the Move is taking significant strides toward revitalizing the downtown Springfield area. We currently have one active vacancy available on Main Street, and are hoping to find the perfect tenant soon. This opportunity aligns with our vision for a bustling downtown atmosphere, and we are eager to see a new business thrive in this prime location.

Meanwhile, we are excited to announce the opening of our latest satellite office, located in at 100 River Street, Suite 205. Moving into this space temporarily will provide greater visibility for the vacancies inside 100 River Street to entrepreneurs, stakeholders, community members, and

Currently, there is 600,000 square feet of commercial space that will serve as a hub for our revitalization initiatives, including the Great Hall and various retail spaces that will soon offer new opportunities for tenants. We are optimistic about the success stories that will emerge from 100 River Street, which is currently mostly vacant, with competitive pricing and a dedicated management team in place.

The revitalization of the Great Hall will be particularly noteworthy. In March, we will unveil the results of recent revitalization efforts, which include a fresh coat of paint and an inviting atmosphere for all to enjoy. This "great reveal" will mark a new chapter for the space as we work to make it a vibrant center for community engagement and commerce. A community calendar for the space is on the way.

We look forward to sharing more updates as these projects progress, and invite everyone to join us in celebrating the revitalization of our downtown.

Springfield Rotary Club donates 15th Trex bench

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. – The Springfield Rotary Club continues its commitment to community service and environmental sustainability with the donation of a Trex recycled bench to Union Street School. The bench was earned after residents successfully collected 1,000 pounds of thin-film plastics through the Trex Thin Film Plastics Challenge.

This latest achievement marks the 15th bench awarded to Springfield through the Trex Recycling Program. Contributions to the most recent collection came from across the community: 50% from the Springfield Town Library, 17% from the Springfield Food Co-op, 11% from Bibens Ace Hardware, 10% from Magee Office Products, and additional support from Springfield Hospital, Casey CDJR of Springfield, and Springfield GMC.

Since launching the initiative in February 2023, the Springfield Rotary Club has collected more than 13,151 pounds – over 6.5 tons – of plastic film. That's roughly equivalent to the weight of a female African bush elephant.

The Trex Challenge encourages the recycling of hard-to-process materials such as grocery and produce bags, bubble wrap, bread bags, and cereal liners. Once a participating organization reaches 1,000 pounds, Trex awards a 48-inch Yacht Club bench made from recycled plastic materials, including milk jugs and water bottles. These materials are repurposed into Trex composite decking products, helping to advance a circular economy.

Thin-film plastic is particularly difficult to recycle because it can jam standard sorting equipment at recycling facilities. The Trex Challenge offers a practical, community-driven solution to reduce this type of waste.

The new bench joins others placed throughout Springfield, including locations at The Common, Park Street School, North Springfield Bog Trailhead, Main Street, the Springfield Town Library, Elm Street School, the Springfield Community Players Theater, Springfield Hospital, and Springfield Parks and Recreation Department facilities.

Rotary Club members and volunteers from the Springfield Town Library oversee the collection process, including sorting, weighing, and transporting the materials to Shaw's Supermarket, the nearest Trex drop-off site. A collection bin remains available at the library for community members wishing to participate.

This bench is dedicated in honor of the 95th anniversary of the Springfield Rotary Club and Union Street School.

The Rotary Club has already begun collecting materials toward its next Trex bench, which will be donated to the Springfield Lions Club Dog Park.

Founded in 1927, the Rotary Club of Springfield is an active organization of 30 members committed to service locally and around the world. For more information, visit www.springfieldvtrotary.org.

Chief Burnham speaks to Springfield Rotary

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. – Jeff Burnham, chief of the Springfield Police Department, spoke to members of the Springfield Rotary Club during the club's weekly meeting on Tuesday.

Chief Burnham provided an overview of current initiatives within the police department and discussed the evolving public safety needs of the Springfield community. His presentation highlighted the department's ongoing commitment to community policing, collaboration with local organizations, and efforts to maintain public trust while addressing modern policing challenges.

A key focus of Burnham's remarks was Project Action, a collaborative initiative involving social service agencies and community members working together to positively impact the Springfield community. He explained that Project Action was originally launched in 2014, in response to an increase in violence and drug activity in town, and was relaunched in 2023 to renew and expand those efforts. The initiative emphasizes coordination among partners to address root causes of crime and improve overall quality of life. You can learn more about this successful initiative by visiting www.springfieldvt.gov/index.asp?SEC=1E0379BD-9B11- 4479-9202-3E2A81710222. Rotarians had the opportunity to ask questions following the presentation, leading to a discussion about local public safety concerns, community outreach efforts, and the need for a youth resource officer.

The Springfield Rotary Club is part of a global network of Rotary clubs dedicated to community service and civic leadership. The club meets weekly and regularly hosts speakers who address topics of interest to the Springfield community.

The Springfield Rotary Club meets every Tuesday, at 12 p.m., at the SAPCC Workforce Development & Training Center. For more information, visit www.springfieldvtrotary.org.

Farm on the River CSA

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. – Enjoy freshly harvested, certified organic vegetables from June through November, with convenient pickup at our farm in Springfield, Vt., and delivery to Walpole and Keene, N.H., every Friday.

Our community-supported agriculture (CSA) is the best way to eat fresh from the farm, with the convenience of weekly pickup. We've been sharing the harvest with local families through our CSA for more than 32 years, and we look forward to growing for you this season.

We offer the option of receiving a box on a weekly or biweekly basis. You never miss out on the amazing variety we grow, and you can customize the pickup frequency to meet your needs.

Your share will be harvested, washed, and packed up for you on Fridays. Pickup locations are centrally located at our Springfield, Vt., farm, or near downtown Walpole and Keene, N.H. We offer long pickup windows at each location, ensuring that you can grab your share when it's convenient for you. You can also pause or reschedule deliveries when you'll be out of town.

We also offer flexible payment options; you can pay in full, or choose three or six monthly installments. We never charge additional fees.

We're also proud to offer a 100% Love It Guarantee. If you decide the CSA isn't right for you, you can cancel and receive a refund for any unclaimed weeks.

Curious to learn more about how our CSA works? You can read more on our website, www.farmontheriver.com.

We look forward to another season of growing good food and sharing it with our amazing community.

Letter to the Editor: Springfield superintendent on budget

Dear Springfield community,

Thanks to all who came out to vote at Town Meeting. There was a lot of activity and outreach over the course of the months leading up to the budget vote, and I have appreciated the many communications I have received from community members. It has been heartfelt how many Springfield residents are focused on student success and how many thoughtful questions you all have had to understand the many programs and investments that represent the fiscal year 2027 Springfield School District budget.

With the defeat of the Springfield School District budget, we have been working to better understand our community and the specifics around its vision for our students. When you consider how central education is to the life of a town and the wellbeing of Springfield students, we recognize how important it is to continue to show how all of the pieces fit together as we build a budget to support all of the work we do to promote student success. Shifting student outcomes is a multiyear process and involves investing in systems that shape student learning over time.

We look forward to presenting a revised budget to the community on May 5, with our public informational meeting the week prior, on April 30. Please look for more information in the coming weeks as we engage with the community and work together to provide for our students. If you have questions about the budget or want to come in and discuss any of the investments within our budget, please reach out to the Springfield School District office at 802-885-5141.

With gratitude,
Peter Burrows, D.Ed.
Springfield Superintendent and Theodore Deome. He is also survived by his step-grandchildren, Nathan and Matthew Shambo-Hitchcock, and Vayda and Presley Ellis; his sister, Debbie Burpee Currie; as well as several nieces, nephews, cousins, and extended family members.

His best friend was his beloved dog, Ashlee.

A Celebration of Life will be announced at a later date.

Dorothy A. Buxton, 1936-2026

PERKINSVILLE, Vt. – Dorothy A. "Dottie" Buxton, 89, died Sunday, March 15, 2026, at the Gill Odd Fellows Home in Ludlow, Vt. She was born on Aug. 22, 1936, in Springfield, Vt., the daughter of Earl and Pearl (Shippy) Snide. She attended Springfield schools.

Dottie was a homemaker and at-home child care provider, and assisted her husband Dean with grounds-keeping and bookkeeping for the Plain Cemetery in Perkinsville for many years.

Dottie enjoyed cooking, and loved to feed her family and friends. She was well known for her Dot Dot rolls. She also enjoyed her cats, crocheting, and sewing. She loved the color purple, and was affectionately called Grammy Purple by her grandchildren.

She is survived by her children James Jenks, Mary LoSavio, Deborah Poire, and Peggy Grote; stepchildren Tammy Buxton and Deana Fuller; brother Eddy Snide; sister-in-law Sally Buxton; many grandchildren, great-grandchildren, and great-great-grandchildren; and a special neighbor whom she considered like a grandchild.

She was predeceased by her parents; her husband Dean; her daughter Nancy Macey; her siblings Donald, James, Robert, Arthur, Bernice, Gail, and Barbara; and her stepdaughters Deborah and Terri Lynn.

A Celebration of Life will be held on her birthday, Aug. 22, with details announced later.

Davis Memorial Chapel in Springfield, Vt., is assisting with arrangements.

Gary M. Lewis, 1956-2026

SPRINGFIELD, Vt.

Gary Martin Lewis, 69, passed away unexpectedly on Feb. 3, 2026. Above all else, he will be remembered as a good man who loved his family and friends deeply.

He was born on Aug. 25, 1956, in New Britain, Conn., to Joan and Calvin Lewis. He was the oldest of their four children. Gary spent much of his childhood at his grandfather's farm, working and enjoying life as a farm kid. In 1969, the family moved to Springfield, Vt., following his father's job at Idlenot Dairy.

Gary attended Springfield schools, participating in cross-country, ski team, and track and field, and graduating in 1974. After graduation, he followed in his father's footsteps and began working at Idlenot Dairy, where he and his father worked together until Idlenot's closing in 1992.

In his younger years, Gary enjoyed four-wheeling, and dirt bike riding and racing, through which he built many lasting friendships and memories. He also enjoyed a good game of racquetball or volleyball, as well as golf tournaments. He met his future wife, Kim Watson, while they were in high school. After Kim returned from college, they began their relationship, and were married on Aug. 22, 1981, sharing nearly 45 years together. They built their home in Perkinsville, Vt., where they raised their three sons, Cole, Devin, and Karson.

Gary always prioritized family first. He was an extremely hard worker who couldn't sit still. When he wasn't working, he spent his time with his boys biking, skiing, skating, sledding, swimming, throwing the baseball, playing a good game of Horse, and teaching them life lessons in his own way. As they grew, he became a coach for multiple sports at Weathersfield schools. During this time, he also became a second father figure to many of their friends. Gary and Kim attended nearly every game, often being the loudest supporters in the stands.

Gary loved spending time with his family, from holidays and gatherings, to trips to Winchester, annual camping trips, time spent in Keene with the Dodge family, and visits to the lake house with the Watson family. He loved his family deeply, and there are countless stories that reflect that love.

After Idlenot Dairy closed, Gary worked at Ben & Jerry's until they moved out of the area. He later worked for several local companies, including Gurney Brothers and P&L Trucking, before finishing his career delivering fuel for Abenaki Fuels.

In October 2021, Gary became a grandfather to his first grandson, one of the greatest highlights of his life. In June 2023, he welcomed his granddaughter. Shortly after her birth, Gary retired to spend more time with his grandchildren. He was a loving grandfather who enjoyed making them laugh, keeping them entertained, getting into a little mischief, and sharing donuts.

Gary was always ready to help others, especially family, friends, and neighbors. If his boys needed him, he was there immediately, never asking for anything in return, though he never turned down an ice-cold beer at the end of the day.

Gary and Kim experienced the unimaginable loss of their youngest son, Karson, in April 2025, following a battle with brain cancer. Gary carried this loss deeply, along with the loss of his father, Calvin, and his best friend, Brian Dodge.

Gary is survived by his wife, Kim, of 44 years; his son Cole and his wife, Claire; his son Devin; his beloved grandchildren, Brooks and Burkley; his mother, Joan; his brothers, Bob and Alan; his sister, Carol; and many aunts, uncles, cousins, brothers- and sisters-in-law, nieces, and nephews.

A celebration of Gary's life will be held May 16, at 2 p.m., at Crown Point Country Club.

Dear Editor,

As Pattie McCoy, our minority leader, stated, “Vermonters deserve to be able to live, work, raise a family, and retire here without facing an affordability crisis. I am committed to working with Gov. Scott and my colleagues on both sides of the aisle to make Vermont more affordable and the best place to live.

Overview

The first half of the 2026 legislative session has been busy, with roughly 400 bills filed in the House of Representatives alone. Gov. Scott delivered his State of the State address and budget recommendations. He focused on the need for education reform to stop property taxes from skyrocketing, and a general fund budget that lives within our means. I support the governor's efforts! As always, I welcome your thoughts and feedback on any of these issues we are grappling with. Many of these bills that would begin to solve our affordability crisis, rather than kicking the can down the road, are held up and blocked in various House committees. Republicans still don't have enough House seats to move these practical solutions to the House floor for a vote, stalling any real progress I believe I was elected to support.

Legislative priorities

Education reform – Since the 1990s, Vermont has lost roughly 30,000 students, yet our education structure remains unchanged, with massive overhead, redundant bureaucracy, and inequities across towns. The latest report card from the Agency of Education shows that student performance in Vermont is declining, even though our costs are among the highest in the U.S.A. Our students deserve an education system built for their future – one that puts outcomes first, not the goals of special interests or the status quo. I remain committed to working with Gov. Scott to put our kids first.

Property taxes – In 2023 and 2024, the average Vermonter faced back-to-back, double-digit property tax increases. This is unaffordable, unsustainable, and unacceptable, which is why many Vermonters went to the polls in 2024 to help restore balance in Montpelier. Rest assured that your trust is paying off. Last year, the average property tax increase approved by the legislature was just 1%, compared to 13.8% the year prior. We also passed a bipartisan education finance reform package that requires the legislature to continue to work this year on finding a long-term solution to pay for education in Vermont. I realize that savings have yet to show up in our property tax bills, but our work has just begun.

Affordability – This year, numerous pieces of legislation have been introduced to lower the cost of living in Vermont, including stabilizing our health insurance market to lower premiums, easing red tape for housing to lower cost; further reducing taxes for all vulnerable populations, such as retirees living on fixed incomes; and much more. I am supportive of all efforts to make Vermont a more affordable place to live, work, raise a family, and retire. A root-cause challenge is to find substantive ways to attract and retain productive, tax-paying families.

There are a handful of bills I would like to see brought to the floor to be debated and hopefully passed: H.585, to reduce health care costs by offering low-cost insurance coverage options; H.602, to ease housing red tape by simplifying housing rules to increase supply; H.721, to increase public safety by changing the court system (e.g., to restrict sentence reductions for repeat felony offenders or probation violators); H.754, to establish a repeat-offender statute permitting the State of Vermont to seek stricter penalties; H.759, to repeal several tax types and replace them with a flat income tax; H.767, to “pause” multiple climate-change related laws for eight years; H.769, to reduce legal risk for parents who choose to allow their children to engage in safe activities without supervision; H.774, to cap education property tax rates for 2027-2029 at 2026 levels; H.778, to require the Division of Emergency Management to develop a plan for each dam that puts people significantly in harm's way; H.780, to establish required minimum sentences of incarceration for retail theft and drug trafficking; H.842, to improve the composition of members of the Commission on Public School Employee Health Benefits board; H.900, to exempt all social security benefits from Vermont personal income tax; S.300, to require hospital screenings for fentanyl as part of drug screening for diagnosing a patient's condition; S.303, to amend requirements on the three-acre stormwater discharge permit; and S.304, to declare a public policy encouraging sharing of divorced parents' rights for the good of our children.

Most probably, none of these bills will even get to the floor for debate or a vote. Republicans are still in the minority even though Vermonters sent a record number of Republicans to Montpelier because they believe the legislature is on the wrong track.

It's an honor to serve you in Montpelier, and I will continue to look for ways to work with anyone willing to make Vermont safer and more affordable so that we can attract productive families who want to enjoy and keep Vermont beautiful. May God bless you, and may God bless America.

Regards,
Rep. Kevin C. Winter
Rutland-Windsor District

Dear Editor,

In his 1796 farewell address, President George Washington counseled Americans to pursue peace and commerce while limiting political entanglements – especially “permanent alliances” with foreign nations. Until 1917, our elected representatives attempted to abide by this advice.

President Woodrow Wilson broke with the long-held restraint Washington urged by committing our nation to World War I, during which 116,516 U.S. military personnel lost their lives. Since 1918, approximately 620,000 to 650,000 American military personnel have died in foreign wars.

In the aftermath of 9/11, more than 940,000 people died due to direct war violence in Iraq, Afghanistan, Syria, Yemen, and Pakistan, according to estimates by Brown University's Costs of War Project. More than 432,000 of those deaths were civilians. When indirect deaths caused by disease, starvation, and infrastructure destruction are included, the figure rises to an estimated 4.5 to 4.7 million.

These wars also carry an enormous financial price tag. The U.S. has spent $8 trillion on post-9/11 wars, including at least $2.2 tril-

Dear Editor,

We wish to express our sincere gratitude to the Weston Volunteer Fire Department, who jumped to action the night of March 18 to put out a fire in a dumpster at the Wilder Memorial Library construction site in Weston. Thanks to their swift and professional action, we are happy to share that all is well and there was no damage to the library or the site. The library is under construction as we near completion of a significant renovation and expansion project. While the library is under construction, we are open at a temporary location at the Old Parish Church, on Main Street in Weston.

The fire was contained to the dumpster, and the fire department was there in full force to put it out quickly. We are grateful to so many, including the incredible volunteers at the Weston Volunteer Fire Department, Fire Chief Brian Lundberg, and Michelle and Luke Bonang, who first saw the fire and started the phone tree that alerted the fire department and the library trustees. Many more played important roles, calling 911, calling trustees, sharing photos, and more. We are so lucky to have such a caring community here in Weston.

The fire was an isolated incident, and construction continues on schedule. We are making progress every day toward completing construction and opening the library early this summer. We can't wait to share this special space with all of you.

With gratitude,
Deborah Granquist, Trustee Chair
Faye Mack, Library Director

TOWN OF CHESTER PLANNING COMMISSION MEETING NOTICE Act 181 Tier 3 Overview

The Chester Planning Commission is pleased to invite Alex Weinhagen, Board Member on the State of Vermont's Land Use Review Board, to join us to review work underway on Act 181 to define maps and rules for Act 250 Tier 3 areas. The meeting will be held on Monday, April 06, 2026, at 6:30 p.m. at the Chester Town Hall at 556 Elm Street in Chester and via Zoom at the following link found on the chestervt.gov website <https://us02web.zoom.us/j/81029256359>.

What are Tier 3 areas?

Historically, Act 250 jurisdiction has been based on the size of the development or subdivision, with a focus on larger projects. Act 181 of 2024 implements location-based jurisdiction reform by identifying three different areas. Tier 1 areas are planned for growth in and around village and downtown centers, where Act 250 jurisdiction would be reduced or eliminated entirely in favor of municipal-level permitting and other State permitting (e.g., ANR, Division of Fire Safety, etc.). Tier 3 areas are critical natural resources, where Act 250 jurisdiction would be increased to cover more types of development than today. Tier 2 areas are the rest of the state, where Act 250 jurisdiction would remain largely as we know it today, but with additional jurisdiction for projects building more than 800 feet of new roads.

The purpose of the meeting is to raise awareness of this important body of work, ask questions, and gather feedback from the community.

Dated at Chester, Vermont this 19th day of March 2026.

Businesses can double energy rebates with Efficiency Vermont —

REGION – Dairies and ice cream makers. Breweries and furniture builders. Hospitals and colleges. Some of Vermont's most recognizable businesses have saved energy and cut costs through Efficiency Vermont's rebates for custom projects. Now, for a limited time, any Vermont business can double their rebate up to $25,000 if they finish a custom project by the end of November.

"Doubling your rebate is really an inflation buster for businesses," said Peter Walke, managing director of Efficiency Vermont. "It can help operations of any size make policy-proof investments this year. And the energy savings from these projects will help keep costs lower for years to come."

Custom projects are tailored to meet each business' unique needs and goals. This ensures businesses install the most efficient equipment and make the most cost-effective facility improvements. But businesses can only double their rebate for a custom project completed before the end of November.

"You've got to start planning right away if you want to get a custom project done in time," Walke added. "If you want to double your rebate for your business, you've got to act now."

Past projects that received Efficiency Vermont's custom rebates include energy-saving ice cream making at Ben & Jerry's facilities in Waterbury and St. Albans, cutting-edge refrigeration at Lawson's Finest Liquids in Waitsfield, LED lights and HVAC upgrades at Landmark College in Putney, energy-conscious yogurt production at Commonwealth Dairy in Brattleboro, LED lighting at Pompanoosuc

Mills in Thetford, and smart cooling at Central Vermont Medical Center (CVMC) in Berlin.

Efficiency Vermont has other supports for businesses looking to invest in efficiency, including those listed below.

Free business energy consultations for businesses of any size – Understand where energy and money are being wasted in your business, and learn about incentives and rebates that can help.

Rebates for preapproved commercial tubular LED (TLED) lamp replacements – Rebates cover up to 100% of product costs for qualifying TLED lamps that replace existing fluorescent lamps.

Rebates for preapproved agricultural LED lighting projects – Rebates cover up to 100% of a project's total costs in livestock or sugaring facilities, farmyards, dairy barns, processing and sorting rooms, milking parlors, and egg-packing rooms.

Only new or currently incomplete custom projects are eligible for a doubled rebate up to $25,000. Eligible projects may receive up to twice the standard custom incentive with the total additional incentive capped at $25,000 or 100% of the total project cost, whichever is less. Custom projects must be completed in full by Nov. 30. This offer is only available for a limited time, or until funds run out this year. Doubled rebates are not available for Efficiency Vermont's standard business rebates. Additional terms and conditions apply. See Efficiency Vermont's custom project rebate page for additional details.

Funding available to organizations through the Crosby-Gannett Fund —

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. – Funding is now available for Vermont organizations in the Brattleboro area, through the Crosby-Gannett Fund grant program. The purpose of the fund is to support endeavors that contribute to the betterment and vitality of the Brattleboro area.

The Crosby-Gannett Fund awards a grant to one applicant annually. The grant term will be active for three years, and the grantee will receive $7,500 per year, totaling $22,500 over the three-year period. The goal of this model is to provide reliable capacity-building support to creative ideas and community-based organizations, enabling meaningful improvements in the Brattleboro area.

Applications must be submitted by Tuesday, April 28, at 5 p.m. Please visit www.vermontcf.org/crosby-gannett to learn more and apply.

OUTDOOR home sweet home

Valuing a house

REGION – There are three values for any home on the market: what the seller thinks it's worth, what the buyer thinks it's worth, and what a professional appraiser will think it's worth. The key to a successful purchase is to get those three numbers to align.

You never want to assume that the asking price of a home is also its fair market value. Home values are somewhat subjective and always changing, so understanding how home values are calculated and what factors impact them can help you make a sound real estate investment.

Buyers should always do their research, taking time to determine the market value of a home before making an offer. Otherwise, they risk overpaying.

What is market value? Simply put, market value is what a fully informed, willing buyer would pay for a home. It's an amount informed by prices other buyers have recently paid for nearby, similar homes – called comparable homes, or "comps." Comps are used for multiple purposes, including determining the listing price of a home about to list on the market, helping buyers determine a fair offer price, and helping an existing homeowner find out the current value of their property and potential equity.

Comps usually consider five key criteria when calculating a home's value. These criteria are as follows.

Timeline – In a typical market, comps include homes sold in the past three to six months.

Location – Comps should be pulled from the same neighborhood, and in close proximity to the home in question. In an urban area, comps are usually within a mile or so. In rural areas, the radius comps are pulled from will be larger.

Home size – Comps should have the same number of bedrooms and bathrooms, same number of stories, and a similar square footage. The lot size and presence of a garage or basement should be similar, too.

Features – Comparable homes should have similar amenities and level of finishes and updates.

Age – The homes being compared should be roughly the same age. Newer homes have newer designs, layouts, systems, and appliances, which can increase value.

In order to determine a home's value using comps, three to five comps are collected and grouped together. Then, a report is generated determining a market value, based on the sale prices and details of these homes. You could get two types of reports, based on who is doing the calculations. These are a comparative market analysis, or an appraisal.

A comparative market analysis (CMA) is a report typically generated by a real estate agent, used to come up with an accurate list price/estimate of a home's sale price.

An appraisal is a report generated by a licensed appraiser, and it's typically used for financing approval.

Keep in mind that the market value you receive from your agent or an appraiser can differ depending on a few factors. These include:

Market speed – If your local real estate market is moving slowly, you might have to depend on comps that are older or less relevant, which could affect the results.

Comp selection – When multiple relevant comps are available, different agents or appraisers might choose to use different comps, which can affect the outcome slightly.

Valuation of features – The agent or appraiser will add or subtract value based on the features of a specific home, and different agents or appraisers may assign slightly different values to home features.

Subjective human nature – CMAs and appraisal reports depend on humans to evaluate and calculate the home's value, which means you won't get the same outcome every time. Remember, the true value of a home is how much a buyer is willing to pay for it.

The value of some home features just comes down to individual buyer preferences. If a swimming pool is factored into the price of a home, but you plan to just fill it in and relandscape, it doesn't make sense to pay extra for it. If you love new carpeting, it may be worth paying a little more for a house with new, high-end, wall-to-wall carpet. But if you're going to tear it out to install hardwoods, it's not. If your idea of home cooking is popping something in the microwave, you probably don't want to pay a premium for a gourmet kitchen when a nice, reasonably sized one would suit you just fine.

Home values are usually based on comps, but it's important to consider a home's key factors when choosing comps to use. For instance, if a similar, nearby home sold recently, but it's in a slightly better location, it's probably worth more. How much more? That's up

Determining the value of a home can be complicated.

Many features of a home can be changed by the owner, like finishes, and even home size. However, you cannot change where the home is located. That's why location is such an important factor in a home's value. Outside of standard market appreciation, a home's land will only increase in value if the area around it improves. For example, 64% of buyers say being in a walkable neighborhood is very or extremely important, according to the Zillow Group Consumer Housing Trends Report 2021.

Some key location factors that can increase a home's value: proximity to urban core; cul-de-sac location or dead end (less traffic); farther away from railroad tracks, airports, freeway noise, and power lines; near parks or green spaces; sidewalks and walkability; proximity to public transit; waterfront, water, or mountain views; the local job market; property taxes; interest rates; and the required level of maintenance.

For buyers, the biggest risk in valuing a home incorrectly is overpaying. Other consequences include losing financing after appraisal, or not getting your offer accepted at all.

If you value a home too high, you may set yourself up to be underwater on your investment, especially if market conditions are volatile. Plus, the more you borrow, the more you have to repay.

Even if you and the seller agree on a price, the appraiser's valuation will determine the amount your lender will loan for the property. When you agree to pay too much, it can be hard to get financing. If the appraisal comes in too low, it's possible you will have to come up with a larger down payment, or you risk the deal falling apart.

There's also some risk in valuing a home too low. If you miscalculate, the seller may not accept your low offer, and you may have to move on to another home.

Generally speaking, if you're purchasing a newer or well-maintained home, the home is likely worth more than the land today. But in 50 years, without upkeep, the land would probably be worth more. The physical structure, appliances, and materials usually depreciate over time, assuming everything in the home is left original.

Of course, most owners continue to update and repair their homes over the years. So, the longer you stay, the more you will inevitably have to improve to maintain the value of the home itself. The cost of labor and materials inflates steadily over time, so the value of improvements is moderately predictable.

The value of land, however, is much more volatile and difficult to predict. A home within close proximity to desirable shops, restaurants, city centers, or attractions will generally have a higher value compared to a home farther from these perks. But those amenities and their desirability can change over time.

If you're buying a home with a view or near a long-standing city center, then odds are good that its value will appreciate, but land value is never guaranteed.

Chester Townscape's tree and shrub sale

CHESTER, Vt. – Spring is coming, and Chester Townscape's 2026 tree and shrub sale has begun. This annual event offers good-size, proven trees and shrubs at below regular nursery retail prices to help people beautify their properties. Here are the eight selections offered this year: Snow Showers weeping cherry tree (pink), Sugar Shack dwarf buttonbush (white flowers and bright red fruits), Easy as Pie cherry bush (with edible cherries), Reminiscent ginger rose (apricot-orange), Let's Dance Sky-view hydrangea (blue), Let's Dance Can Do hydrangea (pinkish), Serbian cypress Celtic Pride, and Spilled Wine weigela (magenta-pink).

Orders must be submitted and paid for before April 9.

All specimens are low maintenance, hardy, and feature multiseason interest. Most are native and sport beautiful blossoms. All appeal to pollinators and/or birds. Any one of these plants would also make wonderful presents for Mother's Day or Father's Day, birthdays, anniversaries, housewarming celebrations, or other special events. Proceeds from the sale support Chester Townscape's charitable civic projects, such as the floral pots and bridge boxes that beautify the town for residents and visitors.

Buyers do not have to be Chester residents, but they do have to preorder and pay before April 9, and then pick up the plants, likely in early-to-mid-May, from Main Street in central Chester. The colorful, informative order form that gives details about the plants, their prices, and where to send the check and order form may be found at www.chestervt.gov/chester-townscape.html. For additional information, contact Lillian Willis at 802-875-1340 or lbwillist@comcast.net.

Signs of Spring hike at Bald Hill trails

WESTMINSTER, Vt. – On Saturday, March 28, from 11 a.m. – 12 p.m., the Rockingham Free Public Library will host a "Signs of Spring" walk on the Bald Hill trails in Westminister, Vt. This walk will be led by Hannah Dallas, the Vermont Department of Forests, Parks & Recreation's southern Windsor County forester.

As April is nearing, it's time to look for signs of spring. This all-weather outing is perfect for walkers who will enjoy learning about the forested landscape, looking for birds, and exploring the Bald Hill trails with good company. Refreshments are included.

Walkers should meet at 10:45 a.m., at the Cemetery Road entrance to Bald Hill trails, on Route 5 by Bellows Falls Union High School. We will leave for the walk at 11 a.m.

This walk will take place regardless of weather. If there is snow, bring your own snowshoes, poles, and crampons, or borrow them from the Rockingham Free Public Library; please plan to borrow in advance, as they will not be available at the trail. Walkers are also encouraged to bring binoculars; several pairs are available to borrow from the Rockingham Free Public Library as well.

This event is free and open to the public, no sign-up required. For more information about this and other programs, call 802-463-4270, visit www.rockinghamlibrary.org, or stop by the library at 65 Westminister Street, Bellows Falls, Vt.

Simplify your medications, improve your health

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt. – Managing your health shouldn't feel like a chore, but between busy schedules and complex prescriptions, it's easy for things to get confused. At Fall Mountain Pharmacy, we understand that keeping track of multiple medications is a challenge. However, it is vital to take your medications exactly as prescribed to ensure they work effectively and keep you feeling your best. This is why we offer a bubble packing program at no additional cost to you. When doses are missed or taken at the wrong time, it can lead to health setbacks that are often avoidable. We want to help you stay on track without the stress. We believe that professional medication management should be accessible to everyone, which is why we offer this service entirely for free. Our bubble packs organize your medications into clear, easy-to-use cards. Each dose is sorted by the specific day and time it needs to be taken, whether that is morning, noon, evening, or bedtime. This simple system eliminates error and provides instant peace of mind for you and your family. Let us do the heavy lifting for you. Our team will handle the sorting and organizing, so you can focus on enjoying your life, knowing your health is in good hands. We invite you to stop by and chat with us about how we can simplify your daily routine. You can find us at 78 Atkinson Street, Bellows Falls, Vt. You can also give us a call at 802-428-4023. Fall Mountain Pharmacy, your partners in wellness. Article submitted by Fall Mountain Pharmacy.

Yoga at Rockingham Public Library

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt. – Gather for some self-care and join the Rockingham Free Public Library (RFPL) for a free, hour-long yoga class led by Yoga on Main, of Saxtons River, on Saturday, March 28, at 11 a.m. The weather is all over the place – find your center during this all-levels yoga escape. No yoga experience is necessary, and newcomers are welcome and encouraged to attend. The Rockingham Free Public Library has yoga mats and blocks available.

Participants are also welcome to bring their own yoga mats, if they would like. Attendees are invited for snacks and hot beverages afterwards. The class is free and open to the public. This yoga class is part of Rockingham Free Public Library's Rockingham Gathers program, made possible by a 2025 AARP Vermont Winter Placemaking Grant. Rockingham Gathers is a series of programs and activities the Rockingham Library is organizing during winter 2026 to support creative, inclusive programming that fosters community connection and combats social isolation among older adults during the coldest months of the year. RFPL is one of eight organizations from across Vermont to receive this grant. For more information about this and other programs, call 802-463-4270, visit www.rockinghamlibrary.org, or stop by the library at 65 Westminster Street, Bellows Falls, Vt.

Parks Place welcomes new board members

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt. – Parks Place Community Resource Center is pleased to announce the addition of several members to its board of directors: Emily Lisai, Dr. Evan Lowy, Heather Waryas, Janice Berube, and Lama Tomas O'Flaherty. Each brings valuable professional experience.

As an educator in the local school district, Lisai said she regularly connects families with community resources and has seen firsthand the impact Parks Place can have on the wellbeing of students and families. "I'm excited to see the board grow in both numbers and diversity," Lisai said. "The walk-in supports and friendly faces at Parks Place keep me recommending families to check it out."

Lowy said he was inspired to join the board because of the vital role Parks Place plays in supporting individuals and families in the community. "As an emergency physician, I see how many of the medical issues that bring people to the hospital relate to other challenges, such as housing and food insecurity, mental health struggles, and substance use disorders," Lowy said. "I hope to use that perspective to help strengthen the services provided by Parks Place."

Lowy has lived in Rockingham for the past 10 years. He works as an emergency physician and previously served in the United States Peace Corps in Senegal. Lowy said he was inspired to join the board because of the vital role Parks Place plays in supporting individuals and families in the community. "As an emergency physician, I see how many of the experiences and relationships. Waryas is passionate about helping young people succeed and thrive locally by seeing clear and attainable futures for themselves in the Great Falls region. Berube brings both lived and professional experience in housing and community support to the Parks Place board. She has been connected to the Bellows Falls community for many years through a variety of roles, including serving as a case manager overseeing a transitional house for youth, and as the volunteer coordinator for the local warming shelter. She also helped establish the community diaper bank and previously owned a business in Bellows Falls.

Lisai grew up in the heart of Bellows Falls and now lives in Westminster. She has been teaching at Westminster Center School since the early 2000s and has long been active in the community through volunteer roles including voter check-in, the PTA, and the Bellows Falls Union High School Booster Club. Having watched the development of Parks Place and other local organizations while growing up, Lisai said those experiences inspired her to remain in the area as she built her career and raised her family. As an educator in the local school district, Lisai said she regularly connects families with community resources and has seen firsthand the impact Parks Place can have on the wellbeing of students and families. "I'm excited to see the board grow in both numbers and diversity," Lisai said. "The walk-in supports and friendly faces at Parks Place keep me recommending families to check it out."

She also helped establish the community diaper bank and previously owned a business in Bellows Falls.

Currently working with Springfield Supported Housing, Berube continues to collaborate with Parks Place through weekly housing support services and by helping connect families with essential resources.

Having grown up experiencing poverty, I understand firsthand the importance of accessible community support and resources," Berube said. "My lived experience gives me empathy and a genuine understanding of the barriers many people face." O'Flaherty, a Bellows Falls resident, currently serves as interim president of the Parks Place board of directors. An ordained Buddhist monk, he is deeply committed to serving marginalized communities, including individuals living with substance use disorder and people living with HIV/AIDS. O'Flaherty volunteers as a spiritual advisor, certified recovery coach, and licensed peer recovery support specialist at Turning Point Recovery Center in Bellows Falls. He is also a member of Bellows Falls Pride, board chair of the AIDS Project of Southern Vermont, and serves as treasurer and spiritual representative on the board of Greater Falls Connections. Dental implants in Chester

CHESTER, Vt. – Dental implants are a great way to replace missing teeth, and also provide a fixed solution to having removable partial or complete dentures. Implants provide excellent support and stability for these dental appliances.

Dental implants are artificial roots and teeth – usually titanium – that are surgically placed into the upper or lower jaw bone by a dentist or periodontist – a specialist of the gums and supporting bone. The teeth attached to implants are very natural looking, and often enhance or restore a patient's smile.

Dental implants are strong and durable, and will last many years. On occasion, they will have to be retightened or replaced due to normal wear.

Reasons for dental implants include replacing one or more missing teeth without affecting adjacent teeth; resolving joint pain or bite problems caused by teeth shifting into missing tooth space; restoring a patient's confident smile; restoring chewing, speech, and digestion; restoring or enhancing facial tissues; and supporting a bridge or denture, making it more secure and comfortable.

The process of getting implants requires a number of visits over several months.

X-rays and impressions

(molds) are taken of the jaw and teeth to determine bone, gum tissue, and spacing available for an implant. While the area is numb, the implant will be surgically placed into the bone and allowed to heal and integrate itself for up to six months. Depending on the type of implant, a second surgery may be required in order to place the "post" that will hold the artificial tooth in place. With other implants, the post and anchor are already attached and placed at the same time.

After several weeks of healing, the artificial teeth are made and fitted to the post portion of the anchor. Because several fittings may be required, this step may take one to two months to complete. After a healing period, the artificial teeth are securely attached to the implant, providing excellent stability and comfort to the patient.

You will receive care instructions when your treatment is completed. Good oral hygiene and eating habits, alongside regular dental visits, will aid in the life of your new implant.

If you have questions about dental implants, or would like to schedule a consultation, please contact our office at 802-885-3191 or info@drchristopherfauver.com.

Presbyopia, an age-old eye problem

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. – If you've noticed that reading your emails or browsing social media requires holding the phone at arm's length, you may be entering the wonderful world of presbyopia. Presbyopia often makes its debut in our early-to-mid-40s. The term 'presbyopia' comes from the Greek words "presbys," meaning "old man," and "ops," meaning "eye." Unflattering as the name is, it's a natural part of the maturing process, and it happens to everyone at some point.

Why does this happen? The lens inside our eyes that focuses on objects at varying distances begins to lose flexibility. As the lens gradually becomes less elastic, we have trouble focusing on close objects.

Here are some common symptoms to keep an eye out for: (1) difficulty reading – you might find yourself needing to squint or hold reading material farther away; (2) eye strain – after a long session of reading emails or scrolling social media, your eyes may feel tired or achy; (3) headaches – if your head starts pounding after a full day of close-up activities, it could be a sign your eyes are working overtime; and (4) blurred vision, especially when trying to focus on things up close.

Fear not! Presbyopia may be inevitable, but plenty of solutions can help you navigate this new chapter. Here are some options to consider: (1) reading glasses – simple and effective, they come in various magnifications, so your doctor can help you choose the strength that works best for your needs;

(2) bifocal or progressive lenses – these lenses allow you to see at different distances without the hassle of switching glasses; (3) contact lenses – multifocal contact lenses are designed to provide simultaneous distance, midrange, and near vision.

Another option is monovision contacts, where one eye is corrected for distance, and the other is focused for near work.

Presbyopia, while often unwelcome, is a normal part of life. As your optometrist, I am excited to work with you to find the best solution to see every moment clearly!

HCRS named Best Place to Work for sixth year

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. – Health Care and Rehabilitation Services (HCRS), southeastern Vermont's nonprofit community mental health agency, has been named one of Vermont Business Magazine's Best Places to Work in 2026, marking six consecutive years on the list.

Six years in a row is not luck. It's a reflection of culture.

The Best Places to Work designation is driven primarily by anonymous employee feedback, which accounts for approximately 80% of each organization's score. Staff evaluate leadership, communication, trust, benefits, engagement, and overall workplace satisfaction. The remaining portion is based on a comprehensive review of organizational policies and practices.

For HCRS, the recognition reflects a simple but powerful truth: When people feel supported, they do their best work.

"Our staff show up every day for people during some of the most vulnerable moments of their lives," said George Karabakakis, CEO of HCRS. "To be recognized six years in a row tells us that we are not only supporting our communities, we are supporting each other. That's something we are deeply proud of."

With more than 550 staff across 20 locations, HCRS serves over 4,000 people annually throughout Windham and Windsor counties. Services extend beyond office walls into schools, homes, and community spaces, ensuring access to care where and when it's needed most.

The agency's workplace philosophy mirrors its service model. Over the past year, HCRS has continued investing in the things employees say matter most: competitive compensation and strong benefits, including generous paid time off, low-cost health plans, tuition reimbursement, and a 5% retirement match; flexible work options, including hybrid roles that support work-life balance; wellness initiatives such as winter tire stipends, CSA farm share support, and chair massages; professional development and internal growth opportunities, allowing staff to build long-term careers within the agency; and intentional staff recognition programs that celebrate contributions across all roles and locations year-round.

"At HCRS, we believe a strong workplace is built on trust, transparency, and shared purpose," Karabakakis added. "We are committed to creating an environment where people feel valued, not just for what they do, but for who they are."

The Vermont Best Places to Work program is presented by Vermont Business Magazine in partnership with the Vermont Department of Economic Development, the Vermont Chamber of Commerce, and the Vermont State Council. Winners are selected through a rigorous evaluation process combining employee surveys and organizational review.

If you're looking for meaningful work in a place that truly invests in its people, explore current opportunities at www.hcrs.org/careers.

“Poetry in Harmony” at Springfield Library

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. – Big Woods Voices will present “Poetry in Harmony” at the Springfield Town Library on Tuesday, April 28, at 6 p.m. The public is invited to enjoy two 40-minute sets of a cappella vocal harmony.

The quartet celebrates vocal music through original arrangements rooted in American folk traditions, global song, and the work of composer Will Danforth. The program features music inspired by the poetry of W. B. Yeats, David Whyte, Wendell Berry, Alice Oswald, Daniel Leavens Cady, and others.

From prayerful to playful, and dissonant to dulcet, Big Woods Voices brings poetry vividly to life through rich harmonies and expressive singing.

Audience members have praised the group’s “extraordinary music,” noting “the exquisite care each singer brings and the hope their sound carries,” while another listener called the performance “a ‘pinch me, I’m in southern Vermont’ experience.”

Big Woods Voices includes Amanda Witman, founder of the Brattleboro Pub Sing; Becky Graber, director of the Brattleboro Women’s Chorus; Will Danforth, award-winning multi-instrumentalist and member of the Brattleboro Camerata; and Alan Blood, long-time member of regional ensembles including Tessitura and the Brattleboro Camerata.

The event is free and open to the public. To sign up for a reminder, visit www.springfield-townlibrary.org/calendar.

HCRS annual client and staff art show

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. – Health Care and Rehabilitation Services (HCRS) will host its annual client and staff art show throughout the month of April in downtown Brattleboro. The exhibit brings together artwork from people connected to HCRS programs across Windham and Windsor counties, including staff and people receiving services.

From colorful paintings and detailed drawings, to photography, sculpture, and mixed media, the show offers a wide range of artistic styles and perspectives.

More than an exhibit, the event has become a space than Mattoon and Nickie Godin, who help bring together artwork from programs across the agency, including child and adult mental health services, substance use services, developmental services, Kindle Farm School, and residential programs.

“HCRS works with people across so many parts of our community,” said Mattoon. “The art show is one of the few times when all of those voices come together in one place. It’s always exciting to see what people create.”

HCRS CEO George Karabakakis said, “This show is about celebrating creativity and the many ways people express themselves... We’re grateful to 118 Elliot Gallery for providing such a welcoming space for this event each year, and for helping make it possible for our artists to share their work with the community.”

The gallery will also be open to the public on Friday, April 3, from 5-8 p.m., at 118 Elliot Gallery. The free evening will include live music, refreshments, and the opportunity to meet some of the artists.

The show is organized by HCRS staff members Jona-

Open mic at Next Stage Arts

PUTNEY, Vt. – Next Stage Arts presents an open mic evening hosted by Vermont Timbre (Amelia Struthers and Mike Mrowicki) on Sunday, March 29, at 7 p.m., with doors opening at 6:15 p.m. The evening will include a special featured performance by guitarist and songwriter Peter Siegel, of The Gaslight Tinkers.

The open mic offers a welcoming and supportive stage for musicians, poets, storytellers, and performers of all kinds to share their work. Performers will have 10-15 minutes for their sets, depending on the number of participants who sign up.

Siegel, known for his energetic performances and genre-blending musical style, will present a special set as the evening’s featured performer. As a founding member of The Gaslight Tinkers, Siegel has helped shape a sound that fuses global rhythms with New England fiddle traditions, creating an infectious blend of Afro-Caribbean, Latin, funk, and folk influences.

Hosted by Vermont Timbre, the evening aims to cultivate community and creativity by offering a space where artists of all experience levels can share their voices and connect with one another. Those interested in performing are encouraged to reserve a spot in advance by emailing Mike Mrowicki at mmrowicki@gmail.com.

Audience members can RSVP at www.nextstagearts.org. A suggested donation is requested at the door.

Located at 15 Kimball Hill in Putney, Next Stage Arts continues its mission of presenting diverse arts programming while fostering opportunities for community participation. Whether you come to perform, listen, or both, the evening promises an engaging mix of local talent, creative expression, and live music in an inviting community setting.

Javanese gamelan music at Pentangle Arts

WOODSTOCK, Vt. – Gamelan Sulukala will appear at the newly renovated Pentangle Arts Woodstock Town Hall Theatre, on Friday, March 27, at 7 p.m.

The Javanese gamelan is an orchestra of about 30 instruments ranging from huge gongs to tiny flutes, with lots of xylophone and kettle-type instruments in between, plus drumming. Currently, it is being played by a community group of 12 members who range in age from their 20s to their 70s, with every decade in between represented. If you’ve never heard a Javanese gamelan, you are in for a rare and exquisite treat. If you have, you know this concert is not to be missed.

Tickets are available at www.pentanglearts.org.

Dance party with The Gaslight Tinkers and Luke Concannon

PUTNEY, Vt. – Get ready to move as African, Caribbean, funk, reggae, and Latin grooves collide with traditional fiddle music in a bold, genre-bending vision of the future of the past in a dance party with The Gaslight Tinkers and Luke Concannon on Friday, April 3, at Next Stage Arts, 15 Kimball Hill in Putney, Vt. Doors open at 6:45 p.m., and the show begins at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are discounted in advance at www.next- stagearts.org.

The Gaslight Tinkers fuse global rhythms with New England old-time and Celtic fiddle traditions, creating a joyously danceable sound fueled by melody, song, and boundless energy. Since forming in 2012, the band has lit up stages across the East and West coasts, and the Caribbean, headlining clubs, dances, and major festivals. The Valley Advocate describes their performances as “music that consistently fizzles and pops with unexpected textures and turns,” delivering delightful surprises, elated crowds, and exuberant musicianship.

Concannon’s music roots trace back to Irish family gatherings filled with guitars, singing, and dancing. As lead singer and cowriter of the U.K. No. 1 chart act Nizlopi – best known for “JCB Song” and a key influence on Ed Sheeran – Concannon now thrives as a solo artist. His 2022 album “Ecstatic Bird in the Burning” debuted at No. 12 on both the U.K. and U.S. folk charts, earning widespread acclaim.

Don’t miss this electrifying night where tradition meets innovation and every beat invites you to dance.
